Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

Two deer friends saw to it that we had a merry Christmas by bringing us dear meet, or was is dear friends who brought us deer meat? Anyway R. L. Duffey brought us a mess of the delicious stuff in mid-December and on Christmas Eve R .W. Lowe brought us a package. We thank them both deerly and may their New Year be a happy one because of their contribution to our favorite charity—us.

If the paragraph above sounds a little greedy it is all in fun. Everyone knows that our favorite charity is the one that is having a drive at that particular time. Right now we are in the midst of pushing the "March of Dimes" and hope you remember to help us push.

Mayor C. Fenn Jones being 48 (we wrote that backwards to make him feel better) hasn't slowed him down a bit. See him driving about town looking things over nearly every day. We hope he lives to be a hundred and enjoys every day of his remaining years. Mayor Jones has a heart as big as all out doors and has befriended thousands that you would never know of—and that is the best kind.

We don't believe that the dailies should be crowing over "only" 345 having been killed in traffic during the New Year holidays. It's still a disgrace that so many sacrifice their lives to carelessness and reckless driving. Although it was only about half the number killed the previous week-end, we should still be ashamed of the needless slaughter.

The beautiful blonde had just w the national prize for selling t most appliances house to hou Asked the secret of her phenom nal success she said, "It's very si ple. I always make it a point talk to the husband about the pr uct—and I keep my voice so that the wife makes it a point t to miss a single word."

Did you ever see a wheelbarrow full of money? The other day Clyde Mims called us and asked us to come over to his store if we wanted to see something that we had always dreamed of but never saw. Well we went over and lo and behold, he did have a wheelbarrow full of money and Ervin Daily was getting ready to wheel it to the bank. He let Ervin go alone and then we smelled a mouse—no Clyde is a pretty big guy—we smelled a rat. We didnt think anyone would send money to the bank by the wheelbarrow full without a guard. But it was money. The catch was that it was all pennies. Pennies that Clyde had accumulated throughout 1955 and was now having to get rid of. We're just telling you what it was so that no income tax inspector will think that Clyde was getting more than his share.

We just wanted the party who called a member of our family the other day and threatened another member of the family and refused to give his name to know that we think he is just about the lowest form of human life that we can imagine. If it was a practical joke then the one who thought it up should have his head examined. If it was on the level then next time have guts enough to call the one with whom you have your beef and be man enough to give your name or keep your big mouth shut.

odern Hens ore Efficient han Old Style

Auburn, Ala.—The modern hen a far more efficient egg producthan her ancestor of 25 years o. But she's almost sure to be tdone by her descendent of some ture year.

Rate of lay in the U. S. reached record high of 184 eggs per hen n 1954. And layer efficiency is expected to go even higher as breeding, feeding, and management practices continue to improve.

So says Hoyt M. Warren of the API Extension Service. Telling how egg producers in Alabama and other parts of the nation have improved their lot by improving their hens, the poultry specialist said this week the 1954 production rate was a 52 percent increase over that of 1930. Total production in the more recent year was up 67 percent. whereas the number of layers was only 10 per cent higher.

Some of the factors Warren listed as contributing to greater laying efficiency are careful breeding to improve egg laying strains; better feed and feeding practices; better housing, more sanitary handling and other improvements in management.

Almost as important, profit-wise, as the larger total number of eggs laid is the extension of the laying period. As Warren explained, the average hen 25 years ago laid way over half her eggs in the early part of the year. Now, by starting chicks earlier and by special handling in the fall, producers get a much higher rate of production during fall and winter months, when egg prices are normally highest.

A pre-Christmas, post-New Year celebrant managed to skip trial in the County Court here last Tuesday by a unique method.

The Birmingham woman had been arrested several weeks ago by the local sheriff's force on charges of driving while intoxicated and Violating the Prohibition Law. She was released under bond and ordered to return to Criminal Court Tuesday.

Early Tuesday morning she showed up, too drunk to walk. The woman managed to walk from her car to the sheriff's office where she collapsed on the floor.

A few minutes later she was back in the local jail. This time the charge of Public Drunkenness has been added to the other two charges.

Fertilizer Will Be Good Buy This Year

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama farmers are apt to find fertilizer one of their smartest buys this year.

Fertilizer prices have not swelled as much as those of other things bought by farmers. So many growers will use yield-boosting fertilizer to widen profit margins on row crops and pastures.

These comments come from API Extension Director P. O. Davis, who said this week most farmers in the state can profit this year by upping 1955 average fertilized applications 100 percent for pastures, 40 percent for corn, 30 percent for cotton, and 20 percent for peanuts.

Showing that fertilizers have not kept pace in the general advance of prices for things farmers buy the Extension chief said current fertilized prices are only 152 percent of the 1935-39 average, as compared with a 205 per cent increase for farm machinery; 212 per cent for feed; 214 per cent for seed; 243 per cent for building and fencing materials; 258 percent for livestock, and 431 per cent for farm wages.

SHERIFF FORCE NABS TWO FOR MAKING WHISKEY

For the second time in the past two weeks the sheriff's force has been able to arrest still operators during raids here in Chilton County.

About noon last Monday Sheriff O'Dell Payton and two deputies arrested Jodie Cleckler and John D. Thornton, both of Prattville, while the two men were operating a still eight miles east of Clanton.

Along with the two the sheriff seized a load of sugar and destroyed the still and a barrel of beer. A late model automobile was seized by agents of the Alcoholic Tax Unit as being the vehicle used for transportation in the illegal whiskey making.

Both men are now out under bond.

USE POISON WITH CAUTION

Montgomery, Ala.—A large number of deaths among young children following accidental poisoning may be prevented.

Dr. D. G. Gill, Alabama's State Health Officer, said today that a recent publication of the Pure Food and Drug Administration listed some ways to prevent such accidents.

1. Lock up all dangerous substances, such as chemicals or drugs.
2. Read all labels and carefully follow "caution" statements.
3. Be sure the contents of thrown away drugs cannot be reached by children or pets.
4. Use cleaning fluids with adequate ventilation only, and avoid breathing vapors.
5. Be sure all poisons are clearly marked with the names of each.
6. Insist that children get parents' permission to eat or drink drugs, chemicals, plants or berries they find.
7. Do not give or take medicine in the dark.

FIREWORKS: HARMFUL OR NOT—

During the past Holiday Season there were numerous fireworks with undetermined legal origin and although no reports were made of anyone getting hurt with them, the fact remains that they are illegal.

Our opinion on the matter is, to either make fireworks legal or enforce the present laws banning them. As far as we can tell, they are not as dangerous as firearms. It is obvious that fireworks appeal to the younger set . . . the ones who are not allowed to have firearms, but let us remember that we can't remedy a situation by avoiding it. If we want the proper usage of fireworks to come about, then some sensible legislation concerning their usage should come about.

We cannot ban automobiles because people get killed in them. We can only make laws and restrictions governing their usage. Although fireworks are not nearly as essential as the automobiie, they are much the same as far as their usage is concerned. Both can kill, both can give pleasure, and both are going to continue to be used by the American public.

Fireworks can kill and maim, you are taking a chance playing with them. In this day and time, when aren't you taking a chance, not that it's right or wrong, it's part of our way of life.

Restrictions should be put on the usage of fireworks, not on the users.

1955—A STEP IN PROGRESS—

The year of 1955 may well go down in history as one of Chilton County's most prosperous and progressive years. In spite of various upsets in the plans for our progress in the past year retaliation was made in all camps and the ensuing hard labor brought forth profitable fruits.

The early freeze was a great blow to our huge agrigcultural industry and caused a brief attitude of defeat. The farmers of Chilton County put their shoulder to their work and overcame the effects of the freeze with one of Chilton's record-breaking crops. Their faith in the future of peaches in Chilton County was undaunted. They set out new peach trees, and briefly returned to the row crops that had filled only a small acreage during the past few years.

Chilton County prospered in many ways. A new hospital was built and dedicated here filling a need that had been foremost for many years. A new National Guard Armory was built here for the training of men to protect Chilton County and our entire country. Construction has begun on a giant aircraft runway here which will offer Chilton's farmers a faster method of transportation for their perishable products.

The future holds bright promise for Chilton and her citizens. A nursing home, adjacent to our new hospital, is planned for the near future. There is always the promise of securing new industry and great strides are beinb made in this direction. A new bridge across the Coosa this year will mean much to our county.

A good thought for all of us Chiltonians to bear in mind is, "Never look back on failure; look forward to progress."

The trouble with being a self-made man is that you have nobody you can trust.

A bore has been described as "A person who will say 49 things that aren't the least bit funny just to get one good laugh.'"

Talked to Chief of Police Tucker about the traffic problem in Clanton on Saturday and he seemed to agree that the idea of getting civilian help to direct traffic on a few of the corners on the busiest of days was a good one. That is, an organization would take it as a project and the police would instruct them properly. We can think of no better way to keep traffic problems down and at the same time save the city what it cannot afford to spend for extra police help. I. should be understood, that with all their additional duties, the present police force cannot, and should not be expected to properly control traffic at five or six intersections at one time. Our city has grown; our facilities should grow, likekwise.

Have a big holiday season? Fine! You can start the New Year off right. Make your resolutions, if you haven't already (some of us have already started breaking them), but keep them within your limitations. If you make some fool-hearty resolve that is impossible for you to keep, why make it in the first place. Make sound resolutions and then do your darndest to stick to them in 1956. Don't go off half-cocked, Dad, and decide that you are definitely and decidedly going to be "boss" at your house this year. Why, that's rediculous; especially if there are any little "dads" runnin' around loose. What between them and Mom, you haven't got a chance.

Get something easy to resolve, like for instance, "I resolve to eat three square meals a day," and then see that the missus sticks to your resolution. Use your head man.

An artist amongst us. That is to say, a Picasso, a Rembrandt, a Robert Louis Stevenson. Well known names of course, but V. P. Payne will be up there someday with the greatest. (Ahem, this plug is due to a gift from said artist to yours truly and since he waited so long to give us one of his famous paintings, we have waited patiently to give him one of our famous plugs.) If you'd care to see a rare masterpiece it is on display at our home in Glendale and the public is cordially invited to pay a quarter to see it.

Oh by the by, John Ed Bates is a daddy as sure as we're four feet tall. He's a proud poppa and belongs to a boy born at the local hospital recently. Congratulations to the little fella on having a fine maw and paw.

We mistook Payne's pasture for a creek, but that's because we're bad Connoisseur's, not because he's a bad artist.

Earl Wilson tells us that he's been shootin' the buck lately. Ordinarily we'd say he shoots the bull, but this time he was doing some deer hunting and he says when he takes a stand them deer just start poppin' up everywhere. Uh, why was that you didn't get one, Earl.

And everyone we meet says that this was one of the finest Christmas Seasons they have ever spent. We're sure it was our finest and one we'll always remember. It was our first family Christmas, as a family of our own, and we enjoyed it to the fullest.

Hope a lot of you little fellas resolve this year to say your prayers every night before retiring. Might not be a bad idea for us "big people" either.

Time Out On Capitol Hill For Holiday Fun; Special Session Opened Also

Montgomery—Three official social functions at the Governor's Mansion, highlighted the Montgomery Christmas social season this year.

Reviving a practice of his first Administration, Gov. and Mrs. Jas. E. Folsom entertained several thousands of State employees at a reception and tea at the Mansion on December 29 from 4 p.m. until 7 p.m.

A few days before Christmas, the Governor and Mrs. Folsom entertained members of the cabinet, assistant directors, and their wives at a Christmas buffet dnner between 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. The some sixty officials and wives exchanged personal gifts among themselves under the large Christmas tree in the main living room, which had been set-up and decorated for the Governor's six children.

The official Christmas season was completed on New Year's Eve when Gov. and Mrs. Folsom entertained members of the State Legislature and their wives at a breakfast. The Gov. and his guests later in the day attended the annual Blue-Gray football game at Montgomery's Cramton Bowl, with the Gov. still playing host.

Special Session Opens—

Legislators met in Montgomery on Tuesday to take up the question of organizing a Constitutional, or Fair Vote Convention, on special call from the Governor.

The Governor pointed out, among other things, that present representation in the Legislature is based on the population of Alabama as it was in 1901. Though the Legislators had been required, by the present Constitution, to reshuffle the legislative seats after each 10 year census, to keep pace with shifts in population—as is the case with Congress—the lawmakers have failed to do this even once during the past 54 years.

The Chief Executive said this meant that many taxpayers were therefore without proper representation.

Therefore, the Governor said, though elected delegates to a Fair Vote Convention would review the entire Constitution, his own prayer would be for a reapportionment of the Legislature in accordance with the existing 1955 population pattern of Alabama.

Electric Beds For Potato Plants

Electrically heated beds for sweet potatoe plants are used now in many parts of Alabama. Somewhat more expensive than flue-heated beds, they require less attention and produce more uniform plants than do the others. Electric beds must be covered to cut cost of current and to promote uniform plant growth.

To each and every one of you a very happy New Year.

The Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Crowe together with their family spent the Christmas holidays with their parents in Summerville, Georgia. (Mrs. Crowe's father and mother being Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Bramlett.) Planning To Plant Pines?

Planting pine seedlings on large acreages can be a gigantic task without a tree planter.

But it's fairly easy to put pines on one or two acres with a simple planting bar. And API Extension Forester Ike Martin advises that landowners can even make their own planting bars.

Just flatten one end of a three or four-foot piece of two-inch pipe. Use the flat end to start the hole and push the pipe down to the desired depth.

More Farmers Used Irrigation In Ala. Last Year

Auburn, Ala.—Despite plentiful rainfall in most sections, more Alabama farmers than ever before started irrigating pasture and cropland during 1955.

According to Lawrence Ennis, API Extension agricultural engineer, irrigation equipment for 17,000 acres was bought by growers last year. He said this week the 1955 acreage is 35 per cent above that put under irrigation the previous year and the largest figure for any one year.

As Ennis explained, rainfall during the past spring growing season was sufficient to make irrigating unnecesary in most places. But farmers put their new systems to good use in getting winter crop up during the dry spell last fall.

The specialist then noted that growers who plan to start irrigating this year ought to begin planning their systems immediately. He said the first step is to contact a qualified irrigaton engineer, who can design a system to fit the needs and resources of the individual farm.

Crop Production In Ala. 40% Over That Of 1954

Total value of principal crops produced in Alabama in 1955 amounted to 348.2 million dollars. This represents an increase of 40 percent over the value of crop production in 1954, slightly over four-fifths of this increase in value comes from the cotton and corn crop. The cotton crop (lint and seed) grossed 196 million dollars in 1955 compared with 143 million in 1954. This is accounted for by the record breaking yield, since acreage and price were lower than last year. The value of corn stands at about 77 million dollars, 71 per cent above 1955. The record yield offset the reduced price to show this value increase. Total value of the peanut crop in 1955 was 24 million dollars, double the value of the 1954 crop. Increased acreage and yield coupled with unchanged price accounted for this sharp increase in value.

A freeze that occurded over the State in late March destroyed the peach, pear, and tung nut crops and damaged Irish potatoes and pecans. The deficiency in soil moisture coupled with log germination caused some difficulty in getting crops up to a stand. Beginning in June weather conditions were generally favorable for the remainder of the growing season except that excessive rains of July with increased weevil activity made the cotton outlook uncertain at that time. Near ideal weather, the best available land being used for cotton improved cropping and insect control methods were among the factors contributing to the record-breaking cotton yield. This year has been a most unusual one in that food and feed crops as well as cotton have made such outstanding yields. Ordinarily, yields of these crops are only fair to poor when the cotton yield is good and vice versa. The dry fall was ideal for harvesting all crops.

CORN: The 1955 corn crop as 64,500,000 bushels was the largest of record for Alabama. This is due to the record yield of 30 bushels per acre. Last year yield was 13 bushels per acre and the 10-year average (1944-53) is 17.6 bushels per acre.

COTTON: The crop of $1,045,000 bales was 44 per cent above the 1954 crop and 15 per cent more than the 10-year average. Acreage harvested was down 10 per cent; the record yield per harvested acre average of 478 pounds compares with 298 in 1954.

PEANUTS: The acreage dug for picking and threshing was up 7 per cent from 1954. The largest yield of record at 1025 pounds per acre compares with 550 pounds last year and 774 pounds for the 10-year average.

ALL HAY: The acreage utilized for hay in 1955 at 739,000 acres is 10 per cent above the 1954 acreage. Hay yields were good with an esitmated 710,000 tons produced this year compared to 499,000 tons last year.

SOYBEANS: Soybean acreage harvested for beans has increased steadily in recent years. The 105,000 acres in 1955 produced 2,310,000 bushels for an average yield of 22.0 bushels. This production is 93 per cent greater than 1955.

POTATOES: Production of Irish potatoes (commercial and farm) declined 6 1per cent from 1954. This short production was principally the result of freeze damage in March.

PECANS: Total production of pecans is placed at 4.5 million lbs., slightly more than one half last year's short crop of 8 million lbs. Freeze damage hampered pecan yield.

Morris Mims Writes On "Divine Healing"

As there are many people who have heard of Divine Healing, but have not fully felt satisfied as to whether the Bible really teaches it or not, it has seemed well to begin with Genesis and go through the Bible selecting a few outstanding passages which speak of God's healing the people. By going over these carefully and thoughtfully with any one who is really open to the truth, we can surely prove to them that God does heal his children. Last week we selected a few outstanding passages which speaks of God healing his children in the Old Testament times. This week I want to call your attention to divine heaeling in the New Testament:

Matthew 4:23, 24. Jesus went teaching, preaching, and healing all manner of sickkness and all manner of disease, and all sick people. Divers diseases and treatments, possessed with devils, lunatic, palsy, and he healed them.

Matthew 8:1-4. We read of a leper coming ti Jesus, and worshipping him, saying, Lord, if thou wilst thou canst make me clean. Jesus put forth his hand and touched him, saying I will be thou clean and immediately his leprosy was cleansed.

Matthew 8:5-13. Here we are told of a Centurion that came Jesus in behalf of his servant that was at his home sick of the palsy, grievviously tormented. V-13 and Jesus said unto him, go thy way; and as thou hast believed, so be it done unto thee, and his servant was healed in the same hour.

Mark 8:22-25. Christ touched this blind man once. By this touch received partial healing, but when he touched him the second time he was completely healed. If you receive only partial healing to begin with don't be puzzled. Continue to believe for full deliverance.

Mark 16:17, 18. Does it say, "and these signs shall follow the twelve disciples?" Or is it "and these signs shall follow during the first century?" No, it says, "and these signs shall follow them that believe." Then why do so many people talk and act as though it read the other way? When the church lost its belief, it lost healing; when the church regained its belief it regained healing.

Luke 13:10-17. We notice the healing of the woman who had a "spirit of infirmity."

Luke 22:50-51. Jesus touched and healed the ear of "the servant of the high priest."

John 9th Chapter is the record of the blind man that receives his sight.

Acts 3:115, 16, "Healing are according to your faith." But who is it that must have the faith? In Matt. 8:1-4 it was the lepers faith, in the story o fthe Centurions servant it was the believing master: here it is Peter that has the faith. It may be the one who is sick. It may be the friend who intercedes, or the one who offers the prayer. God looks for faith. God remards faith wherever he sees it. Do we say, when we have prayed for some one who is not healed, "evidently he did not have faith?" Is not that our way sometimes of excusing our own lack of faith?

Peter believed for the sick man. Peter's was a daring faith. He did not say, "Now if you have faith to believe the Lord, you will recover. No, it was a faith that dared to say "In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk." We call Peter impetuous, rash, boastful "in the name of Jesus Christ." The man "leaping up stod, and walked, and entered into the temple walking and leaping, and praising God." Lord give us more men like Peter. The secret? Perhaps it is found in the fact that they were on their way to the temple at the hour of prayer. When God's ministers say, as did the apostles, "We will give ourselves continually to prayer, and to the ministry of the word" (Acts 6:4). Will not they too, dare to say, "rise up and walk?" Ministers have faith in God that you will be of great benefit to your church. People, according to your faith be it unto you, the Lord heals Clanton First Assembly of God. today.

Activated Carbon Now Widely Used

Auburn, Ala.—It keeps cigarettes and packaged foods fresh, purifies air inside many restaurants, stores, and other buildings, does the filtering in gas masks, and aids in production of drugs such as streptomycin and certain hormones.

This versatile material is called "activated carbon," and its production has become big business in the past few years. According to API Extension Forest Products Specialist Windell Vickery, more than 76 million pounds of activated carbon were turned out in 1950, the last year for which figures are available. Since then, development of new uses has pushed production much higher.

Commenting on the growth of the industry, Vickers this week reported that more than half the activated carbon being made today comes from pulp waste. Thus, he said, there are definite possibilities for producing the carbon in Alabama. As he explained, one or more of the six Alabama pulp plants which use 1,831,900 cords of wood per year could furnish the raw material for such production.

Telling how waste pulp fiber becomes highly absorbent carbon, Vickery said the raw material is first made into charcoal then subjected to steam pressure at very high temperatures. This processing cleans the material throughout, making it more absorbent.

Non-Farm Employment Breaks Record In Nov.

Montgomery, Ala.—For the second straight month Alabama has enjoyed the highest non-farm employment ever recorded in the history of the State, Eugene M. Wells, director of the Department of Industrial Relations, said today. During November, employment totals, at 699,400 topped October's peak figure by 1,600 and was 27,500 above the November 1954 figure with the full impact of the Christmas shopping peak still to be recorded for December.

Besides the record employment figure, Wells said the State noted a new leader in the manufacturing group; textiles took a back seat to primary metals which stepped into the lead for the first time in history. Until November, textiles had remained steadily the top employer in the State. However, during the month, primary metals pulled ahead when its employment totals exceeded that of textiles by 100. November figures show textiles employed 47,600 workers and primary metals 47,700.

Average hourly earnings for factory workers advanced one cent during the month to $1.54 and may be compared with October's average of $1.38 for all Southern States production workers, the director said.

Of the 1.100 additions to the trade industry, 1,000 were in the retail segment General merchandise stores employment was up by 600 as five and dime stores accounted for half of that gain. Wells said apparel stores totals edged forward by 300 and food stores and automotive dealers also contributed to the increase with separate gains of 100 workers.

The canning and soft drink industry experienced a seasonal drop of 200 workers, while contract construction totals were off by 300 from October.

Gains in government were centered in the Federal defense segment where 200 new employees were added to payrolls during November. Public schools employed 400 additional workers from the previous month. Wells further stated that a strike of garbage collectors in one municipality offset the overall gain in the government category to a certain extent.

Jerseys In Majority At 55 Dairy Shows

Registered Jersey cattle outnumbered other breeds exhibited at district dairy shows again this year.

A report just issued by API Extension Dairyman John Parrish reveals that 55 percent of the cattle shown in eight district shows and the state show last fall were registered animals of the Jersey breed.

Giving a rundown on how the other classes of dairy cattle stacked up in district and state events this year, Parrish said registered Guernseys accounted for slightly over 20 percent of the total. Around 19 per cent of the show cattle were grade animals. Nearly three percent were registered Holsteins, and the remainder were in a special class for artificially-bred cattle.

Shopping At "White Sales"

The so-called "white" sales being held in many Alabama stores this month offer homemakers a chance to get household linens at reduced prices. But according to API Extension Home Furnishings Specialist Alice Peavy, wise selections are impossible unless the shopper knows how to recognize quality and buy accordingly.

One thing the buyer will need to know is how to "read" thread count in sheets. The Extension expert says thread count is revealed in the type number used by some manufacturers. Type 112 will have 112 threads per square inch; type 140, 140 threads. The higher the thread count, the higher the cost; but sheets with high counts will wear better.

One or two tablespoons of garlic vinegar will add the flavor you want in salads, sauces and other foods without your having to peel and handle the garlic every time. To make the vinegar, peel and slit five cloves of garlic and let them stand in a pint of vinegar for one week.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of the Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

LET'S CONTROL DIPHTHERIA

Because diphtherie is a communicable disease and frequently fatal, the chance of an epidemic is always present when large numbers of children, who make up two-thirds of the victims, remain without proper immunity to the disease. This is a tragic condition, because the disease is controllable.

Control of diphtheria is established principally through immunization, a process whereby healthy persons are injected, usually twice, with diphtheria toxoid. All children shouldeh vae these injections by about six months of age. A single "booster" dose is given later when the child enters school.

Anyone exposed to diphtheria, though showing no evidence of illness, should have germ cultures or tests made from swabbings of the throat. Whether exposed or not, careful individuals will go to their physicians for a Schick test (named for Dr. Bela Schick, who discovered it in 1913) if they have not been immunized as children. This test is usually done on the forearm by injecting minute amounts of dilute diphtheria toxin into the skin. If there is an area of swelling and reddening at the site after 48 hours, it shows that the person lacks sufficient anti-toxin in his tissue to protect him from invaion by the bacilli or germs causng the disease. He should therefore be immunized with toxoid. After immunization, the test is repeated to determine whether the process has proved successful or whether more doses of toxoid are necessary to produce immunity.

Diphtheria can be wiped out completely. The science of medicine has discovered the cause and treatment so that it is now a preventable disease. Diphtheria is spread principally by personal contact and the greatest care must be taken to disinfect every article associated with patients. Milk is also a carrier—a fact which makes pasteurization of great importance in control

Your child has the right to every chance at good health. Has your child been immunized against diphtheria?

Why Your Nose Runs

Dr. D. G. Gill, Alabama's State Health Officer said today that the heavy flow of secretion in the cold's first stage is caused by the increased activity of cells. "It is the body's way of washing germs away mechanically," he said.

Actually, there is a mall amount of this secretion at all times, but it normally thickens into mucus and is discharged, Dr. Gill explained.

Roach Population Due For Trouble In 1956

Auburn, Ala.—A state-wide campaign against roaches is scheduled for 1956.

Heading the fight against this repulsive and dangerous household pest will be API Extension Specialists Stella Mitchell and W. A. Ruffin. The control program, which has been given the name "Goodbye, Mr. Roach," will be carried out by home demonstration and 4-H Club members, civic organizations, and other local groups.

Materials recommended by the specialists to eradicate the germtoting pests are dusts or sprays that contain chlordane, dieldrin, or lindane. However, chlordane is the insecticide that is more commonly stocked by small dealers. Three to five percent or 10 percent dusts of this material are effective roach killers. When used with reasonable precautions, these materials are not dangerous to children or pets.

To get rid of these unpleasant insects inside the home, apply chlordane around baseboards, sinks, stove, cabinets, pantry, bathroom, and closets. Because all kinds of roaches move around a lot, it's unnecessary to apply poison to the entire area. Treatment of infested buildings three or four times at thirty to forty-day intervals will give good control of the four types of roaches commonly found in Alabama — the American, German, brown-banded, and Oriental.

Once the home is free of roaches, every precaution should be taken to keep them out. Every box, crate or sack of foodstuff should be carefully examined before being carried into the house. Application of 10 per cent. chlordane dust around foundation walls should be made at least once each year. During the fall this outside treatment is very important, since roaches try to enter buildings to get out of the cold.

Pruning and spraying of fruit trees ought to be completed in January.

Unless efficient waterways are provided for runoff water, terrace systems are not effective.

It Is Never Too Late To Pay For Christmas Seals

"One by one, the infectious diseases that have plagued men for centuries are going down to defeat. But tuberculosis remains unconquered," said Judge George C. Wallace of Clayton, vice-president of the legislative committee of the Alabama Tuberculosis Association, in an interview this week.

"It is easy to belulled into a sense of false security by telling ourselves that tuberculois no longer kills people as it used to. We are curing a larger proportion of patients treated than ever before, but we are not doing nearly so well at preventing the spread of the disease. Today we have in Alabama over 12,000 known cases of this disease —more than 2,000 of them discovered in 1955. The death rate has been reduced, but constant vigilance against the spread of tuberculosis is more than ever necessary.

"The attack on tuberculosis has been carried out on a broad front by the combined efforts of the medical profession, public health agencies and citizens' groups, such as the Alabama Tuberculosis Association and affiliated county and district groups covering every county in Alabama. The weapons have been and now are the education of the public, chest X-rays to find the unknown cases, legislaton to make the best in treatment available to all patients, and research to find even better methods of prevention and treatment of this killer disease.

"Hospital bed space is still our greatest need in the fight, even though the state has increased its appropriations for treating the disease. Also "X-raymobiles," more of them, are needed to find the cases early, while they can still be cured. But we must have hospital space for those we find with the disease. Amendment No. 5, which would have alleviated this condition, was lost in the recent election.

"The volunteer campaign, financed each year by the annual Chrismas Seal Sale, must go on until this most common and most dangerous of all the contagious disease is finally whipped and all homes are safe from the tubercle bacillus, with its crippling effect on the individual, the family and society alike."

$350 Bomb Shelter

Hunting Season In Ala. Closed January 1

Montgomery, Ala.—W. H. Drinkard, Director of the Alabama Department of Conservation, today called hunters' attention to the end of four major hunting seasons on Sunday, Jan. 1.

Drinkard said shooting of deer, turkeys, doves and squirrels will be illegal throughout the state after the close of hunting Jan. 1. The squirrel seaon had already been cloed in north Alabama on Dec. 15.

Seasons remaining open after Jan. 1 include: quail, to close Feb. 15: 'opossum and racoon, to close Feb. 20; rabbit, to close Feb. 15; ducks, bergansers, coot and Wilson snipe or jacksnipe, to close Jan. 15; rails, gallinules and sora, to close Jan. 5, and woodcock, to close Jan. 20.

55% More Broilers Produced In Ala.

Auburn, Ala.—Broiler production—an important part of Alabama's big poultry industry—made tremendous growth in 1955, climbing 55 per cent over last year's output. This year, state growers sent an estimated 73 million birds to market; production in 1954 was around 47 million broilers.

Viewing the poultry situation at the end of the year, API Extension Poultryman Hoyt M. Warren said this week broilers are the big factor in making the industry Alabama's second largest farm money-maker. He said county agents report that some 500 additional broiler houses went up during the year

Other production adding to the estimated $65 million poultryman will make in 1955 are 70 million dozen eggs and some 250,000 turkeys.

It looks high priced

...but it's the '56 Chevrolet!

Who wouldn't mistake this handsome new Chevrolet for a high-priced car!

It looks strictly "upper bracket" with its bold new Motoramic styling . . . its longer, lower hood . . . its proud new grille that spans the full front end.

Even the details would do credit to an expensive car . . . like the sleek, high-fashion taillights (the left one hides the gas cap!).

But, even beyond the costly appearance of its Fisher Body, Chevy gives the high-priced cars a run for their money. For it's one of the few great road cars built today!

It brings you the added security of nailed-down stability on turns and lightning acceleration for safer passing. Horsepower now ranges all the way up to 205! All engines now have hydraulic-hushed valve lifters.

Of course, Chevrolet has safety door latches in all models. In addition, you can have seat belts, with or without shoulder harness, and instrument panel padding at extra cost.

There's a new Chevrolet just made for you. So come in and highway-test it.

—By Ben

Here's your opportunity to get into the "March of Dimes." Saturday the MYF of the Clanton Methodist Church is going to lay a block of dimes for the help of the crippled children, and with the help of those who can walk alone. The MYF will attempt to lay a block of dimes from the Big Four Hardware to Jones Seed & Feed Company and with the help of our good citizens this can be done. Whether you have, or have not, made your contribution join in the "March" next Saturday. It will help those who cannot help themselves. Miss Helen Parrish who is the MYF Counselor, is sponsoring the "March."

Thoughts while driving—The cold winter winds nibbling at the shrubbery . . . Too many drivers leave you to guess what is on their mind at the next turn . . . Clanton's streets are in good repair as a whole and are getting better and better . . . Where in the world are they going to put all these new cars that are being sold unless the Federal Government and State steps up it's road building program . . . too many cars on the highway spoils the outing like too many cooks spoiled the broth . . . multiply that Sixteen Tons by the number of times you have heard it on the radio and it would run into the bulions . . . How did we ever get stupid enough to say we liked cold weather best—and don't answer that. . .

A small girl whose father is a judge would often say she was Judge Brown's daughter when some one asked her name. Her mother, thinking this might sound snobbish, told her not to make that sort of reply, but simply to say she was Dorothy Brown.

Later someone asked her if she was Judge Brown's daughter. She replied, "Well, I thought I was, but Mother says not."

Jitney Jungle sent out boxholder circulars to mail patrons of Route 4 and City boxes Wednesday. The fellows at the postoffice were getting quite a kick out of Burt Allison, who carries the mail on route 4, having to take the circulars and them being free from the task. You know when a boxholder goes out to the mail man he has to stop at every box on his route and it puts a heavy job on him. But the worst is yet to come. Burke is going to have to do it every week if the plans of the managers at Jitney Jungle prove profitable.

Among the questions asked in the examination of an applicant for a place on the Washington police force was this one: "What would you do to disperse a crowd quickly and quietly?"

The answer: "I'd pass the hat."

The street sign read: "School—don't kill a child." Beneath was a childish scrawl: "Wait for a teacher."

New Salem Baptist

If you missed the services here at New Salem this week you missed a great blessing. The Lord was present in both services. In recognition of "H" Day, we were privileged to have the Rev. Jas. Thrasher. Everyone enjoyed both of his sermons. He had a wonderful message in them.

We just thank God that we have men such as Rev. Thrasher. We also had Mr. Lawrence Hayes with us in both our services. He led our song service. It seemed as if it simply made the services more complete with the wonderful song service under his direction. Although he isn't a member of our church, we are thankful for his willingness to help us in our song services.

Let's every remember our church services and come out and worship God. Our attendance for Sunday School was over our enrollment this Sunday. We extend a cordial invitation to all visitors to come out and worship with us. Our church is growing each day for the glory of God.

Let's everyone remember our church calendar.

Sunday School at 10:00 a.m.
Preaching at 11:00 a.m.
Training Union at 6:00 p.m.
Preaching at 7:00 p.m
Wed. night prayer service at 7:00.

Pulelts started this month will be laying by July and should reach peak production next fall and winter when egg prices are usually at a seasonal high.

Trio Of Escaped Convicts Nabbed At Mountain Creek

Three armed teen-age escaped convicts were captured near Mountain Creek last Thursday night about 7:05 p.m. The trio was traced through an anonymous phone call stating that they were heade north on Highway 31.

Highway Patrol officers blocked Highway 31 and 45 and searched cars as they were stopped.

The escapees had left a prison farm at Speigner about 10 hour earlier. They threw a bucket of water in the face of the man guarding them, took his guns and left.

Before their capture they had stolen two cars, one of which they were forced to camouflage with pine straw when a Patrol plane started an aerial search of the area

A patrol car met the trio at the junction of Highways 31 and 45 and a patrolman shot out a tire on the stolen car.

The three surrendered and were returned to Kilby prison for questioning before resuming their sentences.

American Red Cross Founder Honored On "You Are There"

The entire story will center around "Heroism of Clara Barton", and the famous battle of September 17, 1862, when the founder of Red Cross ministered to the wounded, assisted doctors and won the affection of the soldiers.

Jimmy Charles Foshee, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L Foshee, Rt. 4 Clanton, has been named Champion FFA Corn Grower in Chilton County, it was announced today by B. P. Dilworth, district supervisor of vocational agriculture, Auburn.

Young Foshee, a member of the Clanton FFA chapter, made 88 bushels of corn per acre to win the championship title. The corn was one of the several projects he had in his supervised farming program in vocational agriculture during 1955.

Runner-up in the contest was James Earl Hicks, a member of the Maplesville FFA chapter. He made 75 bushels per acre on his three-acre corn project.

Dilworth explained that the purpose of the corn growing contest is to encourage FFA members to use better corn-growing practices on their farms. The contest is sponsored by the Vocational Agriculture Service and the Chilean Nitrate Educational Bureau, Inc.

In growing his prize-winning corn, Charles planted a Dekalb variety in rows 48 inches apart and left the plants about 15 inches apart in the row. He fertilized wit h600 pounds of 4-10-7 per acre at planting time and side dressed with 300 pounds of Nitrate of Soda about 30 days after planting.

Slow Take-Off Preserves Tractor

Auburn, Ala.—Engines need special treatment when they are put back into use after a period of storage, and one important point is the way the motor is started.

According to J. T. Gallard, API Extension farm machinery specialist, a tractor, power unit, or other engine ought to be run slowly for about 0 minutes before it is accelerated to high speed or operated with a load. He explained that this precaution is necessary to be sure that all parts are working smoothly

The expert pointed out that this final check should follow careful cleaning and priming of the motor parts.

Spring must be getting close—rumors of new industry for Chilton are beginning to circulate.

* * * *

Everyone seems to prefer summer—now that it's winter.

* * * *

YOU ARE IN DANGER

Must the City of Clanton sit back and wait for our inefficient traffic lights to cause a traffic death before they will have them fixed?

Our antiquated signals, for the past few years, have needed constant repair and are always unpredictable. Several minor accidents have been caused when the lights showed green on all four directions or were not even working at all.

Every time you cross under a light in Clanton you are running the risk of having an accident because of the very traffic light that is supposedly protecting you.

When Clanton's fire siren goes off everyone driving the streets of Clanton is in danger. There is no use saying that everyone should pull over when they hear a siren because in the winter, with car windows up, it's next to impossible to even hear a siren. Our volunteer fireman are forced to drive through town to the fire station after the siren has ceased to blow. They are forced to run red lights because we have no method of turning our traffic signals on amber for emergencies.

Clanton's Police Department does a fine job of traffic direction during emergencies but our force cannot be expected to cover every crossing in town. The police have to endanger themselves by standing under a changing light trying to stop the flow of traffic in four directions at once. Who can expect a driver coming into Clanton after the siren has stopped, to know that a fire truck and other vehicles are supposed to have the right of way.

Traffic lights were designed to protect drivers and regulate the flow of traffic. The negligence shown our signal devices just add to the dangers.

WHAT IS FAIR FOR ONE IS FAIR FOR THE OTHER

"If the patriotic members of the present legislature know their business—and we think they do—they will do their duty by awaiting saner leadership in the executive chair even to begin talk of a new constitution or of apportionment based solely on population.

Remember what the founding fathers of the federal constitution of 1787 did. Little Delaware and little Rhode Island have two United States senators just like New York or California.

The big ones can't run over the little ones simply because they are big.

Our Alabama constitution makers of 1901 showed similar wisdom, and we believe our modern day lawmakers have inherited some of the filian admiration and constitutional wisdom of their forefathers."

It all sounds very good but how about counties like Chilton? We have a Senator only four out of 12 years. The founding fathers were right when they gave little Delaware and little Rhode Island two United States Senators so why can't we in Chilton county and so many of the other small counties have a state senator? Let's be consistent.

Letters to the Editor

PROVE FOR YOURSELF GOD'S FAITHFULNESS

When Satan proposed that Jesus cast himself from the pinnacle of the temple, Jesus answered, "Ye shall not tempt Jehovah thy God" (Matt. 4:5-7). There is a great difference between tempt and prove. It is a sin to provoke God, to try his forbearance, to test him in a sipirt of idle experiment of display But God has issued to his people a clear invitation to prove him. Read Malachi 3:10:

The invitation is to "prove me herewith" and the promise is to pour out a blessing. Probably the greatest blessing received by the Christian who proves God in this matter of titheing is a fresh personal knowledge of the sureness of God's Word. But he receives other blessings also. Somebody has pointed out that God allows no one to outgive him. He is the greatest giver. Read Romans 8:32 and Luke 6:38.

Probably many times in your school laboring you sought to prove truth, to learn it for yourself. You prove theorems in geometry, if you studied geometry. From day to day you prove the reliability of people you have business dealings with. You test and find out for yourself if the truthfulness of advertisements. You probably sometimes accept the advertiser's invitation to take a product and try it If you have not done so already, accept God's invitation to take a product and try it. If you have not done so already, accept God's invitation to prove him by bringing your whole tithe into his storehouse. When you do so, tears of joy will soon swell up from your heart as you learn from your own experience God's wondrous faithfulnes sto his Word.

Thank you.

Mrs. E. H. Crane, Chilton-Unity Stewardship Chairman.

Do You Ever Wonder How The Paper You Are Reading Is Made

This feature is written in a series of (5) articles to be run in five consecutive issues of your Chilton County News and is presented to aid anyone wishing to know just how a newspaper is published . . from the beginning to the finished product which is known as "hot off the press."

Part I—

A weekly, such as your CCN could not operate efficiently and successfully without the continuous support of citizens and patrons who are interested in their community and interested in the Free Press and provide that press with its personal touch . . . the community happenings or news.

Articles are sent in from individuals, pastors, publicity chairmen of clubs, correspondents employed by the paper and the paper's own staff rounds up news in its spare time Spare time in a weekly newspaper is very rare and there is always the feeling that certain things are left unattended for lack of sufficient reporting help. However, a weekly, operating on a close financial scale cannot afford to hire expensive extra help to get up news. Because of this fact, everyone in a newspaper office, from the editor down to the "devil" is chief cook and bottle washer, so to speak and hoes his share of just about everything, be it reporting or sweeping out the place.

News, especially community news is what makes a weekly newspaper thrive and without this community news it would soon cease to exist. That's one reason why it is every citizen's duty to report on things of interest to him . . . so it can be passed on, through the columns of the local newspaper to other interested parties.

Naturally, any up-to-the-minute reporting is usually done by the editor or editors or by a member of the staff with the ability to do a good reporting job.

For instance:

A story on accidents over some holiday period is desired; the reporter must contact all local authorities such as police, Sheriff, ambulance driver, coroner, doctor, and hospital. Then, if it is a particular accident he must combine all information he gets from these sources, piece them together, probably make several double checks and then he's almost ready to write his story. If the accident victim was wounded, the reporter might want to interview him and get his opinion of the accident. The reporter then writes his story, careful not to bring in any opinions and presents it to his editor. The editor in turn, may turn it down and make him rehash it; or he may send it on to the copy room, which is what the reporter hopes, anyway.

Another type of reporting done from the newspaper office itself is feature stories. If the paper wanted to write an article or a series of articles on how efficiently and well the local Fire Department is run or the improvements in the streets of the city or the way the Police Department is run, then some member of the staff takes some of his spare time (which is hard to find) and goes to work on research and asking quetions to get up the necessary information and equipment for his article or articles

It is this type of articles that cause increasing interest in the weekly paper, but ironically it is the hardest type of article for a weekly because of the time element involved. A weekly has to run on a schedule and works with a minimum of help to keep that schedule. Thus, it is seldom that a member of the force has a vacant moment in which to delve into a bit of free lancing about local institutions.

The editor could assign someone to the job at hand, but he seldom finds anyone with a hand that is not busy.

The country weekly is hard put by this inability to get ALL the news and also report on interesting sideline matters, but most weeklies do splendid jobs of getting these extra local stories up in spite of their shortage of hands.

Your weekly newspaper will run anything which is sent it which is of interest to its readers. Announcements of meetings, births, deaths, marriages, organiaztional reports, etc., are welcomed, providing they get into the staff's hands in time for publication. Anything that is delayed, whether it be en route or simply sent in late will have to be omitted. This should be understood, due to the fact, that there is a schedule, then the paper has to go by that schedule.

Anything of value that is received too late for this week will be run next week providing it is still of interest, this being left up to the discretion of the editor.

(Next week we wll take you through the frst phase of turning out a newspaper in print. It will be article II in a series of V articles.)

Rev. Morris Mims Coutiues Series On "Divine Healing"

(3rd in a series)

In this article this week we will take up where we left off last week on Divine Healing, as taught in God's word. And if we have approached God's word with an open heart and mind I am sure you have been led to see that God heals his children. The Lord is rewarding faith where ever he sees it.

Acts 3.1-11, we note the daring faith of Peter as he spoke these words to the lame man "Silver and gold have I none; but such as I have give I thee, in the Name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth rise up and walk!" and the lame man did.

Acts 5:14-16 "They brought forth the sick into the streets that at least the shadow of Peter passing by might overshadow some of them. There came a great multitude bringing the sick and they were healed every one." There have been those in whose very presence was so much of the spirit that without a word having been said, sinners have cred out for mercy. There are those at whose touch hundreds have been slain under the power of the Spirit. Here Peter's shadow was all that was needful for the healing of the multitude. Was it Peter? No, it was Peter's God. Peter was so in touch with the Lord and so full of the Holy Spirit that if the sick would but come close enough to have his shadow touch them, healing would be their's. The Word says that Christ is "to be admired in all them that believe." Is he so filling our lives that when the people look at us. He may be seen and His beauty admired? Do the multitudes throng us for the healing power of His presence in our shadow?

In Acts 9:23-35 we see one of the reasons why God would have the sick healed. "And all that dwelt in Lydda and Saron saw him and turned to the Lord." What if the pharisees of today don't believe? that matters very little. Yesterday, it was the common people that heard him gladly. It is so today, we are to hold up the miracle working Jesus and the people seeing, will turn to the Lord.

Acts 14:8-10. The healing of the man who was lame from the time of his birth, as Paul ministered.

Acts 16:16-18 where a demon was cast out of a damsel brings out the power which is "in the name of Jesus Christ." Our Lord said, "Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father in My name, He will give it to you." Do you believe him.

There is a story of a little boy in heathen Africa who one day found a page torn from the Bible he knew little of salvations' story but he read on this page of the power of Jesus name. With the simplicity of his child like faith, he stepped out on the promises of God. Miracles were wrought. How? through the power of the name of Jesus. "If our faith was but more simple, we would take him at his word.

Acts 19:11-12 we read that Paul sent out handkerchiefs and aprons to the sick and they were healed.

James 5:14-16 "Is any sick?, let him call for the doctors, and let them give him some medicine." No, God in his mercy has provided remedies which can help mankind. But that is not his highest plan for his children. He has opened a better way. It is the way of faith. "The prayer of the faithful shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up." Verse 16 has in it something which is often altogether overlooked. It is what prevents many healings. We fail to see that God says "Confess your faults that ye may be healed." If there is sin, confession and cleansing must come first. Sin hinders healing. Confess and believe God for healing.

Rev. Morris E. Mims, pastor Clanton First Assembly.

REPORT FROM WASHINGTON

By ARMISTEAD SELDEN, Sixth Con. Dis.

The second session of the 84th Congress opened on January 3 with an abundance of major issues before it. These will be considered against the background of a presidential election year that also poses the question of whether or not President Eisenhower will seek reelection.

Against this backdrop, issues that will certainly engage the Congress are "What farm policy for the future?", whether there will be tax revisions and whether miiltary and foreign spending will be expanded.

The House last session passed a bill to restore support on basic commodities to 90 per cent, replacing the present flexible supports. The Senate did not act, but the problems of the farmer will receive early consideration in the current session.

Private debate on tax revision could be heard even before Congress reconvened, and future debate will center on how to give tax relief and provide the necessary national revenues at the same time.

The Administration is expected to ask for an appropriation of $35.5 billion for defense, an increase of $1 billion over present expenditures. In the foreign field, the Administration has revealed that it will ask for $4.9 billion in foreign military and economic aid, an increase of approximately $2.2 billion over the 1956 appropriation. In my opinion, this requested nicrease in foreign spending of almost 82 per cent will face strong opposition.

Warrior Lock Funds

Domestic issues facing the Congress include a public highway program(federal aid to schools, the exemption of natural gas producers from federal controls, a reconsideration of the reserve program, extension of social security benefits, and programs relating to water resources.

There will undoubtedly be more funds in the budget for the continued construction of the Warrior Lock and Dam, and I believe we can be confident of their approval by Congress.

The highway improvements issue will probably hinge again on its method of financing—by appropriations from the general fund or by taxes on fuel and equipment purchased by road users. The House rejected proposals based on both approaches in the last session. The Senate approved an appropriation financing plan.

In the field of federal aid for school construction, the House last year adjourned before considering a measure that would have authoized $1.6 billion in grants for four years. The Congress, however, undoubtedly will grapple in the very near future with the problem of building and maintaining adequate schools.

The House passed a bill in 1955 exempting natural gas producers from federal regulation. This measure is scheduled for early consideration in the Senate but strong opposition is expected.

Also passed by the House last session was a social security bill that will extend coverage and, at the same time, will leberalize age requirements. Senate consideration is schedulej for an early date.

The House Armed Services Com- on the operation of the current pro- mittee has already begun hearings gram designed to build up a ready reserve of 2,900,000 men by 1960. So far, only a comparatively small number have responded to the six months service provision of the present law, which is followed by 7 1-2 years of reserve service.

President's Message

President Eisenhower covered most of the forthcoming issues in his State of the Union message. Due to his convalescence, this was the first time since he has been in office that he has not personally delivered his State of the Union address.

Conisderable attention was focused on the President's announcement that he expects the budget to be in balance during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1956, and that a balanced budget will be proposed for the next fiscal year ending June 30, 1957. Whether this will be achieved in the face of the inevitable drive for tax reduction will be one of the major quetsions of the year.

UNDER THE STUDY LAMP

THE ROAD THAT NEVER WEARIES

"Blessed are the sincere in the way, who walk in the law of the Lord." Psalm 119:1.

Take a look at Psalm 119. Notice first, the grouping of the sentence. At the head of each group of 8 verses there is a queer looking letter, followed by a queer word. For example, preceding the first verse is a letter that looks somewhat like our English N. Then the word ALEPH. There are 22 letters in the Hebrew alphabet, that being the first. In the Psalm before us there are 22 sections, each headed by a Hebrew letter.

More than that, the initial letter in each of the eight verses in the section is the same as that at the beginning of the group. That is, in the original language, each group of eight sentences begins with a letter of the Hebrew alphabet; the second, with the next letter, and so on through the 176 verses—twenty-two groups of eight sentences each.

And more than that, with only one exception, every one of the 176 verses contains the expression "the Word of God" or some synonym for it. (And by the way, see if you can find that verse."

All that we have said means that the author of that amazing poem was aglow with love for the Word of God. Full of awe and love for what God has revealed ,he strolls through the abounding orchard of Divine Revelation, gathering palatable and nourishing fruit.

"Blessed are the sincere in the way, who walk kin the law of the Lord." That poet believed every word of it, and exercised himself therein every day. It is all a matter of appreciation and diligent practice. The same reward is within reach of all who want sincerely to know about the things of highest value.

It's time now to prepare patches where quail food crops will be planted from late February through May. Early breaking and harrowing of the land will help to conserve moisture.

RUTH HICKS

Mrs. Charlie Gay (Minnie I. Bat-on) underwent surgery in the Vaughan Memorial Hospital Selma, Alabama last Tuesday morning.

A number of our folks have been ill with flu.

Mrs. Sallie Dell Rush, daughter of Mr. W. J. Fluker and a grandson, Mr. Howard Rush Jr., and Mrs. Rush of Pascagoula, Miss., spent the week end with the Flukers.

David Young Fluker, 60, well known in both Dallas and Perry Counties as the operator of the Dallas-Perry Service Station on Felix Road and for many years a resident of Selma died at 902 Church Street, Selma, Ala., the residence of his mother-in-law, Mrs. W. T. Nelson ,at 415 p.m. Monday, January 2, 1956. Mr. Fluker had been in failing health for the past 18 months. Mr. Fluker was born and reared in Gastonburg, Wilcox County. and came to Selma as a young man. For the past 18 years he had operated the Dallas-Perry Service Station. A Methodist, he had affiliated with Harper's Chapel, in his immediate neighborhood. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Irma R. Nelson Fluker, of Selma; one son, Ira C. Fluker. of Selma and 2 grandchildren. Two sisters, Mrs. Maggie Roberts of Hattiesburg, Miss., Mrs. Belle Thompson of Houston, Texas, and one brother Mr. W. J. Fluker of Stanton. Several nieces and nephews survive. Funeral services 2:30 p.m. Wednesday from Breslin Funeral Chapel with burial in New Live Oak Cemetery. Pallbearers were Sgt. Lawrence Nelson, Bruce Pardue, Leland Fluker, Jr., Luverne Gantt, Jack Nelson, and Maj. Bob Hester. Sympathy is extended the loved ones.

R. Cleve McGee, age 50, station agent for the Southern Railway at Uniontown, Ala., since the past August and formerly agent at Burnsville and Plantersville, was found dead at the rear of the Uniontown station at 7:20 a.m. when a negro porter reported for work. Death was attributed to a heart attack the family said. Residing at 403 Broad St., Selma, Ala., the well known and loved railroad man had left his home early Thursday morning telling his wife that he planned to remain overnight Thursday in Uniontown to be on hand there when a work train passed early Friday, to obviate the necessity of too early rising on Friday. Members of the train crew did not report seeing the station agent, and his body was not discovered until some time after the train's passage. A native of Lawley, Chilton County, Ala., Mr. McGee had been in Southern Railway employ since August 15, 1928. He had served as extra agent for many years. Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Anthel Ratliff McGee, a daughter, Mrs. L. T. Cobb of Selma, Ala. Three brothers, Lewis and Preston, both of Maplesville, Ala., and Clint McGee of Clanton, Ala., Funeral services were held at 2 p.m. at the Maplesville Baptist Church with burial in the Maplesville cemetery. Sympathy is extended the loved ones.

Your reporter had the joy of greeting Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lecroy (the former Miss Ethel Mize) last Saturday while having lunch at the Dixie Cafe in Clanton. Mr. and Mrs. Lecroy reported that Mrs. Buna Mize was confined to the Chilton County Hospital after having suffered a fall recently. Sister Hattie Roebuck from Montgomery brought a wonderful message Sunday night at Christ's Sanctified Holy Church. If you missed this inspiring message you missed a real wonderful blessing.

"And the prayer of faith shall save the sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he has committed sins, they shall be forgiven him. Confess your faults one to another, and pray one for another, that ye may be healed. The effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much." James 5:15-16.

We were happy to start the New Year off with such a good attendance in Sunday School and B.T.U. this Sunday. Our attendance in Sunday School was 92 and in B.T.U. it was 42. Let's try to make this number even greater in the Sundays to come.

Many of our members were absent from Sunday School and B.T.U. on account of sickness. We hope each of you will soon be well and with us again.

Plans are being made to start work on enlarging the Beginners Sunday School room. We are sure the teacher and children will be happy about this work, as it is needed so badly.

There was a nice attendance at the Quarterly Meeting held at the church Tuesday. The Rev. Frank Di Maggio, Missionary to the Italian People, was the guest speaker. This message was greatly enjoyed by the group who attended.

It was a great surprise when Mrs. Johnson, the district Young Peoples Leader, came in unexpectedly. She made a very interesting talk after the noon hour.

All the ladies were very gracious in helping in serving lunch.

After lunch each enjoyed a nice noon fellowship together.

Bro. Adams brought a wonderful sermon both morning and night and was indeed a blessing to those who were present.

2 tablespoons butter

6 cups sifted enriched flour

Scald milk. Remove from heat and stir in sugar, salt, nutmeg and butter, cool to lukewarm. Measure water into bowl (warm, not hot, water for active dry yeast; lukewarm for compressed yeast). Sprinkle or crumble in yeast. Stir until dissolved. Add lukewarm milk mixture. Stir in well-beaten eggs and half the flour (3 cups); beat until smooth. Cover and let rise in a warm place, free from draft until yeast mixture more than doubles in bulk (about 30 minutes). Stir down and beat in remaining 3 cups of flour. Turn dough out on lightly floured board; knead lightly to shape into a smooth ball. Divide dough. Roll each half into a circle ½-inch thick. Cut with doughnut cutter and place on greased baking sheets. Cover with towel; let rise in warm place free from draft until double in bulk, about 30 minutes. Fry in deep hot fat 365°F., until golden brown, turning once. Do not prick with a fork or it will sink. Drain, sprinkle with granulated sugar. Serve hot. Makes 3 dozen Raised Doughnuts.

Charcoal Burning May Return Here

A revival of the ancient art of charcoal burning now seems likely in Alabama. The growing popularity of outdoor grills is increasing the home market for charcoal, and industrial demand continues steady. And although raw materials for charcoal are plentiful in the state, Alabamians still produce less of the fuel than they use.

Commenting this week on the possibilities of this enterprise, API Extension Forest Products Specialist Windell Vickery said several features of charcoal production make it adaptable to individual farm operations. Small kilns are within the means of most landowners. Charcoal burning gives the farmer profitable work during the slack winter months and turns worthless scrub hardwoods into a valuable "crop," at the same time improving the quality of woodlands through removal of the hardwood trees.

Daily Diet Is Most Important Factor In Health

Montgomery, Ala.—How important is the food you eat? Dr. D. G. Gill, Alabama's State Health Officer said today that the daily diet, or nutrition, is termed the most important single factor operating on human life.

This is the opinion of many doctors, public health officials and food experts, he said. The diet is given this important place because of recent discoveries. Nutrition studies have shown that inadequate diets may actually be one of the causes of some of the chronic diseases, Dr. Gill said. The practice of eating the wrong kind or not enough food has been called nutrition insults."

The normal diet, for well persons, should include food from the "basic seven" groups daily, Dr. Gill said. These groups are citrus fruits; green and yellow vegetables; milk or milk products; meat, fish and eggs; cereal grains (as breads or cereals); butter or fortified margarine and the other fruits and vegetables.

Lambs should be docked and casarated whenthey are a week to 10 days old.

Alabama Sets Road Pace; New Industries Planned; Pensions

Alabama Sets Road Pace.

Last year Alabama smashed all previous records in the miles of new roads built in the State during any 12-month period.

The State Highway Department's annual report shows that 1,114 miles of new blackktop roads were added to the State's highway system. This exceeded by 204 miles the previous record established during the 1953-54 financial year.

Highway officials believe, however, that this new record will be easily beaten this year. Judging from the number of contracts let, roads, already under construction, plus, "blueprints" of roads scheduled already for construction this year, it is expected that Alabama may end 1956 with almost 2,000 miles more of new blacktops.

The number of new farm-to-mar- blacktop roads will certainly increase "considerably" this year, a Highway Engineer said. He said this will be "because of Governor Folsom's emphasis on this type of road program, and the cooperation he is giving to the various counties through spending more Secondary Federal Aid road money on farm-to-market roads."

The importance of a good highway system was seen last year when industrialists selected Alabama for the location of almost $500,000,000 worth of new and expanded industries. A good road system is always a prime consideration to manufacturers.

Meanwhile, it is noted, the impartance of Alabama staying ahead of its sister States with progressive road programs, is shown by the sudden urgent decision of a trailing Georgia to launch a major road program there, in order to stay in the race upwards towards the national economic average.

They Died Too Soon

Another State highway end-of-the year report does not have such a happy ending.

Between January 1 and December 31, 1955, no fewer than 820 persons met sudden death on Alabama's highways. This is 96 more than were killed in 1954.

A break down of these figures show that 673 of 1955's 820 dead were killed in rural areas, patrolled by the Highway Patrol, and 157 were reported killed in city areas. In 1954 there were 630 reported killed in rural areas, and 144 in the cities.

It should nevertheless be noted that in reporting an increase in its traffic death rate, Alabama is in line with the rest of the nation. The National Safety Council reports increased traffic deaths from almost every State, and with figures still incomplete, it is expected that the national traffic death toll for 1955 will be about 6 per cent above that of 1954.

An Alabama Highway Patrol officer pointed out that last year "there were more cars, which were more powerful being driven more miles, by more owners, than ever before." He said that automobile registrations, drivers' licenses, and gas consumption records would prove the point.

So-called "delayed" death reports —i. e. persons injured before midnight December 31, but who die subsequently—may yet swell Alabama's 1055 traffic death toll still further.

New Industries Program.

Gen. Lewis A. Pick, Director of the State Planning and Industrial Development Board, said he was "most encouraged" by the cooperation he is receiving from the counties, in the overall Alabama industrial promotion plan. He said he hopes that those counties which have not yet made reports and taken necessary steps, would remember that next August will be deadline for him to receive data on each county's industrial potential.

Pick announced that his agency is receiving a number of inquiries from industrialists for possible plant ste loactions, so that the prospects are good for 1956 being another banner year for industrial development in the State.

Pensions and Security

Pensions and security payments are helping to keep many Alabamians from acute suffering, Commissioner J. S. Snoddy said today in quoting numerous holiday greetings from recipients.

"Their letters have told us poignantly what we knew," he said, "but they have special meaning at this time of year." He pointed out that all pensions and security payments are based on need.

In quoting letters, he said, for example, one man wrote: "Without my pension check, I couldn't have made it." Another said, "I'm now so blind I can't see to do my work. We've had other sickness, too, so the check will help."

A woman wrote, "Everyone calls me Aunt May—I am 81 years old so you know I can't earn anything. The pension meant Christmas." Another said, "I am 76, have no children, and have been a widow 27 years. My nephews help pay my board and my checks does the rest. Thank you. I need it."

Snoddy said the Pensions and Security Department had made a special effort to mail December payments in time to reach people before Christmas.

The commissioner also explained that old age payments averaged only $32.29 in November, which represents only about 60 per cent of what old people need according to agency standards. He said that under present standards an old person living with husband or wife could be budgeted monthly for $55 for essentials, plus rent (as paid up to $30), but maximum payments remained $55 by State and Federal law. Snoddy said the average amount old age recipients needed—budget deficit—in November was about $53.50, though payments were a little over $32.00.

"Other categories get even less," the Commissioner added. He said standards are lower for dependent children, blind and permanently and totaly disabed and payments are aso ess than 10 per cent of the amount needed for these groups. Lowest payments per person and percentage-wise are for dependent children, he added. In November per family aid to dependent children payments were $40.72 based on 45 percent of a budget deficit fixed by low standards. "This meant only $10.49 per person per month," Snoddy added, "since families average close to four persons each."

"We believe every payment helps, but with a few exceptions, everyone is insufficient," Snoddy concluded.

Sowing a crop of telephone convenience...

Many new, improved construction methods are helping Southern Bell to extend telephone service in rural areas. For example, the cable plow shown above can lay 30 miles of cable a week to a maximum depth of 30 inches, leaving no unsightly trenches.

Also, a small new-type cable which carries several telephone lines has been developed. Of light, inexpensive construction, it is strung right alongside wires on pole lines.

These new and improved techniques helped make possible the installation of about 86,000 new rural phones in 1955 in our nine-state area at a total cost of 16 million dollars. And there's still a big job to do. We'll spend over 18 million dollars in 1956 to bring even more telephones to farm folks who want and need them.

Technique Aids Proper Planting In Pine Survival

Auburn,. Ala.—It seems sensible that a person who's going to plant pine trees ought to be sure he's following the right procedure. Seedlings aren't expensive if obtained from the State Conservation Department. But the time and trouble that it takes to order and set them made correct planting methods a must, for the technique used noticeably affects a young tree's chances of survival.

Telling how pines should be planted for best results, API Extension Forester I. R. Martin said this week a dibble, or planting bar, is needed for setting the trees by hand. He made the following suggestions for planting:

1. Place seedlings in a bucket of water or thin, soupy mud, with the roots entirely covered.

. With dibble, make a V-shoped slit in the ground, six to eight inches deep.

3. Put seedlings as far down into the hole as possible, then draw it back up until the rool collar is even with the surface. Handling the plant in this way keeps the root from curling, killing the seedling.

4. Next, insert dibble a couple of inches behind the seedling. Push it away from the plant to pack soil at tip of root, then pull it toward the seedling to close slit at the top

5. Place a shot heel firmly behind the seedling to further pack soil and to close the second dibble hole. The depression made by the shoe will also help catch rainfall for the newly planted pine.

Pulelts started this month will be laying by July and should reach peak production next fall and winter when egg prices are usually at a seasonal high.

Streamline Jambalaya with Canned Chicken

DOWN along the Bayous, Creoles are getting ready for Mardi Gras. This includes preparation of exotic foods that made New Orleans a shrine for Gourmets.

This city's famous cookery got its start when one hundred women staged a food strike in the 18th century. They were wives of French soldiers who marched on the colonial governor to show that they were tired of eating corn. He had no substitute but a bountiful supply of understanding. The governor guessed that these ladies were homesick for good French cooking.

Luckily he had a French Canadian housekeeper, who was a culinary artist with a knowledge of the limited Louisiana foodstuffs. He persuaded her to talk to the distraught strikers about how to prepare native foods, an art she had learned from expert Indian squaws.

Thus began the first United States cooking school that ended with happy dispositions and some delectable dishes. First she showed them how to grind the detested corn between stones to make piping hot corn bread to serve with wild honey. Then she demonstrated the art of turning corn into hominy, grits, or succotash . . . and of making seasoning from sassafras leaves.

Rice and Creole dishes have been blissfully wedded since these early colonial days. In jambalaya, rice possibly reaches its height of fame. Creoles make it a meal in a dish with chicken, baked ham, roast pork or seafood like oysters, crayfish, and shrimp. Jambalayas like this one are becoming streamlined today with convenient canned chicken.

Chicken Jambalaya

- ½ cup chopped green pepper
- 1 cup diced onion
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 can (1¼ cups) condensed chicken gumbo soup
- 1 soup can water
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1⅓ cups packaged precooked rice (5-ounce package)
- 1 can (5-ounce size) boned chicken or turkey

Cook green pepper and onion in butter until soft. Mix in soup, water and Worcestershire sauce. Bring to a boil. Stir in rice. Remove from heat; cover and let stand 15 minutes. Stir in chicken. 4 generous servings.

Cranberry Crunch Pudding

Tangy cranberries and flavorful apple slices are tucked under the crust of Cranberry Crunch Pudding. Dairy sour cream is a "just right" topping.

CRANBERRY CRUNCH PUDDING

Cranberry Crunch Pudding will win a place right beside your favorite recipes for peach or apple "crisp."

Make this hot dessert using either canned or fresh cranberries and your favorite cooking apples. The crust of this pudding has a "surprise" ingredient that gives an extra zippy taste—sharp Cheddar cheese.

Add a final flavor note by serving dairy sour cream with Cranberry Crunch Pudding.

This dessert has yet another reason for becoming one of your best-liked. It's easy to make when you use enriched self-rising flour. Baking powder and salt are already added to the flour in correct amounts, saving you time when measuring. Use enriched self-rising flour whenever you make quick breads, and see how it speeds up your baking.

CRANBERRY CRUNCH PUDDING

- 1 can whole cranberry sauce* (1 pound)
- 2 cups thinly sliced apples
- 2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
- 1¼ cups sifted enriched self-rising flour
- ¾ cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ½ cup grated sharp Cheddar cheese
- 1 egg, beaten

Mix cranberry sauce and apples and arrange in bottom of 9-inch round pan. Drizzle with melted butter or margarine. Mix flour sugar and cinnamon. Cut or rub in butter or margarine until mixture is crumbly. Stir in cheese. Add egg and stir to blend well. Spread over fruit. Bake in moderate oven (375 Deg. F.) 35 to 40 minutes. Serve warm with dairy sour cream or hard sauce. Makes 6 to 8 servings

FOR PRINTING THAT PLEASES PHONE 32

FOR HOUSEWIVES HELPFUL HINTS

If you'be got a currycomb left over from horse and buggy days hang onto it. It makes a good fish scaler.

Baste men's ties, end to end, with silk thread before cleaning or laundering them. The thread will keep the lining from wrinkling up, and it can be removed after the tie has been pressed.

If winter weather has roughened your hands, try covering them with heavy cream just before retiring Sleeping with cotton gloves on will keep the cream from ruining bed linens.

Strips of adhesive tape on shoe bottoms are insurance against falls on icy ground.

A little vinegar or cream of tartar added to the water will prevent discoloration in the bottom of your double aluminum boiler.

Pans that are too small for a cooking unit simply waste heat.

When scissors squeak or stick rub each blade with your fingers. The fingers have enough natural oil to lubricate scissors without staining materials.

Fruits and nuts should be dusted with flour before being added to cake batter. The coating keeps them spread evenly throughout the mixture.

CARD OF THANKS

We Wish to thank our many friends, neighbors and relatives for kindness, good deeds and beautiful floral offerings during the illness and death of our loved one, wife, mother, grandmother and great grandmother, Mrs. Joel T. Childress.

May God richly bless each one of you.

Put Your Fancy Skillet To Good Use

"LAND sakes alive. How fancy can a skillet get?"

That's the way great-grandmother Hepzibah would react if she could see the current crop of skillets. A far cry are these frying pans from the plain old cast iron model "Granny" had, useful as it was.

The 1956 model skillets come in rainbow colors. Pink, blue, red or most any color porcelain on a cast iron base. Some have gay decorations . . . flowers, fruit and such. Bright copper skillets also sparkle on kitchen ranges. And joy of them all is the shiny electric skillet. Plug it in and cook supper wherever your little heart desires . . . living room or dining room.

Let your skillet do you proud . . . whether it's new or antique . . . and plan your party suppers around it. They can be homey as the "Jones family" or in "high-society" style.

Mrs. Jones "Jumble-Aya"

1 pound ground beef
1 medium onion, thinly sliced
3 cups cubed potatoes
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed tomato soup
¼ cup water
½ teaspoon salt
Dash black pepper

Cook beef, potatoes and onion in butter until lightly browned. Stir in remaining ingredients. Season with a bit of ground thyme or Worcestershire sauce, if you like. Cover and cook over low heat about 15 minutes or until potatoes are done; stir occasionally. 6 servings.

High-Society Chicken 'n Noodles

¼ cup minced onion
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1 can (1¼ cups) condensed cream of chicken soup
½ cup milk
1½ cups unsalted cooked noodles, drained (2 to 3-ounces uncooked)
1 cup cubed cooked chicken
½ cup coarsely chopped toasted almonds
2 tablespoons diced pimiento

Brown onion lightly in butter in a deep skillet; blend in soup and milk. Stir in cooked noodles and other ingredients. Heat 20 minutes or until piping hot. Makes 4 generous servings. Garnish top of noodles with a few whole toasted almonds if desired.

SOUP SCOOPS

Spaghetti Goes Mexican: Mexican-Style Spaghetti has international appeal. All it takes is 1 can spaghetti (in tomato sauce) and 1 can chili con carne. A little green pepper puts a touch of crispness in it. Cut the pepper into thin strips; brown them in a little butter in a skillet; then stir in the spaghetti and chili. Scatter a few thin slices of cheese over the top. Slip the skillet into the oven (400° F.) to finish heating. It's a find for a quick supper on the night you feel "slower than molasses in January". Contrast it with salad of sliced orange and banana on lettuce.

Marine Recruiter In Clanton Each Thursday

Montgomery, Ala.—Master Sergeant Jotn T. Collier NCO in charge of the Marine Corps Recruiting Station here announced plans today for enlisting a squad of Marines from the Montgomery area, to be known as the "Central Alabama Squad."

Young men for the "Central Alabama Squad" will be accepted from now until 25 January. This plan will allow young men to join the Marines with their friends and remain together throughout basic training, Sergeant Collier said.

The Marine Corps offers many opportunities to those who meet the enlistment qualifications according to Sergeant Collier.

Sergeant Collier stated that young men interested in becoming members of the "Central Alabama Squad" should contact him at the Post Office Building in Clanton from 9:30 a.m. until 4 p.m. every Thursday.

Bright Changeover

The annual change of license plates is a real change in Minnesota this year, as illustrated by Gov. Orville Freeman. He holds the new reflectorized plate being used in Minnesota for the first time in 1956. These plates, previously used in four other states, are visible to drivers at night up to 1500 feet away under normal highway headlights and more than a block away in town. They help reduce rear-end collisions at night and aid in law enforcement. Longer-lasting than standard plates, these will serve for two years with a change of date tabs in 1957.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

PNEUMONIA

Pneumonia is considered a year-round disease; yet, because in many cases it seems to follow a common cold, more attention seems to be directed against the disease during the winter months. Its early signs often resemble those of a cold. Caused by a germ, the disease usually descends quickly on the victim and may develop while he is working or sleeping.

It is estimated that more than 90 per cent of cases of inflammation of the lungs is due to the bacterium called the pneumococcus. Other pneumonias stem from the streptococcus or strapydlococcus. Still another type is caused by a virus. The bacteria, of whatever sort, reach the lung by way of the nose and throat. They are passed from one person to aonther by direct contact, as in kissing, or by the often invisible droplets emitted in the sneezing or coughing of another person. Once the germs have reached the nose or throat, invasion of the lungs develops when the resistance is lowered by undue exposure, fatigue or the common cold. The germs pass into the bronchial tubes and air cells of the lung where they affect the lung substance itself and cause inflammation.

Exposure to bad weather, wet feet, chilling, dampness and alcoholism are contributing factors. Typical symptoms are shaking chill, rise of temperature, a sharp "catching" pain on breathing or coughing, an the expectoration of rusty, "prune juice" appearing, or blood-tinged mucus. The last is often absent in children and occasionally in adults.

Pneumonia once was fatal in approximately one of every three cases, either directly or by way of its complications. With the advent of the sulfonamide drugs and penicillin, however, the great mortality of pneumonia has been reduced to about seven per cent.

Despite these advances, however, the threat of pneumonia should not be minimized. A physician should be consulted at once and his directions for care of the patient carefully followed to reduce the hazards of this infection.

Seen Monk's "Better Half"?

Monk McCarthy's latest creation has the town talking again. You can see it parked in front of Monk's auto repair shop on Maple.

Remember last year Monk cut two cars in half, and put their front ends together? You couldn't tell if the thing was coming or going. Sure attracted attention.

Now Monk's taken Ed Morgan's old sedan and completely restored one half of it. One side is as good as new, the other looks like—well, Ed's old car. "Sort of a before-and-after demonstration," Monk told me, "shows folks the kind of work I do."

From where I sit, some of Monk's ideas may look a little wild sometimes . . . but I wouldn't want to tell him how to run his business any more than I'd like him to tell me what beverage to enjoy. He always keeps a hot pot of tea in his garage—I'd rather have a cold glass of beer—but respect for each other's opinion is "auto"-matic with us both.

EXTRA GOOD
because it's NATURAL

CHILEAN NITRATE—WORLD'S ONLY NATURAL NITRATE

For small grains, corn, cotton, tobacco, pasture, fruits, vegetables—Chilean Soda top-dressings and side-dressings assure lowest costs and extra profitable results. Here's why:

Natural Chilean is extra good for soil and crop because it's natural—the only natural combination of nitrate nitrogen, sodium and minor elements. Chilean Soda is the ideal way to feed a hungry crop with life-giving plant food.

Natural Chilean works fast. The nitrogen content is 100 per cent nitrate nitrogen—ready to work immediately after application. This assures maximum yields and quality, protection against losses and extra profits per acre.

Natural Chilean boosts yields. 100 pounds produce as much or more crop than 100 pounds of any other nitrogen fertilizer—regardless of nitrogen content. Also, every ton contains sodium equivalent to 650 pounds of commercial limestone in acid-destroying efficiency.

Natural Chilean fights acidity. Because it corrects acidity and improves potash, phosphate and minor element deficiences, Chilean Soda is one of the most efficient and economical nitrogen fertilizers for top-dressing and side-dressing. Ask for Bulldog Soda. Look for the Bulldog on the bag.

Mulberry Baptist Church—

The Ordinance of the Lord's Supper was celebrated at the Morning Worship Service at Mulberry Baptist Church last Sunday. It was good to have several visitors at the Morning Worship Service. J. B. Mizzles preached at the Evening Worship Service as a part of the Howard College Day Observance by our church.

All members of the Mable Woodward Circle will want to remember the meeting tomorrow night, Friday, at 7:00. The meeting will be in the home of Mrs. Molly Smith. The Ruth Ford Circle met on Tuesday night with Mrs. Fannie Lee Cummings.

The Youth Fellowship will meet at the church immediately after the Evening Worship Service Sunday Night. All Young People and Intermediates are invited to attend.

Next week will be W.M.S. Focus Week in our church. The W.M.U. will have charge of the Prayer Meeting on Wednesday night. Prayer Meeting will be at 6:30.

The Laura Williams Circle will meet with Mrs. Mary Grooms on Tuesday, January 17, at 6:30 p.m

We were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. Odell Higgins and sons of Mt. Carmel Community in our service at Mulberry Sunday morning.

Also, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Manning of Marbury were Sunday morning visitors in our service.

Family night was observed at Mulberry last Wednesday night. There was a fine crowd present in the brotherhood and W.M.U. and a small group of young people. Mrs. Lewis McGee was elected to fill Mrs. J. C. White's place as chairman until Mrs. White is able to walk again.

This community extends its heartfelt sympathy to the Lewis McGee family over the loss of Lewis' brother, Cleve. Also to Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Ratliff, we extend our sympathy over the loss of their son-in-law, Cleve McGee.

There are still some cases of mumps in our community. Walter Lecroy and daughter, Cathy and Nancy Carter are down with the mumps.

Mrs. C. D. (Chris) Wells had an appendectomy last week at the Chilton County Hospital. She is doing nicely, we are glad to report.

We are happy to report that Ellis Lecroy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lecroy, is doing nicely at his home. He was dismissed from the hospital on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lecroy want to take this opportunity to thank everyone for the kindness to Ellis while he has been ill. Also for the nice gifts and cards and everyone who visited him. Ellis says "Thank you" and wants you to visit him in his home.

Mr. and Mrs. James Wright and son had the misfortune to have a car wreck last Saturday. Mrs. Wright was seriously injured and is in the Chilton County Hospital. Mr. Wright and son were hurt slightly.

Mrs. Maud Deshazo is resting some better at present than she has been for several days.

There were a number of our people who attended the funeral of Doss Billingsley at Highland Baptist Church Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Wells visited the Andrew Jones family in Birmingham this past week-end. Mrs. Wells attended services at the Hillview Baptist Church.

Mrs. Emma Manning visited Ava Tucker and Mrs. C. H. Oliver in Birmingham for the week-end. Mrs. Manning attended services at Hunter Street Baptist Church.

The W. T. Tuckers' Sunday afternoon guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hubbard and children of Brewsville.

Mr. Jim Lecroy of Robertsdale was the Saturday night guest of Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Lecroy. He and Mrs. Lecroy were here because Mrs. Lecroys mother, Mrs. Mize is in the hospital in Clanton.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinton White and girls visited in our community Sunday afternoon.

VOL. XXXIV CLANTON, ALABAMA THURSDAY, JAN. 19, 1956 NUMBER 3

—By Ben

We got a sign in our front window which says "No Hunting." Well, a friend came in this morning and informed us that he didn't think there was any game in here big enough to hunt. But he got the wrong idea. We put the sign there to advertise that we have "No Hunting" signs for sale, and not as a warning against hunting within our salt mine. Because just between you and me that fellow was right, there ain't anything in here worth hunting unless its trouble—boy, we got loads if that.

Another old-timer in the business world of Clanton passed on this week in the death of J. B. Tiffin. Mr. Tiffin added much to the progress of Clanton and Chilton county and our deepest sympathy goes to his children and grand children.

But those who attend the basketball game at Jemison High School Saturday night have a whale of a time. The game is to be held for the March of Dimes and promises to be a scream. The men will wear womens clothes and the ladies will wear men's attire. Of course, there will be plenty of food for everybody so Mrs. Naish says to leave off your supper and enjoy yourself while eating at the basketball game. She says you'll help yourself and help others.

Carl Goodwin died suddenly Tuesday night. The Goodwins have only been in Clanton for a short while but have made many friends during their stay here. He was employed at Carbon Copies. Our sincere sympathy is extended to the bereaved family.

The entire community was striving to convert old Uncle Ab.

One day, a long-time friend tackled the problem. "Ab," he questioned, "don't it soften your heart to know the Lord loves you?"

Uncle Ab snorted. "Do you aim to tell me," he scoffed, "that the Lord loves me when he ain't never knowed me?"

The old friend thought a moment, then said sadly, "Ab, it's a heap easier for the Lord to love you without knowin' you than if he knowed you like I do."

One thing about a small town, the people are all so well rumored.

A line to remember: As Henry Ford once said: "Don't Find Fault —Find a Remedy."

January 22-28 Is National VFW Week

As a kick-off to National VFW Week, January 22-28, in the state of Alabama there will be a breakfast, banquet and dance in honor of Timothy J. Murphy, Commander-in-Chief, at Montgomery Monday, January 23rd. Murphy will arrive there Sunday night and will be present at the affairs.

Reservations for the banquet and dance to be held at the Whitley Hotel must be received there by tonight.

During National Veterans of Foreign Wars Week special stress will be put on by every Post in the state to increase its membership. The Clanton Post, 3193, was first in Alabama to meet its membership quota and was awarded two tickets to this banquet and dance.

A Capella Choir Will Perform At Clanton First Baptist Church

Howard College Choir Presents Concert Saturday

The Howard College A Capella Choir, now in its seventh annual concert tour, will appear at First Baptist Church, Clanton, on Saturday, January 21, at 7:30 p.m., Dr. J. Gilbert Hutchinson, pastor, has announced.

This choir of 50 voces has gained a south-wide reputation under its director, George W. Koski, chairman of the Department of Music at Howard College, Birmingham. In addition to its concert tours, this musical organization has made appearances at the National Southern Baptist Convention, regional Music Educator's National Conference, with the Birmingham Symphony and radio and television appearances.

Mr. Koski has recently returned to Howard College after a leave of absence for doctoral study in New York, at which time he studied conduction at New York City Center under Leon Barzin, musical director for the National Orchestral Association.

One of the highlights of the program will be a first Alabama performance of the Bach motet for double chorus, "Sing Ye To The Lord." A wide variety of music is sung by the group—from 16th century to contemporary times. Works of Bach, Des Prez, Franck, Leisring, Howells, and Christiansen are featured, as well as folk songs and spirituals.

The public is cordially invited to attend without admission charge.

Patricia Huddleston In Concert During Birmingham Art Festival

Chilton County will again be well represented in Birmingham's fabulous Festival of Arts when Patricia Huddleston will be presented in concert at the Clark Memorial Theater at 8:00 p.m., January 30th. Here a year later, Patricia holds two very coveted titles, the National Jeanie and Miss Alabama, and has through the resulting appearances and performances won national approval and affection.

Just recently a distinguished music critic was heard to remark, "Ten years from now Pat Huddleston will be one of the truly great singers." The Shades Valley Music Club of Birmingham takes pride in sponsoring this promising young artist and cordially invites all Pat's Chilton County friends to this event and to the reception and coffee immediately following the program.

It will be of interest to local readers that Mrs. Raymond P. Mims, formerly of Clanton and Pat's voice teacher prior to college, is the president of the Shades Valley Music Club and the membership includes Mrs. David R. Rich (nee Loris Calloway) and Mrs. W. A. Willis, Jr.

Veterans of Foreign Wars Rightly Proud Of National Orphans And Widows Hom

Of all the veteran organizations, the Veterans of Foreign Wars alone owns and maintains a national home for the orphans and widows of its members, Commander Lewis Johnson of V.F.W. Post No. 3193 said today. The period January 22-28 is being observed as National V.F W. Week.

Located near Eaton Rapids, Mich. the V.F.W. National Home is one of the most unique philanthropic projects in the nation.

"In no sense is it an ordinary 'institution'" Commander Johnson explained. "Rather, it is a progressive colony of happy, eager children who live normal lives in an ideal home environment. It is an interesting combination of village and farm, occupying 640 acres of beautiful, rich rolling land."

After a recent tour of the home Harold G. Stagg, editor of Army Times, had this to say:

"We hadn't been at the Eaton Rapids home long before we began nourishing a guilty complex. Compared to the style in which the V.F W. kids live, we decided that our own teen-agers were almost in the 'underprivileged' class.

"The V.F.W. National Home is a far cry from the institutional type of home or orphanage. It is a plush country club community of individual homes ranging in cost from about $30,000 to a $70,000 rambler built recently by the Department of Indiana.

"Under the uncrowded conditions at Eaton Rapids, none of the homes is occupied by more than one 'mother' and six children. Strangely enough, V.F.W. officials refer to the houses as 'cottages'. They are more like mansions.

"To say that we were flabbergasted after going through a few of the homes is something of an understatement. Every home has a big, beautiful television set. The furnishings are better than those in the average GI's house. There are lovely sun porches, big and medium sized kitchens, roomy bedrooms some of which will take three twin sized beds and each of which has seperate closet for each child.

"The living rooms range in size from medium to massive, they have cozy fireplaces, colorful curtains and draperies—not only all the comfort of home, but most of the luxuries of country club living.

"If we were a membership salesman for the Veterans of Foreign Wars, working on a commission basis, we'd get rich quick selling them about $100,000 worth of family security for a paid-up $5 membership. It's the best insurance deal we ever heard of.

"As a matter of pleasant fact a $5 member of the V.F.W. doesn't have to die or become disabled to get the benefits offered by the home to his family. If his wife should die and leave him unble to support his children, they become eligible for admission to the Eaton Rapids 'country club'.

"It was generally conceded during our tour of the V.F.W. community that no more than one out of every 10,000 veterans today is in a position inancfially to provide for his children as well as they are provided for at Eaton Rapids.

"It cost about $2,500 a year for every child at Eaton Rapids. If a mother and three children make their home there for ten years, that figures out to $10,000 a year, or $100,000 for the ten years All that and heaven, too—for a $5 membership."

Commander Johnson explained that all the facilities of the fine public school system in Eaton Rapids are available to children of the home, who are taken to and from school in busses. There they get normal classroom courses in agriculture, manual arts, home economics, science, commerce, music, physical training, athletics, etc.

The children are also taught s

GOOD BUSINESS SEEN—

It looks like business will continue good through 1956. Although true that our economy is experiencing weak spots here and there a high level business activity is expected to last throughout the year.

Building this year will continue to boom and this means, of course, a wide distribution of capital to wholesale dealers and retail merchants as well.

Retail buying in all fields we predict will increase but the farmer is being pinched by increased costs but lower prices. Costs have not come down in proportion to prices paid for farm products. The farmer will feel the worst squeeze.

POLIO PRECAUTIONS—

The inoculations at the Chilton County schools for polio this week brings to mind some worthwhile safeguards that have been published in the fight against polio.

1. Children should not mix too freely with new companions and groups of companions but stick to the usual ones.
2. Children should be carefully watched at mealtime, compelled to wash their hands before eating and be given food in clean tableware.
3. Children should not be allowed to over-exert themselves continuously, so that complete fatigue overtakes them and should not be subjected to sudden chilling when they are over-heated or thoroughly fatigued.
4. Long and hard trips should be avoided by children in the polio season.

THE PRINTING PRESS VOICE OF ALL PROGRESS AND WORLD THOUGHT

Much hath printing wrought for thy well-being and for all mankind. To movable types thou art debtor for thy knowledge, thy liberty, and thy prosperity or thy hope of prosperity. The foremost human benefactor is John Gutenberg. Four centuries ago his printing types first pierced that darkness of superstition and dense ignorance which prevailed through the many cycles of centuries. Those types of Gutenberg are now as ever the pillars of fire leading us toward a universal civilization that is sure to come when mental and moral darkness shall be no more.

LET'S NOT NEGLECT OUR CIVIC DUTY—

We noticed the other day as we were driving past a spot out from the City proper a man throwing some trash in a ditch beside the roadway.

There is no such ordinance or city permit that says anyone can throw trash in that particular spot or any other spot around our city except the trash dump, which is EAST of town. Our city is clean and is kept clean by the cooperation between city dweller and the city street and sanitation departments. We cannot expect to have a clean city, to be proud of, if we litter it with our trash that we could and should have taken to the city dump. The fellow we saw was driving a truck, so we're positive there was nothing stopping him from driving on to the dump with his garbage.

It's unsanitary and above all uncalled for. It is a breach of the trust put unto you by your neighbor. It is the surest indication in the world that you don't give a hang about how your city looks and that you do your share to keep it from looking good and attractive.

It's obvious that you don't give a hang, but we do give a hang and there are any number of other folks who feel the same way. In fact, we know a lot of folks who would tell you right quick, were they to see you depositing trash in the wrong place, that you were doing unjustly.

If you don't want to help us keep our city clean, at least don't help us to litter it up either . . . just don't do anything, huh.

The Workhorse In Printing: the Linotype ---

Do You Ever Wonder How The Paper You Are Reading Is Made

(Article II in a series of V Articles)

Part II—

Since we spoke last week of copy and its main sources, this week let's look at what happens to copy after it is received at the News office.

When an article comes in from an outside source it is looked over by the editor or an associate. If the copy is in proper order, typed, double spaced and on good paper it is sent on to the composing room or Linotype machine. If, however, the copy is in a too bad condition for the Linotype operator to set it up rapidly it has to be re-typed and possibly re-written. And while we're on the subject, many articles have to be added to or taken from or rearranged. This is usually done by the editor or editors and is a big undertaking each week. And re-typing needed is usually done by the secretary of the paper and 90 per cent of the copy each week has to be re-typed. This gives you some idea of just the first part of getting a newspaper ready to be printed. The secretary has to re-type practically all the paper's contents, which is usually a three day job for one good typist. Sometimes, she too has to work overtime to get her work finished, not to mention her other duties as secretary. This three day assignment is, what you might call sideline work from her regular secretarial duties.

One of the Biggest Workers In the Plant is the Linotype

After copy leaves the secretary and the editors it is deposited on a table by the Linotype machine, to be set into type. The Linotype is a very complicated looking machine and is just as complicated mechanically, as it looks.

Every character, or letter in the paper is a separate piece of material. In other words, the seven columns o ftype on the front page is set up on the Linotype machine. Each column is 20 inches long and each line in the column in 12 ems or 2 inches wide (if you'll look at the front page you can follow us.) Every 12 em line is composed of words, naturally and each letter of each word is on a separate little die, called Matrices (mats for short). These mats fall from a magazine which holds all the alphabet, capitals and lower case, and all the numbers and different other figures which holds all the alphabet, capi- and marks.

A keyboard, something like that of a typewriter, only more complex (it has 90 characters and figures) is situated in the front of the Linotype machine. The operator hits the key he wants and that mat falls from the magazine into the assembly, as it is called, because it is where the mats are assembled before being cast. Spacebands, which are used for the spaces between words fall from directly above the assembly and are released much the same way that a typewriter spacer operates.

When a line (12 ems is full then the operator sends it in to cast. This is done by pushing down on a lever at his right hand which sends the assembly up and across and into casting position

The mats and pacebands go down into a vice which holds them secure and during the process the machine squirts hot metal onto the face of these mats through a hot hold. This mold is also 12 ems wide and when the machine completes the cycle of revolution a "slug" as it is called, 12 ems wide falls out on a typestick beside the left hand of the operator. Of course, during the operation of the machine, after the operator has "sent the line in" he can go on to the next line and be setting it while the line he has previously set is going through the machine.

Let it be noted here of the long hours put in on the machine, by these figures: A good operator can set a column and a half of type an hour. That's about 30 inches altogether. Each line, remember is 12 ems wide (that's two inches) and approximately 1 em thick. After looking at the type in the paper you can get some idea of how many hours have to be spent before the type is even ready for the paper.

The mats can be used again, as you've probably wondered. After they are cast against the hot metal they go up behind the machine and onto a distributor which "distributes" them into their proper channels. In this way the mats can be used over and over again until they are worn out. (Their cost, per mat is about 25c).

After the typestick on the Linotype machine is full of type, the operator "dumps" it on to a metal tray called a "galley." These galleys hold exactly 1 column or 20 inches of type. When the type is deposited on these galleys, it has to be brushed and cleaned and then proofed to be read for errors. By proofing, we mean this: A galley is taken and cleaned up and inked with a "brayer" on the proof press. The press is a small but convenient piece of equipment situated close to the Linotype machine and the "type rack" where all the galleys are kept. The "brayer" is a rubber roller with ink on it that is run up and down the face of the type. In turn, a piece of clean paper is placed over the face of the type and a heavy steel drum is brought back over the galley.

In this way "galley proofs" are pulled in order for the proofreaders to make corrections and check the galley with the original copy. This is by no means a way of printing, but a method of getting ready to print.

Now the type goes back to the type rack until needed by the make-up department and the proofsheets go to the proofreader (which is usually anyone in calling distance or most of the time the secretary.) In event that the proofs are ready during the night, then the men on the make-up end of the paper usually read their own proofs. As we said before, chief cook and bottle washer.

(Next week's article will concern the make-up of printing your Chilton County News. It is the last phase in the process before going to press with the paper. Next week will be article three in the series.)

ALABAMA HIGHLIGHTS . . .

Alabamians deposited an estimated all-time record of "about $450,000,000" in Alabama banks during 1955, according to State Commerce Director L. W. Gentry.

This reflects the banner year which the State enjoyed all last year in its industrial development, wth big new payrolls, and a general rising econome stiandard, Gentry said. He pointed out also that 1955 was "one of the best orop years" on record for most farmers.

During the past three weeks, Gov. James E. Folsom, and the Chamber of Commerce, have both independently nnounaced that Alabama enjoyed an almost $400,000,000 industrial expnasioonetaoinshrdlu - industrial expansion during 1955.

Gentry said that "in 1954, deposits in State banks amounted to $396,634,000, and when our report for 1955 is complete, it will probably show that last year's deposits totalled about $450,000,000.

Before his appointment as State Commerce Director, Gentry was Cashier at The Citizen's Bank, Moulton.

Five New Banks—

Residents of many rural communities are repeatedly asking that banks be established in their areas, and last year new banks were given State charters, and are now operating, in Alabama.

These are located at Evergreen, Geneva, Greenville, Mobile and Tuscaloosa.

This record compares with only two new banks opened last year in Georgia, two in Tennessee, and only one new bank in Mississippi.

Already in 1956, Gentry pointed out, another new bank is scheduled to be opened in Wetumpka on January 23. The Commerce Director alos disclosed that the probable chartering "of two or three more banks in the State are in the talking stage." He did not identify the localities concerned.

Boom For Stat Docks—

An official report from the State Docks Board at Mobile shows that the giant shipping facility is booming. State Docks Director Ward MacFarland, in a telephoned report to the State Capitol this week, said "The Docks made a net profit of $105,660.87 last November—the latest official figures available." He said this compared with a net profit of $47,590.59 reported for November 1954. "In other words", said MacFarland, "November 1955's net profit is up by 122.2 2per cent over the same month in the previous year."

Official records also show that the Docks netted $120,630.59 in October 1955, compared with a net profit of $42,150.95 in October 1954—or a net profit increase of 286 per cent.

Other Developments—

From Pike County on January 8 came news of the first industrial developments in the State announced this New Year . . . Troy Textiles, Inc., will enlarge their Troy plant from 24,000 sq. ft. to 60,000 sq. ft.

Four days later, January 12, came news of the first multimillion dollar major industrial expansion of the year . . . This was the announcement by the Reynolds Metal Company of a $140,000,000 expansion of their Muscle Shoals area plant. . . This will be in addition to the new $25,000,000 plant the company already ha sunder construction at nearby Listerhill . . .

In Dothan, the City Commission has praised the State Hifhway Department for its decision to build "an improved highway around the City of Dothan, to be known as the 'Ross Clark Trffaic Circle'" . . The late Ross Clark of Elba, who died last year was the husband of Governor Folsom's sister, Thelma. . .

At Atmore's State Prison Farm, a small school has been started for inmates on a voluntary basis . . . Phil Sokel, of The Atmore Advance, reports that "about 40" are attending the classes, and "for most of them it's the first school of their lives." . . .

The Sheffield Standard-Times has quoted Dr. Frank J. Soday, Vice-President of the Chemistrand Corp., Decatur, as saying: "It will be necessary for Southern schools to produce 36,000 technical and engineering graduates each year by 1965 to take care of the minimum demands of industry in the area."

Dr. Soday said that the South's proportion of the nation's manufacturing jumped from nine per cent in 1900, to nearly 25 per cent in 1955. By 1965, he predicted, the South will have 30 per cent of the nation's manufacturing facilities.

I would like to let the public have a chance to study this petition. It is for a uniform pension by right, no strings attached. It is a big improvement over our present Social Security. It is simple cooperative insurance on a nation wide scale Would like more help in circulating the petitions.

Yours Respectfully,

PETITION FOR $100-A-MONTH RETIREMENT INCOME AND FOR OTHER WELFARE LEGISLATION

To Members of Congress of the United States:

We the undersigned petition for the enactment of legislation which will promote the general welfare of the people, to-wit:

A law or laws which will provide retirement income of at least $100 a month, as of right, to all persons 60 years of age and over, regardless of whether or not such persons may own a home or other property.

And in addition we ask that such senior citizens be provided a right to have free medical and hospital care. We suggest that free health service be dispensed through public hospitals or other institutions, similarly as free education is now dispensed through the public schools.

We also recognize the fact that due to rising unemployment thruout the nation, persons over 45 years of age are discriminated against in the labor market, and we believe these older workers should be made eligible for retirement benefits when they are refused employment by reason of age or physical disability.

As a means of financing this retirement program we suggest liquidation of the 12 Federal Reserve Banks, as provided in Sec. 7, Par. 2 of the Federal Reserve Act, and application of their assets toward setting up a revolving retirement fund which would suffice to defray costs of the program for at least two years, and until other financing arrangements could be devised.

things we See and Hear

By "TUCK"

Trouble with some folks is, they don't credit anybody else with havin' any sense.

The only way to gain a better place in the world is to better yourself, and the place you're in.

Mr. Howard Boockholdt spoke to the Civitan Club of Clanton last Thursday night on our educational problems and some solutions to a few of them. He made his talk 'educational' so to speak and enlightened the club on a few of the complications facing higher education today. Very interesting talk, now we're gonna see if he won't write a series of articles for the paper so more of you will understand the teachers and educators side of the different debates. Might prove interesting.

John Ed Bates informed us the other night that we ran his son's name in the paper as "Malcolm Maynard" or something like that and we plead "not guilty." The youngsters real name is John David Bates and he's in good health. We didn't call him Malcolm at all, it was Mark Oliver we called him and that's not a bad name a'tall Maynard's not either . . . ask our Probate Judge. As for Malcolm, we don't know where that came from, because we don't know anyone by that particular monicker, but it's a nice name.

Anyhow, John David is the youngun's name, and he's a whole lot prettier than his old man.

When he's a boy, he wears blue or brown; when he's a young man, he wears brown or gray; and when an older man, he wears grey and pretty much what the little woman says. This just proves that we men wear the pants in the family, but the women just tell us when and how to wear them.

We should get the dope straight from the source, but we haven't the time right now. We think Marion Easterling deserves some recognition for the length of time he has had his gospel program on the air at the radio station itself. . . the past seven or eight years now and he claims he has the oldest program of its kind in the land and who are we to argue with him. Marion's program does a great deal of good over the County sometimes and he keeps folks pretty well posted on many matters of interest. If his program is favorable in the sight of the Lord, we hope he can be on for another seven or eight successful years and we wish him well.

Ole Reedie Taylor is looking to be a father at this writing, and we hope he gets what he deserves. Is that all right Reedie. We just about imagine it's a little girl they have in mind, because Brucie boy is just about all his old man can hand'e anyhow. A little girl would be swell Reedie, and we feel pretty certain of what Jean wants (she wants to get it over with). Yeh, we don't care what we get as long as it'll come on and get here and be O. K.

Alabama Is Said To Be America's Newest Oil Promising Frontier

By James A. Clark

Somewhere back in the halycon days of the minstrel men there was a tune called "Alabama Bound." It had a shuffle and a swing.

Today, if you listen, you hear men chanting "Alabama Bound" from the tall derricks of East Texas to the ocean of tank batteries of the Permian Basin and from the drilling barges of Louisiana to the sand fractured formations of Oklahoma. It is being echoed from California up to Canada back, down to the Dakotas and across to Illinois and Pennsylvania. It is the chant of the 1956 oil man.

Today the almost untouched oil potential of the earth, of Dixie is as much in the conversation and interest of oil men as the Williston Basin was a few years ago, or the great tidelands prospects, or the migration to Conroe, or the rush to West Texas, or the call to Kansas or Illinois was back in the days gone by.

In short, Alabama is today's new oil frontier. Tomorrow, unless the guesses, backed up by millions of dollars in leases and deep holes, are wrong, Alabama soon will be an important oil and gas state. The fever is rising. And it is not confined to the oil men. The people of Alabama have it. The landowners, the merchants, the taxpayers, and the politicians. They feel the coming of the great rush. They feel that they are in for the kind of prosperity and progress that petroleum always brings wherever it strikes. And it fits into their dreams for tremendous industrialization like no no other element could possibly fit. It is the key to Alabama's new dawn of progress that could enable the state to become the south's new empire state.

The thing that has oil men Alabama bound today is a discovery in an area called Citronelle (named after a town which is named after Barbados water), where the Zack Brooks drilling company brought in the first lower Cretaceous production in the state's history. The last reports had this well, a Gulf farmout, making 400 barrels of oil a day through small chokes as a dual completion. That is, it has two good oil sands and is producing from both simultaneously.

Oil isn't new to Alabama. A pioneer named Jonathon Watson started the first exploration at the close of the civil war in 1865. Some 44 years later (a few days before Christmas in 1909) gas was discovered in Marion County in the northwestern part of the state as the first commercial petroleum production. But it was in February of 1944 (still another 35 years) before Alabama had its first commercial oil well. That was at Gilbertown in Choctaw County in the extreme western part of the state. Gilbertown has produced about six million barrels of oil since 1954, but is rapidly petering out.

But it took Humble Oil & Refining Company's discovery at Pollard in Escambia County to bring the state its first real boom field. Pollard is really not much of a field as oil men see fields athough it has yielded, since 1952, about 2.5 million barrels of oil. The oil is low gravity and has an asphalt base and the field has still not penetrated below the Tuscaloosa sand.

But Citronelle changes all of that. Citronelle opens vast new horizons. It makes deep drilling an attraction in the state. And the risk today is twice as good as ever before because if oil is missed in the Tuscaloosa, it might be found in the Glenrose which is comparable to the Rodessa and Pettet sands in East Texas). Furthermore, in Alabama those new deep formations carry good sands whereas in Texas they are limestone far more difficult to produce.

Major oil company geologists seem to be trying to subdue their own excitement about Alabama. They are a normally pessimistic lot because sometimes they have been wrong. But today they are willing to say that at least 60 per cent of the state is potential oil and gas country. And they won't rule out altogether the other 40 per cent of the state.

Of the state's 51,000 square miles, they say, 29,500 square miles is believed to be capable of holding scattered oil fields. Of this, 22,000 square miles are in the southern costal counties of the state. The remaining 7500 square miles of potential oil country lies northwest of Birmingham. This 7500 square miles holds the same type of older, harder rock formations from which oil and gas has been produced in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Oklahoma. It is this area where the greatest hope is held out for natural gas. And, unfortunately, the area is nearest to Alabama's great industrial potential in the Muscle Shoals country. It is also nearest the great eastern gas markets. Good gas discoveries there would give Alabama a tremendous economic advantage over Texas, Louisiana, or even Mississippi gas. If large volumes of gas are found in Alabama they will bring big prices unless federal utility controls should hamstring producers as they now threaten to do.

The oil companies have already expressed their faith in Alabama's petroleum future. Of the state's 33,025,760 acres, a total of 6,300,000 acres were under oil and gas lease on November 1. A half million of those acres have been leased since Citronelle, which came in in the late summer.

Alabamians are still a bit awed over all of this and they will become more so as the next year rolls around. But for years Dr. Walter B. Jones, the Alabama State Geologist, has been saying that all of this would happen. In fact, he has been saying out loud exactly what the major oil company geogologists are saying almost secretly to their directors. Even when a quarter of a million dollar widcat went down 15,659 feet without a smell of oil in Washington County and two 11,000-foot dry holes were drilled in the waters of Mobile Bay, Dr. Jones kept up his chant of hope while some of the state's citizens and a few petroleum geologists and their oil companies momentarily wavered. Citronelle proved him right and today he is a popular hero.

Alabamians, with $1 million a year from oil and gas state revenues look longingly at Mississippi's $6.3 million a year, or Louisiana's $68.3 million, or at Texas where 36 per cent of all tax revenues collected by the state government come from oil and gas.

Taxes, however, are a small part of Alabama's hopes from an expanded oil and gas industry. There would be far more money in the pockets of the landowners and royalty owners of the state. Good oil or gas production would bring new refineries and chemical plants to the state. Recently Alabama lost a chance to get a big refinery and a big chemical plant because it had no raw petroleum materials. Petroleum would attract other industries, too, as it has done in Texas, Louisiana, and Mississippi.

Oil has never failed to bring prosperity. The bright cities of East Texas where bedraggled farms once stood, the glistening little communities of the Louisiana bayou country, and the fast moving capital city of Jackson in Mississippi all attest to this fact.

Yet Alabama is far ahead of where these areas stood when they were first blessed with oil and gas Alabama is already a solidly prosperous state. It is rich in minerals and water. Its fine rivers and streams and the TVA provide an abundance of prescious industrial water.

Alabama has coal and hydroelectric power and it has iron ore and aluminum and a dozen other natural assets upon which it can build. Oil and gas will simply assure its becoming the empire state of the south. It is the one missing element needed for unlimited progress

Already the state officials are thinking about Alabama's great industrial future. A state industrial board is planning big things for Alabama. And oil is an important part of that planning.

This board is working with the interim Committee and other groups to forward the promise that lies in Citronelle. There will be bonuses for oil discoveries and incentives for oil prospectors, particularly the small independents, to make headway in Alabama. The state board is composed of representatives from each of the 67 counties in the state so it is a statewide movement and not confined to any localized area.

The Interim Committee, headed by Senator Neil Metcalfe, has already seen fit to urge Alabama's two U. S. Senators, John Sparkman and Lister Hill, to vote for the passage of the Harris Bill which would free natural gas producers from federal control and lift a serious threat that hangs over oil producers. The committee does not want Alabama's first great oil boom nipped in the bud. Alabama's lawmakers and the Folsom administration want to be ready for the big push when it starts.

Soil Conservation Put To Use Throughout Chilton County

Two thousand eight hundred and fifty feet of parallel terraces were run on the farm of J. G. Jones, Clanton, Ala., last week that will empty the water in two and one-half acre Bahia meadow and border strip.

Sixty-eight hundred feet of terrace was run on the J. G. Heid farm near Thorsby, and the excess water will empty on eight hundred and sixty-one feet of W-outlet that also will be needed to Bahia grass

Sixteen hundred feet of terrace was run on J. W. Bradberry's farm that will drain in an established Kentucky 31 Fescue meadow that is seven hundred twenty-six feet long

Toy Mullins is constructing and shaping a V-type outlet six hundred feet long that will be sodded to Bahia grass.

Curtis Collins, of Thorsby, and R C. Williams of Clanton, are preparing to plant Coastal Bermuda grass as soon as weather will permit

Joe Gibson of Verbena, and J S. Thornton of Clanton have revised their soil and water conservation farm plan for more sod crops and the minimum of row crop land.

Horace Mims of the Temple Community has just completed a and Water Conservation Farm Plan that calls for the establishment of three Bahia grass outlets and one W-type outlet, also to be sodded to Bahia grass. In addition, the steep, rocky land north of the house will be sodded to Coastal Bermuda. Parallel terraces will be built on 13 acres and conventional terraces on 5 additional acres.

A Tale of Two "Houses"

ONCE UPON A TIME there was a house, on a farm. The man who lived there knew that his farm was a good one; but he dreamed of making it better. Trouble was, he needed extra cash.

That's where the other "house" enters the story: The bank. The farmer stopped in, talked over his plans; applied for — and got — low-cost bank credit to implement them. Now he has the farm of his dreams.

"Once upon a time"? This story is re-enacted often in our community. Our bank helps many credit-worthy local folks finance farm needs. When you need a loan, see us!

Tragedy has struck twice in the home of Mr. W. J. Fluker in the last few days. Mr. Fluker lost a brother and then his son, Leland Thompson Fluker, 56, a long time employee of the Selma Steam Laundry died early Wednesday, January 11, 1956 in a Selma hospital. Mr. Fluker had been ill for some time past. Born in Gastonburg, Ala. on December 28, 1900, Mr. Fluker was the son of W. J. Fluker of Stanton, and the late Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Fluker. Moving to Selma 27 years ago, Mr. Fluker had been plant superintendent at the laundry over a long period, almost his entire business life having been spent with that firm. Mr. Fluker was well known in local radio circles as Selma's outstanding ameteur radio operator. An early convert to radio, Mr. Fluker came from a family of several members who were adept in the Morse code. Mr. Fluker built his own radio set in the back yard of his North Broad St. home, where for the past 16 years he had spent between 20 to 30 hours a week at his set. In addition he had three portable units that could be set up in his car to keep him in the forefront of amateur radio operators in Alabama. He was for some time past net chief of Hams in Alabama. In addition to having charge of the Military Amateur Radio system twice a week, he was called in on the Transcontinental Phone News two nights each week as long as he was active in the enjoyment of his hobby. A member of First Presbyterian Church, Mr. Fluker had numbers of friends in all walks of life. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Ethel Virginia Carter Fluker, 2119 Broad St., Selma, one son, T. Sgt. Among the churches the Rev. Peacock pastored were: Orrville Methodist, two years; Plantersville Methodist, four years, and churches at Notasulga, East Brewton, Citronelle, Salem, Perote and Cottondale, Florida. The Rev. Make Sure Your First Aid Methods Are Correct

The object of first aid is to help, not harm, the victim of an injury or accident before the doctor arrives. That is why first aid methods should be chosen with care.

Dr. D. Gill, Alabama's State Health Officer said today that first aid is often desirable to stop excessive bleeding. And such bleeding can often be controlled simply by firm, direct pressure over the wound with a pad of cloth. This is especially true with wounds of the hands, wrists, forearms, feet or ankles.

Such devices as a touruiquet are actual'y only on rare occasions to stop bleeding, Dr. Gill said. In addition, when such a band is used improperly, more harm than help may result. When it is applied too loosely, the blood from veins may be shut off but not that in the arteries. Thus, the bleeding may actually increase, he explained, because the blood from the veins cannot return and finds its way out through the open wound.

Food Prices This Year Will Be Similar To Last

There should be plentiful supplies of food for America's record level appetites in 1956 with retail prices continuing about as low as in 1955, Ralph W. Burger, president of the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company, said today.

Mr. Burger said that food prices in 1955 were 1.5 per cent lower than in 1954 and 4.8 per cent below the post World War II peak reached in 1952. The over-all cost of living in 1955, he noted was down only four-tenths of one per cent.

"Present forecasts show that food production during the new year will come close to the record 1955 level and that prices to consumers will remain about the same. With average weather there should be adequate food supplies to meet consumer demand," Mr. Burger said.

"This is a record and an outlook that the food industry can be proud of," Mr. Burger declared. "It shows that the orderly downward trend of food costs continued without interruption in 1955. It also shows that the nation's farmers and food distributors are meeting the heavier food demands of our rapidly expanding population."

The A&P president warned, however, that "if we are going to continue to hold the price line and at the same time assure farmers of an adequate return, we must be alert to resist inflationary trends developing within the industry."

"Food is one of the largest expenses of the average family. Over-expansion and the unhealthy competitive practices of the 'boom psychology' can raise the cost of eating in every American home."

In 1955, he said, the nation's families ate better than ever before and made heavier purchases of what were once "luxury foods." Per capita meat consumption, one example he cited, exceeded 160 pounds—this was five per cent more than in 1954 and the highest for any year on record since 1908.

"Some price reductions may have gone beyond the point where farmers can get a fair return for their investment and labor. Pork is a dramatic example of a food that got so low in price that the producers actually suffered a loss."

Mr. Burger added that the food industry is aware of the problem and is tryin gto correct it through drives to move surpluses into consumption. It is also trying to narrow the spread between farm and retail prices through increasing the efficiency of its own operations, he said.

Although retail prices were lower in 1955, said Mr. Burger, people spent more money for food. This was because of the greater demand for higher priced items and for foods with "built-in" services, such as cake mixes, frozen foods and frozen meals, ready-to-cook and precooked items, he explained.

The A&P president said the food industry will continue to meet the demand for convenience service and that the coming year will see more product improvements designed to save the housewife's labor.

"However, these items will not be of real benefit to consumers," he continued, "if they add unreasonably to the cost of eating or if the services cannot be performed efficiently in the industry."

"The food industry operates in the public interest. Therefore, efficiency must be its main concern," Mr. Burger declared. He noted that while food costs to consumers went down in 1955, the cost of food distribution went up.

Increases in wages, taxes, rent, transportation and other fixed costs cannot be controlled by the industry, whereas certain other costs the industry imposes upon itself, he said.

"Food merchants are merely purchasing agents for America's consumers. Loose control over costs, along with over-expansion and unsound competitive practices, amount to speculation with the consumer's food dollars, which account for one-fourth of the average family's income.

"The industry operates on a volume of billions of dollars a year but it must not forget that nearly one fifth of all the families it serves have incomes of less than $2000 a year, and that more than three fifths earn less than $5,000 a year."

One danger is over-expansion cited by Mr. Burger was the trend toward larger and larger super markets. "In general," he said, "the larger a store is, the harder it becomes to keep its operating costs low."

"Consumer buying habits have changed and there is no question that stores must be operated for the convenience of their customers. But neither long store hours nor the new 'built-in services' should be allowed to raise the cost of foods."

"Long store hours with night and Sunday business, 'give-aways' and premiums were scrapped by the food industry years ago, because they raised food prices," he continued. "Now, however, we are in danger of reviving old costly patterns."

One service the consumer is entitled to can be improved without cost, according to the A&P president. "The cost of courteous service is part of the price charged the consumer," he said.

In reviewing other services performed by the industry for its customers, Mr. Burger mentioned food advertising through newspapers and radio and television stations. He said that while the advertisements are intended to attract customers they also provide the housewife with fair market prices for foods.

The Origin And The Development Of The Assemblies Of God

The General Council of the Assemblies of God came into existence as the result of a spiritual movement which began early in the twentieth century and which spread in a short time to all quarters of the earth.

Intense hunger for the presence of God evidenced by earnest prayer meetings among groups of Christians in many churches marked the closing years of the nineteenth century. Then revivals began breaking out in wholly unrelated groups in the United States of America and Europe. These revivals were characterized by intense evangelistic fervor, crowded prayer meetings, emphasis upon spiritual gifts and operations, including divine healing for the physical body and the speaking in other tongues as a sign of the reception of or baptism in the Holy Spirit. Acts 2:4, "And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak with other Tongues as the Spirit gave them utterance."

Missionary zeal also ran high founded on a profound conviction of the return of the Lord Jesus and the responsibility of Holy Spirit Baptized Christians obeying the last command of their Lord. Matt. 28: 19-20.

No one man could be credited with the origin of the movement, for there are evidences of Pentecostal outpourings of the Spirit in widely seperated places almost simultaneously.

The General Council of the Assemblies of God have gathered into its fold many who participated in these early revivals. The Assemblies of God, however, owes its existence primarily to an outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon a group of earnest Christians in Topeka, Kansas, in 1901. From this revival, small groups of Christians scattered throughout Kansas and Oklahoma, finally reaching Texas. Assemblies were formed in all these states.

In April of 1906 the Spirit of God was out-poured in Los Angeles, accompanied by the sign of speaking in other tongues as the Spirit gave utterance, And the good news spread abroad by different means. Spiritually hungry Christians journeyed to Los Angeles to see and hear for themselves. Many who saw and believed humbled themselves and sought the Lord for the blessing Others hardened their hearts and turned away scoffing. But nevertheless the spirit continued to be poured out on believers with the sign of speaking in other tongues Acts 2:4.

Due to the fact of difference in opinion concerning doctrine and practice and those that had become a part of the new movement having grown up under varying schools of religious thought and practice and also the movement having no head or body to determine standards, a group of representative pentecostal ministers decided to issue a call for a General Council. In response to this call, the first General Council was held in Hot Springs, Arkansas, from April 2 to 12, 1914.

The Assemblies of God makes up the largest pentecostal body of America. In August of 1953 it was ascertained that our affiliated and cooperative churches had grown to 6,400 with an enrolled membership of approximately 370,000. The list of ministers shows that we have now approximately 7,900 ordained ministers and 5,500 licentiates and exharters. Our Sunday School literature goes to approximately 16,000 Sunday Schools, 6,230 Assemblies of God Sunday School with an enrollment of approximately 710,220 with an average of 517,090, are served by approximately 74,760 teachers and officers.

The missionary activities of the Assembly of God have grown so greatly that by June of 1953, the missionary personnel numbered 700 missionaries and 4,074 native workers. These are occupying 3,897 mission stations and out station on no less than by distinct mission fields. The number of converts on these mission fields exceeds 260,000. The Assemblies of God are praising God for the progress we have made and for all he is going to help us make in the future. Our aim is to help men and women through to a borned again experience and on to great infilling of the Holy Spirit which is very important.

PIONEER ROAD MAN

Walter T. Ward Retires From Road Department; Remembers...

Walter Thomas Ward of West End, Clanton brought in his lunch pail for the last time this past week on January 3 and is now retired under the 65 year age laws. In recounting some of his experiences one finds them of unbelievable interest.

Mr. Ward began his career with Chilton County in 1922 as a chunk mover and grease monkey. This was still in the horse and buggy days mostly the roads were built to accomodate only horse and ox drawn vehicles. Road graders of this date were drawn by huge old army trucks with solid rubber tires. All of Chilton County's roads had to [illegible] tinually widened [illegible] ever more speedy [illegible] of course the ever-incr[illegible] that [illegible] brought on [illegible] for more and more roads. A great number of these were built by Chilton County's maintenance crew. Stumps from cut trees, huge boulders, rocks etc., would be left in the road by the graders and moving these out was the job of a chunk mover

Our first crawler type tractor was a welcome sight for the entire crew In winter it literally wore out the whole crew getting the old army trucks cranked up. Too, even with tire chains they were almost daily stalled or in a ditch. When a chunk mover got elevated to grader operator he was still in for plenty of hard jarring work. The blades were controlled by wheels which called for great strength to operate. These antique type graders were slow in being bettered for the operator Only some few years ago did they begin to think of the operators on these graders. When the grade patrols combination tractor and grader were first put on the market they too called for great strength to operate properly. Now all these are hydraulically operated and much easier to operate. This is true with all road maintenance equipment that is now being marketed. Mr. Ward states he had held every job with the County road maintenance crew from chunk mover to shovel operator and has worked under four Probate Judges Commissioners and through both Democratic and Republican administrations. Mr. Ward believes the present set-up to be the best system he has worked under so long as the engineer gets full cooperation from all concerned. Statistics prove Mr Ward correct.

Only one thing a retiring man sees wrong in our county. We should have some system like Civil Service that would mean a pension system for our 65 year old men. We who pioneered our road system only have to look back at those old roads of rock, stumps, etc., to see some compensation would be in order We feel that any small thing now while we are living would be more appreciated than to be praised after we are gone. With only our small federal retirement pay we canno live with present prices of commodities. Before we have passed on give us a few flowers that [illegible] Mr. Ward's view.

Under The Study lamp

A Trail Blazer of Renown —

"He looked for a city which hath foundations, whose builder and maker is God"—Hebrews 11:10

We owe more to the pioneer than most people realize. Here is a dicgoestionary definition of him: "One who goes before, as into the wilderness, preparing the way for others to follow." In Colonial America the pioneer was called a trail blazer, for the reason that it was his practice to chop a square of bark off the forest trees along the hirtherto unknown route that he was opening. For example, Daniel Boone by that means opened what is known today as the Wilderness Road, from the Yadkin Valley across the Cumberland Mountains to the Middle West. That was done in 1769, and within twenty-three years Kentucky became a state peopled by the thousands who had followed the Boone Trail

The words composing our theme refer to Abraham, who more than two thousand years before Christ opened the way to the Promised Land for the Chosen People. The record is significant, and should appeal to all who are willing to give serious consideraton to the movement of God's hand in history. With that in mind, it is profotable to ask about that ancient pioneer, in order to discover why he occupies such a distinguished place in the history of our religion

We may remark that Abraham lived up to a definite purpose. He was determined to arrive at a definite goal and permitted no human condition to bedim his objective. In that partcular he differed from an ordinary tramp, a shuffling straggler along the highways o flife. But even in this day of boastful enlightenment multitudes of people are simply hoboes, morally speaking. In the medley of temporary, enticements too many have lost sight of the horizon beyond which the only things of permanent value lie. The impressive word in the Bible sentence quoted is "foundations;" that is what the old pioneer had his heart set upon, that which is indestructible. Every reader of this [illegible] should ask himself, "Am I following the blazed trail?" [illegible]

Morris Mims Writes Fourth Article On Divine Healing

By Morris Mims

This quetsion I would ask, "Doe God desire to heal?" let us approach God's word with an ope heart to see if God desires to hea his people.

Psalms 103:3 Here we have no a promise but a statement. Go says he heals all our diseases. D we believe this? If we don't w make him a liar. I John 5:10, H that believeth not, God hath mad him a liar."

Isiah 53:4-5 "He hath borne ou pains, he hath carried our sickness" and with his stripes we are healed.' The work is all ready done if w would believe what he has said.

Matt. 8:1-4 "Lord, if thou wilt thou canst make me clean." "I will, be thou clean." Much of the force of these words has been lost in the translation. The meaning i the original is much stronger. "Lord, if thou dost will it." "I do will i so." Christ here definitely says it is the will to heal.

Luke 13:16 gives us two points. The one shows that it is Satan that binds God's children. God brings disease upon the ungodly but no where in the word do we find him putting sickness upon his obedient children. Sickness is the result o sin. Satan is the instigator of sin and afflicts the sinner with sickness. God does not put disease upon his own. He removes it. Not only does he take it away, but in this verse, he says it should be taken away. "Ought not this woman being a daughter of Abraham be lossed from this bond?" We too are children of Abraham, by faith should not we be loosed from the bonds of satan?

I Peter 2:25 "We were healed." Again the word is spoken of as fact already accomplished, if onl we will believe.

Then according to this scriptur healing was included the atonemen of Christ. It is his will and pla to heal.

Heb. 10:7 Says "Jesus came to d God's will." Acts 10:38 tells u what God's will is "healing all tha were oppressed of the devil." Heb 13:8, "Jesus Christ, the same yesterday, and today, and forever.' Jesus came then ,to heal and did What he did then, he does today He is an unchanging Christ.

James 1:6 "But let him ask in faith, nothing wavering." Then th great cause of people not being healed today is a lack of faith. We believe what our friends tell us and they are weak creatures. Yet for some peculiar reason, we fail to believe the great Creator. The trouble lies with us if we do not receive healing. When we come to a bridge of strong structure, we don't hesitate to cross, but yet we will not trust God's promises that are sure and steadfast forever. So we fail to receive what he holds out to us.

Does this cover all the failures? Surely it covers the largest part, but there is no doubt that this often hinders healing. Then if healing doesn't come, then let us searc our hearts.

James 4:3 tells us of anothe cause that sometimes we don't receive healing. "Ye ask and receiv not because ye ask a miss." God would have us glorify him in everything. The Lord may look ahead and know what you would do with that strength and health if you had it. Both knowing and loving, he would protect you yourself.

Once more let us see what says. James 1:3 "The trying o faith worketh patience." Som do not we insist that God s answer in our time, not His? lives in the eternal present. not to be hastened. He had hi time for all things.

Are we now one of thos would say, Lord, I will belie you will heal me now; but i answer doesn't come today, I go to the doctor tomorro you think God has ever been ken to in this way? Sometime faith seems of just such qu If the answer does come ever on the moment, would it re real faith? Faith is that which tinues to believe when the nothing in view.

Does God desire to heal? God will heal, when we come place of blessing. God will a meet us there. It is accordi your faith, be it unto you, o according to your unbelief unto you? Man's order is fee facts and faith. But God's p always, facts. faith feelings we all continue for the faith was once delivered unto the Church people let us practice 5:14-15 "Is my sick among Let him call for the elders o church and let them pray over anointing him with oil in the of the Lord, and the prayer o shall save the sick and the shall raise him up and if he committed sins, they will be fo en him.

Calling all past-presidents of the Clanton Elementary School. Mrs. R. C. Williams is calling all past-presidents of the Clanton Grammar school to get in touch with her so that she may place their name on the list of past-presidents who will receive special recognition at the next meeting of the P-TA. If you were at one time, a president of the association please call Mrs. Williams. The list is incomplete to date and she is anxious to complete it as soon as possible.

At every stop of the Los Angeles-New York plane, a red gasoline truck would dash onto the field to replenish the fuel supply. At the Washington Airport a passenger said to the young lady seated next to him, "this plane sure does make time, doesn't it?" "It certainly does," she agreed, "but that red truck seems to keep right up with us."

Dick Scott brought us a fishing map yesterday. He has had the project in mind for several years but has never been able to work out exactly what he wanted. The Alabama Power Company, as always has come up with a dandy. It gives the individual lakes, Martin, Mitchell, Lay, and Jordan and the fishing camps and landmarks. You can have one of these instructive maps by merely writing to: "Fishing Map" Alabama Power Company, Birmingham, Alabama.

When the editor of a small-town newspaper was hard pressed for material with which to fill his columns one week, he ran the Ten Commandments without editorial comment. Soon after he received a letter from a reader who said, "cancel my subscription—you're getting too personal!"

The new signs at the intersections of our city streets will be a life-saver we are sure. Hats off to those responsible and, as always we believe in locking the door before the horse is stolen and not after it is too late. You can never tell the life you save may be your own.

Don't believe we have ever seen such an extended cold spell in our "deep south" as we have been experienceing for the past few weeks. Chances are that the peach growers will profit from it and we surely hope they do. They need a big crop to get them back on their feet.

We didn't receive an orchid Wednesday morning but we did receive a beautiful red rose, thanks to the FHA girls at Chilton County High School. Now don't get us wrong. We don't belong to the Future Homemakers, as Mrs, Williams, their most capable teacher will testify, but they did give roses to the honorary mothers at their initiation and one of the mothers brought the rose to us. Well, she didn't really bring the rose to us, we took it away from her. We wouldn't really mind belonging to the FHA though. According to our spouse we are the sloppiest housekeeper anywhere and she orter know, she spends twenty-six hours a day cleaning up after us. But, we sure are enjoying the rose even if we did have to took it.

Third Consecutive Plea---

Grand Jury Says Courthouse Must Be Repaired, Enlarged

The Chilton County Grand Jury just recessed, added its plea for a better courthouse to like requests made by two former Grand Juries here.

H. C. Bice, foreman, and the members of the Jury openly reported the state of dis-order and disgrace of Chilton County's decadent courthouse. Their constructive view of a solution was expending funds necessary to return the present building to its former state and to build additional buildings to take care of the present overflow as well as leaving ample room for future expansion of our county's growth

Following is the text of the Grand Jury's report to Judge Melton:

To The Honorable Oakley W. Melton, as Judge of Said Court:

We, the Grand Jury, having been empanelled for the January Term of the Circuit Court and having received Your Honor's charge, entered upon our investigation of the matters that came before us as Grand Jurors, and submit herewith the following report:

During the course of our investigation we examined a total of 60 witnesses involved in 25 cases. We are returning herewith 21 true bills.

We made a personal inspection of the Chilton County Jail and found it reasonably safe for the detension of prisoners. However, the locks on the doors on the inside of the jail are not in good working condition and it is almost impossible for one man to lock and unlock the doors without assistance. It is our recommendation that immediate action be taken by the proper authorities to rectify this situation as it creates a hazardous condition. The jail appeared to be neat and orderly and from questioning the prisoners it was learned that they are being adequately fed with good wholesome food.

The Grand Jury also made a detail inspection of the County Court House building and found it still to be in a dilapidated, run-down condition and totally inadequate to meet the needs of the various County officials. The various defects noted by the previous Grand Jury still exist and apparently nothing has been done by anyone to alter the conditions already recommended by a previous Grand Jury. The rest rooms in the Court House are a disgrace to Chilton County. Some of the windows are about to fall out the plaster is still cracking and falling away from the walls; apparently rain still comes through on the valuable records; and many seats in the court room are still in bad need of repair. It is the opinion of this Grand Jury that it is false economy to allow the Court House building to continue to further detoriate It is our recommendation that the officials charged with the responsibility of the up-keep of the Court House immediately repair and restore the building to a usable state It is the further recommendation of the Grand Jury that the County officials seek ways and means of erecting additional county buildings to meet the present and future needs of this county.

It has been brought to the attention of the Grand Jury that there are a number of precincts in Chilton County which at present do not have a polling place. Under our system of government it is absolutely essential that our citizens have a place provided for them in which to vote. We hereby unanimously recommend that immediate steps be taken to provide adequate buildings in the various precincts in which the citizens of Chilton County can go on election day and cast their ballots.

Due to the increase in the number of criminal cases in Chilton County and civil litigation requiring the services of the Sheriff's office it is the opinion of this Grand Jury that an additional Deputy Sheriff and a clerk for the Sheriff's office is necessary for the adequate protection of this county. It is also our opinion that an additional Deputy will more than compensate for his salary by additional cases that can be made. In view of these facts we hereby recommend that an additional Deputy Sheriff be employed and also that a Clerk be employed for the Sheriff's office.

We did not personally inspect the records of the various officials as periodic audits of such records are conducted by the State Examiner of Public Accounts. However, we did call before the Grand Jury Mr. Jesse B. Ward, a State Auditor who is now in the process of auditing the records of the Board of Revenue and Control, County Treasurer, Clerk of the Circuit Court According to the report made to us the records of these officials are being kept in an orderly manner and no deficiencies have been noted by him.

From our investigation it does not appear that there is at present any organized crime in Chilton County or any organized gambling. During the past year there were 57 whiskey stills destroyed by the law Enforcement Officers. These stills ranged in size from 30 gallons to 5000 gallon capacities We feel that with an additional Deputy even more stills can be found and destroyed.

We wish to express our appreciation to Judge J B. Atkinson for use of his office during our investigation and also wish to thank all officials who rendered to us service during our deliberation.

And, now having completed investigation of all matters brought before us, we ask to be recessed according to law and the rules of the Court.

Respectfully submitted,
H. D. BICE, Foreman

Various Events Being Staged To Benefit March Of Dimes

Basketball Game Here Between Civitans, JayCees

Saturday night at 8:00 o'clock there will be a basketball game between the Clanton Jaycees and the local Civitan Cub, in the gymnasium at the Chilton County High School.

The game is strictly all in fun and all proceeds will go to charity. Don't come to see a "grudge game" because they are al god friends, it is reported. The game will be complete with cheerleaders (who have unusually unsightly legs).

No admission will be charged and the time again is 8 p.m. The proceeds mentioned above will be taken at half time when something special is to be presented. No obligations. . . just donations.

The March of Dimes will be the recipient of the entire sum taken in on that night.

It should be loaded with laughs folks, the teams are made up of people whom you'd never suspect..

Church Of Christ On WKLF Sunday

The Church of Christ, meeting at the corner of 4th Avenue and 6th Street here in Clanton will broadcast the services from 11 a.m. until 12 over WKLF on Sunday, January 29. John L. Wheeler, the local minister, will deliver the sermon. the topic, "The Parable of The Sower."

Fertilizer Spurs Garden Growth

Auburn, Ala.—Fertilizers applied to field crops bring mighty high returns, but those put on home gardens are frequently even more valuable.

Telling how garden crops that will be planted in Aabama during the next couple of months should be fertilized for best results, API Extension Horticulturist John Bagby explained that these plants ought to get their food in three "helpings."

The first application, made when the seedbed is prepared and the furrows plowed out, calls for three quarts of a complete fertilizer for each 100 feet of row. An equal amount of fertilizer should be put on as a side-dressing after the plants are up to a good stand. Then about three weeks later, the garden ought to get its third serving—a side-dressing of one pint of nitrat of soda per 100 feet of row.

Jemison Game Will Be A Most Unusual Sight

There will be a crazy, mixed-up basketball game at the Jemison Hi School Saturday night, January 28 at 6 o'clock. The male players will be wearing ladies' clothing while the ladies will be dressed in men's attire during the game.

As a fore-runner to the basketball game a short film on Polio will be shown to the audience.

Hot dogs, pies, cakes, and coffee will be sold. Everyone is invited to eat supper at the game.

Proceeds from this affair will be turned over to the March of Dimes to aid in the fight against Polio.

Lard Will Keep Better If Mixed With Shortening

Home-rendered lard will keep fresh and sweet twice as long when it's mixed with a little vegetable shortening.

So says Miss Lavada Curtis, API Extension food preservation specialist. Reporting that many farm families have found this means of preserving lard very satisfactory, she recommended the plan for folks who are now butchering hogs.

Miss Curtis explained that two or three pounds of hydrogenated shortening are needed for each 50 pounds of lard. She said the preservative may be added just before the rendered lard is allowed to settle or has bee npoured into storage containers.

Thorsby Legion Auxiliary Sponsors Game Party, 27th

The American Legion Auxiliary 206 will sponsor a Game Party at Legion Hall in Thorsby on Friday night, January 27. Prizes will be awarded.

Post 3193, VFW, Represented At Montgomery Meet

The Clanton Post of Veterans of Foreign Wars was represented last Monday night at a banquet in honor of Timothy J. Murphy, national commander. Attending the supper at the Whitley Hotel in Montgomery were Commander and Mrs. Lewis Johnson, Cecil Carter and Vernon P. Payne of Clanton.

At the supper Commander Murphy made an inspiring talk to a large crowd of VFW members Auxiliary members, and members of other veteran's and service organizations.

Johnson also attended a breakfast for the state's Post Commanders early Monday morning. There were twenty posts represented at the affair, but Clanton was the only Post present which had reached its membership quota for 1956.

Commander Johnson has been named "Commander of the Month" by the state VFW in honor of his untiring efforts to make Post 3193 one of the best in the state. His fruitful work has made the Clanton Post tops in percentage increase in the State of Alabama.

Pigs of hogging-off weight need at least 12 or 14 per cent good quality protein in their rations.

Stalk destruction is a must in North Alabama counties during the early part of the year, before corn borers and other crop pests become active again.

Mastitis in dairy cattle lowers the non-fat solids of the milk.

Alabama farmers expect to increase their 1956 spring pig crop by 10 per cent, whereas the national crop will probably go down about two per cent.

Entered in the Post Office at Clanton, Alabama, as second-class matter under the Act of Congress of March, 1897.

It's so easy to find something wrong with things that we sometimes fail to look for something right.

* * * *

It's as they always say: things are no better or no worse than they have always been . . .there's just a different generation looking at them, and feeling their impact.

* * * *

The farmers certainly can use the rains we've been getting. The school bus drivers have a different opinion in their line of work. He certainly can't please all of us at one time, can He?

* * * *

We're worried about all these people having meetings at the Courthouse. The place is dangerous for such a crowd. We can't say we haven't been warned, time and again.

* * * *

Our sense of values in the U. S. has taken such a sharp decline until we are doubting if they'll ever be the same again. America needs to wake up as America not as individuals only.

* * * *

Without a doubt this is the coldest weather we've had since last year.

* * * *

Protect your future by giving to the March of Dimes today.

Mass production will never completely replace craftsmanship.

Folks today are prone to forget about the past, hurry through the present, and worry about the future.

SIDEWALKS OR DITCHES—

There is something that has needed promoting in Clanton and vicinity for quite some time now.

There are any number of neighborhoods over the City of Clanton that could use sidewalks . . . very effectively and very usefully.

There are any number of streets over the city that do not have sidewalks at all, or most all of the new additions haven't the slightest indication of a pedestrian right-of-way.

Understand, we're not getting behind the city to appropriate these things, but are asking the interested citizens and certainly residents of the districts which do not have the conveniences of sidewalks, to get their heads together and come up with some soluble solution by which we can have convenient walking room and a the same time beautify our city so much more.

It's something of a project, but it can be done and should be thought out by capable parties.

If we had an organiaztion to take care of this task, then it should be done. It could be very capably handled through our civic organizations, and with donations from interested parties as well as some aid, perhaps, from the city, we could lay sidewalk, little at the time, throughout the entire city and also repair some of those that are going to kill somebody if they are not soon repaired. In fact, some of our present sidewalks are becoming legendary as traps on a dark night. No reflection on anyone or anything except the crying need for some kind of action on this foremost matter in our civic affairs and duties.

WE SALUTE—

The Veterans of Foreign Wars are this week celebrating their fifty-seventh anniversary of service to the American war veteran and the populace of the United States. In commemoration of the event January 22-28 has been designated as National VFW Week.

This oldest of America's veteran organizations is dedicated by its motto to honor the dead by helping the living. Its policy is a selfless effort to live up to its motto in every possible form of assistance to the people of America.

The membership of the VFW is comprised of men who served on foreign soils during the time of war: men who actually have a first-hand knowledge of the ravages of war and are determined to never see a battle fought in the continental United States.

The program of the VFW is vast, with objectives aimed at building a better America for our youth. Their aim is to give our children a chance instead of a gun.

We commend them as a service organization and salute them on their 57th birthday.

Our only recommendation to them: Keep up the good work!

Pages Are Composed Of A Variety Of Materials

Since we spoke last week concerning the Linotype machine and getting the type set up and ready for the paper, let's speak this week of getting the type into pages and ready for the pressman in the pressroom.

The type, after being brought from the "type rack," which you will remember is where the "galleys" are kept, is brought to another part of the plant where it is put into pages. They are called "chases" or "forms" and they hold the seven columns of type that you see on each page of your paper. This is called the make-up department of the paper and requires skill, many years of practice, and many long hours each week.

Type is taken from the galley and put into these forms after all the ads (if there are any on that particular page) are put into place.

Ads (short for advertising) are put into a paper first because they are larger than type, not as versatile, and are usually and correctly put at the bottom of the page.

If a neat page is desired, then the larger ads should be at the bottom and the smaller ads stacked on top of them in that order. By "stacked on top" we mean coming up the page, not one on top of the other.

Ads are of many varied conditions when they come into the News office.

Foreign or out-of-county advertising usually comes in the form of mats. These mats are not like the Linotype mats which we mentioned before, but are flat and are made of something like cardboard. These mats have the desired ad on them and we take them and pour hot metal over them in the casting box and out comes the "cut" or metal picture which we will use in the paper. This process is called Sterotyping.

This cut is then taken to a saw and all edges and scrap is sawed off of it; in other words, anything that would print that you do not want to print has to be removed. The cut, which is approximately an em thick (there are 6 ems in an inch) is then placed on a piece of wood called "base" to be placed in the paper. This "base" makes the cut as high as the type used, or "type high" as we call it. Then that particular ad is ready for the page that is being made up.

Another type of add is the one with a lot of machine and handset "guts," or the inside of the ad. Most local ads are complicated because, instead of just casting them and taping them on base, they have to be made up by each line.

For instance a grocery ad for a local store: every line in the ad has to be set out of cases of type. Each letter is a different piece of type. This is the way Ben Franklin had to set all of his type . . including ads and straight matter (straight matter is the term used to distinguish the 12 em type on the Linotype from any other in the paper.)

Now when you get all the ads in the pages then you put the "straight matter" from the Linotype, (or let us say, the same type that this article is printed in)around the ads. In other words you fit the article or story that will fill in around the advertising that is in that particular page. Of course you put the article with the most interest toward the top of the page and come down toward the center of the page as the articles come down in interest.

When you get your page full of ads and type then it must be "justified." This is a rather deceiving term because it is literally a means of making the page tight enough to lock. This is done by taking "leads" which are 12 ems long and are a very thin material (2 points thick) and placing one between each paragraph or until that column is tight up and down the page. To explain the 2 points above we would have to tell you that there are 12 points in 1 em. You remember that there are 12 ems in 2 inches or the width of a column, and it could go on and on.

In making up a newspaper page you do not measure by inches, but by ems (some folks call them picas). To give you some idea, here is a breakdown of the columns in the paper which you are now reading: One column is 12 ems wide. Two columns is 24½ ems wide, because of that line down between the columns which is called column rule and it is half an em or 6 points wide. Three columns is 37 ems wide, for the same reason. Four columns is 49½ ems wide, five columns is 62 ems wide, six columns is 74½ ems wide, and seven columns is 87 ems wide. We hope this gives you some small idea of how measurements are taken and used in a newapaper page.

We have overlooked an important phase in getting the type ready and that is making corrections. After the proofs, that we mentioned earlier have been read and marked for corrections, they have to go back to the Linotype operator, who sets the lines over that have errors in them. This done, he rolls them in the proof sheet and deposits them on the type table near the machine. The make-up men then gathers the different proofsheets and puts the corrections into the page where they belong. This is done before the justifying, because after justifying the page is too tight to get a line out.

After justifying the page is locked by a series of "koins" around the page which tighten with a "key" and hold the type and ads in the page, which is just a rectangular outline of steel.

The pages are then taken to the Cylinder Press which prints the paper, four pages at the time.

(Next week, article four, will concern the printing, folding and mailing of your paper right down to going into the post office).

A belated welcome to newcomers to our community, the new pastor of the Presbyterian Church and Mr. Wheeler, new pastor of the Clanton Church of Christ. The Presbyterian minister takes the place of Don Fisty, who served here for several years and who has been transferred to Birmingham. Mr. Wheeler takes the place of John J. McKlesky who served Clanton for only a short time.

Mr. Wheeler can be heard over the local radio station each morning with a fifteen minute program on the Bible. It's an interesting program and a worthwhile one. We are indeed looking forward to meeting these two fine gentlemen in the very near future, even though it is as we said ,a little late.

Old Rover has turned into the neighborhood pet. Every kid on the block knows Mutt (which is his real name) personally and he is eating up all this swell pubicity and attention. (As well as all the scraps we can beg, borrow and steal.) He's truly happy now with his position in life and we surely hope he is making the kids happy; they seem to be enjoying it just about as much as he . . if not more. If you don' already know, Mutt is our "man's best friend."

They suggested the other night at the local Civitan meeting that Herbert Klinner be a cheerleader in the coming basketball game. Funny thing, he very quickly volunteered to play ball. And he said he was getting old. Why we'll bet he can kick more fields goals than any other player in that basketball game. How 'bout that Mr. K.

We can't understand these folk being so readily upset about the suggested possibility of closing public schools early this year due to lack of funds. They're the same folks who voted down additional funds for the schools. Funds that could have not have gone any other place than to the schools, and that would have not only kept the schools going, but would have added to educational facilities. The old saying about the barn door and the horse being stolen goes well here.

It's getting spring early for t this year. Saturday we found time to get out and do some work around the house. An unusuality for us but believe it or not, we enjoyed it . . . even if we did ruin the shrubbery and trees.

Glad to see that Jeanne Amason is back from her trip to Texas with her two daughters. Jeanne had to leave in a rush due to the illness of her mother. Her mother is much better now, so we hear and the Doc is also much better. We can' blame you Doc, we'd get tired of your cooking too . . . especially if it's anything like ours.

Talk about slow, why we're just now disposing of our Christmas tree. (it was in such good shape last week, that we debated over whether or not to use it two years, but we decided against it). A tree just doesn't look right without any foilage on it. Kinda like it was dead . you know.

You'd think as many cigarettes as you smoke you'd save a lot of lettuce by quitting. We recommend quitting readily enough, but we haven't a red cent to show for it. There is a moral though, smoke and be broke or quit and be broke . . . see, you can't win.

Yankee tourist to farmer: I say, 'ook at that dreadful swamp." Farmer: "That ain't no swamp, that' our swimming pool."

We have a new radio station in our vicinity. Ole friend Bill (let call him William, since this is a formal bit of information) Hayes always announces Dubbeley KLF' instead of WKLF. Most folks say Double U for W, but not our Dubble U illiam. It has become his trade mark as far as we're concerned and we hope he's not offended by our mention of the fact.

These grown-ups who are always getting on to you young fellers about watching where you're going and keeping your feet where they belong can just crawl off of your backs for a while. Other day a grown man ran over a meter li here in Clanton and cracked it in about . . . several pieces. Someone could hurt himself badly in this "man-made hole". Now fellas, when the grown-ups hop on you about this' n 'that remind them, in a very dipomatic way, that they are not perfect themselves. You will probably wind up with your britches tanned . . . in such case, forget we said anything, huh.

In any case also, that drive should watch where he puts his noble truck. Being that careless, he could run over someone's foot and never know the difference. (He might not know the difference).

Letters to the Editor

REP SELDEN'S RESPONSE TO PETITIONS

Here is a copy of the letter I received from the Honorable Mr. Selden, in response to the petitions and letter I sent him last week. I would like to give every one an opportunity to read it.

Mr. Wes Gletty
Route 5
Clanton, Alabama

Dear Mr. Gletty:

I received and appreciated your letter of recent date with the enclosed petitions to provide $100 a month retirement income and for other welfare legislation. You may be assured that I shall call these petitions to the attention of the Ways and Means Committee and I will pass along to you any comments I may receive from the members of this committee. In the mean time, I plan to study very carefully H. R. 7848 which you recommended in your letter.

I remember quite well our discussion last fall in Maplesville of retirement benefits for all persons sixty years of age and over, and want to thank you for your thoughtfulness in writing me in connection with this matter.

My very best personal regards and my good wishes for 1956.

Sincerely Yours,
-s- Armistead I. Selden, Jr.

So lets get busy and get another thousand signatures on these petitions. I have a good start on them. All who have these petitions and cannot get them filled, mail them back to me and I will finish them.

WES GLETTY, Rt. 5.

(A Weekly Report On Local Civitan Affairs.)

Well, folks it looks like our club is getting started off with a bang and we're having a ball. Game that is. Yep, as you might have already read elsewhere in the paper, we are playing a game of basketball with the local Jaycees this coming Saturday night at 8 o'clock. You'll understand we hope, that this is not a'tall like a professional game, but supposedly all in fun. It's for the March of Dimes.

We're gonna have [illegible] and [illegible] Wright and some others dressed up like cheerleaders [illegible] really give some zip to the game.

Most of the players are young men . . . like Herbert Klinner and Troy Maddox, but some of the crotchety old boys like Earl Smith and Bernie Mims are gonna do the best they can. (They might last a quarter, somebody said).

Come on out to the game folks, it's all for charity and worthy of your support. Remember that time again 8:00 at the CCHS gymnasium.

The local Civitans are leaving this afternoon for Birmingham where they will join the West End club of Birmingham in a supper and meeting. Quite a number of Civitans are going to the affair and will undoubtedly stuff their faces elegantly, as usual

Oh say folks, we Civitans still have a "few" pounds of that fruit cake that we sponsored over the [illegible]. Any number of folks will "testify" that this cake is tops in the cake field and we will sell it to you at a reasonably high price. It's good to the last drop and delicious with that midnight coffee or milk, or whatever you drink at [illegible] night. See any [illegible] Joe Smith's Service Station [illegible] as much cake as you need [illegible] it lasts of course.

There will be no meeting this Thursday (tonight) due to the "boys" going to Birmingham to the supper, but we will [illegible] Thursday night at the regular time with the regular efficiency and we will have some dan dan dand good fellowship. Time fellas is 7:30

Answering Dixie's Call...

A Story of Progress that Benefits Everyone

The past year has seen booming growth all through the South—in business . . . industry . . . housing . . . personal income. Telephone development has surged ahead, too. Since the telephone means so much to everyone, you might like to know some of the ways Southern Bell answered Dixie's call in 1955 for more and better service.

Last year we:

- Increased operator dialing of Long Distance calls straight through to the distant numbers.
- Converted many exchanges to the new nation-wide numbering system, which will eventually make it possible for you to dial your own Long Distance calls.
- Added many thousands of miles of new Long Distance circuits and TV network routes.
- Installed a bumper crop of new rural telephones, with the aid of newly-discovered technical developments and construction methods.
- Carried out history-making tests proving that new-type rural service can be powered by the Bell Solar Battery, which harnesses the sun's energy for the first time.
- Changed many more telephones to dial service.
- Made widely available new and improved equipment such as telephones in color . . . volume-control phones . . . dials that light up in the dark . . . the Speakerphone, which lets you talk and hear without lifting the receiver ... and many more.

ANSWERING ALABAMA'S CALL . . .

In Alabama, we added 31,000 new telephones in '55. This involved construction of buildings and equipment amounting to about 20 million dollars. In all, we have spent more than 152 million to expand and improve service in the State since 1945.

In step with Alabama's progress, we plan to spend 27 million more in 1956 on construction to provide Alabamians with the kind of service they want and need.

This large expansion program makes telephone service more useful and valuable for everyone. And the millions of dollars for construction, plus more millions we pay in wages and taxes, contribute vitally to the State's economy.

Brief Biography--

Author Of "Under the Study Lamp" Is A Great Teacher

(Editors Note: For the benefit of the many readers of the weekly religious column "Under the Study Lamp" we are printing this biography. It was prepared by Cecil Hornady, editor of The Talladega News.)

A native of Kentucky, son of a minister Dr. William Crowe, Talladega, has three sons who are ministers and one who teaches a large men's Bible class.

Dr. Crowe's Caravan Men's Bible Class at the First Presbyterian Sunday School in Talladega is conducted in a rough shack with sawdust floor in the backyard of the church property. In Winter a pot-belly stove keeps the place warm.

This class has an enrollment of 175 men of many denominations. Included are four Greeks and one Chinese. Average attendance is approximately 100. Men from all over the State have visited the class and there have been numerous out-of-state visitors who just happened to be coming through on week ends and dropped in to hear Dr. Crowe's lessons and to enjoy his homey philosophy and the warm fellowship of the class.

A former moderator of the General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church, he has held numerous Church offices, but is more interested in his day-to-day contacts with the men of his class and their pleasures and problems than anything else besides his regular duties as pastor of the church.

He knows men and likes men and men who know him like him yet he preaches and teaches a practical, hard-hitting Christian religion and he "pulls no punches." Desptie his advanced age he is vigorous and alert. His all-absorbing interest in people, and his sense of humor, keep him young.

Want Quail? Plant These Grasses

Auburn, Ala. -An API Extension specialist who's also an enthusiastic sportsman knows some mighty good reasons for planting bi-color lespedeza and partridge peas.

Stating that it will soon be time to plant these quail food crops, Earl F. Kennamer said here this week that he hunts on a 1500-acre place where there are 15 five-year-old patches of bi-color lespedeza and a couple of partridge pea patches. At the beginning of the current hunting season, there were 15 coveys of quail on the place, he said and two-thirds of the coveys he flushed were right in these patches.

The Extension fish and wildlife specialist explained that a one-eighth-acre patch of either bi-color or partridge peas ought to be planned for every 15 to 25 acres for maximum quail population. He said plantings should be made in late March or April. County agents have instructions for seeding the crops.

Incidentally, the specialist added that his own luck has been extremely good this season.

MT. PISGAH NEWS

The Mt. Pisgah Home Demonstration Club met on Thursday, Jan. 19, 1956, at the home of Mrs. O'Dell Jones, at 1:30 o'clock.

The meeting was called to order by the Vice-President, in the absence of the President. We had no story of the hymn, so we all sang together a song from the back of the book.

Miss Porter gave the devotional followed by the group repeating the Lord's Prayer.

Miss Porter then gave a demonstration on Roach Control, which was most interesting and informative.

The group voted to do some little something for a Golden Ager, to make their life a little brighter.

The club collect was read and refreshments served by the hostess.

Miss Asbury And Mr. Raines Wed

The marriage of Miss Peggy Asbury and Robert Raines, was solemnized on January fifteenth, at the Corinth Baptist Church in Verbena, Alabama. The vows were read by the Rev. E. C. Hand in the presence of a group of close friends and relatives.

The bride is a daughter of Mr and Mrs. J. N. Asbury of Route 2, Verbena, Alabama. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. A Raines of Verbena, Alabama.

The ceremony was performed in the traditional setting of greenery and white with Ann Raines, sister of the groom and Jerry Gwinn lighting the candles.

Pensions, Security Department Rushed Checks for Christmas

A total of 1,519 pensions and security payments in Chilton County in November, and a still larger number in December, prevented real suffering, Director A. L. Gibson said today. While we do not yet have the statewide December data we believe there will be some increase over the previous month Mr. Gibson said.

The director said the State Pensions and Security Department had made a special effort to mail December payments in time to reach people before Christmas. "This, together with the generosity of local individuals and groups made the holidays much happier for those in need," Mr. Gibson continued.

Individually and by letter, many recipients have told us what their pension checks meant to them and have expressed greetings to the agency.

The Director also explained that old age payments averaged only $32.29 in November in the state and $30.00 in Chilton County. They represented only about 60 percent of what old people needed according to agency standards. Mr. Gibson said that under present standard an old person living with husband or wife can be budgeted monthly for $55 for essentials, plus rent (as paid up to $30), but maximum payment remain $55 by State and Federal law. Mr. Gibson said the average amount old age recipients over the State needed—budget deficit—in November was about $53.50, though payments were only a little over $3

"Other categories get even less," the director added. Mr. Gibson said standards are lower for dependent children, blind, and permanently and totally disabled and payments are also less than 100 percent of the amount needed for these groups Lowest payments per person and percentage-wise are for dependent chidren, the Director added. In November per family aid to dependent children payments were $40.72 in the State and $36.60 in Chilton County, based on 45 percent of a budget deficit fixed by low standards. "This meant only $10.49 per person per month in the entire state. Mr. Gibson added, "Since families average close to four persons each."

THORSBY BAPTIST CHURCH WORKS A HEAVY SCHEDULE

Wednesday night, January 25, the WMU ladies of our church will be served a meal by the men of the church. The men are looking forward to this opportunity to extend this courtesy to the ladies who mean so much to the program of our church and to the advancement of the Cause and Kingdom of Christ. Our ladies are doing a splendid job to keep before our youth missionary needs and opportunities and also the need for the lives of our youth to be dedicated to the will of God in full time service. We are deighted to have Rev. L. D. Brookshire to bring a message to the people of our town and community following the dinner occasion. Bro. Brookshire will speak on the subject "Our Church and Missions."

Mr. Sam Bentley and Mr. Thomas Kincaid have accepted the opportunity to be R. A. leaders. We have approximately 30 boys who will participate in this work, both Juniors and Intermediates.

Friday, January 27, at 7:00 p.m. the men of our church will come together for a banquet and they have chosen Mr. Joe Williams as speaker for the evening. He will speak in the subject "Baptist Brotherhood." The purpose of this meeting is to stimulate the interest on the part if our church to sponsor a Brotherhood. We do not aucticipate organizing Friday night, and probably will not effect the organization at the second meetisg, but will proceed cautiously under much needed guidance in effecting the organization. We are looking forward to Friday evening as being a time for information, inspiration fellowship and encouragement in the Lord's work and feel honored to have as our special guests Mr and Mrs. Joe Williams of Clanton.

Feb. 12 has been designated as the time in our church to emphasize the importance of total abstience through the Temperance movement. On Sunday night we will have as our speaker a teen-age girl highly recommended by the Secretary of the Alabama Temperance Alliance. Following the address of this young lady a film will be shown the title of which is "The Power of Decision." Needless to say, the liquor traffic is Public Enemy No. 1 in America and the greatest destroyer that we have among us.

We are grateful to Rev. F. H. Day and the steering committee of the Chilton-Unity Association for the privilege of service to the Association and groups of churches in that we are asked to furnish a meeting place for the various groups and participate in the meetings and classes to be taught. To the membership of the churches in the Thorsby group we extend a cordial invitation to all the meetings to be conducted in our church, and to representatives of all churches in the Association a cordial welcome awaits you here. We are confident that our Association has the Lord's man in the right place in the personality of Rev. Day. He is capable of offering to our Association a well rounded program for all church and denominational activities, and I feel sure that the churches will respond to the leadership of this very fine man of the Lord.

Poplar Springs HD Club Makes Impressive Annual Report

Wins Second Place In "Club Of The Year" Contest

The Poplar Springs Club has had a very busy year in 1955. The first thing that was done was to choose a project and ours was collecting a layette for some needy mother and we have completed that project and turned it over to the health nurse

Our club has had an average attendance of 13 all the year. We haven't had less than 10 members at any meeting through the year. We have attended all leadership schools but one, and have given all the demonstrations incuding the one we missed at leadership school at our club meetings. We have attended all County Council meetings. Our score card for the year has been 100% every month except the 10 points we missed for not attending one leadership school.

In our Rural Youth Program, we have observed Rural Youth Sunday. Two of our members, Ester Cox and Myrtice Smith, were Neighbor-Aide leaders for the 4-H girls and we gave two club meetings for them and one ice cream party was given by Ruby Penton. Myrtice went on some of the picnics.

Myrtice and Louise Messer attended some of the 4-H Club meetings at school, also some of their 4-H County Councils. We also attended the older youth picnic and their older youth club meetings. Also one of the 4-H girls, Patsy Messer, was selected for the school Halowe'en Queen.

Three of our 4-H girls, Joyce Jones, Linda Messer and June Penton were in the running for 4-H Dairy Maid, and with the help of some of our club members, we had one of the girls, June Penton, chosen as Alternate Dairy Maid. One of our 4-H boys, Billy Smith, was escort to the Alternate Dairy Maid

Our Farm Bureau Chairman has been very active. The majority of our members are Farm Bureau Members. We have helped to get new members and collected dues for the Farm Bureau drive. Louise and Myrtice also helped at the annual fish fry.

Some of us voted for the first time this year.

Our Community Activity Chairman has been very busy on two projects for the year, fixing up the church ground as well as the school grounds. We have improved five new mail boxes and named some of our farms.

For our defense activities, we have had several members to give blood at the Red Cross bloodmobile and one of our members, Myrtice, has helped at the Bloodmobile center. We have also fixed up or re-newed our first aid kit.

Our club paid the President's, Myrtice Smith, way to a district meeting at Jacksonville, Ala. We had a booth this time at the County Fair, and our ladies were very good to help at the concession stand.

We have had three of our members, Bell Moore, Decie Wells, and Gladys Glenn with perfect attendance this year, and we have added four active members to our roll call.

Our club also sends flowers to the deceased of the club members family, and get-well cards to the sick.

Our reporter had done a very good job in reporting the club news in the County paper every month

Several of our club members have given information to non-club members about things we have learned in our club. Ruby Penton has used and shown others, helpful hints in sewing as to the extent of the Elna Sewing Machine Co. using some of her ideas. Ester Cox has gotten her sister interested in making trays and joining a club. Louise Messer has helped others in cooking, and Myrtice Smith has given several of her recipes to non-club members. Ruby Penton has also used some of her club recipes at the school lunchroom, where she is a cook.

We have been offered the use of a cottage by Bertha Stewart to have as our clubhouse for the coming year, so we really have something to look forward to next year.

We have had two community meetings this year and we feel we have had eleven wonderful get-togethers at our club meetings, and enjoyed the fellowship of each and every member.

With this record and a 90 perfect score card we did manage to win second place in the Club of the Year Contest for 1955.

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Last week President Eisenhower sent his annual budget message to Congress. The budget, precariously balanced, is now being examined and re-examined by the Appropriations Committees of the House and Senate.

The proposed budget for 1957 indicates a small surplus, in spite of the fact that the President has recommended increased spending. Expenditures are estimated at $65.9 billion, an increase over his last two budgets. However, estimated income is expected to be higher, covering the increased spending and leaving a small surplus of $400 million.

No tax cut was proposed by the President, although some believe he may make such a recommendation later in the session. But unless estimated income is much higher than expected, any tax cut would immediately throw the budget out of balance.

Uneasy Balance—

The precarious balance of the 1957 budget is also illustrated by the fact that the President has asked Congress to approve a ten-year, multi-billion-dollar highway program without including the necessary funds for such a program in his budget. Nor did he propose to Congress a method of financing the program without upsetting the balance.

Farm spending of $3.4 billion about the same as last year, has been proposed, although $400 million will be needed to pay farmers for retiring acres under the proposed soil bank. The Administration believes, however, that it can cover the soil bank cost by cutting down on price supports and by selling more of the surplus farm commodities it is now holding.

Despite the uneasy balance, it should be noted that a balanced budget has finally been recommended—the first such recommendation since the Republican Administration took office three years ago.

VA Direct Loans—

In recent months, I have received inquiries from veterans concerning unnecessary delays in obtaining direct housing loans. I found that this delay was being caused by the channeling of all VA direct housing loan applications through a government-approved but privately sponsored plan, the Voluntary Home Mortgage Credit Program.

Through this program, generally known as the VHMCP, the applications are passed around to at least three private lenders during a 45-day period. If none of the private lenders grant the loan, then the veteran must re-submit his application to the Veterans Administration itself, thereby losing 45 days in the consideration of his loan.

I also found that the VHMCP loans are more expensive than those loans granted directly by the Veterans Administration. This is true because title insurance is required of veterans under VHMCP loans, whereas the Veterans Administration does not require this insurance for its direct loans. In addition, closing costs under VHMCP are more costly than they are under the VA program.

While advocates of the VHMCP maintain that the government should not be in the lending business, it appears that the government is now in the position of soliciting business for the private lenders, a service that it does not perform for other businesses under comparable conditions.

After ascertaining this information, I reached the conclusion that a clarification of the intent of Congress regarding these two loan programs was in order. On Friday of last week I pointed this out in testimony before the House Veterans Affairs Committee. Chairman Olin Teague (D-Tex.) has assured me that this matter will be carefully considered at an early date by the full Committee.

EXTRA GOOD because it's NATURAL

CHILEAN NITRATE—WORLD'S ONLY NATURAL NITRATE

A natural fertilizer is an extra good fertilizer. Not just for crops, but also for the land; not only for today, but for the years ahead. And Chilean Nitrate is the only natural combination of nitrate nitrogen, sodium and minor elements.

Natural Chilean works fast. Small grain yields depend upon the supply of available nitrogen when spring growth begins. A Chilean top-dressing supplies life-giving plant food at the moment of greatest need.

Natural Chilean boosts yields. Its nitrogen is 100 per cent nitrate nitrogen, ready for the plant immediately after application. A top-dressing of 300 pounds per acre promotes stooling, rapid development, early maturity.

Natural Chilean fights acidity. Every ton contains sodium equal to 650 pounds of acid-destroying commercial limestone. Sodium substitutes for potash and calcium, increases available phosphate supply.

Natural Chilean benefits crop and soil. It corrects acidity, improves potash, phosphate, calcium, magnesium and minor element availabilities. Chilean Soda is one of the most efficient and economical nitrogen fertilizers for top-dressing and side-dressing. Ask for Bulldog Soda. Look for the Bulldog on the bag.

Ground Observer Corps For Alabama Heads State News

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Speaking on the need for a civil defense organiaztion this week, State CD Director Pitt Tyson Maner said current efforts are being concentrated on the development of an efficient Ground Observer Corps.

In explaining this need, Maner said: "Alabama's State Civil Defense Dept. is located . . . opposite the little White House of the Confederacy. As I look from my office window," he said, "into the rooms once occupied by Jefferson Davis, I cannot help but think that the President of the Confederacy despite all the problems that faced him, did not have to plan civil defense for Alabama against a possible sneak atomic attack.

"If Mr. Davis could return today and become our neighbor in the White House across the street, we feel that he would speedily offer his assistance in helping us urge more of our fellow Alabamians into playing more active roles in the Civil Defense program.

"Mr. Davis would take a quick look at the news and ask, "What kind of peace is this when daily there is jungle warfare in Malay: frontier clashes in the Near East: a military build-up on the China coast, looking towards Formosa and a 'cold war' blowing out of Siberia and from the Steppes?"

The former resident of the little White House would need no historian to point out that since his days most wars have started with unexpected suddeness, and from an unexpected quarter. In 1914 the Kaiser tore up a treaty—"a scrap of paper" —and sent his troops thru Belgium to the English Channel ports to start World War I. In 1939 Hitler was making noises on the banks of the Rhine at the time he ordered his forces into Poland. In 1941 the Japanese flew out of the wild, blue yonder to sink our fleet at Pearl Harbor. Mr. Davis would recall that the Romans were caught with their togas down when Hannibal amazingly crossed the Alps with his herds of elephants to attack them suddenly in their only slightly defended areas."

Then Maner gave this warning: "Today, our military leaders," he said, "are aware that our Southland could prove to be the "soft under Belly" of the Continental U. S. in the event of an enemy attack. They are not unaware," he stressed, "that some foreign bomber airfields have been built in the South Pacific area and that some mysterious air currents calle d'jet streams,' flow from our Western seaboard and at high altitudes, swing into the Gulf and curve inland over this region. Modern jets can 'ride' these jet streams."

Maner was highlighting the fact that the State this week opened its first filter center in Montgomery for a headquarters of the Ground Observer Corps. A second filter center is expected to be opened later in the year at Mobile, it has been announced.

Timber And Papermaking—

Alabama has 20 756 000 acres of woodland, the Southern Pulpwood Conservation Association reports. Ownership is broken down thus: farmers and other private owners control 16,652,000 acres; industry has 31,138,000; State and local governments, 177,000; the Federal government, 175,000 and 614,000 acres are in National Forest lands.

With newsprint and other type paper shortages developing in Canada and other U. S. regions, where pulpwood takes almost twice as long to mature, paper manufacturers have been coming more and more to Alabama, so that our woods are one of our very best resources.

Last year, for example, International Paper Company ($43,000,000); Gulf States Paper Co. ($25 000,000); Marathon Corp. ($30,000,000); Coosa River Newsprint Co. ($36,000,000). Scott Paper Co. ($21,000,000); were among major paper manufacturers who announced new plants, or expansions to existing facilities in the State. In fact, paper and chemicals led the way in the all-time record industrial expansion which occured in Alabama during 1955.

The moral should be—Don't throw lighted cigarets or matches in the woods, which are among our most valuable assets.

Other News—

A Guntersville Lake Tourist and Recreation Committee has estimated that visiting fishermen, tourists and vacationers spent about $2,000,000 in Guntersville last year . . . W D. Salmon, Head of the Dep.t of Animal Husbandry, API, Auburn reports that "On Jan. 1, 1955 there were 1,049,000 beef cattle on farms of the State, and they had a value of $47 per head, or a total value of $49,303,000 . . . Thirty years ago there 302,000 head, valued at $4,764,000."

Do You Want Self-Feeding Sows

Hogmen who carry large brood sow herds may find it too time-consuming to hand-feed pregnant animals.

G. B. Phillips, API Extension animal industry specialist, says that with the right rations, gilts and sows may be self-fed without much danger of their becoming overfat. Your county agent can tell you what rations to use.

Parking Meters Get "Tagged"

Strangers in town last Wednesday must have thought we were crazy—with all the streamers and banners and people milling about.

The occasion was the retirement of Tiny Fields—our oldest, biggest and most genial cop. He's patrolled Main Street since the early 20's. Most of the school kids he once helped cross the highway now have children of their own for him to watch over.

When he set out for his last day in uniform, every one of our 40 parking meters had a gift for him tied to it—some of them too big to wrap, like the TV set.

From where I sit, everyone was glad to see Tiny have his "day." He sure deserved it. Not that there aren't other citizens in town who deserve a little extra recognition, too. Take Andy, who runs the Green Garden Inn. By Voluntarily co-operating with that Self-Regulation Program the Brewing Industry sponsors, Andy's given us a meeting-and-eating place that the whole town can take pride in . . . always orderly, polished-up and attractive.

Folks and Things

ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

We are often asked why we do not run pictures of all the boys in service when we publish our column "How they Are and Where They Are." For the information of those who are interested the reason is simple. Some of the Camps, whether it be a Marine base, naval base, army camp or what have you, are equipped with facilities for making mats, cuts, or engravings for reprinting and others do not. When a camp is equipped thus they will send a cut or mat of the soldier along with the writeup about him. Of course when they do not have these facilities they cannot and therefore we cannot run his picture. Now we hope this clears things up. We are more than anxious to run a picture of the man in service but unless they send us a copy from the camp or either it is requested by the family we just reprint the news item as it is sent to us.

WOW what a gas bill.

They are burying Dr. W. L. Parrish today. His death is a great loss to Clanton and Chilton County. He spent much of his time in public work and we are sure thousands in Chilton County and thruout Alabama mourn his passing.

Let's make L. E. Diefenderfer our next Mayor. It won't be long before time comes around to elect a Mayor and Councilmen for Clanton and we can't think of a man better fitted for the office of mayor than is "Dief."

"Help me never to judge another until I have walked two weeks in his moccasins."

Howard Boockholdt, County Supt. of Education, tells us that his office staff will appear on Channels 7 and 10 next Monday night. 7-7:30. The program is one in a series of programs on School Organizations.

Glen Bashore brings another honor to Chilton County. At the annual meeting of the Alabama Plaintiff's Association held at the Redmont Hotel at Birmingham on January 6, Glen was elected vice-president for the northern district of Alabama. We want to congratulate Glen on the recognition of his abilities and on this signal honor.

"I hear you and your husband are not getting along well together."

"Of all the silly, vicious rumors! Oh, it's true we had an argument and I shot him—but that's as far as it ever went."

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS

from The Bible

For this is the love of God, that we keep His commandments: and His commandments are not grievous.—(I John 5,3.)

We may profess with words and gestures that we love God, and yet by our actions which violate even one of His commandments, be a living denial of our protestations, in church or out. Loving God, obeying Him, is no part-time, half-hearted thing.

Chilton To Send Six Selectees In February

State Selective Service Director James W. Jones said today that Alabama will be required to order 316 men for the February call to fill its share of the nation-wide call of 6,000 men. The entire 6,000 men will be inducted into the Army as the Navy did not place a call with the Selective Service System for February; however, we have advance notice that the Navy will place a call for approximately 10,000 men in March. The State Director pointed out that the call for February will not include any registrants under 21 years of age unless they have volunteered for service.

Chilton County will supply six inductees as its part of this quota.

Round Corn Seed Cuts Production Cost, Raises Profit

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama farmers who are looking for ways to cut crop production costs without depressing already low returns have a sure thing in round-grade corn seed. Round seed, which come from the butt and tip ends of the cob, not only cost far less than the flat, middle kernels, but they also yield as well. In fact, results of 80 tests conducted in 10 states from Nebraska east, including Alabama, indicate that the round grades may actually yield a little higher than do the flat ones.

Giving this report here this week, Seed Crop Speciaist Ralph R. Jones of the API Extension Service said relative yields were figured for test plantings of butt, tip, and middle kernels of corn. In seven of the 10 states, round, butt kernels made yields little higher than those of the flat, middle kernels. And tip kernels also round, yieded somewhat more than the fault seed in eight states.

Insulate Pond Gate Valve As Freeze Protection

Auburn, Ala.—The exposed part of a farm pond drain is in danger during this cold weather. Water in it can freeez, bursting the pipe.

This warning comes from API Extension Fish and Wildlife Specialist Earl F. Kennamer, who for several years has been recommending that pond owners put drain pipe valves outside the dam, where they are easier to operate. Speaking in Auburn this week, he explained that an outside valve allows water to remain backed up in the pipe under the dam. The part of the pipe that's under the dam is naturally protected from the cold. But, as Kennamer pointed out, water in the valve and the bit of pipe that's out in the open can freeze whenever the mercury dives low enough, so they ought to be covered with some kind of insulating material.

The specialist said the covering can be a foot or more of soil or a commercial insulator.

State Farmers Will Return To Pork During '56

Auburn, Ala.—Again this year, Alabama farmers have indicated their intentions to increase market hog production. And this decision is especially significant in view of the fact that national hog numbers will go down in 1956.

G. B. Phillips of the API Extension Service said in reporting the declared plans of Alabama growers to produce a 10 per cent bigger spring pig crop that such a decision shows hogmen here recognize the basic soundness of market hog production.

Hog prices have been at a low point for a couple of years now, and Phillips gave this fact as one reason why many producers are getting out of the business. He said overall national hog production is expected to be down about two per cent this spring.

Our farmers are not "in and outers," Phillips commented. "For several years now, hog production in this state has increased more rapidly than in most other states of the country. And the plans of our growers to expand their operations again this year indicates that Alabama will continue to play a bigger and bigger part in the nation's hog industry."

Big Seed Pieces Act As A Good Freeze Insurance

Auburn, Ala.—Alabama farmers this year have new proof of the wisdom of using large, blocky seed pieces to plant Irish potatoes. Records of a crop planted here before the late March freeze in 1955 show potatoes are one crop that can be insured against freeze damage.

An account of this crop was included this week in API Extension Horticulturist John Bagby's arguments for the planting of generous seed pieces. He said an API Experiment Station crop, in which seed pieces averaging one and one-half ounces apiece were planted and other good production practices used, made 396 bushels of Irish potatoes per acre, even after the very low temperatures in March. The state's average potato yield was 67 bushels per acre

Bagby explained that the extra food reserve furnished by big potato "yield" help young plants get through a period of freezing weather. Also the more generous seed pieces are less likely to rot than thin, narrow ones.

Leaf losses for field-cured alfalfa hay are more than one and one-half times as great as those for barn-dried hay.

Benjamin Franklin summed up the secrets of success in four short words: Speak little do much.

NOTHING BUT PRAISE—

Chilton County's new $650,000 hospital has already earned itself a name and reputation of which you've never seen the like. We're sure it's due to the splendid co-operation between the office staff and the nurses and doctors, but whatever the cause, we're proud to be able to use its vast facilities.

And that's what we wanted to mention; we've yet to see anyone or talk with anyone about the subject who had an unkind word or a dissatisfied attitude after profiting from the new hosptal's services.

The facilities have proven to be tops, the front office, headed by Dave Morgan, administrator, couldn't be better and the nurses and doctors are most satisfying and self-sacrificing in many instances.

We've all something to be proud of in this, our new county hospital. All we ask is that all of you who profit from this great investment, show your appreciation by trying your best to co-operate with the hospital staff and try to keep up the grounds and building the best way you know how.

Theirs, at the new hospital is no easy task you know, and we have observed, so we can speak with some little authority. There is not a one who doesn't do two people's work when necessary and we've yet to hear them gripe.

You've got something to be proud of in your new Chilton County Hospital. It's a blessiing to our county and one long overdue in some respects. And Chiltonians are proud of it, very proud; we know any number who will testify to that fact.

SELDEN RECEIVES FAVORABLE COMMENTS—

Favorable comments on Congressman Selden's Weekly Report from Washington to the people continues. Fact is, if all public offícals would take a lesson from Congressman Selden's endeavor to keep the people informed on what is going on in the national capitol or in their own official quarters, there would be more confidence expressed by the people in their duly elected representatives. Too much "hush-hush" and lack of information on matters holding mutual interest often begets a lack of trust that is not always justified by factual evidence.

After all, any public official is only a custodian of the office he holds and citizens who placed him there are entitled to "facts and figures" when asked for them.

Therefore, we again tender our thanks to Congressman Selden, who, week after week, through the press, keeps his constituents informed of exactly what is happening on Capitol Hill in Washington, states how he voted on controversial issues and why he so voted.

It is indeed heartening to find a man who realizes his obligation to the people he represents.—Shelby County Reporter.

AND THEN THERE WERE NONE

It has been our gratifying privilege lately, and yours if you so desired, to observe the increasing concern over traffic and its problems in the City of Clanton and other towns in our County.

The concern is gratifying, but some of the solutions to our concerning problems are not so practical.

Pointing at no one in particular, we can truthfully say that there are certain traffic problems that have yet to be met, and are increasing in their necessity every day.

A for instance is this: Two particular corners in our city are extremely hazardous to any motorist no matter how careful because they are hopelessly and completely "blind."

The corner at 3rd Ave. and 5th St. or at Jim Wade and Patterson Hicks residence is such that it is going to kill or injure someone in the near future.

The corner a block up from that at J. Lee Smith's residence is a similar prospect for an accident.

We have a suggestion.

It seems feasble to us and also could be very practical, since we probably can't afford two traffic lights.

What could solve the problem would be THREE-WAY traffic signals, but we can't afford them right now.

A yellow light is of no practical use, because it does not delegate any authority to anyone in particular.

Let's look at it this way: The only solution as we see it, is to make it unlawful for any car to park within twenty or thirty feet of the corner in all direcions on either side of the street. Make no exceptions, and put some sort of signs up to insure public recognition.

If we do not come up with some solution to this problem there is going to be an accident.

We're almost sure any of you had rather walk an extra block in good health than be carried two miles in a bad state. We should consider this problem . . . not afer some catastrophe . . . that's the way we do things too many times as it is.

From Printing Press To You---

Have You Ever Wondered How The Paper You Read Is Printed

Part IV—

This past week we spoke on making up newspapers, of which we did not elaborate too greatly, because of the technical terms, which we are not capable of explaining thoroughly enough for you to see them clearly, but we hope you did get an idea of the time element involved in that phase of the newspaper business and learned of the vast amount of materials and equipment that is necessary. We did fail to mention last week that from the Linotype machine down to the make-up department, the average working day until the paper is in the post office is about 14 hours. Sometimes it's a good deal longer tha nthan, but seldom to run shorter. There's a great deal of overtime in a printing office, as in many other businesses.

And now, to press, after getting things ready and off of the "stones" the pages are ready to go to press [illegible] printing. "Put to bed" is the term usually used for going to press and it means that there's another four pages to be gotten out.

The Cylinder press is capable of putting out 1500 papers an hour. That is not complete papers, but the four pages we mentioned. In other words, running a 16 page paper would require four runs of the Cylinder press. At four pages at a time and 1500 impressions an hour, that's approximately 10 to 12 hours of press time alone. (This being because you cannot average 1500 an hour; that's what the press will do if you keep it going constantly.)

Pages are locked on the cylinder bed flat down, two to a side. They are secured by bolts which lock a flat bar across the back of the outside page and one on the other end that is stationary. The pages or forms then go back and forth under rollers that have been locked down to touch them and the process goes something like this:

The feeder or pressman is situated above the bed where the pages are and actually stands on the the press itself. He feeds paper into the top of the press onto a drum (cylinder) which takes the paper by grippers around clockwise and as it goes down the bed with the pages on it (which has been moving out at the same time the drum has been moving down) is on its way back under the rollers and touches the paper as they meet. The drum goes on around and the bed goes back from where it came. A set of grippers on the other side takes the paper off of the drum and onto a table in front of the press. This, roughly, completes the cycle, and in the meantime the pressman has put another into the press to do the same thing.

The pressman has a job that keeps him pretty much on his toes. He has to feed the paper, watch the ink, keep the forms checked for workups (things printing that aren't supposed to) and the like. He busy and should he miss the grippers on top of the press, he then has to clean the paper off the rollers, which is a pretty messy job. If the paper misses any one of the several grippers it more than likely will tear off in the ink rollers and be ripped to shreds.

After papers come off of the press they go onto another machine called a folder. This is not a mechnical operation however, and the folder feeder has to pick up the stock from the press board and deposit it in a position to feed it thru the folder. The folder is not one of the most technical machines mechanically speaking, but it does a great service in getting the paper ready to mail.

The folder is a maze of belts and rollers. The paper is fed into one end of the machine and after going through four or five foldin operations, it comes out the other end of the machine in the shape and form which you receive it in your home and business.

The paper is folded in eight page sections (four pages backing up four more) or it can fold to twelve pages [illegible] inserting a four page section on the side of the machine each time an eight page section is sent in. This process takes two men on the folder, but is convenient when a twelve page paper is being run.

Should a sixteen page paper be required that week then the two eight page sections have to be folded separately and then one chucked into the other. This requires extra help, but usually is absorbed by the regular force during those extra hours (usually between 6 p.m. and 2 a.m.) that they have so much of.

The paper having been chucked (sometimes requiring two chucks for instance with a sixteen page paper plus the monthly farm insert) it is then sent to the mailing depart which is the machine which stamps the individual names on each paper. The mailer is a simple hand operated machine with "plates" in it with each subscriber's name and address on it. These plates are kept in trays in the mailing cabinet and are paced, from the tray, into the mailing machine which feeds them back down into their own tray, after stamping. It is a simple, but very efficient way to assure you of getting your paper.

The papers are then sorted into different bundles, some tied, some wrapped together and some rolled seperately. All the south bound papers in the state go in one bag, all the south bound papers out of state go in another, and all the south in county goes in another, and so forth all the way through. The City of Clanton and the Clanton routes, which go directly into the post office do not have to be wrapped or sacked, but tied in the different routes and carriers.

After the papers are sacked they are tagged and taken to the post office by the same crew that rewrote copy, typed copy, set the type, read the proofs, made up the pages, fed the press and folder, chucked the papers, mailed them and finally sacked them and here they go.... to you.

(Next week's article will be number V and we will attempt to summarize and tell you a few technicalities that we have overlooked or feel might be of interest to you. We might give you a quick peek at the News force, in case you're interested in who gets it out.)

things we See

and Hear

By "TUCK"

It isn't that luxuries are so expensive these days; it's just that there are so many luxuries.

Big mouths usually become small [illegible] upon entering a dentist's [illegible]. Wonder why?

Well, the little woman picked the most likely day of the year to present us with Teresa Nell (we call her Terri.) We had, just that morning gone down, and very self,satisfyingly had three teeth removed. We went to bed at 8:30 and she got us up at 9:30. Gettin' back to Terri, however; she weighed in at 8 lbs and 10 ounces and takes after her old man (naturally). Yeh, she has coal black hair (and a lot of it ours is dark brown (and we'll skip the amount); she has dark eyes (which don't focus too well at present) we have light blue eyes (two of a kind); and she . . . See she looks just like us. Course after a few months she won't look much like us . . . by then she should have some teeth. (To tell you the truth, we're kinda hopin' we don't have any at that time).

Anyways, Terri and little mother are doing swell, thank you. Me and Bud, well, hang around and we'll let you know. The odds are even now, and with us on his side, we don't figure he has much chance, of dominating the household. We'll go down swingin' though, won't we Bud.

Even an ulterior looking motive sometimes has a nobler meaning than you might think.

So many times we expect spiritual help and guidance to show up physically that we miss entirely the answer to our prayers.

We'd like to thank Miss Hilda Cox for the fine batch of candy she brought to us the other day. Man, when you want some real sho' nuff good chocolate fudge here's the gal who can whip you up a batch. It was the best we ever have eaten, and we shore are gonna try to be around the next time she decides to prove her talents. Thanks again Hilda.

UNGRATIFYING—

. . . unpleasant, and unappreciated. Unappreciated you say? That's what we said, unappreciated. But literally, the job in mention is not so unappreciated as it is unnoticed.

We're speaking of the good job the Sanitation Department of Clanton and Chilton County does compared with the recognition and approval they receive.

It's not entirely your fault or mine. It's a lack of eductaion to the fact that these men and those like them everywhere do such an enormous public service.

Think of the communicable diseases which would go unmolested and unabated through our society if it were not for those who keep our homes and businesses clear of breeding grounds for these diseases.

These men are human, like you and I; they are paid, as we are paid; their job gets monotonous, just like ours. It's no wonder they wear a chip on their shoulder. Their task is so much greater than the gratitude they receive that they are usually dissatisfied with their job.

Citizens can remedy this situation.

We can approve their work when it could stand approving. They are on hand many times in case of emergency, but seldom get recognition for things above and beyond their regular call of duty.

They don't get paid near enough for the job they do. Perhaps we could help out that situation by giving them some reason to be proud of their work and their job.

Should you get the chance, tell them you appreciate the work they do. Tell them that without them we wouldn't be nearly so well off. Tell them that they are a part of our community and our way of life, and tell them that they're appreciated by our community and its folks.

Hogmen Excel In Big Litters

Alabama growers do one of the nation's best jobs of raising big litters of pigs.

Proof of this fact was given in a port of the country's 1955 fall pig U. S. Department of Agriculture recrop. Producers here raised an average of seven pigs per litter; the national average was 6.8.

G. B. Phillips, API Extension meat animal specialist, said this week in commenting on the USDA figures that five years ago state hogmen were raising only 6.4 pigs per litter. He added that, although we have made substantial gains in this respect, hog producers are still losing much profit they could make by saving even more pigs. According to the specialist, the average number of pigs saved from each litter would be raised considerably if every farmer in the state used up-to-date farrowing equipment and better feeding practices.

Singley, Delbert Collins, Carlton Collins, Dewey Davenport, Sam T. Bentley, E. F. Billingsley, Frank Porter and the Rev. B. B. Burks. The theme for the meeting "Reaching Forth" was emphasized by the following speakers: The Rev. Lamar Jackson, First Church, Ensley; Mr. Glendon McCullough from Druid Hill Baptist Church in Atlanta; and Mr. W. R. Roberts, State Brotherhood Secretary of Mississippi. Their messages were helpful to all who attended. We rejoice that the Chilton-Unity Association had second place in attendance for the District. Bro. Joe Williams presided very gracefuly throughout the entire session. The charter night for the organization of a Brotherhood in our church is set for Monday, February 13th. This wil be a supper meeting at which time the Nominating Committee will recommend officers for the Brotherhood. Following the organization, we will have an inspirational address. The name of the speaker will be announced later.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Burks and two sons from Pensacola, Florida, were Sunday dinner guests of the Rev. and Mrs. B. B. Burks.

Fellowship Hour will be inaugurated in our church next Sunday night at the close of the worship service. This hour will be conducted primarily for the children and youth of our church family. Many of our children are looking forward to the opportunity to share in this period of fellowship.

The Sunday School workers in our church will attend the Associational Sunday School meeting which is to be conducted at the Liberty Hill Baptist Church next Sunday afternoon at 2:30.

The pastor began teaching the course recommended by the Southern Baptist Convention for Bible study in January and taught for one week the subject "Teachings of Jesus" by Leo Eddleman. Those who attended became so interested in the subject that there was a desire expressed to continue this study on Wednesday nights until the course is completed.

The Rev. L. D. Brookshire of the Libehrty Hill Church brought a fine message to our people last Wednesday night on the subject of missions. The theme he used was "Debtors to All Men'. This message was very deeply appreciated by all who heard it.

Friends of Mrs. Carlton Collins will be very glad to know that she is making rapid improvement and there is a possibility that she will be able to be brought home from the University Hospital in Birmingham in the last of this week. Friends of Mrs. Ben Davenport will be glad to know that the latest report is that her general condition is improved.

Benefit Basket Ball Game—

The Basket Ball game, held Saturday night, January 28, could certainly be called an outstanding one The men, in dresses played the ladies in bluejeans. There was difficulty in determining the men, they were so smartly attired. If a prize had been offered, possible it would have been a tie between Sanders Champion and Hubert Ellison, not omitting to mention Willard Cost Houston Porter, Dwight Cobb, Ronnie Ellison, and Ed Davenport Billy Cofer and John Henry Bice Hubert could be considered the swiftest one, as he skimmed over the floor, though the younger ones were exceptionally good. Larry Cobb threw a goal. Just have to hand it to the players The ladies—well they did just fine.

As Coach Eubanks declared the men winners, he met with an avalanche. The ladies almost stamped him. Just a lot of fun.

Mrs. Cannaday, physical education teacher, assisted Coach Eubanks in the game

Mrs. Reever and the committee report almost $125 from the game drinks, pie, cake, coffee, peanuts and balloons.

New Minimum Wage Laws Will Greatly Affect Alabama

Birmingham, Ala.—The impact of the new minimum wage on the South will be three times as great as the area next affected, Newell Brown, Administrator of the U. S. Labor Department's Wage and Hour Division, told the Alabama Press Association here.

He said that in terms of wages which must be increased, the annual national payroll would go up around .7 percent, but added that 'Payroll impact will not be measured entirely in terms of wages which must be raised from below one dollar."

"In order to maintain appropriate spreads between the wages paid more and less skilled workers, raises for the lower paid will bring in their wake, in many instances, increase for workers now paid a dollar or more.

Brown said the industries primarily concerned in Alabama will be sawmills, where 5-6 of the workers are paid less than a dollar; work clothing, men's and boys' dress shirts, and men's seamless hosiery Recent figures indicate that 28 per cent of manufacturing workers in the South are earning less than one dollar.

The increase on March 1 can have effects on the plus and minus side. "On the minus side there may be changes in the duration of unemployment, and a slow down in shift of industrial plants to the South," he said.

"On the plus side, there is added pay in the pockets of wage earners. The general standards of living may go up. Businesses which sell consumer goods may well be advantaged."

He said a comprehensive analysis is under way to supply correct information about the effect of the increase. The information will be available for use by Congress in any future consideration of possible raises in the minimum wage.

The investigation staff of the Wage and Hour Division is being supplemented by 37 new men in the Southeast, according to Brown This will bring to 85 the total investigators in the five-state area Alabama investigators are being increased from 12 to 20.

He said the prime responsibility of investigators would be to look into situations where violations of the Wage and Hour Law were likely, but added they will be spending some time informing affected workers and employers about the law

The Washington Labor official said that inquiries under the law should be directed to Homer E Krog, Regional Director of the Wage and Hour Division. Mr Krog is located at 1007 Comer Building, in Birmingham.

New Farm Building Designed For Many Uses At API

Auburn, Ala.—A farm building that's adaptable for many uses has been designed by API Experiment Station engineers.

The plan is now available to farmers through their county agents said W. T. Cox of the API Extension Service this week in announcing its completion. He explained that the pole-type building, basically a low cost machinery shed, can be turned into a poutry house or other animal shelter, grain storage building, or farm shop with only minor alterations.

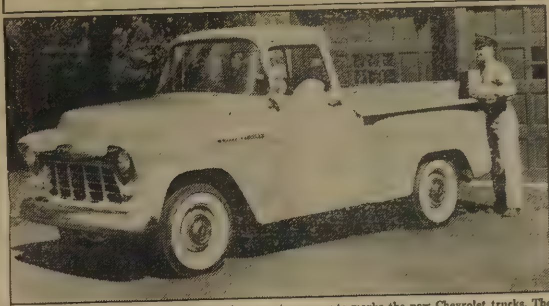
Cox, who is Extension farm buildings specialist, said attractive features of the plan are that the shed can be made mostly of home-grown materials, is functional and simple to build, and has a reasonable life expectancy. He commented that the building's lost cost depends, in part, on the roof, which is designed for greatest economy possible under Alabama conditions. Actually Cox said, all materials for the structure can be purchased for less than 50 cents per square foot. If home-produced materials are used, the cost is even less.

Put up in units so that it can be as large as desired, the shed has a framing of treated poles and rough-cut lumber. Roofing is preferably metal.

Commenting that two of these sheds have been in use by Experiment Station units for the past 18 months, Cox said thousands of such buildings are needed on Alabama farms. He pointed out that increased trade-in value of machinery which has been protected from weather will more than pay for cost of the shed.

The national average investment in farm land, machinery, and equipment now stands at over $14,000 per worker.

Chevrolet Introduces New Trucks



Headed by a newly developed automatic transmission, tubeless tires and more powerful six- and eight-cylinder engines, an impressive list of improvements marks the new Chevrolet trucks. The above half-ton pickup typifies the styling, visibility and convenience of the 1956 line.

Home Gardens Also Need Good Seedbeds

It's pretty well understood that good seedbeds are necessary for crops which are planted, cultivated and harvested mechanically. But home gardens need good seedbeds also, even when they are managed entirely by hand.

According to API Extension Horticulturist John Bagby, seedbed preparation is especially important for gardens because so many of the plants included have small seed that won't make good stands unless the ground is well pulverized and smoothed. He suggested that the following preparations be made 10 days to two weeks before planting Turn ground with a plow or spade then rake or harrow it to break up clods and smooth the soil. Furrows should be opened and fertilizer applied at this time.

Ala. Vetch Shines In Miss. Tests

Auburn, Ala.—The excellenca of an Alabama-developed vetch variety has been confirmed by tests in a neighboring state.

From Stoneville, Miss., comes word that Auburn woolypod vetch which was developed by the API Experiment Station, yielded an average of 602 pounds per acre more than hairy vetch in four out of five years since the fall of 1950.

Giving this report, API Extension Seed Specialist Ralph R. Jones said Auburn Wolypod is not yet available commercially. However practical result demonstration crops are now being grown on several farms in the State. And Jones added to determine the possibilities of producing commercially acceptable seed for use in Alabama.

Early Chicks Bring Higher Price

Best assurance of high egg profits is a good-quality, low-cost pullet coming into production at the right time. And the "right time," according to API Extension Poultryman Hoyt M. Warren, is July and August, when egg prices in Alabama normally take an upward swing. As Warren explains, plans for taking advantage o fthe price rise must be made right now, for chicks must be started no later than February if they are to reach the laying house by July.

Warren says further reason for starting chicks right away is that second-year hens usually moult in late summer and early fall, so young pullets must replace them if production is to be kept up.

Alabama's annual Dairy Herd Improvement Association meeting will be held in Auburn Feb. 22-23.

Cattlemen Find Elec. Dehorner O.K.

An electric dehorner is by far the handiest tool to use in dehorning young calves, according to API Extension Livestockman W. H. Gregory. He saws the deheorner, which costs about the same as an electric ..., leaves no sore when the button has dropped off and therefore involves less danger of weight losses.

Before a farmer plans his cropping system, he would do well to give some thought to what the market situation will be for certain products when he is ready to sell

Get the most out of tea. Bring water to a full, rolling boil; pour it on the tea. Let it steep three to five minutes to extract full flavor. If too strong dilute with boiling water.

A piece of charcoal in the refrigerator will help absorb the odor of onions, fish, or other strong flavored foods.

Community Missions Chairmen Are Reminded Of Their Tasks

Did you know Community Mission Chairman, that you have a great work to do this quarter? Each Chairman has a goal to reach. And soul winning is a very important part of her job.

Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord (Psalms 33:12). A Christian nation is built by Christian men and women who recognize their responsibility and duties as well as their rights.

Each chairman is responsible for planning young peoples groups with special emphasis on enlisting new members and keeping the other members. She should have cottage prayer meetings during the month of March.

I will be happy to help any one who needs my service.

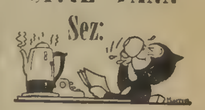
CIVIE TANN



(A weekly report on local Civitan affairs)

The ball game Saturday was a moderate and run-of-the-mill success according to the Jaycees and some of the Civitan boys.

It seems that we Civitans beat Ye Ole Jaycees by a midieval score of 72 to 37. The take . . . or rather the collection gathered therefrom was $45.85, which, as we said last week went entirely to the March of Dimes drive

The cheerleaders were out-of-this world, especially Garvis McGee, (he's the only one that showed up.) Guess the rest of the "girls" got cold brogans. At any rate, Garvis earned his gold star and good citizenship award which will be presented to him sometime later in the year (1975).

The amount taken in helped the March of Dimes out and the exercise derived from the game, we are sure, helped the boys. (What we can't figure out is what happened to Hershel Wright, our head cheerleader. Charles Bates and Richard Easterling acted as officials for the game, a sizeable job for any man.

We still have plenty of those "nutty as a fruit" cakes on hand folks. We're really letting go. We're slashing our prices beyond recognition. We're really letting the cat out of the bag. They still sell for $1 per pound. Better get 'em while they're still fruit cakes.

Gentlemen: Meeting time is tonight at 7:30. A regular meeting so that means wear your regular manners, [illegible] regular suit, and a whop-sided grin See you there.

Home Grown Farm Foods Are Cheaper

A farmer who buys food that can be produced at home pays more than twice as much for it as the produce would be worth on the farm.

This statement was made by API Extension Economist Foy Helms in giving reasons why Alabama farm folks should grow much of their food at home. He explained that farmers get only about 40 cents of each dollar spent for food. The other 60 cents go to pay transportation, processing, and other marketing costs. So the farmer is paying far more for his product than he can get for it when he buys food at retail prices.

Honeymoon Carpet Contest Offers Mexican Holiday, Free Floor Cover To Winners Here

How would you like a free holiday in Mexico? A wonderful excitement-packed seven days can be yours for only twenty-five words.

Morrison Furniture Company is offering you the opportunity to participate in Lees Heavenly Carpet Contest, featuring Honeymoon Carpets.

All you have to do to win a "Heavenly Holiday" in Mexico is come into Morrison Furniture Co. and pick one of the three Honeymoon carpets on display in the Heavenly Carpet Contest center tell why you chose that particular carpet in twenty-five words or less and mail in your entry.

The twenty winners of the Heavenly Carpet Contest will fly to Mexico City via American Airlines flagship. They will then stay for seven gorious days at the I. H. C Hotel Reforma, which boasts ultra-modern accomodations combined with Mexican charm. While vacationing at the Reforma, the twenty winners will be guests of the hotel at the fabulous Chantecalir Night-club for an evening of entertainment.

Three of the Honeymoon Carpets on display at Morrisons Furniture Company are "Innovation", "Valley Forge", and Twinkletuft" and the full color line in each fabric is also shown.

Honeymoon carpets by James Lees and Sons which Morrison Furniture Company will be featuring during the Spring season, offer a combination of rich, stylish colors, functional textures and are sold at a level geared to the newlywed budget, or for the quality-wise homemaker.

Carpet that combines both good looks and durability with a modest price tag is finding its market with the smart young married set of today.

Pointing up this trend for stylish quality carpet with an inexpensive price tag is the fact that Morrison Furniture Company is taking advantage of James Lees and Sons service in selecting a group of carpets called Honeymoon Carpets, which have all the desirable features that make them at home in a growing household.

"Innovation" is a random textured, high and low loop carpet having a three-dimensional effect which may be utilized in a functional modern approach or may be a wonderful base for traditional or contemporary modern decor.

"Twinkletuft" offers the virtue of the tweed family—a multi-colored loop pile that can harmonize a variety of color schemes for the homemaker.

"Valley Forge", a plush pile texture with a quality color line can be utilized in almost any setting, modern, traditional or contemporary and combines the look of luxury with budget-wise prices.

The Heavenly Carpet Contest offers a local prize in addition to the twenty grand prize winners. Morrison Furniture Company will award a 9' x 12' Honeymoon Carpet to the local winner. If the winner has purchased carpet during this contest, then the cash equivalent of a 9' x 12' Honeymoon Carpet will be paid the winner.

PERFORMANCE
Largest Selling "8" in the World...

the FORD V-8

Just look at these official registration figures for the first 11 months—January through November, 1955

Here's why!

	Car Sales	Ford Sales Leadership
FORD V-8	1,241,742	——
Car C—V-8	634,376	607,366
Car P—V-8	262,870	978,872
Car C—Six	845,153	396,589
Car P—Six	334,540	907,202

People just naturally go for 8 cylinders in the FORD package!

And to a world record extent!

Just think, in the first 11 months of 1955 alone, 344,496 more people bought Ford V-8's than the two other low-priced competitive eights combined!

Of course, the reason the Ford V-8 is the largest selling eight-cylinder car in the world is that more people like its brand of performance—the kind that comes with the car!

These people aren't amateurs in judging engines. Nearly 24 years of building Ford V-8's to supply their demand is convincing proof of that.

And the Ford V-8 of today is the best yet . . . by a country mile!

Smoother and quieter—you can scarcely hear it, even with the hood up! Sassier—just ask the highway patrol officer who drives one. He knows it takes a Ford to catch a Ford!

And, for the very practical question of durability—ask a Ford cab driver. He knows how Fords take it days on end.

So, if it's performance that you want—and wrapped like a gift—the '56 Ford V-8 is your baby.

Come in . . . try it today! F.C.A.

—By Ben

Our next door neighbor has successfully undergone an appendectomy and is due to return home from the hospital today. We're speaking of Evelyn Veazey down at Clanton Home & Auto Supply. We missed her smiling, friendly manner and hope she will soon be up and back at her old job.

Speaking of sick people we're glad to report that Macy Jones has returned home from the hospital and so has James Parr, Manager down at Elmore's. Both are on the road to recovery and we wish them a speedy one.

Sheriff Odell Payton and his deputies were out Tuesday night looking for corn and they found plenty. Now this was told to us about midnight and being a sleepyhead we can't tell all that was told to us but we will give you a rough idea what it was all about. Seems the Shedriff and his men saw a station wagon that looked like it was riding a little too heavy and having their eyes peeled for carriers of "corn" they stopped it to investigate. Well they made arrests all right and the charge was for transporting corn but not the kind you possibly have in mind. The station wagon was occupied by two young boys and their car was loaded with the stuff. But it was still in the ear. The arrests was made because the Sheriff found the load of corn to have been stolen. One of the boys was brought back and lodged in the county jail, the other was left in the custody of his father to report on Wednesday. It just goes to show that you can get in trouble from carrying more than one kind of "corn" in Chilton County.

Hear about the boy who asked if his grandfather was a little deaf? "A little deaf"? the friend answered. "why yesterday he conducted family prayer kneeling on the cat."

This is Boy Scout Week and the local Den has a handicraft display at the Upchurch Drug Company. It is displayed in the front window and you go by and take a look. Mrs. Dent Williams, Den Mother, and Mrs. F. E. Wray, assistant, urges all who can to visit the window to see what the boys are doing. They're proud of them and so are we. We're proud of Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Wray too, for their untiring work with the boys.

Wonder if Louie Smith has learned to park parellel yet.

Gletty Reports On Pensions

Here is a copy of a letter forwarded to me by Mr. Selden:

Committee on Ways and Means,
House of Representatives, Wash. D. C., Jan. 25, 1956.

Honorable Armistead I. Selden, Jr.
House of Representatives,

Dear Congressman Selden:

This letter is written with respect to your recent communication, making available to the members of the committee on Ways and Means, a letter from Mr. Wes Gletty, forwarding a petition in support of legislation that would provide a $100.00 a month, Federal pension to all persons 60 years of age and over.

Because the committee has not yet met to establish a legislative agenda for consideration, during the current session of the 84th Congress, I am unable to advise you as to what action may be taken with respect to Social Security legislation.

You may be assured that the views of your constituent will be made available to the committee at such time as it meets to give consideration to ammendments the Social Security act.

Sincerely yours,
-s- Leo H. Irvin, Clerk.

Let's get busy and flood our representatives with these petitions. This is election year, and if we push them hard enough, they will begin to take some notice. There is no more worthy aim than to care for our aged and disabled.

WES GLETTY, Rt. 5 Clanton.

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Dr. W. L. Parrish wish to thank their many friends for their thoughtfulness and kindness during their recent bereavement. Especially do we thank Dr. S. J. Ezell, Rev. R. W. Stuckey, Rev. G. G. Williams, Rev. G. H. Carroll and the wonderful flower ladies.

Words can never tell you all what your friendship and love meant to us in our grief.

State Audit Shows Chilton In Good Financial Shape

An audit of the Board of Revenue and Control for the two fiscal periods covering October 1, 1953 thru September 30, 1954 and October 1, 1954 through September 30, 1950 has just been released by the State Examiners of Public Accounts.

Each audit showed that all the various county funds operated well within their budget appropriated by the Board of Revenue and Control and that there was a substantial amount of unencumbered cash on hand at the close of each fiscal year. That amount was increased $39,173.02 in the second fiscal year to stand at $125,417.83 more cash on hand than was owed for current bills on September 30, 1955.

The county has not owed any long term indebtedness such as bond or gasoline warrants since 1953, and was under its constitutional debt limit by $512,263.55 on September 30, 1955.

Favorable comment was made on apparent savings effected in purchases by sealed bids.

Very few minor exceptions, clerical in nature only, were noticed in the claims paid.

A correct inventory is maintained up-to-date which reflects the non-expendable property owned by the county.

General Fund revenue and balance forwarded for October 1, 1954, thru September 30, 1955, was $129,367.20 against expenditures of $118,630.97, reflecting an unencumbered balance of $10,736.23.

Revenue and balance forwarded for the Gasoline Tax Fund for that period was $296,839.88 against expenditures of $278,693.29, reflecting an unencumbered balance of $18,146.59.

Revenues and balance forwarded for the Gasoline Tax Paving Fund for that period was $147,401.35 against expenditures of $93,300.99 reflecting an unencumbered balance of $55,100.36.

There was a balance unencumbered of $19,981.98 in the Public Highway and Traffic Fund, ear-marked for roads and bridges.

Producers To Share In Wool Incentives

Auburn, Ala.—A change in the governments' wool incentive program this year will benefit hundreds of Alabama farmers.

The new provision, which becomes effective April 1, enables growers who produce feeder lambs to get a share in incentive payments.

Commenting on the change, API Extension Livestockman W. H. Gregory said this week that until now payments have been made when lambs were sold for slaughter. Thus, only the feeder got an incentive for a lamb.

Under the new regulation, payments will be made each time a lamb is sold. Incentives are figured on the basis of weight gains during ownership of at least 30 days.

Cause Unknown

Fish Die By Thousands In Lakes Lay And Mitchell

Fishing, a source of income to many Chilton Countians, is being virtually ruined in Lakes Lay and Mitchell. Fish are dying by the hundreds of thousands in these spots and are covering the banks of the river. Cause of the killing has not been determined as yet.

For the past nine months an increasingly large number of fish has been found dead without apparent reason in Lake Lay and for the past few months the scourge has moved down into Lake Mitchell. Reports are that Lake Jordan is now showing evidence of being reached by the death-dealing menace.

Theories on the cause range from starvation to lack of oxygen in the water, but no one has shown sufficient proof to back any theory to date. Industrial plants up-stream have been checked for possible discharges of harmful wastes in the water. With the exception of one, the plants have given their wholehearted cooperation in determining if they could possibly be polluting the water. The local committee investigating the plants found their disposal methods to be quite safe for the fish life.

A committee from Chilton County took the case before Bill Drinkard, State Conservation Director, last Friday. Drinkard pledged his full support and plans to conduct all tests possible by the state laboratories.

Fishing is a great past-time in these parts, affording recreation to a number of our citizens as well as to many out-of-county folks. The revenue brought in Chilton County, directly and indirectly, as a result of our two lakes is a staggering figure. The Coosa has become the mecca of Alabama fishermen and gives promise of becoming a Central Alabama vacation attraction.

A meeting has been called for Friday night, February 10th, for the purpose of organizing a Chilton County Sportsmen Club which will lead in the drive to correct the situation in our lakes and to find the underlying cause of the deaths and eliminate it. The meeting will be held at the Courthouse in Clanton at 7:00 tomorrow night. All persons who are interested in conserving our natural resources are asked to attend and are invited to become a member.

State Farmers Are Rich In Information

Auburn, Ala.—When a farmer follows recommendations in planting approved corn seed, he's getting the benefit of many years' and thousands of dollars worth of research.

So says Ralph R. Jones, API Extension seed crop specialist. Speaking of Alabama plantings in the season that's just ahead, he said this week that 20 recommended hybrid varieties are available, with some suitable for growth in every part of the state.

"Variety recommendations are the result of careful expermentation and weeding out by API Experiment Station scientists," Jones pointed out. Twenty-three corn varieties were eliminated in tests for this year. Many others had already been checked off in preliminary tests."

As the specialist explained, 10 of the 20 varieties o nthe 1955 approved list are yellow corn; the other 10 are white. "A farmer can choose a good variety of the kind of corn he prefers to grow. And whichever he chooses, he can't go wrong."

When guests are late, keep food hot by placing pans of food in roaster. Fill the roaster half full with hot water, cover and keep hot over low flame.

Board Of Registrars Purges Voting List

Elsewhere in this issue of the paper you will find a list of names to be stricken from the lists of qualified voters of Chilton County.

The Board of Registrars compiled this list after a hard job of checking and re-checking in each individual Beat to determine exactly which names should not appear on the voting lists.

Because of the similarity of names and initials in the county, the Board realizes that there may be some errors in the list. If your name should appear on the list without due reason you may appear before the Board of Registrars during the week of February 13-20 and such corrections as are necessary will be made.

FULL TIME SENATOR NEEDED—

Chilton County needs, and is entitled to, a full-time State Senator rather than one-third of a senator all the time.

With the present set-up we, in Chilton County, have the opportunity to elect a local senator every eight years having to share with Shelby and Autauga our senator when we do elect one just as they have to share with us their senator. We couldn't possibly be getting full representation when a senator has so many constituants to listen to, and see to the needs of.

The recent legislature has given us a chance to vote on this important matter on Nov. 1; and we believe it wise to vote yes.

Let's take the additional cost of adding more state senators to the already heavily expensive legislature. When election time came around if the voters are a mind to do so, they need not send a man to Montgomery who is not pledged to vote a regular salary to our representatives and do away with this increase of $30.00 per day when in session whether they work or not. With a straight salary of so much per month you would see much speedier work on "Goat Hill" and not nearly so much playing around. The law makers would attend to their duties and return home. But don't get us wrong. The legislator and the senator work while they are at home too, but with much less expense to themselves. Our reason for favoring a straight salary is that the members of the legislature are constantly called upon by their constituants to perform duties for them in state business which falls under the duties of their office. For this they are entitled to pay the same as when they are on duty in the State Capitol—however, we believe $30 per day; $210 per week; or $900 for a thirty day month is a bit steep for the duties they perform.

But first, Chilton County needs a full-time State Senator. The legislature has left it up to us. What will be our verdict?

"SOMETHING BETTER TO THROW THAN A ROCK—

"We give a kid something better to throw than a rock," says Arthur Burger, executive secretary of the Boys' Clubs of Boston. "We give him a basketball. His reward is the yell of his pals as he makes a basket. . . more fun than busting a street light. Character is caught, not taught. If a boy doesn't catch it from his parents, it rubs off on him from other boys and club leaders."

More than 425 Boys' Clubs throughout the United States, with over 400,000 members, are providing basketball, baseball, boxing and other sports, woodworking drawing, checkers, ping pong, stamp-collecting and libraries—as substitutes for rock-throwing and other teen-age mischief and crime.

In a February Reader's Digest article William L. White emphasizes that while the Boys' Clubs successfully salvage problem boys every day, the boys who are "bad" form only a minute percentage of total membership. The 400,000 youngsters whom the Boys' Clubs keep busy, happy and out of trouble come from every background, race and creed. In some areas the majority are from underprivileged homes; in others 80 percent or more of all boys are members.

Boys' Clubs of America celebrates its 50th anniversary this year. Each club is directed by leading citizens, and operating funds are contributed locally. Members, however, must pay dues, though the amount may be as little as 25 cents a year. "Otherwise," says Herbert Hoover, national chairman, "they wouldn't feel it was their own club."

Boys' Club leaders know that the "bad" boy is usually neglected and lonely, thinking himself a failure. In the club's variety of activities any boy can find a field wherein he can win the recognition he needs.

Statistics from many cities show that in areas served by Boys' Clubs—and some are in tough neighborhoods—the juvenile-delinquency rate is lower than elsewhere. One Louisville area had 327 arrests a year. A Boys' Club was established there; in seven years the figure dropped to 54.

Boys' Clubs do more, however, than keep members out of trouble. They lay the groundwork for the good life, and often for exceptional accomplishment. Club alumni include mayors, Congressmen, ministers, doctors and writers.

When tough kids jeer that Boys' Clubs are for "sofies," Boston has an answer: In World War II, servicemen from Boston Boys' Clubs won medals for bravery at a rate 500 percent higher than the national average.

The Inside Story--

Newspaper Personnel Must Be Trained In Their Profession

Part V—

(In the preceding series of articles we have attempted to give you a small, but important part in the producing of a newspaper. We say "small part" because we hardly scratched the surface on some of the phases, but to have given you in detail would have taken this entire paper and that we are not capable of doing.

Throughout our series we have failed to mention at all the amount of Job Printing which has to be produced in your weekly shop.

There is a misconception here that when the paper rolls off the press on Wednesday, then the newspaper crew is entirely idle until the following Monday. This is not true These days (Thursday, Friday and Saturday) are perhaps just as busy as the first day of the week, just not quite as tedious. The main reason for thes being, that these three days are devoted mostly to Job Printing, in all its forms, and most folks who need Job Printing wanted it yesterday.

One good part about this last of the week job is the change in the schedule. There is always something new and different to work on. In this way, the printer perhaps has a deceded advantage over other fields of endeavor in that his work is not monotonous or dull, but interesting and satisfying.

Job Printing days are not as long, in hours, as newspaper days, but they are big days because of the three day limit put on you due to the newspaper. If you don't have things in shape for Mondayby Saturday [illegible] then someone has to work overtime Saturday too, in order to get things in the right shape. If by chance, you are thrown over on Monday doing Job Printing that should have been printed Saturday, you get into your paper work and foul up that schedule also. . . and here we go again

Even through these trying days, throughout the entire printing business, once a man sets his sights on that field he usually sticks with it. Some folks contend that this is because so many years have to be spent in learning the trade that a man doesn't feel he can let all that time just go down the drain and therefore feels that he must stay in the business to get back what he has put into it. We don't believe this. From the most sincere editor, down to the drinkingest floor man, there is a falling in love with the trade, and when you have once taken that final step, you just can't get the printers ink out of you blood. It's natural.

Newspaper work is exacting, as many other businesses are, but when you do finally win out over a mistake or a break-down you feel you have made a stride in the right direction. Many obstacles in the business can be overcome by sheer "stickability"; something a newspaperman has to possess to be a good newspaperman.

Our crew here at the CCN is made up of six members at the present time. All trained and all capable of their respective jobs.

First of course is Ben Tucker editor and publisher of the paper and a lifelong member of the newspaper business. He handles all the office business, writes stories, keeps books, sells advertising and helps get the paper in the post office These are just a few of his numerous tasks, just as any country editor.

Paul Connell, the newest member of our staff has improved considerably upon his return to work at the News after an absence of a year or so. He is our cylinder pressman and stereotypist among other things and does his job well. His work is essential to getting the paper out on time, too.

Ewart Corley is our part-time Linotype operator. As we have already stated previously, his is an exacting work taking many years to perfect.

Dorothy Gray, or just "Gray" as she's known around the plant, is the one who adds the feminine touch to things. If your job is a little neater or cleaner, she's to blame. She's a good worker, Job Printing being mostly in her line.

'Gray" can feed a Jobber or mail the paper and does just about anything the men do. But, the important thing is. . . . she likes her work.

Vernon Payne is essentially and foremost, our advertising manager. He makes lay-outs, sells advertising and job printing and so forth. However, he also works on the inside, too. He is one of our floor men and runs one of our job presses. He writes some of the stories for the paper and is also a good Linotype operator.

Bob Tucker does about the same as the other folks in our plant. His foremost job is to see to the production end of the plant, but he also is floor man, Linotype operator and sometimes writes some of the articles.

This brings you up to date on our regular working staff. Of course Mrs. Ben Tucker and Carolyn help the "boss" out in the office and this doesn't include our social editor or our correspondents, all important people in the producing of your weekly newspaper. But, what we have tried to give you is more or less the mechanical end of your weekly paper. This force sees to it that you, the public get the community news of you and your friends, and at the same time keep up with your County, State and National affairs. It is a big part of our community, the weekly newspaper, because it is you, the public. It can do a lot toward building up our communities if given half a chance along with the support of the people which it reaches.

You are invited at any time to come in and look over the working mechanical end of your Chilton County News and we invite any and all comments which you might have at any time that may lead to a bigger and better newspaper and a greater community for us all.

things we See and Hear

By "TUCK"

You've all heard the fable of the fox and the grapes, we're sure. Well, according to reliable reports over our County of Chilton you'd better be keeping your eye on your grapes, because there have been any number of rports of "mad foxs" lately and they are said to be very 'bold" when 'mad". Be on your P's and Q's and get them before they get you or your dog. And while we're on the subject, we're gonna get our dog "shot" and we'd suggest that those of you who haven't already done so, get with it. You know as Aesop once said, "it's better to get the dog shot in the end than to wind up dead in the end."

We see our good friend, Marshall Williams is back on night duty again these days. Could be we overlooked him before now, but we think he's been off nights for a while. He was up by the plant the other night checking and we spoke to him. He checks these alleys and buildings closely each night he's on duty, as do our other policemen. He makes us a good guardian of the law. You should be able to sleep well.

And speaking of law, we're not bloodthirsty and we believe killing is wrong, but in a round about way a person might be justified in shooting this "peeping tom", we've been hearing so much about lately. He is going to stick his neck out once too many times pretty soon and phewcck. . . no neck.

Sometimes we wonder if there has ever been a politician who saw much good, if any, in his opponent Human nature we suppose. You can't fight well unless you're good and mad, you know.

We heard the other day of two young men who took up with a man's dog and refused to return the dog or even admit knowing of him after the man offered to buy his own dog back from them and call it square. Obviously the man thinks a god deal of his old "coon dog" and from what we gathered at the time the boys who were so disagreeable are in for a bad time unless they mend their ways and return the merchandise. This sort of thing is unfortunate; but sometimes it takes severe action to make a stubborn person realize the consequences. Evidently these gentlemen are endowed with an undetermined amount of stubbornness. Too bad, to.

We can't stomach a person who is quick to accuse and refuses to apologize. There's something missing somewhere.

When the Lord sends such a good rain as He has for the past week, it sort of riles us to see so many folks take it for granted or give credit to something or somebody else. Yessir, it riles us. They are thoughtless

Somebody (Mrs. Bill Minor to be specific) said the other day that the folks who had been having to complain of dry wells wouldn't have that trouble for a while. "In fact" she said, "they can probably dip the water straight from the well without having to haul it up." If the rains keep up as they are with this writing, she may not know how close she came to the old-fashioned truth.

Our very good friend, Archie Hardiman has been in a bad way for the past few weeks and we, like the scoundrel we are, haven't been to see the good fellow. We're ashamed of ourselves, but we have been inquiring about him from time to time and last reports were that he had improved. Glad to hear this, maybe before long he'll be able to come to see us, doesn't look like it's gonna be vice-versa.

You know, they say a member of the Fourth Estate is supposed to have a nose for news. It's a basic requirement they say for those who wish to be newspapermen or writers. Well, assuming that we at least are associated with the Fourth Estate, we have about the unnewsicst nose in captivity and we can prove it. Why if the Peoples Savings Bank were robbed of all its savings we wouldn't realize it was news until we went down and tried to draw some funds from therein. (now this this my friend, would really be news, because as fate seems ot have it, we don't have an account in the Peoples Savings or any other bank. You see what we told you. . . that's not news; everybody knows it.

In other words, us drawing money from the bank is news; us having no money in the bank is no news to anybody. Guess that's how our "news nose" gets so fouled up on what is and what is not news.

And speaking of news. The old saying that "no news is good news" is a lot of bunk. No news causes anxiety, because folks are usually anxious about the unknown. Anxiety is not good for us'ns, so say the doctors. Thus no news, to our way of thinking, is just "no news". 'Course that's to our way of thinking and we stand in no particular majority in thinking.

Letters to the Editor

On Proving Your Love

Discussing the liberality of the churches of Macedonia, Paul mentions that they proved the sincerity of love by giving. He writes, "Show ye therefore. . . . the proof of y love (II Cor. 8:24) loving and g ing go together. Children love sing: "Loving and giving, givi and loving, so we find the good living."

A natural expression of love is gift. Your parents have given to y through the years because of th love for you, and you ot your pa ents. Husbands, wives, brothe sisters, friends, etc, bestow gi in tokens of love.

Similarly we show our love Jesus by giving. We give to hi in giving to other people who ne kindliness and help. Read M 25:40 and James 2:15-16. Read a John 3: 17(18.

Filling duffle bags with cle mended, warm clothing for the pe ples of Europe or the Orien sending non-perishible foods friends is a gift of love.

Visiting the sick, the sorrowin newcomers, or unlisted chur members in our own communiti showing friendliness to the lone and to those of other races, teach ing the Bible Sunday afternoon i Mission Schools, prayerfully tak the gospel to unsaved neighbors these are loving "in deed and truth

Followers of Jesus are to lov without reservation or limit. In th words of Jesus the first and grea commandment is "thou shalt lov the Lord thy God with all thy hear soul, mind and strength" (Mark 12 30) much of a person's heart, min and strength of necessity goes in the making of his income. So to lov God according to this commandmen means giving to him freely of you income, as well as directly of you time, interest, and strength. Givin is a proof of sincere love.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS from The Bible

The eyes of the Lord are in every place, beholding the evil and the good.—(Proverbs 15,3.)

Ever present and enveloping us as the air we breathe is the Holy Spirit, God He knows the good and helpful things we do for others, and we are blessed. He also knows every evil thought and desire we hide, but, merciful, will help us overcome them.

Morris Mims Writes On "Family Altars"

Can we not call this the family altar? Genesis 3:8 "And they heard the voice of the Lord God walking in the garden in the cool of the day;" Yes God talked with Adam and Eve in the cool of the day. Adam and Eve talked with God. What a beautiful picture of the family altar, what wonderful communion. Oh, what a joy it is to know God's will for the family and to bring all of the family problems to God who is the Master of them all.

Job was a perfect and upright man, one that feared God, and he was a father who believed in family altar. Job 1:4-5 "His sons went and feasted in their houses everyone his day: and sent and called for their three sisters to eat and to drink with them. And it was so, when the days of their feasting were gone about, that he sent and sanctified them, and rose up early in the morning, and offered burnt offerings according to the number of them all; for Job said, "it may be that my sons have sinned, and cursed God in their hearts," thus did Job continue. "The family altar was a continual practice of this Godly man. He was greatly concerned over the spiritual welfare of his family.

What an outstanding example, Job is to the fathers of all generations since his day.

Fathers, you the head of the family, have you established a family altar in your home? Do you have time for devotion with your family? If you have not yet established a family altar in your home, now is a good time to begin. I trust you are not as ignorant to family altar as a man was in a service sometime ago when the minister spoke on the subject of "Family Altar." When the service was over this man came to the minister and said, "how do you go about building an altar for family worship? What kind of wood are you supposed to use? What should be the dimension of the altar?

All you need to do to establish a family altar is to get on your knees with the family in some room of your home and pray.

At the turn of this century, about fifty years ago there were fifty per cent of American families had family altar. But they have fast gotten away from that today only five percent of American homes have family altars. A great change has taken place in the families of America. Father is too busy with his job to have a family altar. It is just too great a sacrifice of time to call the family together to read a portion of God's word and to pray with them. But fathers and mothers you should fear to let your children leave the home in the beginning of the day without asking God to watch over them and protect them through the day. Are you concerned over the protection of your children and their spiritual welfare?

Can we wonder at the juvenile delinquency that is on the march today, children become criminals at a very early age. Young men and women fill the prisons today. Sons have caused much grief to the family and so have the daughters. Children don't honor their parents, we do not wonder at such since there is but five percent of American families that have family altar.

Parents you are responsible for your children. God requires you to train your children in the way of the Lord. The old saying 'like father like son" is very much true. Begin today to put forth greater efforts for the Lord.

INCREDIBLE UPPER COLORADO RIVER PROJECT
U.S. TAXPAYER
BIG BARGAIN! ONLY $5,000.00 PER ACRE!
20,937,153 ACRES OF GOOD FARM LAND NOW IDLE IN 19 STATES

A RECENT SURVEY, conducted in 19 States in the Midwest, South and Southeast, reveals that there are nearly 21 million acres of rich, idle farmland available for crop production when more food is needed to feed the Nation. At the same time Government plans are under way to take additional acreage out of production because of the huge surpluses of food the Federal Government now has stored in bins around the country. Despite these facts Congress is being asked to approve the incredible Upper Colorado River Project to "irrigate" 583,000 acres of arid mountain land in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming at a cost to the Nation's taxpayers of $4 Billion in added taxes. Figures for the rich, idle land now available were obtained from the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

Crop Lands In 19 States Are Idle

urvey shows 1 million acres

Washington—A report showing it nearly 21 millions acres of fine rm land are now lying idle in 19 stern, Southern and Midwestern ites will soon be placed before ngress.

Rep. Craig Hosmer of California d that he would present to the [illegible] Representatives evidence [illegible] that while the Federal re[illegible] of Reclamation is asking ngress to approve enormous cost- [illegible] irrigation projects, at least [illegible]7,153 acres of the best Ameri- n crop land are unused for any [illegible]

"[illegible]" Hosmer stated. "we [illegible] us in Congress the gi- [illegible] Upper Colorado River Proj- [illegible] Unquestionably the most ex- [illegible] scheme yet [illegible] would bring into produc- [illegible] than half a million acres [illegible] remote areas of [illegible] Colorado, Utah and New [illegible]

"[illegible] millions of acres [illegible] the [illegible] farm land awaiting the plow in [illegible] where the [illegible] is heavy [illegible] growing season long, the [illegible]mation Bureau would force great new burden of the Up- Colorado River Project on the rican taxpayers."

he Republican Congressman said at his request a survey had conducted to determine the [illegible] of good crop land now [illegible] d available for farming, if needed e data was supplied by field of- es of the U. S. Soil Conserva- Service.

"We considered only land [illegible] sses I, II and III." Hosmer stat-

"This is the best agricultural d, and the total does not include odlands, pastures or [illegible] ds.

I previously [illegible] s of Congress [illegible] State in which the survey was made that the information was forthcoming so that they could, if they wished take whatever action they deem appropriate.

"I consider the findings of this survey nothing short of amazing. In addition to the 21 million acres of the best farm land that is now idle in 19 States there are millions of other acres in lower soil classes and in other States that are idle in the humid area of the Nation. Much of this idle lower class land could be improved with little cost and developed into pasture.

"These millions of idle acres of the best lands are close to markets, to population centers, with roads and transportation running through them and with schools and municipal governments established.

"Where the Reclamation Bureau wants to build the multi-billion dollar Upper Colorado River Project there is little population, few roads no metropolitan markets, few towns. The enormous cost of establishing municipal governments, police forces, schools, building of highway and new towns must be added to the cost of developing the arid lands.

"It is an unbelievable proposal for the purpose of growing more farm products of the kinds already in great surplus while there are these millions of acres of good idle land in the Midwest, South and East."

Hosmer said the survey had been conducted under the direction in the States of Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carólina, Ohio, South Carolina, Tennessee ,Virginia and Wisconsin.

"The Bureau of Reclamation would have us believe that we must spend billions to develop projects like the Upper Colorado in order to provide food for fiber for our growing population.

"That simply is not true. On the presently producing farm lands we are growing so much food and fiber that we cannot find adequate space to store it. Despite plans for reducing this output, we are faced again this year with enormous surpluses in some products record yields.

"Each year new methods are reported for increasing per acre yields.

"Yet the Bureau of Reclamation would have Congress appropriate billions of dollars for such unnecessary and wasteful projects as that proposed in the Upper Colorado Basin. This project alone would saddle a new $4 Billion tax loss on the Nation's taxpayers. The four States benefiting would pay less than two per cent of the cost. Taxpayers of the other 44 States would have to pay the balance."

The cost of bringing the millions of acres of good farm land now idle into full production would run from only $15 to $150 an acre, Hosmer said.

"Compare that with the $5,000 an acre cost of building the Upper Colorado Project," he added, "and you see how inconceivable the Reclamation Bureau's scheme is. Bringing into production the good land now idle in the East, Midwest and South would cost the taxpayers nothing. In the Upper Colorado Project the taxpayers would have to pay not only the excessive cost of building the irrigation projects, the roads, schools and other necessary community projects, but then the taxpayers would have to subsidize the crops that would be grown, such as diary products, grains and wool. The whole thing is nothing short of economic idiocy.'

Tucker To Run For Public Service Comm.

Birmingham, Alabama, Feb. 9— Billy Tucker former star athlete at Alabama Polytechnic Institute, Auburn, before he was stricken with polio in 1951, today qualified to seek nomination for Place No. 1 on the Alabama Public Service Commission in the May Democratic primary.

Tucker, who since being afflicted with poliomyelitis has become a symbol of courage in the fight agains this dreaded disease, filed his qualifying papers with the State Democratic Committee yesterday.

In announcing his debut into politics, Tucker, now a 25-year-old father of a five-months old baby girl said he is confident he can win the nomination for the top place on the Alabama Public Service Commission and that he will conduct an active campaign for this position between now and the May 1 primary.

"I am interested in serving the people of Alabama", Tucker said. "I love people. . . I have their interest at heart and I believe I can serve them honestly, fairly and conscienciously", he declared.

Young Tucker is the son of Mr and Mrs. Ernest L. Tucker, of Birmingham. His father has been connected with athletics at Phillips High School, where he now coaches football and basketball, for 31 years. He attended Pine Grove Elementary School and Robinson School in East Lake before entering Phillips High School in 1944. He lettered for four years in football, basketball and baseball at Phillips and upon graduation from Phillips in 1948, entered API.

He played football and baseball at Auburn in 1948, 1949 and 1950 being named All-Southeastern Conference Sophomore in 1949.

Tucker was stricken with polio just before the start of football practice in 1951. He was rushed from Auburn to Birmingham, where he entered Crippled Children's Hospital. A patient at the hospital for six months, he showed rapid recovery and with exception of his lower extremities regained normal health. He later became assistant to E. F. (Dick) Cavaleri, Crippled Children's Hospital administrator, before returning to API to complete his education in 1952.

BILLY TUCKER

The popular young athlete continued to attend football games in 1951 and 1952, being taken to the games in an ambulance chartered by API alumni. He also became active in the March of Dimes campaign and in Crippled Children's Hospital work. In 1952 he won $7,000 on the Strike It Rich television program in New York and turned this sum over to the Crippled Children's Hospital. Since then he has made countless appearances at civic clubs, churches, talent contests, basketball games and the like all over the state in the interest of the March of Dimes campaign and other worthy causes.

Upon graduation from API in 1953, young Tucker became a confidential assistant to the director of the State Welfare Department in Montgomery. He served in this capacity until he came to Birmingham to enter the insurance business in 1955. He has since resigned from this position to devote his full time to his first political campaign.

Since graduation from API, Tucker has lived a normal life. He was married to Miss Sara Tubbs, sister of Howell Tubbs, now a star athlete at API, March 19, 1954, and they now have a five-month-old daughter, Didi, who was born on September 1, 1955. Billy met his wife while he was a patient at the Crippled Children's Hospital.

When he suffered a football injury in a game with Sidney Lanier in 1951, Howell Tubb occupied a bed next to Tucker at the Crippled Children's Hospital. He met Sara when she came to visit her brother. Billy jokingly remarks that he signed Howell to play football at Auburn at that time and later married his sister.

Today Billy Tucker drives his own automobile and is completely independent of physical help. He "walks" with the help of a portable wheel chair, which he folds up when entering his car.

He is a member of Dawson Memorial Baptist Church in Edgewood.

Tucker says he decided to enter the race for Place No. 1 on the PSC several months ago after he had been urged to do so by many of his friends. Since then he says he has traveled all over the state and has met with the wholehearted support of hundreds of friends and well wishers.

CIVIE TANN Sez:

(A Weekly Report on Local Civitan Affairs)

Evidently Mack Godwin, that right noble, grand, impolite, cousin to the high exalted hasn't heard of our "all for one, none for you" policy in the club. He says, now he admitted it mind you, that he had an oyster supper the other night and by jove not a one of us cousins did he invite. Wal, cousin, we'll just get the secretary to mark you absent just for that.

Some of the folks might not know that we voted the other night to help out in the coming Crippled Children's Drive. Sort of a project, you know.

We're also on a membership campaign. Yup, the club is trying for new members in a big way, and there are any number of good men around town who don't belong to any club. We hope, if they are invited for membership, that they will think seriously about the opportunities afforded through being a member of International Civitan.

Meeting time is 7:30 fellas, remember. Wear a grin as always, and bring a napkin, Mack is setting us up to an oyster supper. (Oh, maybe he did say he had oysters for supper instead of an oyster supper, but it means practically the same thing

Helpful Hints For Housewives

Limes will stay fresh much longer if they're stored in a closed container in the refrigerator.

If you don't have the right kind of commercial preparation, you can use iodine to cover a scratch in mahogany furniture. Just apply the iodine until the scratch is the same color as the finish, then polish.

Blueing will not only help to keep white clothes looking white, but will also prevent black lingerie from taking on a brown hue.

Clothes can be dampened evenly more quickly with lukewarm water than with cold.

Potatoes, carrots, and other vegetables keep more of their nutritive value if they are cooked in their jackets.

All kinds of greens can be used for salads—young, tender mustard endive, watercress, spinach leaves dandelions, and beet tops add variety to tossed salads

It's a good idea to be inconsistent in the way you fold tablecloths, sheets, and other linens. Creasing in one place over a long period of time will weaken the fabric. Roll your good linen tablecloths on broom handles. Creases should never be ironed into linens.

Pre-Planting Measurements Of Cotton, Peanuts Are Available

Chilton County cotton and peanut growers can arrange for official measurement of their 1956 farm cotton and peanut acreage allotments prior to planting time, the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee announced this week.

To get the premeasurement service, which is being provided on a cost basis, a farmer must file a written request with the County ASC Office prior to March 16, 1956, says Mr. Owen, Committee Chairman. The rate to be charged for the service in Chilton County is $5 for each farm with allotments of 5 acres or less. Farms with allotments larger than 5 acres will be charged $5 plus 50c for each acre or fraction of an acre in excess of 5 acres. Payment based on this rate must be made at the time the request for premeasurement is filed

"The premeasurement is purely optional," says Mr. Owen, "and is offered as a service to growers who prefer to have an official measurement to use as a planting guide."

The chairman explains that all cotton and peanut acreages in the county will be measured as soon as possible after the crop is established to determine compliance with the acreage allotment-marketine quota program. When compliance i checked, the farm will be considered to be within the farm acreage allotment if the crop is planted within the premeasured area.

MORRIS MIMS WRITES:

CAPITAL PUNISHMENT IS A DIVINE INSTITUTION

Since there are so many that don't know what God's word is concerning capital punishment I have been motivated to write on this subject that we might go back to the beginning, and know the truth.

Genesis 9:5-6. "Surely your blood of your lives will I require; at the hand of every beast will I require it, and at the hand of man; at the hand of every mans' brother will I require the life of man, whosoever sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed, for in the image of God made he man."

In this command we find the foundation upon which all laws are built including every form of lesser punishment. With this command human government was instituted Paul said, Romans-13:12 "Let every soul be subjected unto the higher powers, for there is no power but of God; the powers that be are ordained of God. Whosoever therefore resisteth the power, resisteth the ordinance of God, and they that resist shall receive to themselves damnation."

This provision was designed of God to curb in an ungodly world, the tendency of violence and murder. In other words, capital punishment is a divine institution.

God placed in the power of man the tremendous issue of visiting the punishment of death upon man for destruction of human life. Christ sanctioned capital punishment as recorded in Matthew 26:52, "For all they that take the sword shall perish with the sword." That the punishment is to be equal to the crime is clearly seen, there should be no question about it.

There has been a strong movement in modern days to abolish capiatl punishment, but to do away with capital punishment is to do away with God's word. We know the word of God is for people that take away from God's word.

Revelation 22:19 "If any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the Holy City and from the things which are written in this book."

Christians have even been misguided on capital punishment. From the Christians' view point it has been argued that God is now dealing with the world in grace since the death of Christ, but God is dealing in grace with only those who accept his son. He is still dealing inexorably in judgment with an ungodly world. A people who is set to do evil.

If some of the sickly sentiment displayed toward the hardened criminals were turned into demand for law enforcement and the purging of our courts and our whole systems of jurisprudence of unjust judges, shyster lawyers, lazy bail and understanding parole, with the prompt visitation of capita lpunishment upon the guilty mudrerer there would be less talk of "the crime wave."

Our Anglo-Saxon neighbor across the sea can give us some salutary lesson in this direction as statistics clearly show.

God knows best what deterrent to violence and crime is needed and any effort to change this on man's part ends only disastrously.' The Bible says God's word is a rule of faith and practice, and as long as we use it for what it is designed we will always do right.

The blood of any one that is murdered cries out for vengeance. Genesis 4:10 "God said to Cain who had murdered his brother, the voice of thy brother's blood crieth unto me from the ground." In the book of Revelations we find these words. 21:8 "Murderers shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone: which is the second death." We are our brothers keepers.

Alabama Mills HD Club Has Changed Its Name

The Progressive Woman's Club is the new name for one of Chilton County's Home Demonstration Clubs. This Club was formerly Alabama Mills. For some time the members of Alabama Mills have been discussing the possibilities of changing the name of their club since the majority of the members live outside of the Alabama Mills community. In thinking of a new name for the Club the members decided that it would be difficult to name it after a community because of the location of their homes. Members live in a widely scattered area ranging from 4th Avenue N., through the Mill Village and north on Highway 31 to Lomax.

Active members of the Club felt that by changing the name of their club new interest might be increased in the Club and new members might be added. Officers of the Progressive Woman's Club include President, Mrs. R. R. Young; vice-president, Mrs. Lessie Lowery; secretary, Mrs. S. A. Jones; reporter Mrs. Charles Mims; song leader Mrs. Clarence Price; recreation leader, Mrs. B. F. Milam and Mrs. J C. Giles; objective chairmen: Youth Mrs. Homer Melton; citizenship Mrs. J. I. Spiller; farm organization, Mrs. S. A. Jones; community activities, Mrs. Charles Mims; defense activities, Mrs. Lessie Lowery; subject matter leaders: Food Mrs. G. A. Powell; clothing, Miss Ida Doster; food preservation, Mrs T. H. Mitchell; home management Mrs. S. A Jones, home furnishings, Mrs. Leo Hargrove; child care and family life, Mrs. Howard Meacham; and consumer education, Mrs. W. C. Pierce. Mrs. B. L. Venable and Mrs. B. E. Reeves, former active members are greatly missed by the Club. The members wish for Mrs Reeves a speedy recovery from her illness and hope that time will again permit Mrs. Venable to attend the Club meetings.

Projects for the year 1956 include roadside beautification and collecting articles for a layette to be turned over to the County Health Department.

CHILEAN NITRATE—WORLD'S ONLY NATURAL NITRATE

Whatever the crop—corn, cotton, tobacco, pastures, small grains, fruits, vegetables—Chilean Soda top-dressings and side-dressings give the best results, lowest costs, largest net profits.

Natural Chilean works fast. Corn responds bountifully at rates up to 500 pounds per acre or more, 40 to 50 days after planting. The nitrogen in Chilean is 100 per cent fast-acting nitrate—invaluable at the critical stage of crop development.

Natural Chilean boosts yields. On cotton, side-dressings of 300 pounds or more, 35 to 40 days after planting, produce heavy-yielding, early-maturing plants. On pastures, too, it's a more efficient summer fertilizer than ammonia forms of nitrogen.

Natural Chilean contains sodium. Ammonia nitrogen is acid-forming and must be changed to the nitrate form in the soil, but every ton of Chilean contains sodium equivalent to 650 pounds of commercial limestone for destroying soil acidity.

Natural Chilean benefits crop and soil. It corrects acidity, improves potash, phosphate, calcium, magnesium and minor element availabilities. Chilean is one of the most efficient and economical nitrogen fertilizers for side-dressing summer crops. Ask for Bulldog Soda. Look for the Bulldog on the bag.

Common Income Tax Return Errors Listed

W. I. Chapman, Administrative Representative of the Montgomery Internal Revenue Office stated today that most taxpayers are doing a good job in preparing their tax returns this year.

Returns received in January reveal only one area where errors are more frequent than last year, according to Chapman. "A substantial number of taxpayers did not use the proper space to list their names and addresses", Chapman said. He mentioned a tendency to put the name above the proper space, or to crowd the address in the space intended only for the name. He said that many taxpayers failed to list their street addresses, or the towns in which they live. "These errors result in delayed refunds, erroneous delinquency notices, and excessive processing costs", Chapman explained.

Chapman listed seven other errors which are common to 1955 and prior year returns as follows: 1. Signature omitted, wife's signature omitted or her name signed by husband; 2 Income from odd jobs, tips, etc omitted; 3. Income from interest omitted (savings accounts, credit unions, bonds, etc.); 4. Deductions claimed for tobacco taxes (not deductible); 5. Deductions claimed for health insurance premiums (deductible only as medical expense, subject to limitations); 6. All witholding statements for the year are not attached; and 7. Wife's exemption is caimed but her income is not reported, or it is reported on a seperate return.

A new high mark in efficient milk production has been reached by a group of Alabama dairymen

Cows on Dairy Herd Improvement Association test in this state last year averaged giving 6,194 pounds of butterfat. Milk production was 338 pounds per cow above that of 1954, and butterfat was 10 pounds higher than the previous year.

According to Oscar Crosby Jr. API Extension assistant dairyman the 1955 figures represent a 1,438 pound milk increas eand a 45-pound fat increase over average production in 1949, the first year of the DHIA program here.

Shooting Spike Bucks Upheld By Specialist

Auburn, Ala.—Spike bucks were legal game for Alabama deer hunters last season for the first time But disapproval of the new law allowing these animals to be killed has been voiced by some persons who apparenty believe that these animals with unbranched horns are too young to have bred does.

However, Earl F. Kennamer, fish and wildlife specialist for the API Extension Service, upheld the practice in a statement here this week. The shooting of spike bucks is in perfect accord with the principles of sound conservation, he states. "Conservation means, not hoarding, but wise use of resources."

Kennamer cited research by Dr. A. O. Haugen of the Alabama Cooperative Wild life Research Unit and Francis X. Lueth of the State Conservation Department to show that the practice should be continued next season. According to test findings, many deer have as many as eight antler points at only one and one-half years of age. Examination of spike bucks killed in November and December of last year revealed that many of them were at least that old. Some were as much as two and one-half years old.

Kennamer explained that number of points or size of antlers does not indicate age, as many hunters once thought.

"When spike bucks were illegal those shot were often left to rot in the woods," the wildlife expert went on. "Protected, the animals are likely to fall victim to disease. Using the game for food is far preferable to waste of either kind."

Thank You Mr. Thayer!

Had a real nice surprise on my birthday last week. Got my name in the paper and a gorgeous free birthday cake — compliments of Thayer's Neighborhood Bakery.

Seems the wife entered my name on Thayer's "birthday list." Then they had a drawing—as they do every month—and I won! They gave me my favorite flavors, too . . . white cake with bittersweet chocolate icing.

We all couldn't win a cake, of course, but everyone on the list got a happy birthday "mention" in Thayer's newspaper ad. I'll bet I got fifteen extra cards this year from people who saw the paper. Makes you feel pretty good—and pretty well disposed towards Joe Thayer who runs the bakery.

From where I sit, good "customer relations" are behind any successful businessman. Take Andy over at his Green Garden Inn. He co-operates with that Self-Regulation Program sponsored by the Brewing Industry. For a fine example of a clean, well-run place, Andy's sure "takes the cake!"

Armistead Selden Makes Bid For Third Term In Congress

Armisterd Selden

Rep. Armistead I. Selden, Jr. of the Sixth Alabama Congressional District announced today that he is a candidate for re-nomination in the Democratic primary on May 1. Congressman Selden, whose home is in Greensboro, has already filed his qualifying papers with the State Democratic Executive Committee.

In announcing his candidacy, Selden said he stands on the record he has made during his three years in Congress and will conduct an active and vigorous campaign if he has opposition.

The youngest member of the Foreign Affairs Committee, Rep. Selden was appointed to this important group at the beginning of the 84th Congress. He previously served as a member of the Veterans Affairs Committee, and was the author of several bills dealing with veteran legislation.

Now mid-way in his second term he has compiled one of the highest averages in the House of Representatives for attending sessions and answering roll and quorum calls. His overall average to date is 99 per cent.

Rep. Selden has kept in close touch with his constituents during his tenure in office by writing a weekly newspaper column, maintaining a year-round office in the district, and visiting all eight counties of the Sixth District during the congressional recesses.

In announcing for re-election, he said: "If chosen to serve a third term, I shall continue with every effort to serve well and faithfully the fine people of all the eight counties I have the priviege to represent."

Capitol Highlights---

Bank Director Gives Proof Of States' High Living Standards

There was more strong proof this week that Alabama's standard-of-living is rising rapidly these days.

Close on the heels of January's report that almost $400,000,000 in new and expanded industries had located in the State last year—meaning some 14,000 new job opportunities—came a rosy report this month from the State Banking Department.

Banking Department Director Lonnie Gentry announced that the total resources of Alabama's 16[illegible] banks, and three State bank branches, amounted to $488,449,221 at the end of 1955. This was some $54,000,000 mohre than bank resources had ever totalled before

The increasing financial strength of Alabama business firms and private citizens was further noted in the report where it was shown that State bank deposits last year reached $447,176,113—an increase of about $50,000,000 over 1954—for another all-time record.

Fair Tax Collections—

On taking office on January 17 1955. State Revenue commissioner W. Larue Horn launched a campaign to collect overdue taxes, and also collect additional revenues from those whose payments proved, on inspection, to be insufficient

Taxes affected were those on gasoline income tax, motor vehicle licenses, sales and use taxes, and the tobacco tax. Schools and road construction profit mostly from these "earmarked" taxes. "We want fair and impartial collection of all taxes due under the law," Horn told his collectors

This week, the State Revenue Department published a report on the amount of taxes it had netted during 1955—money which would otherwise have been lost to the schools and road-builders, etc.

The report showed that State Revenue men had made 54,000 collections of delinquent and additional taxes for a total haul of $3,728,823 which otherwise would have been lost to the State.

A breakdown showed that almost $2,600,000 of this total had come from sales tax payments to the State which had been either delinquent, or in which merchants had paid an insufficient amount

Welfare Medical Bills—

One of the major problems facing all wefare agencies concerns the needy who have to be hospitalized but cannot afford to meet the medical expenses.

State Pensions and Security Department Director Dr. J. Sam Snoddy will be going to Washington in March to confer wtih President Eisenhower's Secretary of Health Education and Welfare, Marion Folsom, on the problem.

The occasion will be a meeting of welfare leaders from all the States to discuss matters relating to health and welfare with the national Administration.

Employment Figures High—

Eugene M. Wells, Director of the State Department of Industrial Relations, said yesterday that 708,40[illegible] non-farm workers were in jobs in Alabama during December.

Wells said that "this is the highest employment figure yet recorded in the State, and exceeds by 9,000 jobs the previous highest number gainfully employed which was recorded in November of 1955, and 27,000 more employed than were in non-farm jobs in December 1954."

Hunting More Industries—

Before leaving for the North last week, to seek more industries for Alabama, Gen. Lewis A. Pick urged that the State begin making plans to buy a reactor to produce nuclear energy. Pick, was recently appointed Director of the State Dept. of Planning and Industrial Development.

North Carolina has already installed such a nuclear power plant in its State University; Florida is contracting for a $2,000,000 reactor; Tennessee will soon have one at Vanderbilt, and Mississippi is discussing the possibility of buying one.

Pick pointed out that industry in this new electronic and nuclear age, is looking towards States keeping abreast with developments of the atomic age, and it is scarcely possible to produce skilled young scientists with know-how in electronic matters unless they can actually work with a reactor at their schools of higher learning.

The former Chief of the U. S. Army Engineers said also that industrialists looked with favor on Alabama because of our fine supply of water. Pick added, however, that some were critical of the fact that Alabama so far had failed to conserve much of this basic natural resource.

Pick was accompanied on his mission to the North by his Executive Director Pleas Looney

—By Ben

Anybody wanta buy a shirt? Last week the A & P Tea Store received four large crates of shirts and before you could say Tom Sawyer or Mark Twain (which is the brand name of the merchandise) shirts were all over the store and customers were picking their favorite patterns for lay-away. The way it happened Cecil Ramsey, store manager says, the grocery order got mixed up and contained the shirts. Well, a few weeks before he had received a shipment of gloves and they had sold pretty good so he thought a new line had been added to the thousand and one items now carried at A & P. Still things didn't look just right to Cecil so he got on the telephone and talked to the office in Birmingham. They informed him that it was a big mistake; they had sent no shirts to the local store. Well every Tom, Dick and Harry, including the bottle washer, got busy and started gathering up shirts, cancelling orders, etc., and then getting them back into the crates. There is only one thing that worried the whole staff at A & P. They were such pretty shirts and all the boys had picked themselves out a few to take home. But all we can say is that it seems to us those fellows just lost their shirts.

Look for a series of articles to appear in Chilton County News starting in the near future regarding the modernization of our courts for speedier and more inexpensive justice. This work has been going on for some time by the Commission For Judicial Reform and Judge Walter B. Jones has consented to write the articles. He is an authority and as you probably know is a writer of renown and one of the states most distinguished judges. They will be worth reading

If you would speak for all to hear,
Avoid the flowing cup,
For after too much bottled cheer
Your tang gets toungled up.

James Parr, manager at the V. J. Elmore Store, is in Birmingham for a physical check-up. James has been "under the weather" for several weeks now and has been missed around his usual haunts. His wife reports his condition is improved, but is planning on a few weeks in Florida for him before he returns to the store.

Dave Wall, city manager, asks that all who are interested in having the street paved in front of their residence or business property to contact him at once. Dave says a system has been worked out and passed by the council for this work to be done and if you will kindly phone Wall at City Hall he will be glad to take the matter up with you. We're going to say that again: "Call Wall at City Hall."

Teacher—"Jerry, are you eating candy or chewing gum?"
Jerry—"Neither one—I'm soaking a prune to eat at recess."

Dr. Wm. B. Eiland Attended Post Graduate Confab

Dr. Wm. B. Eiland of Clanton, returned today from Birmingham where he attended a postgraduate conference given for members of the Optometric Extension Program, an international organization.

Lecturer for the meeting which was held at the Tutwiler Hotel was Dr. Edmund F. Richardson of Hollywood, California, a past president of the American Optometric Association and now Director of Study groups for the OEP.

While bringing to his audience newest developments and advanced techniques of his profession, Dr. Richardson also pointed out the responsibility of optometrists as the vision specialists of their communities for acquainting educators, business leaders and highway safety authorities with the vital role that good vision plays in the safety and general welfare of the public.

"Modern optometry," he said, "is recognized as the art and science of vision care. Human eyes were not intended for the load and stress placed upon them by the demands of today's culture. Here rests, for instance, much of the reason of WHY 'Johnny' can't read. Reading is a near-centered task to which the visual mechanism of many children cannot easily adjust without professional help.

"The profession today is primarily concerning itself with the preventive aspects of visual care. If children are given this proper care early enough in their lives, visual handicaps can be prevented. Otherwise, the ministrations of our profession may be solely a 'crutching' of the damage that has already been done."

Auditors Give Probate Office Clean Bill On Their Efficiency

An audit of the Judge of Probate Office for the two fiscal periods covering October 1, 1953 through September 30, 1954 and October 1, 1954 through September 30, 1955, has just been released by the State Examiners of Public Accounts.

Scope of Audit and Comments Thereon—

Motor vehice licenses issued were traced to the monthly reports; monthly totals were verified as to classification, date of issue and distribution. The tags on hand were in agreement with the abstract furnished by the Department of Revenue. Remittances were made promptly.

Drivers Licenses and permits issued were verified. Remittances to the State and County were promptly made as shown on Schedue 3 of Exhibit 1.

Privilege licenses issued were verified by examining copy of each license and comparing the amount charged with the current State License Schedule.

Store Licenses issued were traced to the monthly reports to the State and no exceptions were noted

Mortgage and deed recordings were verified to such extent as to determine that the filing tax was promptly applied. The monthly totals of the filing tax register were proven and distribution to the State, County and deductions of commissions verified. Remittances as computed were made promptly.

The record of incorporations was examined and those filed were verified as to amount of capital stock, proper fees and remittances.

Game and fish licenses issued were examined in detail and no exceptions noted. All licenses were accounted for and remittances wer made promptly to the Department of Conservation.

There were no land redemptions from the State or land sales remittey by the State. Land redemptions from individuals were traced from the redemption certificate to the delinquent docket and taxes and fees were promptly paid into the County Treasury.

The Judge of Probate filed claims monthly for the officio fees of $400 per annum for services for which he is not otherwise compensated.

Probate Court:—

In Probate Court cases listed as pending final disposition and collection of cost and cases docketed during the period under audit were examined. Exhibit 3 reflects that there were no exceptions

Fiduciary Funds were examined and those remaining on hand at close of the period are set out on Schedule 1 of Exhibit 3.

Recommendations:—

None.

Amounts Due and or Overpaid:—

Charges as shown on Exhibit 2 were of a minor nature and do not otherwise refect against this Official. Amounts due were promptly paid and refund letters for amounts overpaid were prepared or overpaid were too small to merit attention

Certificate:—

In my opinion, the accompanying exhibits and related statements of operations, revenues and disbursements, fairly presents the position of the office of Judge of Probate as of September 30, 1955

This examination was made in accordance with generaly accepted auditing standards and includes such tests of the accounting records and such other auditing procedures as were considered necessary in the circumstances.

The records disclose that the official duties of this office have been performed in an efficient manner.

Home Grown Corn Seed Cuts Yields Up To 20 Percent

Home-grown corn seed is the most expensive kind a farmer can use.

"This fact has been proved in tests here and in other states," said API Extension Seed Spuecialist Ralph R. Jones in stating why growers should not use crib corn to plant this spring's crop. The high cost of such seed is in a 20 per cent yield cut—the result of planting a second generation hybrid instead of seed straight from the breeder.

"The more corn a farmer normally makes, the more he stands to lose by planting inferior seed," the specialist pointed out. As he explained, a 50-bushel-per-acre farmer will lose about 10 bushels per acre by planting second generation seed. A 100-bushel farmer will lose 20.

It's all right in some things to "let bygones be bygones," but not in your farming business. A careful study of last year's successes and mitakes can be excellent basis for making future plans.

How Ministers Figure In New Social Security Act

Many ministers, members of religious orders, and Christian Science Practioners desire coverage under the Social Security Act according to Mr. George D. Patterson, District Director of the Internal Revenue Service. He revealed that some of them are sending their income tax returns to the Birmingham Office without the necessary waiver certificates, Forms 2031.

"This waiver must be filed on or before April 16, 1956 if coverage is to be effective for 1955," Patterson said. He indicated that Internal Revenue employees would call attention to these omissions by letter wherever possible. "Many of these returns will be received too late to procure the necessary waiver and others may be overlooked in the tremendous number of returns received during this period," Patterson pointed out. He recommends that the waiver be filed with the income tax returns in order to insure coverage.

Farm-Burned Charcoal Gets Start In State

Auburn, Ala.—Production of charcoal on an individual farm basis is under way in the state. Small kilns are now in opeartion at several points in Northwest Alabama, all along the state's eastern border, and in most other sections.

Making this report, API Extension Forest Products Specialist Windell Vickery stated that interest in the enterprise is running high and both local and out-of-state markets are very favorable

Vickery said the advantage of charcoal burning for the farmer is that he can have profitable work for slack seasons by investing in a relatively inexpensive kiln. An operator with one small kiln is able to turn out up to 1500 pounds of charcoal a week, earning as much as $50 for his investment, raw material and labor. Considering that the kiln can be constructed for around $300 and that raw material for charcoal is cull hardwood trees, the return on labor is quite high, Vickery pointed out.

He said plans fo rthe kiln are available through county agents.

A sow with only nine or 10 udder sections not only suckles small litters, but also is likely to to give less milk for each pig.

WHY NOT VACATION AT HOME ON SILVER BEACHES OF ALABAMA

(Editor's Note: The following article is a reprint from a special article recently published in the New York Daily Mirror, in behalf of the State Bureau of Publicity and Information program to increase tourist trade in Alabama. Because the article has drawn a wide response, and because so few people in this area are aware of Alabama's wonderful Gulf area vacation land, we herewith reproduce it.)

By Geoffrey Birt, Director State Publicity Bureau

Alabama's more than 30 miles of beaches on the Gulf of Mexico are yearly becoming one of America's better known vacationlands.

The wide, clean, white-sand beaches are a mecca for children and sunbathers. The beaches are backed by picturesque sand dunes, and among these the State has built special shaded picnic and parking areas.

The beaches stretch from historic Fort Morgan on the tip of Mobile Bay, to Alabama Point overlooking the Florida coastline.

Around the corner from Fort Morgan, and a few miles up the Bay, is one of the South's best-appointed all-the-year round resort centers at Point Clear. It was there, at the Grand Hotel, that the Southern Governors this year held their annual conference.

Some of the finest deep sea fishing in the world can be enjoyed in the Gulf waters off this Alabama coastline, and in Mobile Bay. Sportsmen from every state visit Fort Morgan and this whole area in search of big game fish and the tarpon has been named the State's official fish.

Gourmets the world over delight in the oysters taken from Bon Secour Bay—a large inlet from Mobile Bay. In addition to these Bon Secour oysters, are others taken from nearby beds such as Bayou La Batre. Visitors to Alabama's Gulf areas are always fascinated also by the activities of the large fleets of deep-water Gulf as well as Bay shrimping trawlers.

The Cavalle, King Mackerel, Channel Bass and Little Tuna are also found plentifully in these warm, bright waters off the Alabama shores.

Only this year, the Alabama State Highway Department completed construction on a four and one-half mile bridge, at a cost of about $3,500,000, which joins Cedar Point, near Mobile, on the west side of Mobile Bay, with beautiful Dauphin Island. Parts of the island are now being developed with pleasure beaches, and many fine beach homes are being built there. This is part of the real estate development of the entire Alabama beach and costal area which has seen an amazing growth in the past 10 years.

Those interested in history will find much enjoyment in a visit to Fort Morgan on the mainland, and Fort Gaines on Dauphin Island. The flags of Spain, France, England and the Confederacy have all flown in this area, and the two forts have seen action in the Revolutionary War, the Civil War, and the Spanish- American War.

In addition to private hotels, motels and other accommodation on this part of the Gulf coast, the State of Alabama operates a State public park, with overnight cabin accommodation, at Gulf Shores. Part of this Gulf Shores Park is on the beach. The State also leases its facilities at Fort Morgan State Park, where there is a hotel, which attracts many fishermen to his "Fishermen's Paradise" as well as to families seeking a restful, relaxing vacation.

The nearby large, and growing, Port of Mobile, operated by the Alabama State Docks department, is a source of interest for many visitors. Shipping going to, and coming from, ports across the seven seas, as the Port continues to handle a million tons of cargo a month is an ever present source of passing interest. Railroads and ever improving modern highways for trucks, are helping this Port to become one of the most important sea terminals for the commerce of this country. It has long been one of the main ports for handling goods to and from South American ports, but yearly is now handling more cargoes destined for European and Asiatic centers.

Mobile itself, of course, is an old French city, whose narrow streets and remnants of French iron work, attract artists as well as year-around visitors. An annual Mardi Gras and Fishing Rodeo are but two events which attract wide-spread attention.

Alabama's Gulf beaches, which have until recently received but scant attention, are today swiftly developing into one of the South's best pleasurelands—especially for sportsmen and families.

Rigid Price Supports—

Last week, in a vote on the farm bill, the Senate Agriculture Committee approved for the next two years rigid supports of 90% of parity on the five so-called basic commodities—cotton, corn, rice, wheat and peanuts

You will recall that during the last session of Congress the House of Representatives approved support at 90% of partiy through 1957 on these basic commodities. This legislation, which I supported, passed the House by a very narrow five-vote margin. The Senate failed to act on the measure before adjournment last August and, since that time, farm prices have continued to drop.

There is every indication that the vote on rigid price supports in the Senate will be very close. Should the Senate act favorably, many feel President Eisenhower will veto the bill. The President's decision may depend, however, on the importance he attaches to other provisions that are included in the same measure, such as his recommended soil bank program.

New Plans Considered—

The action of the Senate Agriculture Committee is an indication of the efforts now underway in Washington to find an equitable and workable solution to the problem of falling farm prices and mounting farm surpluses. Legislation will undoubtedly be enacted in the not too distant future that is designed to give emergency relief. Many members of Congress realize, however, that such short-range approaches do not offer a permanent solution to the farmer's problems and that an imaginative long-range program must sooner or later be presented. They believe that such a program should be based on the premise that the welfare of the farmer has a wide effect on the rest of the economy and that the farmer must be assured of a continuing share of the nation'l prosperity.

Open hearings are being conducted by the House Agriculture Committee at the present time on al farm legislation that has been introduced by Members of Congress. On Thursday of this week I will appear before the committee in behalf of farm legislation I introduced earlier in the session. Several other members of the Alabama delegation have scheduled appearances on the same day.

Never be sure of yourself until you ARE sure. That way you'll have to do a lot less apologizing.

Too many times when a person offers a bit of friendly advice, it comes to us as a bit of unfriendly sarcasm.

Zebbie Gray says the reason he had to wait so long on his new car was that he not only wanter power steering, power brakes, etc., etc.: he wanted power power, too. You know what that is, of course. That's when you can shut the back seat driver up without a partition between the two seats. You have a switch for the car, and a club for the back seat driver.

Everyone seems to be getting quite a charge out of our "Posted, No Hunting" sign in the plant window. (And right over it "office upstairs.") Fella came in the other day and says "no hunting in the office, huh?" Now we don't know what he had in mind, but he was kiddin'. We had one lady, however, who was dead serious when she asked us "what we wanted with a no hunting sign in a downtown store window." Lady, we sell 'em!

Cud'n Buddy Williams (Nedford to some) sent us word across the sea, that if he had a cow to milk he could just milk across his arm and carry it around like stovewood. We remember when a friend of ours tried the same thing and his arms froze off trying to lug it into the house. (He had an exceptionally good milk giving cow.)

Changing the truth to fit your purpose is, to our way of thinking, often worse than just straight from the shoulder lying.

Did we ever borrow a book from you? No!! Then read on friend, it's our own composition.

Books, before e'er being read,
Should nearly always be crossbred
With Homing Pigeons, so that they

O.K.

We're gonna join the union after his. We'll at least bet all librarian will agree with us.

Hear about the fella who started to sing: "I had a dream dear, you had one too; mine was the best dear, it was of you." Second person says you're durn right it was better, mine was a nightmare."

It seems that a girls quartet from the Clanton Methodist Church who call themselves the "Southern Belles" (strange) are fast catching on around these parts. Members of the group are Holley Griffin, Carolyn Tucker, Maryetta Propst and Minnie Mae Swanner, with Mary Paula Johnson as pianist, or so we've been informed. The girls are already making engagements and seem to be enjoying their new found talents heaps. (Maryetta and Minnie Mae do all the singing, Holley and Carolyn just carry the bucket they keep the tune in.) Naw, seriously, we think they both sing bass

What would they do without St. Valentines Day. The candy people we mean. Why we'll bet they make 90 percent of their living on Valentine Day. It's amazing the amount of candy that "sweetest Valentine, be mine" can put away. Wow!

Letters to the Editor

Wes Gletty Writes Views On Capital Punishment

Dear Editor:

In last weeks Chilton County News and in the Union Banner the week before, the Rev. Morris Mims had an article entitled "Capital Punishment is a Devine Institution," and to support the fact, quotes Genesis 9:5-6.

However Exodus 20:13 reads (and I believe this is the 6th Commandment) "Thou shalt not kil." Also after Cain kiled his brother, the Bible tells us God said in Genesis 5:15 "And the Lord said unto him, therefore whosoever slayeth Cain, re vengeance shall be taken on him sevenfold, and the Lord sat a mark upon Cain, lest anyone finding him should kill him

In my lifetime I have known of several persons legally tried and found guilty and legally put to death only to find later that they were innocent.

I have also known of mob lynching where it was learned later the victim was innocent. Does the Rev. Mims feel that these were Divine acts or that God engineered them?

Wouldn't it be better if we changed our laws so when a person is convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment or any certain term of years that he would have to serve that term, with no pardon or parole unless reasonable proof of his innocense was produced. And that a court of justice should act upon it.

When a person is duly convicted of a crime and sentenced to prison for a certain number of years or for life, he should serve that sentence if he is guilty, and no crooked politician or board should have the power to pardon or parole them.

As for Capital Punishment being a Divine Institution, I will quote Exodus 22:18 "Thou shalt not suffer a witch to live." This one quotation has caused untold thousands of inocent women to be tortured, burned at the stake and boiled in oil, and up until a very few hundred years ago. Burning humans is advocated in three places in the Bible. Genesis 38:24, Leviticus 20:14, and 21:9

I cannot believe the Rev. Mims still believes in witches or that I should have it in my power to accuse a neighbor of being a witch and have her tortured thus.

However, it seems to me this is just as near a Divine Institution as Capital Punishment. I have just been reading that capital punishment is at present a controversial issue in New Zealand. Capital punishment was re-introduced there about five years ago. Those favoring it claiming that it would act as a deterrant, but statistics show there has been no drop in the homicide rate, and murders have been committed in the "Shadow of the Gallows." A few months ago opposition to the execution of three islanders was so insistent, so spontaneous, that the Government at the last minute, was so insistent, o spontaneous, that the government at the last minute reprieved them. Recently another execution that has brought the subject vividly to the minds of the public, and much embarrassment to the government, was the case of a young emmigrant from England, whose mother flew from England to New Zealand, twelve thousand miles in a vain attempt to save her sons life.

There are several organizations, most prominent among them is N. Z. Howard League for Penal Reform, that have inaugurated a national campaign for bolition. They have issued a leaflet, "Shadows of the Gallows." A few quotations—because capital punishment is irrevocable and denies all possibility of rectifying a mistake. Because the countres and states which have no death penalty have a lower, rather than a higher percentage of homicides. Lord Templeton says, "Because a high percentage of the murders known to the police are committed by the insane or in a fit of passion. A conservative member of the House of Commons comments, "Because it is barbarious and degrading, it is so barbarious that only barbarians can support it."

Because an execution puts a strain on the prison staff which they should not be called upon to bear. A prison Chaplain says, "No one can have the slaughter shed without a deep sense of humiliation and shame. And a prison official says, "I feel quite unclean after having taken part in a hanging because an execution causes suffering to the innocent relatives of the murderer and gives no advantage to the relatives of the victim."

Th world is slowly progressing There were many things practiced a few thousand years ago by the ignorant, superstituous, uncivilized human beings who were just emerging as we became more civilized.

We must remember we are living in the twentieth century and are supposed to be highly civilized and the world is ever progressing. I hope for the better.

Our projects for the year will be fixing a family box for the needy to be turned into the health office at the end of the year to be given to needy families. Also we will work towards fixing up our new club house. Mrs. Gladys Glenn gave a really interesting demonstration on teen-agers and young adults and our thought for the month ties in with the theme: "A smile is such a fleeting thing, it glows a moment then is gone. But in some lonely hearts its memory still lingers on."

Our home agent, Mrs. Johnny Lane won the lovely door prize for this month and she also brought with her the new trainee, Miss Gail Adcock. She will train with us a month and then go to another county. We enjoyed having her.

The hostess served very delicious hamburgers and cold drinks and cookies to the fourteen ladies that were present.

The next meeting will be held in our new club house without an agent on March 2nd. The hostess will be Elsie Hand. Everyone try to attend.

SARDIS NEWS

Last Sunday was a beautiful day, seems as if spring will soon be here. We had a good attendance at Sunday School and B.T.U. Sunday and Sunday night. Let's continue to keep a good attendance record.

We extend our heartfelt sympathy to the family of Mr. and Mrs. Mose Donovan in the death of their sister and aunt, Miss Joanna Donovan. To know her was to love her. But God saw fit to call her from her suffering and pain. God does all things to His honor and glory to them that love the Lord.

There are still some shut-ins in our community. Continue to pray for them and go by to see them at every opportunity.

Mr. and Mrs. Dick Hoss (Martha Jo Howell) announce the birth of a baby girl born last Saturday morning.

Just a few weeks now until our spring revival which will be the first week in March. Our pastor, Bro. Jones will be doing the preaching that week. Let's be much in prayer for our church and our pastor. We know that Bro. Jones has meant much to our church and our community. It's wonderful to know that we have young men and women who will give their lives to God while they are yet young.

Sunday is our regular preaching day. We invite al who can to come and worship with us. You will surely receive a blessing from the wonderfu messages of Bro. Jones.

Thought—

It is especially during winter when a cover seems to be spread over natures scenery like a veil that we usually stick somewhere around home. It is probably then that we realize that home becomes the loveliest place in the world.

Fancy Grapefruit Cost No More

Those who like the luxurious feeling that goes with eating pink grapefruit can now afford to indulge this whim with nary a prick of conscience. Time was when pink-meated grapefruit were considerably more expensive than the white. But no more. At the present, grapefruit prices generally vary with the size of the fruit, regardless of color.

These comments come from Miss Dorothy Overby, consumer education specialist for the API Extension Service. And she adds that current large supplies of excellent quality grapefruit, along with very reasonabe prices, make the fruit a particularly good buy these days.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Chandler visited Mr. and Mrs. Harley Mims and Dwight at Clanton Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Hathcock visited Mr. and Mrs. Bully Bulger and children at Prattville, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Helpful Hints For Housewives

Pin feathers will come out o. game birds quite easily after the fowls have been soaked for a time in very salty water. Remove the large feathers before dunking the birds and be sure to wash in clear water before cooking.

Give plain cake batter a generous sprinkling of shredded coconut before baking. The cake will have a delicious toasted coconut flavor and will need no icing.

Spraying with an insecticide is an excellent way to clean bedsprings Most of the lint will be puffed from the springs, and the spray won't rust the metal.

Ironing over buttons, zippers, and hooks is not only hard on the fasteners, but also scratches the plate of the iron.

All but cotton fabrics should be covered with a pressing cloth when ironed on the right side. Even cotton needs this protection if it's a dark shade which will show marks.

Black smoke and hot chimney gases are signs of waste in your heating system. Such a system is a fire hazard and should be checked by a competent repairman.

To prevent soggy fruit, pies, brush the sides and bottom crusts with beaten egg white, sprinkle lightly with flour, and add the filling.

Formal draperies should be full enough to fold in softly and long enough so that they just touch the floor.

Elementary PTA Honors Past Presidents With A Program

This month marks the 59th Anniversary of the founding of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers and the 45th birthday of the Alabama Congress of Parents and Teachers.

In Clanton, a forerunner of the P.T.A. was the School Improvement Association. This organization was active in the Clanton Elementary School and Mrs. Clara Curry served as its first president. Mrs. J. A Hester, Mrs. Hattie Alred and Mrs Hugh Jones were active in its organization and served as presidents in years preceding 1924.

In 1924 the Clanton Elementary School P.T.A. was founded with aims and purposes similar to those set forth by the School Improvement Association.

Through the years, improvements, sponsored by these organizations, in the school building, grounds and surrounding property are too numerous to name. Understanding between parent, teacher and child has led to better pupils and to better classroom conditions.

Old Folks Need To Have Hobby

Montgomery. — An interesting hobby is often recommended as a source of contentment and accomplishment for older people.

Dr. D. G. Gill, Alabama's State Health Officer said today that hobbies or activities which appear to provide the most pleasure are those skills which have been developed over a long period of time. This finding ties in with the theory that to grow old "gracefully," the individual must plan for that later part of his life.

Thus, the older person who has gardened or done shopwork for a hobby for many years still has "something useful to do," Dr. Gill said.

At left, the striking effect of Chilean Nitrate side-dressing on corn. Chilean is the only natural combination of nitrate nitrogen, sodium and minor "insurance" elements.

EXTRA GOOD because it's NATURAL

CHILEAN NITRATE—WORLD'S ONLY NATURAL NITRATE

Whatever the crop—corn, cotton, tobacco, pastures, small grains, fruits, vegetables—Chilean Soda top-dressings and side-dressings give the best results, lowest costs, largest net profits.

Natural Chilean works fast. Corn responds bountifully at rates up to 500 pounds per acre or more, 40 to 50 days after planting. The nitrogen in Chilean is 100 per cent fast-acting nitrate—invaluable at the critical stage of crop development.

Natural Chilean boosts yields. On cotton, side-dressings of 300 pounds or more, 35 to 40 days after planting, produce heavy-yielding, early-maturing plants. On pastures, too, it's a more efficient summer fertilizer than ammonia forms of nitrogen.

Natural Chilean contains sodium. Ammonia nitrogen is acid-forming and must be changed to the nitrate form in the soil, but every ton of Chilean contains sodium equivalent to 650 pounds of commercial limestone for destroying soil acidity.

Natural Chilean benefits crop and soil. Because it corrects acidity, improves potash, phosphate and minor element availabilities, Chilean is one of the most efficient and economical nitrogen fertilizers for side-dressing summer crops. Ask for Bulldog Soda. Look for the Bulldog on the bag.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a Health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

SUPERSTITIONS ABOUT HEALTH

The advent of a new baby into a family is the basis for many superstitions. The appearance of a "birthmark" on the child is erroneously charged to the parents, rather than to a faulty development. Even though very few persons have bowlegs today, there are those who still attribute this characteristic to the fact that the child walked too soon, instead of realizing that medical science has overcome rickets and other conditions which caused bowlegs.

Teething is said to be a cause of infection. This is wrong. Teething will cause fretfulness and crossness, but infection is caused by bacteria or a virus.

Many people believe that sleeping on the left side is damaging to the heart. Since the ribs, muscles and fibrous tissues of the chest protect the heart, it is all right to sleep in any position you find pleasant. The position of the heart is a popular misconception.

And then there are the people who believe that certain machines and gadgets with various vibrations and currents will cure anything from ingrown toenails to cancer and rheumatism. The flickering lights in varying colors are the yardstick for the degree of improvement. This misconception is a tragic one for the victims, for it lets disease develop into advanced stages and benefits no one but the promoter of the scheme.

These are a few of the silly superstitions about health. Unfortunately there are many more, such as seeds causing appendicitis, the wearing of metal rings to cure goiter and rheumatism and the following of certain food fads to live a long life, free of disease.

Disease is not a trifling matter and good health is one of the most prized possessions of every human being. Everyone should have a physical examination regularly to see that the body machine is functioning normally and if something is wrong to have it corrected. Use common sense and discard false notions and superstitions.

Pork Sausage 'Round The Clock

By Marie Gifford

Pork sausage, with that fresh country flavor, still holds the title for being one of the finest all-around meats you can buy.

Because pork is plentiful, prices are low. And in pork of all kinds there's a precious store of those proteins, vitamins and minerals so necessary for good health.

Fresh pork sausage comes in one-pound cellophane rolls, in links, and, in some markets, in the continuous link or "country style." It is specially spiced to suit regional tastes and is made fresh daily in sausage kitchens all over the country.

Sausage in cello-rolls is handy for slicing into the number of servings you want. Simply cut slices from the chilled sausage roll, remove cellophane from the edges, and the patties are ready to cook.

All fresh pork sausage should be cooked well done, until no pink color remains. Place patties in a cold frying pan and fry slowly for 12 to 15 minutes, turning occasionally and pouring off fat as it accumulates. Save the drippings to use later instead of butter in making gravies and in seasoning vegetables.

Pork sausage patties served with curried pineapple slices and quick-cooking rice make a pretty, tasty and nutritious platter for your quick-and-easy luncheon and dinner meals.

Pork Sausage, Curried Pineapple And Rice

1 pound cello-roll pork sausage	¾ teaspoon curry powder
6 slices canned pineapple, drained	2 teaspoons cornstarch
	1 cup juice from pineapple
	3½ cups cooked rice, buttered

Shape sausage into 6 patties, place in a cold frying pan and fry slowly for 12 to 15 minutes. Turn patties occasionally and pour off fat as it accumulates. Remove sausage to warm place and brown pineapple slices in the same pan. Mix curry powder and cornstarch with pineapple juice and cook over medium heat, stirring until sauce thickens. Place browned pineapple slices and sausage on platter with mounds of rice. Pour sauce over rice. Makes 6 servings.

Traffic "Traps" Can Kill You Says Dr. Gill

Montgomery—Dr. D. G. Gill, State Health Officer today urged Alabama drivers to be on the lookout for potentially dangerous situations on highways.

Overconfidence at the wheel can make for deadly "traps" Dr. Gill said. The person who says and drives as if he can "stop on a dime" rarely can do any such thing. Even at 20 or 30 miles an hour, stopping suddenly is not possible, and at 50 miles an hour, it takes at least 191 feet to come to a complete stop, and then only with good brakes on a dry pavement.

The person at the wheel needs to have a high degree of control over his emotions, also. Dr. Gill said that emotional disturbances can affect ability to think straight and act wisely just as consumption of to much alcohol can. As a recent article in Today's Health, published by the American Medical Association, points out, "The coroner can determine whether a traffic victim had too much to drink. But there is not. . . test in use today to tell whether crash victims died because the driver's judgement had been warped by anger or some powerful emotional force."

NO SMALL SOWS, PLEASE

Small sows may eat less and mash fewer pigs than their heavier sisters, but they also farrow and wean smaller litters. According to API Extension Animal Industry Specialist G. B. Phillips, one Experiment Station report showed gilts that came to farrowing time weighing only 250 pounds brought one pig per litter less and averaged weaning one and one-half pigs less than well developed "growthy" gilts.

Pullets can be raised more cheaply by making use of home grown grazing and grains.

The World Day of Prayer—

Thousands of Christians in the United States and around the world will be united in prayer on this Friday, February 17. This is the seventieth year of the observance in the United States. Services begin on the Tonga Islands, just west of the International Date Line and continue throughout the day in 13 countries, closing with observances on St. Lawrence Island, Alaska

The purpose of the day is to unite all Christians in a band of prayer and to make an offering for Christian missions at home and abroad.

Each year the service for the World Day of Prayer is written by one or more women from a given country and the 1956 services were written at Cook Christian Training School for Indians in Phoenix, Arizona. This is a very impressive service written in the beauty and simplicity of the Indian expressions

A committee composed of women from the various churches in Thorsby met at the Baptist Church on Wednesday afternoon of last week and made plans for the observance of this day. It will be held at the Congregational Church on Friday at 7:30 p.m. Everyone is urged to make plans to attend. "And let us find in our hearts to pray with Christians here and everywhere on this day that the time may more quickly come when there will be one flock, one Shepherd

Jr. Department, Thorsby Baptist—

No department in our Sunday School seems to be more wide awake and enthusiastic than the Jr. Department. These boys and girls are working so hard to keep their department up to standard that they might be described as "wide awakes". On most Sundays now, the department grade is above 70 percent. Last Sunday, [illegible] class the "busy bees" made 100 percent The department also went over the top in its quota for offerings.

On Saturday night, the department workers and pupils enjoyed a social at the church. Bob Burks teacher of "The New Knights" class did an excellent job in directing the games

On Sunday afternoon, the superintendent of the department, Mrs. Lota Mae [illegible], and Bob Burks carried the pupils who had made a grade of 100 percent during the month of January on a trip to Vulcan Park. If every department would work as hard we would have a standard Sunday School.

A Surprise Birthday Party—

One of the nicest social affairs of the season was that of a surprise birthday party for Mrs. Coy Gibbons on last Saturday evening, February 11th. Friends gathered at the home which was beautifully decorated with large baskets of bright red gladioli mixed with white snap-dragons. The dining table presented a most colorful picture with a centerpiece of red carnations flanked by tall white tapers. A beautifully embossed birthday cake with many candles adorned one end of the table, also pink and white marshmallow cakes, mints and salted nuts. These tasty refreshments were served the many guests with New Yorker punch. When the guests arrived they were greeted by Coy Gibbons and his wife, the honor guest, and as they spoke to them a tape recorder in the far corner of the living room was in action and recorded each conversation. This was interspersed with music furnished by Lloyd Howard who played the accordian. The guests sang "Happy Birthday" and after this was done, the tape recorder was played back as each guest sat listening to hear their own voices. This furnished gaiety such as will never be forgotten. It was indeed an evening of merriment for all. Guests who attended the party were: Mrs Estelle Hayes, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Howard, Mrs. Roy Kendrick, Mr and Mrs. Tom Lessley, Mr and Mrs. Frank Ross, Mrs. W. F. Holcombe, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Yeargan, Miss Naemi Turnquist, Mrs L. H. Lowery, Mrs. Arnold Jackson, Mrs. Earl Marcus, Mrs. Delen Wyatt, Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Cleckler and young son, Mrs. Wilbert Marcus, Mrs. Roy Higgins and Mrs E. R. Piper. Out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs Ferrell Gibbon of Birmingham, Mr. and Mrs. Erskine Baker and children, Patricia Ann and Junior of Clanton. Assisting Mr. Gibbons in making this party a success for his wife were Mrs. E. R. Piper, Mrs. H. W. Marcus and Mrs. Arnold Jackson. Mrs Gibbons received many lovely gifts and cards and many flowers.

Spare Parts Save Time In Busiest Seasons

Auburn, Ala.—Most farmers know from experience that it takes severral hours t hunt up and install replacement parts for machines. And placement parts fo rmachines. And when a machine is a planter or harvester working against time to get seed in the ground or a crop out of the weather, several wasted hours can be quite a loss.

That's why J. T. Gallard of the API Extension Service believes farmers ought to keep maintenance supplies and a number of spare parts on hand during the approaching planting season. He said this week that growers probably have the proper tools, but they may need to lay in other needed items.

"A good supply of the right lubricants for your tractor and other machines is one thing you want to be sure to have," explained Gaillard, who is Extension farm machinery specialist

Sets of spark plugs and distributor points, an extra fan belt, and a spare tire and wheel can save costly tractor tie-ups. Several chain links can be valuable, too, in quickly putting planting and fertilizing back in working order.

Gaillard added that, if the farmer wants to be really well prepared an extra plow point might come in handy.

Stock Should Come Off Cover Crops Very Soon

Auburn, Aa.—Cover crops that are to be powed under prior to spring planting must be freed of grazing animals in time to make growth enough for turning. And API Extension Agronomist J. C. Lowery advises that late February or early March is the time to take the stock off.

"Turning must come at least 10 days before planting if the green manure is to be of any value," the specialist said this week in telling why grazing should be stopped. He explained that cover crops such as vetch, Austrian winter peas, crimson clover, and other legumes add nitrogen needed by succeeding crops if plowed under soon enough.

Lowery ended his comments by saying that corn is one of the best crops for Alabama farmers to plant over green manure.

—By Ben

This week "Folks & Things" has its first guest columnist. She is little Miss Ola Faye Pierce, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Pierce of the Enterprise Community. She is 14 years old and in the ninth grade.

"SPRING" by Ola Faye Pierce, Enterprise School.

Spring is a wonderful time of year because mother nature is primarily concerned with the life functions and developments of her creations. She waves her magic wand and suddenly the world comes to new life.

Birds start building homes for their new families which will soon be here. As they work they sing songs of joy to let the whole world know how they feel. They seem to say, "you people don't know what you're missing; why don't you stop worrying about what you can't have and start improving that which you already have." Stop feeling sorry for yourselves. Help others and live life to its fullest. Then you will really be living, not just existing.

The trees start budding, little green leaves soon appear. Grass comes up and beautiful flowers suddenly begin to blossom forth. Little calves are born. Farmers start plowing the fields and planting crops for the coming season. The weather is warm and pleasant. The pink plossoms of the peach trees with the white of the apple and plum blossoms help make the outlook on life rosy and pleasant. All these things have important parts in a wonderful picture.

I am standing on a little hill, down in the valley cattle and their calves are grazing peacefully. The grass and trees all around are fresh shades of green which are seen at no other time of year.

Little bunches of flowers are scattered everywhere. White daisies, lavender violets, pink sweet william and yellow buttercups all form their own natural bouquets in the ground. On a distant hill a peach orchard with a few scattered plum trees lends a helping hand to carrying out a beautiful color scheme. Squirrels, chipmunks darting among the trees are enjoying themselves to the fullest with never a care. Birds are singing and their music has a very important part in making the picture complete. The ocean of blue sky with thin white fleecy clouds above the distant orchard and stretching as far as the eye can see adds a final touch of color that makes the completed picture painted by mother nature a masterpiece.

As I stand here I am conscious of the presence of a Supreme Being. As I think of the things around me I feel that surely if these lower animals, plants and natural assets play such an important part surely I must be much more important to the world in which I live.

Spring is wonderful to me because the new life of animal and plants and their bubbling joy at being alive make me ashamed of my little grievances.

Therefore these things influence me not to be content with merely eixsting but to work so that I will be able to get the most out of life.

Red Cross Holds Starter Breakfast Next Thursday

Dr. F. E. Cook, former president of Snead College, and now vice-president of Guaranty Savings Life Insurance Company in Montgomery; also connected with Red Cross activities for a number of years will be guests speaker at the 1956 Fund Campaign Kick-off breakfast at the Dixie Cafe March 1st, 7:45 a.m. Mr. W. A. (Bing) Lecroy 1956 Fund Campaign Chairman for Chilton County urges all community workers as well as those in the towns in the County to be present at this important meeting. Campaign material will be distributed at this time. Mr. Lecroy has mailed letters to all workers who were appointed by our Planning Committee, which met recently. He urges that all persons selected serve, if possible.

In connection with the 1956 Fund Campaign the Chapter Chairman Judge M. D. Tingle and our Fund Campaign Chairman, Mr. Lecroy wish to take this opportunity to state the quota this year for the local Red Cross chapter has been raised to $5,065.00. The amount of $430 was added to our quota for this campaign due to this being the worst disaster year in American History. The National Red Cross must ask for additional funds for disaster work above the normal collections from each individual chapter; in order that a surplus of disaster funds may be built up for the future disasters. The floods which struck in the west coast areas as well as tornadoes in the midwest and hurricanes on the atlantic seaboard have required a great deal of disaster funds from Red Cross. In the event Chilton County should suffer tornadoes or storms a portion of these funds would be used here.

For mandatory services to our boys in the Armed Services; for rendering blood services to our hospital and other important services, your local Red Cross chapter must raise the total quota assigned. For the public's information, your local chapter has been compelled to make a loan to carry on its mandatory services for the past two months. We are, therefore, makinginging an appeal to you Chiltonians to "ANSWER THE CALL", Give Generously to your local Red Cross.

March Draft Gets Five From Chilton

State Selective Service Director James W. Jones said today Alabama will be required to order 610 men for the March call to fill its share of the nation-wide call of 16,000 men. Jones said that the increase in the nation-wide call from 6,000 to 16,00 is due to the Navy issuing a call on the Selective Service System for 10,000 men. Jones stated that the Army will receive 6,000 men and the Navy 10,000 of the March call. The State Director pointed out that the call for March will not include any registrants under 21 years of age unless they have volunteered for service.

Chilton County will send five men as their part of the quota.

Clantonians Direct Musical Scores Of AC College Night

Montevallo—Two students from the Clanton area, Misses Bobbie Gray and Betty Kemp, are holding leadership positions in the annual College Night activities this month at Alabama College.

College Night, the outstanding all-student event on the school's extra-curricular calendar, is scheduled this year for February 23, 24 and 25.

The annual music-art-drama production started as an observance of George Washington's birthday 37 years ago, and is now recognized as one of the outstanding amateur productions in Alabama, attracting thousands of visitors to the campus each year.

Traditionally, during February the entire student body voluntarily divides into two competing sides, "Purples" and "Gold". Each side writes, directs, composes and stages a music-art-drama production. The entire productions are planned and executed by students. Each side keeps secret the plot and cast of its production.

Culmination of the four weeks' efforts is the three-night run, open to the public and held in Palmer Hall on the Montevallo campus.

The entire program is judged by out-of-state judges, experts in music, art and drama. The winner of the college night competition is announced immediately after the final performance.

Miss Kemp is a member of the "Gold" side; Miss Gray is a "Purple." They are among those in charge of music for their respective sides, and are both from Clanton.

Miss Gray, a senior, is a member of the Alabama College Chorale. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mr. R. Z. Gray.

Miss Kemp, a sophomore, was president of the freshman dormitory president of the sophorome dormitory this year. She is president of the Alabama College Chorale. Miss Kemp is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom W. Kemp.

City Of Clanton Installs Two-Way Radios In Vehicles

Clanton's police force is now on the air.

Station KIK 513 has been installed in the City Hall for the City of Clanton's use and the new station will be manned around the clock. During the daylight hours the City Manager's office will do the relaying and broadcasting and at night a policeman will be on duty there at all times.

Four City trucks and the new police car are equipped with speakers and microphones.

The sixty-watt station has a broadcasting area covering a fifteen-mile radius. In conjunction with their own station, the City has installed a Highway Patrol relay radio which will receive and broadcast all messages from the Highway Patrol cars and station.

From a management standpoint the new station here will cut down on many needless trips by truck drivers since their next move can be broadcast to them instead of their having to return to Ctiy Hall for orders. There will also be a speed-up in maintenance service due to the fact that all employees can be contacted rapidly.

Your protection will be greatly increased by the rapid method of radio relay. Police will be practically at your phone at all times. Calls can be answered faster and if the Patrol is needed for aid it too can be reached immediately.

City Manager Dave Wall considers the new radio station a great step in the direction of offering the citizens of Clanton a better organized City government.

Low Temperatures Best For Pork, Says Expert

Low temperatures are best for cooking pork. They develop a tender texture and fine flavor in the meat, hold down shrinkage and help save valuable nutrients.

Miss Mary Hulsey, API Extension foods and nutrition specialist made these remarks this week in telling homemakers how to make the most of pork "bargains" now on the market.

According to Miss Hulsey, pork cooked at high heat is likely to become dry and hard. So roasting temperatures of around 325 degrees are recommended. But cook the meat a long time in order to get it well done.

UNDER THE CANOPY OF HEAVEN—

By General Carlos P. Romulo

(Editor's Note: This is published in the interest of Brotherhood Week, February 19-26, sponsored by the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

We have a saying in Asia that all men are brothers under the canopy of Heaven.

The problem of peace in our harassed world boils down to one word: brotherhood. Peace cannot be built on hate: it cannot be founded on conflict among nations; it cannot be established by means of wars, hot or cold.

Not until men learn to be brothers can they attain freedom from fear and security from want. This is the central lesson of our time, a lesson learned through the bitter clash of words in the United Nations, and taught all over again by the bloody clash of embattled hosts in Korea.

To recall this hard-learned lesson is to realize the tremendous importance of the promotion of brotherhood among men, in which the National Conference of Christians and Jews is taking a leading part. It is the best of all possible incentives for helping to make Brotherhood Week, this year and in the years to come, a shining success.

Helping to give the flesh and blood of reality to the ideal of brotherhood is one of the most effective ways of bringing about peace, understanding and cooperation among the nations. It is one of the most valuable gifts anyone can give to this generation and to posterity.

WHY A HEART FUND?

Today there is great hope for hearts. Even if you aren't an expert in medical affairs, you probably know that all "heart attacks" are not fatal, that most victims, in fact, survive and return to active lives. You also probably know that some forms of the heart diseases can be prevented, and that almost all cases can be helped by early diagnosis and treatment.

As laymen we accept these facts today because we are no longer blinded by the misconceptions about the heart diseases that have come down to us through the years, and because so much has been learned about the heart diseases the past few years. The misconceptions are recognized as fables now because such responsible organizations as the Alabama Heart Association, thru public education programs, have taught us the truth.

But broad education is only part of the work that our Heart Association has accomplished in its few years of operation. First priority in its program is research into which the Association has channeled more than $13,000,000 since 1948. Some of that research has led to remarkable life-saving advances in heart surgery. From the same source has come science's new knowledge about "strep"-killing drugs which help to prevent rheumatic fever, a disease sometimes resulting in rheumatic heart disease. Still other benefits of research are the development and perfection of diagnostic tools which make possible earlier detection and treatment of the heart diseases.

Research, however, has not yet found all the answers it needs in the cardiac field. Among the greatest gaps in its knowledge are explanations of the causes of the three conditions that account for 90 per cent of all heart disease in the nation—hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure and rheumatic fever. Once we have found the causes, experience has shown, we are well on our way to establishing controls, possibly even discovering cures.

This is the time of year that the public gives this vital support. This is Heart Month in which you give to the Heart Fund to maintain the local and national programs of your Heart Association. The extent of its work and of its accomplishments during the next twelve months depends directly upon your contributions to the Fund. So give generously to help your heart.

The Kill-Loo Bird---

Alabama's Present Judiciary System Belongs To The 1800's

THE KILLY-LOO BIRD

By Walter B. Jones

(This is the first in a series of five timely articles by our State Judicial System by Judge Walter B. Jones. The articles will appear weekly in your Chilton County News.)

Alabama stands virtually alone as a state in which common law pleading has survived the steps of time, the shocks of chance, the blows of reform. Because of some modifications in the ancient procedure, we are enjoying improvements on the 18th century. But we are not much better off than were our [illegible] who founded the commonwealth. That is what Chairman Nicholas S. Hare, of the Judicial Advisory Council, means when he asserts that Alabama is operating under 1819 rules except for legislative patchwork in the interim.

In the nature of things, there could have been little change from 1819 to the appearance of the 1852 Code. Compare the [illegible] Code [illegible] ect to pleading, that they are pretty much the same. As Dean Harrison, of the University of Alabama Law School, puts it: "Our system of pleading has been developed in the common law tradition by court decisions, and very few statutes affecting pleading in actions at law have been enacted since the Code of 1852." On that score, we are traveling not so much in the horse-and-buggy, as in the horseback, age.

We are still using legal tools which, whatever may have been their value in earlier days, are downright primitive for the current hour. We are still subject to a procedure which lends itself to hair-splitting technicalities—the nice sharp quillets of the law which Shakespeare satirized and which led to his supreme stroke in derision, "Old Father Antic, the Law." But worse than ridicule is the injustice which these cobwebs cause, the heart-breaking delay, the back breaking cost, which led to a popular fixation that today makes most laymen shy from contact with the law as though it were somehow tainted.

That is Alabama's plight.

It was once a general plight. But a century or so ago, reforms began to make themselves felt in various states. Then, in 1938, the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure were adopted, "an epoch-making event in the history of jurisprudence," it has been called, not merely because it worked such wonders in the Federal Courts, but because it stirred lawyers and social scientists everywhere to seek the same benefits in their own communities.

It is not surprising that the Judicial Advisory Council and the Commission for Judicial Reform which the 1955 legislature erected to simplify and modernize practice and pleading in this state, have found in the Federal Rules an example to be emulated. For the major purpose of these rules is "to secure the just, speedy and inexpensive determination of every action," and the means they provide for attaining this end represent a sharp break with common law technicalities.

By taking the position that the law is not necessarily like the killy-loo bird "that insisted on flying backward because it didn't care where it was going but was mightily interested in where it had been," that the law does not necessarily make "a vice of innovation and a virtue of hoariness," but is ready to welcome new methods and new truths, the framers of the Federal Rules have revolutionized the administration of justice. They have cut a broad, clear highway through what had become a morass, and Alabama would do well to join the procession of those who are marching up this path to justice.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

The president's veto of the Harris-Fulbright natural gas bill was the top news item in Washington last week. This measure, passed by the House in the last session and by the Senate only this month, would have freed natural gas producers from federal regulation. These producers had become subject to such regulation only recently as a result of the U. S. Supreme Court's decision in the so-called Phillips Case.

Highly Controversial—

The advocates of the highly controversial Harris-Fulbright bill argued during its debate that federal regulation was not only uncalled for but, if imposed, would destroy the necessary incentive for future natural gas exploration. They also argued that competition among independent producers could be relied upon to protect natural gas consumers. Those who opposed the measure argued with equal vigor that competitive economic forces in the natural gas field are practically non-existent or at best weak, and that federal regulation is necessary to protect the consumer.

By only six votes (209-203), the House of Representatives passed the natural gas bill before adjournment last year. I was among those in the House who felt the consumer would not be adequately protected by this legislation and therefore I voted against it. Senate action on this measure, deferred until the present session of Congress, got underway in January.

Case Bombshell—

In the closing days of Senate debate on the Harris-Fulbright bill, Sen. Francis Case (R. So. Dak.) disclosed to the full Senate that he had rejected a $2,500 campaign contribution from a lawyer interested in the passage of this legislation.

Although this disclosure prolonged the Senate's debate, the bill was passed on February 6 by a 53-38 roll call vote. The following day the Senate unanimously adopted a joint resolution setting up a Select Committee to investigate the campaign contribution offered to Senator Case.

President's Veto—

After approval by both the House and Senate, it was the consensus of opinion on Capitol Hill that the President would sign the Harris-Fulbright Bill. Early last week rumors began to circulate that a Presidential veto might be forthcoming. On Friday, these rumors proved to be well founded.

In vetoing the natural gas bill, President Eisenhower denounced the "highly questionable" and "arrogant" activities used in lobbying for it. He said that he did not believe he would be discharging his duty if he approved the measure before these activities had been fully investigated by the Congress and the Department of Justice.

The President said, however, that legislation conforming to the basic principles of the bill was needed. But he added that any new legislation "should include specific language protecting consumers in their right to fair prices."

Mixed Reaction—

Reaction to the President's veto was mixed. Some members of Congress criticized his action, others praised it, and still others, primarily Republicans, remained silent. A substantial number believed the veto indicated the President would seek a second term. All agreed, however, that the number of votes necessary to override a Presidential veto were not available and that no further attempt would be made during this session to pass similar legislation.

NOSE PLAYS AN IMPORTANT ROLE IN BODY HEALTH

Aside from its cosmetic effect, the nose has an important function in the health of the body. Composed of cartilage and small bones, the nose acts as a carrier of air to the lungs which are the breathing apparatus of the body.

The lobule or tip of the nose is of a soft structure and acts as a valve. Inside the nose is a partition known as the septum. It seperates the right from the left side and maintains the rigidity of the pathway through which the air passes as it goes through the nasal structure. It also helps to give force and direction to the air current, much like the nozzle on a garden hose.

The lining of the nose, called mucous membrane is very sensitive; and damage or injury makes it very susceptible to infections that can easily impair the general health of the body.

The hair serves to filter out dust or infectious material that enters the nose from the air. The brathing passags of the nose into the lungs are quite small, curved and rigid; and obstructions of any kind may prove serious. When for any reason the function of these individual units is impaired, improper and inadequate breathing is apt to result.

Plastic surgery is used in the repair of the nose, serving to restore good function and, frequently, improved cosmetic appearance. It is well recognized that an unsightly looking nose, whether a congenital development or accidentally incurred, may be the source of deep-rooted emotional conflict. A person who wishes a cosmetic repair should not be criticized, for it is the feeling of well-being in every man that gives him a sense of equality with his associates.

When a nose has been destroyed by accident or disease, a completely new nose has to be fashioned from neighboring tissues. The most common repair, however consists of rearranging and remodeling the nasal tissues still present to give the best function and most pleasing effect.

Newly Nitrated Areas Dangerous For Your Cattle

Auburn—Nitrate, which acts as a tonic for plants on which it is spread this time of year, can be very poisonous to cattle. And frequently cattle left on freshly nitrated areas develop fatal cases of nitrate poisoning.

For this reason, experts on the subject say you should keep herds off grazing that's been freshly top-dressed with nitrogen.

High concentration of nitrogen materials in the plants immediately after application of the fertilizer is what affects cattle. Therefore it's not safe to put the animals back on a nitrated field for about a week after the first good rain following fertilization.

HOMEMAKING

Winona Riley

The reason I went to cooking school was because a certain movie star did. I saw the movie three times trying to master her technique of breaking an eggshell with one hand. At home, I broke, cooked, and served innumerable eggs. Finally, my husband rebelled.

"Your new RCA Estate range is a pretty versatile unit, isn't it?" he prompted.

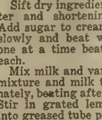
"Of course," I bit, "grills, bakes and barbecues all at the same time."

"Great," Bill countered, "grill, bake or barbecue something for dinner tomorrow. Anything, as long as it isn't eggs!"

Sometimes I can be as subtle as Bill. Next day I was off to cooking school where I learned to bake a cake. A real, old-fashioned pound cake that called for six eggs.

A home economist from Whirlpool-Seeger Corporation, the company that made my range, provided the recipe, the helpful hints and the moral support.

Well, it was a perfect cake. Light, evenly browned and with a wonderfully subtle lemon flavor.



Of course, my balanced heat oven was a boon. No hot spots or cold corners anywhere. Everything bakes uniformily.

Bill loved the cake. Ate five pieces and not a word about eggs. Although I can hardly illustrate the one-handed egg-breaking technique, I can give you six practice starts with my new recipe.

Modern Pound Cake

4 c. flour,
¼ tsp. salt
3 tsp. baking powder
½ c. butter
½ c. shortening
2 c. sugar
6 eggs
1 c. milk
½ tsp. vanilla
1 tsp. lemon rind, grated

Sift dry ingredients. Cream butter and shortening thoroughly. Add sugar to creamed shortening slowly and beat well. Add eggs one at a time beating well after each.

Mix milk and vanilla. Add flour mixture and milk to batter alternately, beating after each addition. Stir in grated lemon rind. Pour into greased tube pan.

Bake in 325° oven for 1¼ hours.

Mrs. Crane Writes On "Proving Your Loyalty To The Church"

We love things associated with persons we love. Through the years Christians have loved the church because it is the "Body of Christ," the institution that Jesus established and of which he is the head. Christians love the church, assemble and worship as a church and support the work of the church because they love the one who founded it and who guides and keeps it.

God's people have loved the house of worship, whether temple or church building, because of its association with God's name. David said "Moreover also, because I have set my affection on the house of my God, seeing that I have a treasure of my own of gold and silver, I give it unto the house of my God, Chron. 29:3.

One of the beautiful services rendered by women is providing flowers for their churches. A timid mem- said "I cannot make good talks or said "I cannot make god talks on programs, but I can grow flowers for our church and I'm learning how to arrange them." God made clear to his people of old that their offerings of whatever kind, should be brought to the place bearing His name: "Unto the place that Jehovah your God shall choose. . . to put His name there, even unto His habitation shall ye seek and thither shalt thou come; and tithes ye shall bring, your burnt offerings, and your sacrifices and your tithes, and the he aefevrofPdJs?ah tithes, and the offerings of your land and your vows and your free will offerings, and the firstlings of your herd and of your flock. . . ye shall not do after all the things that we do here this day, every man whatsoever is right in his own eyes, Deut. 12:5-8.

Sometimes a Christian asks what difference it makes whether his tenth is given through the church or directly to worhty causes and needy persons. One answer is that God's money should be placed in God's treasury and from there be used for his purposes and in His name.

It is partly a matter of who receives the thanks for the gift or help. God should receive the thanks when it is His money given. On this subject Paul speaks of "Liberality, which worketh through us thanksgiving unto God. For the ministration of this service not only filleth up the measure of the wants of the saints, but aboundeth also through many thanksgivings unto God." II Cor. 9:11-12.

Money given through the church does double good, it meets needs and causes people to feel the love of God and be grateful to God. Has your giving brought others to understand the love and goodness of God? Does your giving build up and strengthen Christ' church and cause people to thank God for the worth and work of His church?

A young Christian woman found a needy family at the edge of town. The father was out of work because of illness and the fourteen year old son, stricken with polio. Her first impulse was to open her purse there. Instead she told the family, Calvary Church has a fund ready for emergencies like this. Medical aid, fod and loving kindness were brought to that family through that church. Soon the younger children were in Sunday School. Over and again the mother said, "I thank God for what you are doing for us."

Faithfulness and obedience of Christians in loyal giving through our church. "Worketh us thanksgiving unto God."

Thorsby Baptist Church News

The First Baptist Church, Thorsby, is using this means to extend to the Baptist Training Unions of the Chilton-Unity Association a very cordial invitation to meet with us on March 5, at 7:00 p.m., for the Association wide mass meeting. We do not know of anything that gives us more pleasure than to be of some service to the very fine people of our association. We are looking forward to having you with us on the above date stated.

The Rev. F. H. Day, Promotional Secretary for the Baptists of the Chilton-Unity Association, has scheduled a group study course to be conducted in our church beginning Tuesday night, March 6. This study course is much needed in our church and we extend a very cordial invitation to all the Sunday School workers in the churches assigned to the Thorsby group. Please come one, come all, and let us study and pray together for the advancement of this phase of our Lord's cause.

The men of our church are looking forward to a very special meeting of the Brotherhood next Monday night, February 27th at 7:00 p.m. The ladies of our church are preparing to serve the meal, after which Mr. Ogburn, chairman of the Program Committee, will present a most unusual speaker for the evening. The speaker will be accompanied, as we understand, by one of the former ministers of the Chilton-Unity Association who is now a pastor in the Birmingham Association. Mr. Ogburn is inviting a number of men from the Collins Chapel Church, Jemison Church, New Salem and other churches who may have or are interested in organizing a Brotherhood in their church.

The pastor and a group of workers are thoroughly enjoying the opportunity to share fellowship with the Mulberry Church in the capacity of a Training Union study course. This course will be extended through Wednesday night. Our people thoroughly enjoyed the message brought Sunday night by the Rev. Johnson, who is the minister of the Mulberry Church.

Efforts are being made to take all the officers who have been chosen to serve in our Brotherhood to the Brotherhood Baptist State Convention in Birmingham on Friday, February 24. We especially want to attend the conferences on the duties of the officers of the Brotherhood, and to receive the inspiration of the closing service on Friday night.

4-H girls in Chilton County have had experience making cornmeal muffins and hot chocolate during the past weeks. These two demonstrations were given in 4-H Clubs during December. Information was given to the girls concerning the Cornmeal Muffin Contest and the Dairy Foods Demonstration.

Saturday morning, February 25th, these 4-H'ers will have an opportunity to enter the Cornmeal Muffin Contest and Dairy Foods Contest. The girls have been encouraged to practice making the cornmeal muffins and the hot chocolate at home.

Both contests will be held Saturday morning, February 25th in the Home Econocims Building of the Chitlon County High School in Clanton. Girls who plan to enter the Cornmeal Muffin Contest will need to be present by 8:30 a.m. and girls who plan to enter the Dairy Foods Contest will need to be present by 9:30 a.m. Each contestant is to bring the ingredients and equipment to be used in the contest.

There will be a Junior and Senior contest. The winner of the Senior Contest will be eligible to enter the State contest to be held in Auburn during July. Girls who are 10 to 13 years old will enter the Junior contest, and girls who were 14 by January 1st, 1956 and older will enter the Senior contest.

Many new friends will be made and new experiences are in store for 4-H girls who take an active part in their 4-H Club work. Thru contests and Club work girls and boys have an opportunity to learn how to be leaders in their Clubs, schools, churches and communities. So 4-H girls, let us encourage you to be present Saturday morning, February 25th for these contests.

Alabama College Changes To Co-Educational School In September

September 1956 has been set as the date for Alabama College to become a co-educational institution.

The date for the acceptance of men was set by the school's Board of Trustees at a special meeting on Tuesday, February 1[illegible], in [illegible] Hall on the Montevallo campus.

This action follows the passage of a special bill by Alabama's legislature, amending the state's statutes and permitting the Montevallo school to accept men students.

The legislation passed the Senate unanimously, and was approved by the House 83 to 6. The bill was signed by the governor early this month.

The resolution by the College's Board of Trustees states: "Effective with the opening of the next regular session in September, 1956, Alabama College shall become a coeducational institution, admitting men to all appropriate courses of instruction as may be judged by the President and Faculty; and that [illegible] of the college, the program of instruction, and the internal organization of the staff shall [illegible] as convenient be adjusted [illegible] of both men [illegible] first-year students in the assignment of dormitory space."

Other action by the school's board of trustees authorized President F. E. Lund and the school's administrative officers to proceed with plans for the erection of a new dormitory for men. Construction of the building, which will house 175, is expected to start in April.

Plans for the new dormitory, prepared by the architects Smith, Sher[illegible]k and Adams, were approved by the Board, and the President was authorized to award the building contract on the basis of sealed bids which will be opened on March 14.

"Heart Sunday" Goal Set At $200,000.00

Sunday, February 26, is Heart Sunday in Alabama.

On the afternoon of that day, from 2 to 4 p.m., all residents of Alabama are asked to open "their doors, their hearts and their purses" to volunteer workers who will call at their homes in behalf of the 1956 Heart Fund.

Marking the climax and high point of the month-long drive, local obserservances of Heart Sunday will include visits to Chilton residents by Heart Fund volunteers.

Expectations are that they will raise several hundred dollars for support of the war against disease of the heart and blood vessels which in this, and virtually every other American community, are responsible for roughly half of all deaths.

With individual workers assigned between 15 and 25 homes each, it is believed that most will complete their calls within an hour—or at most two.

As was the case last year, the Heart Sunday slogan is "Welcome Your Heart Fund Volunteer on Heart Sunday, February 26."

"This phrase will be repeated again and again between now and Sunday in every medium of communication," said Gen. Lewis A Pick, state chairman of the Heart Fund drive. "It gives emphasis to the fact we owe a great debt of gratitude to the public-spirited men and women who will undertake this house-to-house collection, and, most emphatically, we owe them a friendly handclasp and a warm smile when they ring our doorbells."

Gen. Pick pointed out that the the contributor, and, as a matter of fact, it will not be necessary to divulge the amount to the collector unless a signed "thank you" receipt is needed for income tax purposes. Standard procedure will be for the Heart Fund volunteer to present a collection envelope, which will be filled and sealed by the contributor

Timber Cutting CAN Be Done In Spring Say Experts

The popular belief that timber should be cut during the dormant seasson, when the sap is down, is not supported by facts.

Actually it's how well timber is seasoned and not when it is cut that counts, however, it is true that winter is a good time for cutting trees, because timber can be properly seasoned more easily then than during warmer weather. Checking, or cracking, of the logs is less likely in winter. Too, there's less danger then from insects and fungi which attack freshly cut wood.

There is at least one advantage to cutting trees in the spring: bark peels more easily then than at an other time

Isabella FFA Boys Taking Soil Samples

The 11th grade class of Vocational Agriculture boys at Isabella High Schol believe in getting to the bottom of the problem of growing crops. They know that Nitrogen, Phosphorous, Potash, Lime and many other fertilizer elements and minerals are required by plants of all kinds if maximum production is to be reached. As a result of these studies in field crops and fertilizers they are taking soil samples on their own farms and other farms in the Community.

They have learned that a soil sample should be made by taking a top-soil and a sub-soil sample from several different locations in the field, thereby, giving a representative sample from the entire field. The top-soil sample is taken from 5-6 inches of soil, while the sub-soil sample is taken from 12-16 inches deep. Top-soil and sub-soil samples should be kept seperate and in containers made especially for soil sampling. Containers may be obtained from Gordon Conway, Advisor at Isabella or your County Agent. Samples are tested by the soil testing laboratory at Auburn for $1.00 per top-soil, and sub-soil free. Specific fertilizer and liming recommendations are returned directly to the farmer. Those wishing to test soils are urged to do so as soon as possible to avoid the usual spring rush of samples to the testing laboratory.

A Christian School—

When I speak of a Christian School, I do not mean a school of denomination. We know that denomination is not the thing which saved us, rather we are saved thru the power of God.

Even though a Christian Student may have to associate in the midst of non-Christians, he or she can still live for Jesus. After all, He lived amongst those who hated Him

CIVIE TANN Sez:

(A weekly report on local Civitan affairs).

Meeting was held last week at the regular time. A committee from the VFW met with us to iron out a few details on the Crippled Children's Drive which both organizations are interested in. We had a speaker on the subject and also had Mr. Dave Wall, City Manager of Clanton to speak to us. We enjoyed his talk and share his views. He a very sincere speaker, a sincere man, in fact.

Seems one of the fellas got his antennae crossed last week and surmised from our article that we were going to put on the feed bag. He came in hopes of a good meal and all he found was us. Us not being too apetizing (especially on an empty stomach), he had to take out in the middle of the meeting for some nourishment. That's a pitiful excuse if we ever heard of a sneaky way of getting some thing to eat.

For those of you who are interested (couldn't be many). We are eating tonight — no foolin'. Same time and same place. Wear your white tie and tales will be told on those who are not present. Time is 7:30 fellas, as if you didn't know and Hershel Wright says you guys haven't paid your dues. What do you think this is, some sort of charity organization. Yeh, that's what we thought too.

Helpful Hints For Housewives

Is your refrigerator wasting fuel or current because a worn door strip needs replacing? To test it, close the door on a piece of paper, then try to pull the paper out.

Ordinary furniture cleaners or even treated dusters may harm leather furniture, so give these pieces real leather treatmnt. Clean with saddle soap, rinse with a damp cloth, and dry thoroughly. Then use a leather-conditioning dressing.

Let fruits that are being stewed get almost done before adding sugar. The sweetening goes in during the last 10 minutes of cooking.

For your next club meeting, serve olives that have been allowed to stand for several days with a small clove of garlis. They're delicious with cheese and crackers.

Before Agriculture Committee---

Selden Makes Plea In Behalf Of Southern Cotton Farmers

Washington, D. C.—Rep. Armistead Selden appeared last week before the House Agriculture Committee to urge th passage of legislation designed to help the cotton farmers of our district and state.

The 6th District Congressman emphasized in his statement to committee members that the serious and complex problems confronting our cotton farmers result directly from increasing surpluses, continuing acreage reductions, and falling income. He then recommended to the committee a program which he said should alleviate to some extent the cotton farmer's present difficulties.

Congressman Selden recommended first an immediate effort to reduce our cotton surpluses. He proposed that this reduction be brought about by selling surplus cotton on the world market at competitive prices and, at the same time, increasing agricultural research so that additional uses might be found for raw cotton. Second, he urged the committee to etablih the 1955 cotton allotment as a minimum, thereby ruling out further acreage cuts scheduled for 1956. His third recommendation included the stabilization of farm income and a return to supports of 90% of parity.

Rep. Selden appeared before the House Agriculture Committee in support of H. R. 8854 which he introduced earlier in the session. His bill makes it mandatory for the Secretary of Agriculture to "sell such quantities of cotton for export at such competitive prices as will re-establish and maintain for the United States grown cotton its fair share of the world market." At the same time H. R. 8854 provides reasonable protection for our domestic cotton consumers.

Selden pointed out that the United States share of the world market in cotton has dropped from 47% to 30% in the past six years and that any successful cotton program must contemplate the sale of our surplus cotton on a world market at competitive prices.

Also contained in the Selden bill is a provision placing minimum cotton acreage at the 1955 level. Rep. Selden emphasized the fact that drastic acreage reduction hurts all farmers, but it is especially hard on the small farmer whose income is already a bare minimum.

Freezing allotments at the 1955 level will not take acreage away from any state nor would it prevent a state from acquiring additional acreage, he said. But it would, Selden pointed out, make it possible for many small cotton farmers to remain on the farm and, at the same time, the loss of further acreage to the western states would be halted.

Also appearing before the Agriculture Committee were both United States Senators as well as several other members of the House delegation from Alabama.

Liberty National Insurance Company Celebrates Its Biggest Year

With an increase in insurance in force of almost $100 million, with an increase in total assets of approximately $22 million, and with an increase in surplus for the protection of policyholders of just over 2¼ million, Liberty National Life Insurance Company reports the biggest year in its 55-year history.

Frank P. Samford, President of the Company, in reporting to the stockholders at their annual meeting on Tuesday, February 21, 1956, pointed out that during the year the company passed the billion-dollar mark in insurance in force and closed the year with total insurance in force of $1,044,498,167. He also pointed out that the assets at the end of the year amounted to $186,105,070.11 and the policy-holders' surplus was increased from $16,465,362.59 to $18,740,052.47.

Mr. Samford's report reviewed the progress of the company during the past four years and each year showed accelerated growth. During 1955 four new district offices, two in [illegible], one in Florida and one in Alabama were established, [illegible] the field personnel of the company to [illegible] local managers, [illegible] the home office, in the district [illegible] now exceed 2,00[illegible] of whom according to Mr. Samford, are trained insurance [illegible].

The [illegible] emphasized the [illegible] that a large percentage of the increase in assets in 1955 was invested in mortgage loans primarily on homes under the FHA and VA programs. The Company has always felt an obligation to invest money in territories from which it receives its income and mortgage loans have made in all areas where the Company maintains agents. In Alabama where it has the greatest volume of business, loans have been made in all but one of the sixty-seven counties, and in this remaining county commitments have already been issued to make loans on homes now being built.

Liberty National is Alabama's fastest growing life insurance company and has more than 3½ million individual policies outstanding.

Nematodes are one of the worst of the pests plaguing Alabama gardeners. Soil should be treated to control nematodes about two weeks before planting seed, three weeks before plants are set.

New Hatchery List Out For State Poultrymen

Auburn—The 1956 poultry models have the up-to-the-minute look and high performance quality so highly touted in the automobile industry. Whether they're bred for broilers or for layers, today's chicks are setting a new record in production efficiency.

These remarks were included in a release to county agents of a new list of Alabama hatcheries participating in the National Poultry and Turkey Improvement Plans. It is said the 72 hatcheries named produce stock that comes up to the mark demanded by leading poultry-grower can visit his county agent's men. And it is pointed out that any office to consult the list for the dependable hatchery nearest him.

Efficient use of highly improved poultry feeds now available, demand the best chicks a producer can get.

GI Loans Allow Early Termination Without Penalty

Veterans holding GI mortgages can make extra payments to their lenders at any time or they can pay off the entire loan without a penalty charge.

Harley A. Smith, manager of the Veterans Administration Alabama regional office, issued the statement in answer to numerous queries.

Mr. Smith said the minimum extra payment a veteran may make is at least the amount of one month's payment, or a flat $100, whichever is less.

He added that should the veteran later become hard-pressed for money, the extra principal already paid may be re-applied to regular payments if the lender agrees in order to prevent the loan from going into default.

More than 8,749 veterans in Alabama have already repaid their GI home loans in full since the beginning of the GI loan program in 1944.

Nationally, 791,000 GI home loans, or almost one out of every five guaranteed by VA, have been repaid in full. The original principal amount of these loans is nearly $4.5 billion.

A Pretty "Snappy" Menu

Will Taylor had a near riot in his hen yard last week. Seems the hens were scratching around the cold ground when they found a piece of rubber band frozen in the ice.

"One hen pecked at it," says Will, "and it snapped right back. She backed off clucking while another hen tried it, and another. And the 'worm' kept right on snapping back. They all got their feathers ruffled. You never heard such a ruckus!"

"I finally had to break up the ice with an ax before those hens would get back to business and start laying eggs again."

From where I sit, some people raise a pretty big fuss over nothing, too. Take the fellow who would deny me a temperate glass of beer with my game of checkers. Maybe he'd rather have coffee! Well, that's all right. He has a right to his own preference. But so do I. And there's no point in his "snapping" at me just because his choice isn't the same as mine.

EXTRA GOOD because it's NATURAL

CHILEAN NITRATE—WORLD'S ONLY NATURAL NITRATE

For small grains, corn, cotton, tobacco, pasture, fruits, vegetables—Chilean Soda top-dressings and side-dressings assure lowest costs and extra profitable results. Here's why:

Natural Chilean is extra good for soil and crop because it's natural—the only natural combination of nitrate nitrogen, sodium and minor elements. Chilean Soda is the ideal way to feed a hungry crop with life-giving plant food.

Natural Chilean works fast. The nitrogen content is 100 per cent nitrate nitrogen—ready to work immediately after application. This assures maximum yields and quality, protection against losses and extra profits per acre.

Natural Chilean boosts yields. 100 pounds [illegible] as much or more crop than 100 [illegible] of any other nitrogen fertilizer—regardless of nitrogen content. Also, every ton contains sodium equivalent to 650 pounds of commercial limestone in acid [illegible] destroying efficiency.

Make sure you gets de NATCHEL yield!

"Strep" infections can lead to rheumatic fever which is sometimes a forerunner of rheumatic heart disease, says the American Heart Association. "Strep" infections can be controlled and prevented with the proper use of "strep"-killing drugs.

Proceeds from the stand have been used to purchase a truck for field trips and miscellaneous activities. Chilton HD Clubs Will Study Furniture Repair In March

Give new life to broken pieces of furniture with the correct gluing technique. Many pieces of furniture can be easily repaired and restored to use with glue if you know the rules and carefully follow them. It is possible to make joinings stronger than the wood itself with glue that is properly applied and handled. But remember that careless work is a waste of time. Home Demonstration Club members will learn "How To Glue Furniture" in their March Club meetings. Miss Alice Peavy, Home Furnishings Specialist from Auburn, Ala. was in the County February 7th for the Leadership School. Some of the points discussed were, why furniture may come apart, how to glue joints, steps in gluing the broken pieces, how to repair the dowelled joints, and how to glue veneer and veneer blisters.

If you have a broken chair, small table or some other article of furniture that needs repairing be sure to attend your March Home Demonstration Club meeting. You will receive valuable information on gluing furniture and ways to repair the broken pieces. Ladies who attended the Leadership School and will give the demonstration in Clubs in March are: Mrs. V. A. Hayes, Mrs. A. D. Smith, Cedar Grove; Mrs. A. D. Martin, Mrs. Hattie Alred, Friendship; Mrs. C. L. Wilkins, Bethsalem; Mrs. Hattie Lenoir, Miss Willie Mae Lenoir, Mt. Carmel; Mrs. M. W. Langston, Mrs. F. C. Those Who Plan To Enter CIP Contest, Take Heed

Time is getting short for groups that plan to enter Alabama's 1956 Community Improvement Program. Plans on which they will be judged are due in Auburn on March 15.

Some well executed plans made early last year brought several farm communities recognition and cash awards, said the API Extension Service in reminding community leaders of the deadline date. It is again time for rural groups to get in on the annual competition. Judging in the program will be done in November, after community clubs have had a chance to carry out their announced plans for improvement.

It's a good idea to seperate shotes into age and weight groups at feeding time. That way "piggish" animals can't keep smaller, more timid ones from feed hopper.

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

Ott Miller lost a bunch of keys the other week and advertised for them in Chilton County News. About the time the issue containing the adv. reached the streets, H. S. Day, local superintendent at Liberty National Life Ins. Co., reached into his pocket and found a bunch of keys that did not belong to him. Now the funny part is that Day had a bunch of keys but hadn't found any keys .The keys, as you have already guessed belonged to Ott Miller, but where Mr. Day got them, or how they got into his pocket he will never know. He maintains that someone is playing a trick on him and slipped them into his pocket. But Ott has his keys, office, post office box, and all the other junk keys that accumulates on a mans key ring. One doughnut will get you two that Ott doesn't know what all the keys on his ring are for.

Mrs. E. J. Morris was in Friday talking about some of our drivers—automobile that is. She is an agent for Luzier's cosmetics you know. Mrs. Morris thinks that too many of the drivers under 20 drive 60, and too many of the drivers over 60 drive 20. And she ain't a bit wrong.

Tell a man there are 826,689,561 stars in the heavens and he will believe you, but tell him a chair has just been painted and the paint is still wet and he will have to investigate for himself.

The Seventh Day Adventist Church in Glendale is doing some landscaping and fixing up the grounds. It's going to be pretty this spring. Incidentally Oscar L. Heinrich, Bible Lecturer, started a series of Bible Truth Lectures last Sunday at the Church. Meetings will be held each evening at 7:30 o'clock. The public is cordially invited to attend these services.

Rumor has it that professional wrestling will again be seen in Clanton in the near future. It has been difficult in the past to get a sustained following for the grunt and groan artists but mayb this time it can be made a regular attraction for the sport lovers.

R. L. Duffey was in Tuesday and says he is available for the office of Mayor of Clanton. Mr. Duffey is retired and thinks that the office of Mayor might be just what he needs to keep him busy and at the same time be doing a service for his fellowman. We'll hear more from Mr. Duffey at a later date.

Judge J. O. Middleton has retired after 24 years as Referee in Bankruptcy at Montgomery. We are sure he owes much of his enviable record to his good wife who has worked with him for many years. We hope we get to see more of the good Judge now that he will be at home with his friends all the time.

A young chap was told he could have a job in a clothing store if he sold a certain suit. And it was a dilly—light purple with white stripes and red dots. But the applicant said: "O.K. It's a deal."

About an hour later the manager saw him come running, his pants torn, blood on his hands and wild look in his eye. But he panted out: "I sold the suit."

"But you seem to have encountered quite a lot of customer resistance," the manager said.

"No, the customer was easy," the new clerk replied, "but I sure had a bad time with that seeing-eye dog!"

Have you a brother you haven't seen in 37 years? Albert Grammatas had until two weeks ago. His brother Charles P. Grammatas of Lesbos, Greece, has been visiting him for the past two weeks and it is their first meeting in 37 years. Mrs. Theodore Macris, of Brooklyn, N. Y. was also a guest of the family. Albert reports that it was a most enjoyable two weeks but did not report on whether his brother would remain in this country or not.

Meeting Called---

Rabid Fox Situation To Be Dealt With

County fox thinning program possibly to be conducted with a public hearing to be held at the Courthouse in Clanton at 10:30 a.m. on March 12th.

Reports of mad (rabid) fox are becoming quite numerous throughout the County. In recent days foxes that were definitely mad, or suspects that were assumed to be suffering from Rabies, have been reported from Randolph, Pleasant Grove, Enterprise, Morning Star, Pletcher, Corinth, Verbena, Kincheon, Minooka, Cane Creek, Mt. Pisgah and other areas.

Rabies outbreaks among foxes cause excessive loss of livestock and create a public health menace. Rabies outbreaks are assumed when: A. Foxes are seen frequently in daylight. B. When foxes fight dogs and farm animals. C. When foxes are seen in or near farm buildings.

Rabid fox outbreaks can be most economically brought under control by a concentrated fox eradication program. It is impossible to completely kill off all foxes, but a thinning out of the fox population effectively stems a mad fox outbreak.

All County residents concerned about rabid fox situation are asked to meet at the Courthouse in Clanton, Monday, Mar. 12th at 10:30 a.m. to further discuss the desirability of conducting a fox eradication campaign.

Should County residents elect, in the public hearing on March 12th, to conduct a program, an outline of action for the County program will be given.

Big Singing At Pleasant Grove, 4th

All singers and lovers of gospel music are invited to an all-day singing at Pleasant Grove M.P. Church Sunday, March 4th. Your presence will be appreciated.

The ladies of the church are expected to bring a well-filled basket. S. V. Miller is chairman.

Governor's Call To State Press Draws Huge Response

Last week in the State Capitol, the newspapermen of the Alabama Press met along with Gov. James E. Folsom to discuss the Racial Crisis which now confronts the State of Alabama so strongly.

A crowd of about 150-175 newspapermen and women and other interested parties from all over the state and from every type of newspaper were present to hear Folsom give his views on the subject and to add their opinions. The floor, after Gov. Folsom's introductory address on his plan for a Bi-Racial Commission was heard, was opened to all the editors and newsmen represented for their support and their condemnation, if there be any, of his proposed Commission.

Folsom has, since this meeting stated, that he will request that the Legislature pass a bill to the effect of the Bi-Racial Commission and he pledged financial aid to the Commission from the emergency fund.

Buford Boone, publisher of the Tuscaloosa News said, "I understand the seriousness of the situation which now confronts us, because we in Tuscaloosa have been at the forefront of it." He went on to commend Folsom on his stand in the matter and to offer the services of his paper and staff and ended by saying, "we must make some compromise that will satisfy all concerned, but please, please let's remember that quick anger is the buggy-whip of the devil."

Folsom praised Tuskeegee Institute for "teaching education and understanding before action" and said that the Institute was largely responsible for the harmony that has thus far prevailed between white and negro in the State of Alabama. He said, "my intentions are to create a Bi-Racial Commission composed of outstanding leaders from both races, not the wild and wooley element of the colored race and not the extremists of the white race."

Sen. Albert Boutwell of Jefferson County elaborated on the fact that there were, unfortunately, too many outside influences trying to tell us, here in Alabama, how to run our affairs. He indicated that, if let alone, we of this State could settle our own affairs "if agitators from the North would let us work out our own problems."

Jack Brock, representing the labor newspapers said, "we think your Commission, Gov. Folsom, is a fine thing and we will do all that we can to improve the negro race economically and socially. . . within their own race; but we will fight at every turn, any efforts of the Negro race to try to mongrelize the White race of the South. We will help them. . . . but not in conjunction with the White race."

Gov. Folsom also strongly stated that though there will have to be some basic changes in things, and a compromise will have to be reached, that "I know it and you know it and I think everybody else knows it, that the races are not going to be mixed in our schools in Alabama for some time to come."

The editors and publishers agreed unanimously to back the plan for a Bi-Racial Commission and Jimmy Mills was appointed by Folsom as temporary (later as permanent) chairman of the Commission. Mills then appointed his committee to meet on Friday afternoon with the Gov. on the matter to discuss future plans on the Commission itself.

It was stated by many that "this was a step in the right direction towards the settlement of this widespread and distasteful dissension that is now taking place in our State and other states around us." They pledged their full support on the matter and the meeting was considered successful in that light.

Directors Meet---

Chilton's Fruit And Berry Growers Seek 'Spot-Cash' Market

Chilton County Fruit and Truck Growers Association Directors met Thursday night, February 23rd to study summary of 1955 co-operative operations, and to lay initial plans for marketing the 1956 blackberry crop.

Association President, Delbert Collins, along with Directors Perry Bean, P. J. Norwood, R. O. Williams, vice president Sam. T. Bentley, and Manager James Kincaid met at the packing shed to begin 1956 marketing efforts.

According to plans being formulated by Association officials, every "stone" is to be turned in an effort to establish a "spot-cash" berry market during 1956.

This early in the marketing season, no definite statements can be made; but if finances can be secured the cooperative association will be in a position to pay growers a major percentage of the net sale value of berries on date of delivery during the 1956 marketing season.

The county's berry industry has had some severe blows during the past two production and marketing season; yet blackberries remain one of Chilton's surest sources of net cash income. Blackberry growers now own a shed and equipment worth approximately $30,000 and has served as a marketing outlet for $1,309,000 worth of Chilton's perishable produce during its' 7 year existnace. From berry buyers' statements, the county is not yet producing sufficient volume of berries to supply the larger and more desirable buyers of blackberries. There is yet a large possibility to increase cash income and profitable employment with this unrestricted crop.

Cooperative officials are planning to call a general producers and members meeting as soon as a few more marketing details can be completed.

Ola Faye Pierce Represents Chilton At 4-H Conference

Ola Faye Pierce, president of the County Council of 4-H Clubs, represented the 1,600 4-H Clubbers in Chilton County at a meeting of county presidents, state officers and leaders, and talent winners in Birmingham, February 2nd and 3rd. The purpose of the meeting, which was sponsored by the Agriculture Department of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce, was to tour some of Birmingham's industries and other points of interest.

The Alabama State Fair Authority was host at the banquet. After a delicious dinner the state talent winners provided the entertainment. Dr. John Bryan, of the Chamber of Commerce, presented each state officer with a certificate and a special trophy to the President, Wayne Boulware of Elmore County. Then Mr. Emil Hess, President of the Birmingham Chamber of Commerce made a speech in which he said "the second half of the 20th Century belongs to the South." He listed the many changes this will bring and stressed the importance of today's teen-agers, who will be tomorrow's leaders, planning for the future so that they will receive all the possible benefits. He also stressed the importance of cultivating our moral fibers as carefully as our crops. Following the banquet the group enjoyed a square dance in the Y.W.C.A. After a very good time at the square dance a tired, but happy group of boys and girls walked back to the Redmont Hotel, their headquarters for the visit. Next morning they had breakfast at Britling's Cafeteria and at 9:00 a.m. boarded a special bus for a tour of Hayes Aircraft Corporation, with Mr. Willim D. Sulgby, director of Labor Relations, directing the tour. After the tour the group returned to the Redmont Hotel to prepare for their department home.

CITIZEN OF THE YEAR—

We've been wondering why Clanton and Maplesville and Thorsby and other towns in our County don't get together, or take it up as separate projects, some form of recognition for good citizenship displayed by persons throughout the year or for some outstanding person or persons in the community who, over a period of time have proven themselves worthy of unusual recognition.

We have in mind several of our citizens in Chilton County who deserve such recognition as we mention, but they would be classed under several different branches of service to the community and therefore would require a different sort of recognition. . . each in his own category. However, it could be arranged so that we could have a general "Good Citizen Award" perhaps after holding several preliminary contests, presenting the person chosen with some token of appreciation for his or her outstanding contribution to our community.

One person whom we have in mind for nomination for an award of good service to his community, and, in the end, to his country, is Mr. Watson Yeager, teacher of Diversified Occupations at the Chilton County High School in Clanton. Mr. Yeager, over the past several years has worked tirelessly toward finding jobs for worthy students of his classes and we are certain, has helped numerous boys and girls learn trades that they otherwise would not have had access to. He has given them hope for the future.

It is because of this personal interest that he takes in our youngsters that we feel he deserves recognition. He doesn't stop with merely finding them a position, he keeps in touch with them and their employers in order to better know the situaion and understand each individual students capabilities, needs and limitations.

It is his job, true; but you could not find one more thorough or more conscientious than is Mr. Yeager when it comes to helping a boy or girl out into the world. As we said, he has given many, many students a foothold into the world of business and a broader knowledge of just how to go about earning a living in this old world.

His job is important and one of highest value to our schools and educational advancement, but his devotion and tireless efforts to his duty make him outstanding in our school system and we think, outstanding as a citizen and a moulder of the minds and characters of the builders of tomorrow. . . our children.

THE SENSIBLE WAY—

Governor James E. Folsom took a great step in the right direction when he recently proposed, and took steps to appoint, a bi-racial commission to study the problems of segregation and integration.

Up until this point, very little constructive and unbiased action had been taken by either side. Both components had raised a fanatical front bordering on a cold war with rumors of a hot one.

The problem at hand cannot be ignored, but neither can it be solved by trying to cram one side's views down the other's throat. The problem must be studied by both sides in an intelligent manner.

It is our firm belief that the roots of the present strife stem from out-siders who have a warped and biased idea of our Southern way of life. Now that Alabama has become the center of the controversy, it is up to all Alabamians to take steps to clear up what is our own business.

The bi-racial committee cannot work out an absolute solution by itself, but it is a sensible step toward returning the South to its way of life.

JUDGE MIDDETON RETIRES—

Judge John Osmond Middleton today announces his retirement from the office of referee in bankruptcy after an unprecedented number of years of service in the United States courts of Alabama. Indeed, his public service began as a boy when he went into the office of the old Clanton Banner to learn the printer's trade with Frank Crichton, its editor.

Graduating from the University of Alabama in law in 1902 he became Clanton's first elective mayor. He later served as solicitor of Chilton County representative in the Legislature from Chilton County, and then began his long service in the federal courts. He has been assistant district attorney in Birmingham, in Mobile and in Montgomery.

His talent as a prosecuting officer was recognized by his appointment as an assistant to the solicitor of the Department of Agriculture for the Farm Credit Administration for three southeastern states. Later he attracted wide atention by the vigor with which he prosecuted fraud cases in southeast Alabama as a special assistant to the attorney general.

Since 1932 he has held the office of referee in bankruptcy for the middle district of Alabama with offices located in Montgomery. He was appointed to this office by the late Judge Charles B. Kennamer who became federal judge in 1931 and there existed a deep personal friendship and mutual admiration between Judge Kennamer and Judge Middleton through many years.

In Judge Middleton's retirement Mrs. Middleton, the former Caroline Littlejohn, will join him. She has been an able assistant to Judge Middleton in his duties as referee for many years.

Judge Middleton as a younger man was noted as an orator and political leader and by birth is a product of Montgomery County in the heart of Alabama's Black Belt. As a child he went with his parents to Clanton and as a youth joined the Republican party.

Judge Middleton, is a man of impressive contrasts. As a United States prosecuting officer he was unexcelled in the vigor and courage he brought to the office. As referee in bankruptcy dealing with thousands of cases where distress and deep emotion were so often involved, he was sympathetic and helpful and many a man is grateful for his protection from the impositions of heartless creditors when ill fortune had pursued the unfortunate.

Judge Middleton and Mrs. Middleton have well earned the retirement from active duty which they are now to enjoy, and they should have the consolation of knowing that so many thousands of friends in the state say sincerely to them, "well done."—Ala. Journal

Judicial Reform---

Time Wasted In Our Courts "Salt On Wounds" Says Judge

By Walter B. Jones
Senior Judge—15th Circuit
Alabama Circuit Court

(This is the second in a series of five timely articles on our State Judicial System by Judge Walter B. Jones. The articles will appear weekly in your Chilton County News.)

Thoughtful Alabamians are looking askance at their judicial system. They know their judges to be as able and devoted as judges anywhere. Yet they have reason to believe that their courts are clogged, frequently to the point of ineffectiveness. They can't help being disquited by the length of time required for a suit to reach the stage of judgement. And it is salt on their wounds to observe what seems to be a happier situation in other states—for that matter in Alabama Federal Courts, where litigation is disposed of twice as quickly as in the state courts.

In the late 30's, Senator Tucker of Tuscaloosa introduced a bill to create a commission for the purpose of aiding the Supreme Court in the preparation of a new system of pelading, practice and procedure in our courts. It was this proposal which J. Russell McElroy, presiding judge of the Jefferson County Circuit Court, described in a newspaper article as follows:

> The bill opens the way for a simplified practice which will strip procedure of unnecessary forms, technicalities and distinctions, and permit the advance of cases to decision on their merits with a minimum of procedural encumbrances.

The Tucker proposal got nowhere, the obstructions which Judge McElroy deplored continued to stand in the way of justice. It was not until this year that the Legislature, responding to an urgent demand from lawyers and laymen, set up a Judicial Advisory Council, composed of seven members from both houses, to study, and make recommendations for, the improvement of judicial procedure in Alabama. The Council is functioning, with Representative Nicholas S. Hare, of Monroeville, as chairman.

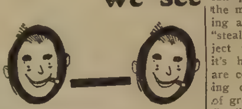
Operating jointly with the Council is a Commission for Judicial Reform, also provided for by the Legislature. This Commission, composed of outstanding judges and lawyers is doing the technical work essential to such an undertaking. Its chairman is Thomas E. Skinner with headquarters at Room 305, Frank Nelson Building, Birmingham. The Commission has recruited a staff of experts and consultants. Alabama's best resources in legal scholarship and statesmanship have been mobilized for this the state's first, big effort to modernize its administration of justice.

Using the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure as a model, the Council and the Commission are making ready to propose, as instructed, "measures which will improve the practice and procedure in the courts of Alabama and such other measures as will facilitate the administration of justice." These measures, if approved by the Legislature, would amount to a code taking the place of the system of procedure we now have in Alabama, and putting us alongside a number of states which have already adopted the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure or naturalized their main features.

Exactly what would this mean for us in Alabama? No substantive right would be taken from anyone. Trial by jury would be preserved. There would be no change in the organization or personnel of the courts. No one would be displaced. To take over or assimilate the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure would involve only what lawyers call adjective law, which merely provides a method for enforcing or maintaining rights, or obtaining redress for their invasion.

But if the contemplated reform does not go beyond practice and pleading, it would involve getting rid of the mumbo-jumbo now afflicting our courts. It would involve clearing away accumulated hindrances to "the just, speedy and inexpensive" dispatch of business in our courts. It would substitute for the clumsy, creaking arrangement we now have, before substantive rights can be enforced or their invasion redressed, something which experience has proved to be infinitely superior as a mechanism for arriving at truth and justice in our courts.

things we See and Hear



By "TUCK"

Emmett Hayes came in Monday to see us and "browse" around the plant. He said he'd never been in a printing office before and was intrigued by some of the goings on. We enjoyed his visit. He has a standing invitation to come in and see us anytime. Say Emmett, uh; we've never been in your business either, but we don't think we want to browse around any, O.K.

We saw a sign on the rear of a car the other night that read "Are You Driving OK." On that particular vehicle it should have read "Are WE Driving OK."

We wouldn't mind a "standing invitation" to Emmett's business, but that's the only kind we want.

And speaking of women drivers, . . we had occasion to see a man in action the other day, and although we heartily concur that women can pull some jim-dandy booboos; the men still are unexcelled in giving absolutely no signal at all and "stealing" red lights. That's a subject that needs airing. We think it's high time these fellows who are considered intelligent, law-abiding citizens learned the meaning of green, yellow and red on a traffic light. We've been around enough to know that the colors are nation-wide if not International and so that can't be their excuse. The fact is, there is no excuse. Too many times, we've seen supposediy responsible citizens sneak around the corner on a red light, like a boy stealing a cookie. To our way of thinking, literal stealing is not any worse if as bad as this practice of cheating. It's sorta like the fella who feels he can be a saint on Sunday and then rob the people blind the rest of the week. . . my friend, it just doesn't work out that way.

If we've told this one stop us; seems two fellas were out talking over the back fence when a heated argument started about who had the prettier lawn. "I can have a prettier lawn by accident than you can trying" says one fella. "If you have a pretty lawn," says the other " it'll be by accident, all right." What's that about 'this petty pace'.

Congratulations are in order. Orville Wood and his missus have just been blessed with a baby girl and have named her ________ ________. We'll fill that in Orville old man, when we receive that cigar. (Naw, we just don't know the youngun's name that's all.)

What we want to know is; how many Northern states have the same percentage of Negro and White citizens as do most of the Southern States according to population.

With this weather we're havin' lately, you can't tell whether to "Duck" or "Swallow" or just "Gander." Our advice is just stay at home.

Noticed a fella said the other day that he'd bet (and he's not a betting man) in ten years there would be no parking meters in the City of Clanton. Maybe so, but what kind of progress is that. Though we'll admit they could be improved upon, we don't outlaw them. On the contrary, where else are they going to get necessary funds for the city's use. This may be done in another manner, but it is not, we think, what he had in mind.

Talking about absent-minded. Other day we heard where a fella jumped into another's car and whizzed off and wrecked the darned thing not realizing it wasn't his own automobile. (he didn't wreck it intentionally, we presume.) We'll wager that fella is practically one hundred percent cured of absent-mindedness. Tis a pity, it takes such things to wake us up.

After hooking up on the city sewage line, we're considering seriously installing a "half-moon" house down in the north forty corner. Man, that privilege is expensive.

People are giving us an inferiority complex by buying so many new cars. Pretty soon ours won't even be allowed on the road, because it doesn't have a Hydrachloric Manifold with a Duo Torque Drive with a built-in Variable Pitch Transmission. (It has all that stuff already, we just don't like to use it. S'matter of fact, we don't know how to use it.)

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to take this opportunity to thank each and every one for your many acts of kindness during the illness and death of our dear father, C. A. (Bud) Dobbs. We want to thank Bro. Vester Bice, Bro. Bill Cox and Bro. O. L. Deavers for their comforting words and their visits and prayers, while he was sick; we also want to thank the Wyatt Sisters and Peggy Carroll for the beautiful songs rendered. Mr. White and staff of the Spigener Funeral Home were gracious with their splendid service. We also thank the good neighbors and friends for the nice food they gave. May God's richest blessings abide with each and every one in our prayers.

Letters to the Editor

DO YOU PROVE A MISSIONARY SPIRIT?

There are two great reasons for a Christian's taking part in missions. One reason is love for our Lord who said, "Preach the gospel to the whole creation" (Mark 16:15) and another is love for human beings, who do not know God. If our Lord does not call us to take the gospel in person, certainly we must send others to do so. We must give whatever is necessary—whether our time, labor, prayers or money. We must prove our Missionary Spirit

Belonging to Woman's Missionary Union is evidence of your Missionary Spirit. Taking part on the programs is further sign, and so is praying for mission work and workers. But possibly and even surer proof is in the size and spirit of our offerings. All of us recognize the need of money. The gospel cannot be heard and believed if not preached. Preachers cannot go if not sent. They cannot be sent if money enough is not given.

The money put into our offering envelopes for missions is one means of helping answer our prayers for Missions.

It is as we put our money into missions that we really put our hearts there. Jesus said, "Where thy treasure is, there will thy heart be also" (Matt. 6:21).

A woman in a Country Church became deeply interested in Missionary work in Africa. As she prayed, she slowly saved fifteen dollars by selling eggs and vegetables from her garden. She felt that God led her to send her gift designated to a Missionary whose name and address she knew. Her fifteen dollars arrived in Africa on a day when the Missionary was turning a boy away from the Mission School for lack of funds. The money enabled the boy, working to help pay his way, to stay in the school being trained to carry the gospel further.

Paying and praying for Missions go together. Together the two are proof of a real Missionary Spirit. The season of Prayer for Home Missions with the Annie Armstrong offering is March 5-9. How many minutes will you support your Home Mission Board? It takes $5.91 to support the entire work of the Mission Board for one minute. An opportunity at your door to prove your Missionary Spirit. What will you do about it, women and youth of Chilton-Unity Woman's Missionary Union? Why not, each organization adopt a certain number of minutes as a goal for your offerings?

Thank You,
Your Stewardship Chmn
Mrs. E. H. Crane

We just thank God that we have wonderful laymen of the churches like Bro. Cox.

Let's also be much in prayer for the Rev. C. T. Logan who had an accident. Let's pray that God will be near in healing his body.

Let's also pray for Mrs. Lila Hayes who is on the sick list.

The preceding week we had the Rev. F. H. Day to be at our church to teach a study course. Everyone who missed this really missed a great blessing.

Better Speech Club Enjoys Washington Birthday Party

What a surprise was ours last Tuesday afternoon! All day long there had been a sense of celebrating in the air. The flower arrangements and other unusual items in the room indicated a festivity of some kind, yet our work went on as usual.

Upon our return to the classroom from the fifteen minute play period that afternoon, we found two home room mothers, Mrs. R. C. Williams and Mrs. Ed Mullins, busily engaged arranging a floral wreath of red, white, and blue around a huge punch bowl at the center-front of the room. We quietly seated ourselves and, in short order, were in the midst of the loveliest of parties.

Judy Lawrence, Lynn Williams, and Deloris Jones served in turn at the punch bowl. On each desk was placed a tiny plate decorated with a small flag and containing a cherry tree log of candy holding a bright red toy hatchet. The napkins and punch cups were emblematic of our national colors, as were the delicious punch and the tasty cakes, served by Rossie Williams.

During the entire period, and as a fitting accompaniment to our holiday attitude, appropriate piano selections and readings were given by Linda Nell Downing, Martha Palmer, Becky Gray, Kenneth Wilson, Buelah Ann Martin, Deloris Jones, Linda Carroll, Ann Thompson, Lynn Williams, Ricky Johnson, Barbara Young and Jeffery Pilgreen.

Wes Gletty Writes On Progress Of Pension Petition Signatures

The petition signatures are gradually adding, but could stand to speed up considerably yet. Appreciate very much the 100 signatures sent me by Mr. F. C. Harris of Rt. 1, Stanton. I wish more people would take this kind of interest. This is the best way I know to let our legislators know our wishes. Another man outside the county sent me 140 signatures.

I have just been reading some facts about old age pensions. Colorado's average monthly payments since last November has been $99.87, with a maximum of $115.00. Alabama's average is $33.16, with many getting nothing. The national average is $52.38. Our Alabama legislators were quite generous and passed a bill allowing old folks a maximum pension of $55.00 per month, and a substantial raise in their own salaries. But they failed to provide the money for the old folks However I haven't heard of any legislators having their salaries cut for lack of money. Let's not forget these little things at election time.

Here is a little verse I clipped from a paper;

"God pity the man of fifty or past,
Who into discard has been cast.
Fretfully waiting, till he's sixty-five,
For his social security to keep him alive.
But pity him less if he fails to fight,
For what he knows is his mortal right.
The right to a job, and adequate pay,
To meet his needs day after day.
Let his voice roar out from his modest home.
'Till it reaches D. C. and the Capitol dome.
'Till Ike lays down his golfing sticks,
And pays some attention to us common hicks."

Remember the old folks of today have toiled a lifetime to make this country what it is, the richest nation in the world, and to make our millionaires into billionaires along with more new millionaires. They have seen two major depressions that took away any savings they might have had. Let's give them a decent living in their old age.

ON THE JOB

CIVIE TANN Sez:

Recently five new members were accepted into the Clanton Civitan Club. They are: Paul Williamson Honrie Little, Johnny Smith, Carl McDowell and Lewis Culver. We hope the fellas will enjoy us as much as we'll enjoy their fellowship.

And speaking of fellowship, we're gonna have a new Lieut. Gov. of our district before long. He's John D. Miller. He will replace Johnny Ferguson in that position and we might add will have to a lot of replacing to measure up to Johnny's shoes. We wish him luck though Pres. Smith says they called on him Wednesday morning and said "howdy" to Clanton Civitan.

You guys who missed the meal last week, probably slept well didn't you. Naw, we heard it was just peaches and cream (a silly meal.)

Be there tonight boys with bells on. (Reason for that is, some of the guys are publicity starved and want to be heard as well as seen.) Time is 7:30. Nope, nothing to eat.

THORSBY BAPTIST CHURCH

The Brotherhood meeting Monday night was a great success. There were a number of visitors from neighboring churches who were with us for the evening meal and also for the interesting and inspiring program which followed. Among those who attended were the Rev. Lucas with a group from his church and the Rev. Lowery with a group from his church. Also we had with us Bro. Joe Williams who is Brotherhood president of the Chilton-Unity Association. Mr. P. F. Singley, president of our local Brotherhood, presided with poise and dignity. Mr. Dewey Davenport recognized and welcomed all the visitors to the service. He did this in a very gracious manner. Mr. Archie Ogburn, chairman of the Program Committee, presented Mr. Milton Brooks, a retired businessman of Bessemer, who brought a most helpful, stirring and inspiring message. We feel that all who were in attendance will never be the same because of the power and presence of the Holy Spirit which was so vividly felt in every heart during the meeting. We feel that it is imperative that we bear our personal testimony to the saving Grace of Christ and want so much to bring lost people to the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of this world.

In the absence of the pastor Sunday morning, Bro. Joe Williams brought a most helpful and inspiring message to our church family. Bro. Williams is greatly admired and loved dearly by the membership of our church in its entirety.

We are looking forward to having a representative group from all the Training Unions of the Chilton-Unity Association with us next Monday night.

Much interest has been manifest on the part of the Sunday School forces in the Thorsby group. We predict a very fine study course in our church beginning Tuesday nite and closing Friday night.

The friends of Mr. Russell McCain will regret to learn that he is not convalescing as rapidly as we hoped he would. He is in the Veterans Hospital in Birmingham.

Doris Elizabeth Smith was taken to the University Hospital Monday after having been injured at school. The injury is not too serious, however, and she is expected to return home soon.

The church family extends to Mrs. Yeats their deepest sympathy in the loss of her husband. Mr. Yeats moved to the Upper Room to be with his Heavenly Father last Friday afternoon and his body was laid to rest in the cemetery at Gadsden Sunday afternoon at 4:00 p.m. The funeral services were conducted in the White Springs Baptist Church on Rainbow Drive where he has remained a member for many, many years.

We are anticipating a large group from the church family attending the Associational Sunday School meeting ot be conducted at Jemison Baptist Church Sunday afternoon, March 4, at 2:30 p.m.

The Rev. G. H. Hamm, who is the minister of Poplar Springs Church, has invited the pastor to assist him in a revival which is to be conducted beginning March 11 through the 16th. The pastor will begin preaching on Monday night and continue each night through Friday. Bro. Hamm is a very devout, capable, consecrated and deeply spiritual man of God and God is using him in a marvelous way in the advancement of His cause. The pastor is looking forward to having the opportunity to pray, preach and endeavor to win the lost while working with this very fine man of God.

The pastor was called to the bedside of his mother last week because of her serious illness. She remains in a very serious condition and due to her age and the nature of her illness, too much cannot be anticipated so far as the restoration of her health. Prayers are being offered in her behalf that her pain and suffering may be kept at a minimum if it can be the Lord's will. May we use this means to express our appreciation to the many very, very kind people who have included her in their devotional thought.

Capt. Henry Lee Motley of the U. S. Army who is stationed in Turkey, spent several days in Birmingham at the bedside of his brother, John L. Motley last week. Mr. Motley returned last Tuesday to his base.

John Alton Motley with the Air Force in Texas was called to Birmingham last week due to the critical illness of his father, John L. Motley. John Alton returned to Texas Monday.

A number of our people visited with John L. Motley during his critical illness in the South Highland Infirmary.

This and adjoining communities were made sad with the passing of John Lewis Motley in the South Highland Infirmary at 7:30 a.m. Thursday, February 23, 1956. John died of cancer and had suffered for a number of months before his passing. He had been confined to the Birmingham Hospital for some 4 or 5 weeks. John was born in Laurel, Miss., Jones County, March 18, 1901 and was the son of Mrs. Bessie Norris Motley and the late B. B. Motley of Rt. 2, Maplesville. John came to Autauga County in 1902. He attended and graduated from the Dallas County High School in Plantersville, joined the Jones Baptist Church in early boyhood and his membership was never moved from that church. The Motley's moved to Chilton County in 1919. John worked for the Co. Road Department for a number of years before starting to work for the Reynolds Lumber Co., of Maplesville, about eight years ago. John was a hard worker, a faithful employee, and a person liked and loved by all who knew him. He liked people and was a good mixer. Always ready to help a person in need. He lived with his aged mother and was a favorite with all his relatives. Surviving are his mother, Mrs. Bessie Norris Motley, one son, John Alton Motley, Air Force in Texas Three brothers: Joe O. Motley of Birmingham, Sherman Motley of Maplesville, and Capt. Henry Lee Motley of Turkey. One sister, Mrs. Sallie Perry of Maplesville. Funeral services were held at the Maplesville Baptist Church, Saturday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. The Rev. Charlie H. Stringer, pastor of the Maplesville Baptist Church and the Rev. Charlie P. Haggard officiated jointly. Spigener Funeral Home of Clanton directing. Pallbearers were: William Harold Motley, Joe Harold Motley, Billy Perry, Jasper Perry, Joe Thomas Ousley and Billy Robert Ousley. The Masonic Lodge of Maplesville had charge of the graveside services. Miss Ruth Hicks was in charge of flowers and was assisted by Mrs. Willard Hicks, Mrs. Ezra Lee Lawley, Mrs. Earl O'Neal Mrs. Prude Perry and Mrs. Nell Warren.

Members of the Plantersville Eastern Star Chapter No. 309 of which Mrs. Bessie Motley is a member sat in a group just back of the ladies in charge of flowers.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful. John was buried by the side of his father.

John knew of his condition for some weeks; never complaining during his great suffering and his only regret he stated was the leaving of his mother.

The family of John Lewis Motley wishes to take this means of thanking all of you for your kind thoughtfulness, for every act of kindness and assistance during the illness and death of their loved one, and for the many beautiful floral offerings. It is with grateful hearts and humbleness they say "thank you" for everything. To the colored friends who remembered "Mr. John" with the lovely arrangement of flowers, they were most grateful. It made their hearts less sad that you remembered.

Such a good picture and write-up of Uncle Riley Robinson, Chilton County's oldest citizen in the Selma-Times Journal, Sunday, February 19, 1956. Uncle Riley posed beside a television set, which, he flatly states, "I don't enjoy". Uncle Riley celebrated his 105th birthday on Saturday, February 11th, giving "temperate living" all of the credit for his longevity. Uncle Riley says "many friends are more to be desired than much gold." Uncle Riley received congratulatory messages from every where, but one letter in which he seemed to take special interest was engraved "White House" and inside was a birthday greeting from President Eisenhower. The picture of eight year old Olin Riley Robinson appeared with his great great grandfather also. This lad is the son of Calvin "Doc" Robinson of Clanton.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

In recent weeks I have received numerous letters concerning the proposed revisions of the Social Security Act. Realizing that many others throughout the district may also be interested in social security revisions, I shall devote today's column to this subject.

You may recall that in July of last year the House of Representatives passed a measure expanding social security benefits. Senator Harry Byrd (D. Va.), Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, tc which the House-approved bill was referred, called for extensive hearings on the proposed legislation. As a result, Senate consideration of the social security bill was necessarily postponed until the Second Session of the 84th Congress. Hearings were begun by the Senate Finance Committee several weeks ago, and a host of witnesses have already testified in connection with this legislation.

If changes are made by the Senate in the House version of the bill it will be returned to us for further consideration. If not, it will be sent directly to the President for final approval or disapproval.

Provisions of House Bill—

As passed by the House of Representatives, the bill lowers from 65 to 62 the minimum age at which women can qualify for social security benefits. It also lowers from 65 to 50 the age at which totally disabled workers can become eligible

Under present law, benefits received by disabled children are discontinued after they reach the age of 18. The House bill would continue these benefits if total disability had occurred before the child's eighteenth birthday.

The House bill would also broaden social security coverage, extending it to most professional groups (doctors excluded). About 90% of the working population is now covered, and, under the terms of the new legislation, coverage would be extended to an additional 250,000 workers and their families.

To pay fr these expanded social security benefits, the payroll tax paid by workers and their employers will be raised by this legislation from 2% to 2:5% during 1956. By 1975, the rate for both groups will rise to 4.5%. For self-employed persons now paying a 3% social security tax on their income, the rate will be raised by three-fourths of 1%.

Food Stemp Amendment—

A number of suggested amendments to the House bill are being considered at the present time by the Senate Finance Committee. The most publicized of these amendments is the food stamp plan that has been proposed by Senator Robert Kerr (D. Okla.). This plan would make it possible for persons getting various forms of state aid to also obtain surplus food commodities.

The original Kerr proposal is now being revised to include surplus fibers as well as foods. Under this revised plan, stamps coulb be exchanged for manufactured fiber products, such as cotton clothing, as well as for items of food.

Those eligible for stamps under the Kerr proposal would be persons receiving assistance through the following state-administered aid programs. (1) public assistance, (2) unemployment compensation, (3) old age assistance, (4) aid for dependent children, and (5) aid for the blind and handicapped.

Whether the Kerr amendment or other amendments to the House bill will receive favorable consideration is a matter of conjecture at this time. However, there is every indication that a measure expanding social security benefits and coverage will be passed before the adjournment of the present session of Congress.

Witnesses Hold Three-Day Meet At Fairfax, Alabama

The Watchtower Bibel and Tract Society of New York will sponsor a three-day assembly of Jehovah's witnesses in Fairfax, Alabama Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 23-25. The convention, which will be held in the Armory there, is for Bible instruction and concentrated gospel preaching in this area, spokesmen for the group announced today.

All three days of the assembly will consist of morning, afternoon and evening sessions of Bible talks, discussions and demonstrations, that are open to the public without charge.

This is the first assembly of Jehovah's witnesses in Fairfax. A similar circuit meeting, representing twenty congregations was held six months ago in Eufaula, Alabama, which nearly a thousand Jehovah's witnesses attended. It is expected that one thousand or more will attend the Fairfax gathering.

Mr. L. E. Nail, Jr. of New York will be featured speaker of the event. He will appear on the program all three days and will deliver the main topic, "Consuting God On World Affairs", Sunday, March 25, at 3 p.m.

Delegates from Montgomery, Anniston, and Columbus, Georgia will attend. Mr. William . Robinsin, the presiding minister of the local congregation, said that 20 from here are expected to attend.

Wrestling Returns To Clanton, 20th

It was stated in last week's Chilton County News that there were rumors of professional wrestling returning to Clanton. The rumors are now facts and the grunt and groan artists will soon be heard and seen here at the National Guard Armory.

Contact has been made with the Birmingham Wrestling Office and they have agreed to send the best available wrestlers to Clanton. In fact, everything has been done to assure good local bouts for the local fans, both old and new.

The bouts will be held at the National Guard Armory on Airport Road every other Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock. Admission will be 50c for children and $1.00 for adults. Children under three will be admitted free.

Company I, 200th Infantry Regiment of the National Guard is sponsoring the matches. Wiley T. Bean is handling all publicity and can be phoned at 1299 for further information.

Capt. Blackmon, commanding officer of the local guard unit, says, "we hope the fans of Chilton County will show their appreciation of this venture of Company I by attending these events. The proceeds of the matches will be used for purchasing chairs for the Armory to be used in these and other events. We are backing this 100 percent and looking for our friends and neighbors every other Tuesday night."

The first card for March 20th will appear in next week's Chilton County News along with a list of places where advance tickets will be available.

Charley Cox Is Selected NWFC Coach Of Year

From the Jackson County Floridan

Last week it was announced that Charley Cox, head coach of the Marianna Bulldog's basketball squad, had been named the Northwest Florida Conference's cage coach of the year. The coaches of the loop voted by mail to select their annual coach of the year around the first of last week.

It is no wonder that the cage mentors of the loop selected Coach Cox for this high honor. The quick thinking M. H. S. cage director throws fear into hearts of loop coaches every time he unleashes his Bulldogs against conference opposition.

Cox's legions really played havoc with the other members of the Northwest Florida Conference, in regular season play. They scored an 11-1 loop record, sustaining only one conference loss, (to Quincy 49-55), to easily have the best record in the NWFC.

In the 11th Annual Northwest Florida Conference Backetball Tournament, held in DeFuniak Springs some three weeks ago Cox's Bulldogs lived up to their dangerous reputation. They bowled over Chipley in the first round of the meet 74-33; rolled past Walton in the semi-finals 65-53; and bested Port St. Joe in the finals 69-65, to cop the Northwest Florida Conference cage championship.

Three of his charges, Bobby Conrad, Bud Whitehead, and Wayne Martin, were named to the conference all-star team, with Conrad being picked by the Pensacola News Journal for the All-Northwest Florida. Last week Conrad, Whitehead and Kenneth Ricks were named to the all district squad. That gives you an idea of the training his boys receive.

Give Generously To The 1956 Fund Campaign; Keep Red Cross On Job

Throughout the year the American people call upon Red Cross for help. Once a year this great organization turns to the people for support.

This year marks the 75th Anniversary of the founding of American Red Cross and on March 1st, volunteers launched the 1956 campaign for members and funds. These workers will be calling upon you for the means to carry on this agency's proud record of providing assistance wherever and whenever it is needed.

When disaster strikes, Red Cross is neighborliness in action, providing shelter and clothing for the homeless, for the hungry, food and for the sick and injured—nursing care and medical care when necessary. Red Cross gives long-term aid (after a disaster) to victims who cannot get started again without help. In the Eastern States Flood in 1955 (the second largest disaster in the history of Red Cross) 41,066 families were affected of whom 16,025 applied for Red Cross aid. A total of $17 million was spent by Red Cross in six states to relieve suffering of disaster victims during the emergency period.

Although Disaster Services is one of our most dramatic programs, it is only one of ten distinct activities carried on under the organiaztion's Congressional Charter. Services to Armed Forces and Veterans, even in peacetime, account for 41 per cent of the total budget.

The blood program provides a channel for "the gift of life" to patients in our civilian hospitals as well as military hospitals. Incidentally, the local blood program in Chilton County will be discontinued unless our total quota for the county is reached during the present Fund Campaign. We were given a grant last year, amounting to $440.00 in order for this chapter to

Local Lions Sell Brooms For The Blind

The Clanton Lions Club is maintaining their sponsorship of blind made brooms and mop sales in this area. These brooms and mops, made by the Adult Blind Department of the Alabama Institute for the Deaf and Blind at Talladega, Alabama, provide employment for blind people who would otherwise quite possibly be charity cases. Even the men who drive the delivery trucks on this project—though naturally not blind—are all physically handicapped.

In addition to providing jobs for these handicapped people, all profit made by the Lions Club in these sales is used for Alabama Sight work. This is a non-profit organization sponsored by the Lions Club of Alabama (statewide) to help protect and preserve the eyesight of people who do not have the financial means to obtain the necessary treatment themselves.

You can help in this worthy project by buying these brooms and mops. The next time you go to your favorite grocery store in need of a broom or mop, ask for a blind made product that was made at the Alabama Institute for the Deaf and Blind. You will find the price in line with comparable quality merchandise.

Chilton is busting out all over—with peach blooms, that is.

EYES ON CHILTON—

It seems that the entire nation is watching Chilton County this spring. Everyone is waiting o see what happens to our peach crop.

Last year's spring freeze told us one thing—Chilton County peaches are among the best and the nation felt our loss along with the local folks.

Everywhere you go these days folks are wanting to know if they'll be able to get those luscious Chilco peaches again this year. Of course, we're wondering the same thing here, but it makes you feel good to know others think they're tops, too.

From the looks of peach blossoms over the county, we are in for a bumper crop, barring freezing weather, and it sure will be nice to sink our teeth into a delicious peach again.

SOMEBODY'S GOING TO GET IT—

The intersecton of Third Avenue North and Ninth Street (at the rear of the Methodist Church) in Clanton has become a new traffc hazard.

Up until now Third Avenue has always had the right of way and 9th Street was a small dirt street. There were also stop signs there for the traffic travelling on 9th Street. But in the past few months the little dirt street has become a part of a County Road and it's stop signs removed. Since that time there have been numerous close calls there between cars whose drivers thought they had the right of way.

We don't know whether it's up to the County or the City to put up the necessary signs, but we do know that something had better be done before it's too late. When you give everyone the right of way at the same time you're asking for trouble.

GIVE A CHILD A HAND—

It has been said that a man is never so tall as when he bends down to help a child. All of us will have that opportunity to bend down when we receive our Easter Seals in the mail.

Rehabilitation is one of the basic aims of the Society for Crippled Children and Adults and this goal can only be reached through the generosity of the public.

This Society is the branch-head of many newer aid societies but its purpose is still very necessary to those who need aid. Everyone in Chilton County is familiar with the Crippled Children's Clinic held here annually. This one phase of the Society has given Chilton many happy lives that could have been ruined without the necessary treatment and medical care.

Last year Chilton County ran a little short of its goal in the Society's drive for funds, but now we again have the opportunity to make a comeback and show our appreciation.

Clanton's Civitan Club and Veterans of Foreign Wars Post are putting their full time to making a success of this year's fund drive. These two, or any other, organizations can not succeed without your cooperation and help.

Remember, every time you donate you'll be helping a child to smile.

Helping the Handicapped

Helping the handicapped just comes naturally.

And citizens throughout Alabama will have a chance to bring hope and faith to the less fortunate in the annual Easter Seal drive which begins this week.

Headed by Ralph ("Shug") Jordan, head football coach at Auburn, the campaign opens officially March 10 and will continue through April 10.

Jordan said the growing efforts of the Alabama Society for Crippled Children and Adults calls for enthusiastic support of this year's campaign.

Easter Seals provide funds not for just one service, but for many. During 1955 alone, Jordan cited, the Society spent $159,572 in numerous services to the handicapped. Special classes for children with speech defects were held, workshops for crippled and handicapped men and women were established, surgical fees and hospital care for childre nand adults was provided, and numerous appliances such as crutches, braces and wheel chairs were purchased.

Working hand-in-hand with the Alabama Vocational Rehabilitation and Crippled Childrens' Services the Society constantly is on the alert to seek out and guide the handicapped into normal paths of living.

"Buy and use Easter Seals so a bigger and better job can be done," Jordan said.

Laws of Our State Inadequate; People Need Court Educating

By Walter B. Jones
Senior Judge—15th Circuit
Alabama Circuit Court

(This is the second in a series of five timely articles on our State Judicial System by Judge Walter B. Jones. The articles will appear weekly in your Chilton County News.)

It is a fixed idea with most of us that the law is something remote and mysterious, using its own language, and relying on technicalities beyond the laymen's ken. Historically, this assumption is justified. But it is equally clear that for a long time leading jurists and lawyers have been doing their level best to make the work of the courts more intelligible to the average man and more effective for the common good.

This progressive attitude is reflected in the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, which since 1930 have enabled United States courts to dispense justice without regard for the jargon and quibbles of the common law; and it is reflected in the setting up by the 1955 Legislature of a Judicial Council and a Commission for Judicial Reform for the purpose of shaping a proposal to adopt or assimilate the Federal Rules for the benefit of the people of Alabama.

The time is obviously at hand to modernize the administration of justice in this state. If we are to get rid of the delay, expense and frustration which afflict our courts, greatly increased population cannot be adequately served by a civil procedure which goes back to the borning days of the commonwealth. We must bring it up into the 20th century.

That this can be done is demonstrated by what has taken place in a number of other states, but most strikingly by the record of the United States Court for the Northern District of Alabama. We have here the substance of a deadly parallel. In the Federa Court, the median rate for the disposition of civil cases is 4.8 months. In the Circuit Court, a few blocks away, the same thing is done in roughly 12 months. This is happening in the same community. Why? In the Federal Court, proceedings are governed by a code aimed at "the just, speedy and inexpensive determination of every action;" in the state court, the antiquated common law tradition prevails.

This contrast is made all more telling by reference to the innovation known as Pre-Trial, a device for narrowing issues in advance o a formal hearing, used in the Federal Court as a major technique for expediting business, but not similarly available in the state courts for lack of statutory sanctions. In a Pre-Trial conference the two sides are brought together with the judge participating actively, for the purpose of simplifying the contro- we must have a better system of procedure. Like every other state, Alabama has been gravely affected by what has been called "the highly mechanized activities of our time," resulting in a tidal wave of personal injury cases clogging our court calendars. Alabama is being rapidly industrialized. It is no longer primarily an agrarian community. The inescapable fact is that our versy for a swift adjuication. Conclusions, agreements, admissions, are embodied in an order written in non-technical language and binding at the later trial. Seybourne H Lynne, senior judge of the Federal Court in the Northern District of Alabama, has won a national reputation for his conspicuous success with the pre-trial conference. His colleague, Judge H. Hobart Grooms, is sharing this distinction.

The value of pre-trial is not merely that it cuts to the bone the waste motion of the old-fashioned, hammer-and-tongs struggle in the court room, but that it makes lawyers and litigants less combative, more disposed to compromise. In the calm, informal atmosphere of a pre-trial conference, there is little occasion for the heat which a public demonstration generates. It is not surprising that preliminary scrutiny makes for settlements, as indeed, it was intended to do. On the other hand, should there be no settlement, the dispute, stripped to essentials of issue and proof, can be tried in a fraction of the time which would be consumed otherwise.

In the Federal Court for Northern Alabama, as a consequence of pre-trial, roughly one-third of the cases thus ventilated are dropped before trial. That in itself is highly significant in making litigation which goes to trial manageable With benefit of pre-trial, the judge sets his cases accordingly, since he knows approximately how long each hearing will take. Jurors and witnesses do not have to wait indefinitely. Justice is expediated at a lower cost. No one aware of conditions in the state courts can fail to hope that Alabama will move promptly to adopt pre-trial as part of its legal machinery.

By "TUCK"

Young Doug Culp is spending a week or two with us along with his mother and brother and he is one inquisitive youngster, to say the least. Not that we mind, but the other night he had occasion to be at his grandparents home for the night (and he has several grandparents) and his grandma, as she was getting ready to retire, removed her teeth. Thinking her a pretty smooth cookie, Doug politely asked "can you take your tongue out too, grandma?"

We have come to the conclusion that we do not take the bitter WITH the sweet; it seems we have to take the bitter sometimes, in order to get the sweet.

You know if it weren't for the politicians, who'd we get to run for public office.

And on the other hand, if it weren't for public office; where'd we get politicians.

The Rev. Carlisle Miller and wife (and we don't know who else) from Panama City, Florida were up for the week-end just past for the Methodist Church Homecoming. Bro. Miller was pastor of the Methodist Church here for several years and endeared himself to Clantonians in several respects. We did not get to see him while here this trip, though we wanted very much to do so. It's been so long since he's seen us, we doubt if he'd know us, anyhow. We're introverts at heart, so guess if we get to see him, he'll just have to come to see us. (If he doesn't, we're going to see him.) Now that aughta scare a body into coming up, aught'n it.

It's an old Chinese Proverb: Greet the world with a smile. . . providin' you have all your teeth.

We had the unequaled honor of hearing Bro. B. B. Burks for the first time last Thursday night when he spoke to the Clanton Civitan Club and we can truthfully say we are not like Bro. Burks says Bro. R. E. Wilkins is. He said he invited him to speak because he couldn't get anyone else. (If there's anything we like it's frankness.) Bro. Burks is the pastor of the First Baptist Church at Thorsby and a very vivid speaker. One illustration he made in particular, caught our fancy, mainly we suppose, because we have never heard the thought expressed so clearly. He said that on that first Easter Morn, the women who were going to Jesus Tomb were greatly worried about who would roll away the stone when they arrived at the Tomb. When they arrived, however, the stone had already been rolled away, as you know, and they had had no reason to worry after all. He used this as an illustration to show that we should live for today and have no thought of tomorrow, because He'll take care of tomorrow for us. In other words, look on the bright side. . . don't cloud your living worrying about what might happen. . . chances are they won't ever happen and you've worried needlessly. This illustration was in itself, a sermon to us. As we've said, if you've never heard Bro. Burks, you've missed something.

We've worked us out a budget that works. The only hitch is, we still come out broke every week. Just can't win for losin'. (What's that we said about looking on the bright side? The bright side, now let's see. . . well, we don't have to worry about spending all that money, anyway. All that money?

Dishonor can be brought about in many ways; sometimes we can't see dishonor, but we can feel it.

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

The House of Representatives last week passed by a vote of 256-136 a measure authorizing the Upper Colorado River Project. When constructed, these installations will provide irrigation, reclamation and power developments in the states of Colorado, Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico. The estimated cost of the Colorado River Project is $756 million, although opponents of it argue that it will cost a great deal more.

The action of the House of Representatives opens the way for a conference with the Senate, which last year passed a somewhat different bill. The Senae measure authorized $1.5 billion for a series of power dams, reservoirs and irrigation projects, including Echo Park Dam in Colorado. Conservationists have vigorously opposed the Echo Park Dam, however, because this installation would cause a portion of Dinosaur National Monument to be flooded.

Rep. Clair Engle (D. Calif.); one of the chief proponents of the House bill, and chairman of the Interior and Insular Affairs Committee, promised that he and others who will meet in conference with the Senate conferees will not agree to the inclusion of the Echo Park Dam.

In a voice vote, the House of Representatives adopted an amendment to the bill whic hprovides that during the first ten years of the project's operation none of the six basic crops will be grown on land irrigated by it. These basic crops are cotton, wheat, corn, peanuts, rice and tobacco.

Arguments For And Against—

Major opposition to the bill came from Southern California representatives who argued that the project would deprive their area of sufficient water from the Colorado River. Allocation of the river's water is governed by the Colorado River Compact, but interpretation of that compact is now at issue in a case before the Supreme Court.

Opponents also maintained that 44 states would not benefit from these installations, that the nation does not need new farm acreage that coal and nuclear energy should Upbe used to produce power in the Upper Colorado basin, and that the engineering and financing of the whole undertaking are unsound.

Proponents of the bill pointed out that the Colorado River is the only major source of water for arid portions of the Upper Basin states, and that the construction of dams would prevent the wasteful flow of water to the sea without depriving California of its proportionate share.

To offset the argument that no new farm acreage is needed, those favoring the bill cited estmiates that our increasing population will bring about a need for 100,000,000 acres of additional productive land, and that the Colorado Project will provide only an additional 132,360 acres by 1980. The new acreage that will be irrigated, they pointed out will be used principally for fruit, vegetables, alfalfa and forage crops which are not in surplus at the present time.

Concerning power phases of the project, proponents argued that the sale of hydro-electric power at competitive rates would help liquidate the cost. At the same time, they pointed out that the cost of the municipal water supply and the irrigation features will also be repaid by those who receive the benefits.

Authorization Only—

It should be emphasized that the legislation passed by both the House and Senate only authorized the Colorado River Project. In order to secure the funds needed for the actual construction, it will be necessary for the Congress, at some later date, to approve an appropriation for that purpose.

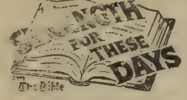
4-H'ers Make Strawberries Pay

Strawberry production in Chilton County is on the up-rise. At least this is true with the 4-H Club members during the last two years. Here Rudolph Lowery, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kinney Lowery, Jemison, Ala., Rt. 2, is inspecting his 1-2 acre project. Rudolph has been one of the most outstanding 4-H Club members in his community. His willingness to work and desire to do a good job resulted in his winning a Registered Jersey heifer last fall.



For Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies; Thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over.

Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life, and I will dwell in the house of the Lord for ever.—(Twenty-third Psalm.)

Workers Put Chilton County's Heart Fund Drive On Top

Tell me not in mournful wording—that you think life is dull—.
That the world to all is folding—and no good can be unfurled.
Haven't you heard the grand, grand secrete found in Chilton today?
That food, goodness, blessings and happiness are abundant in goodly array—.
We have people—land and acreage
—berries, plums, and cattle too
We are nationally known for our peaches—
And once our community concert
by music lovers true.
Though—the thing that gives great pleasure that swells up deep inside—
Is the joy of knowing someone—like these workers of our pride.
They give of time and talent—personality too,—the smiles, the help—the wondrous deed that makes all drives seem new.
It isn't easy to give of self—unless self can be displaced—In loving others more than the mirrowed reflection of one's face.
We commend these choice helpers—who worked through—sun and rain—
To gather Heart Fund money—and make this drive more than name—.
To them— the county wishes—the best that life can give—of peace, joy, pride and love—
And may your kind—live—still live.
We couldn't do without you—
You make all life worth while—.
The goodness of you—united
Makes all our people—smile.
Let's make Chilton County—the best in any state
United in Service—Beginning of this date.

State Reports 1,443 Forest Fires In Jan.

Atlanta—(Special) Alabama had 1,443 forest fires burning over 48,190 acres during January, according to the Division of Forestry.

A monthly forest fire survey made by the Southern Pulpwood Conservation Association showed that 6,413 forest fires burned over 121,187 acres in seven Southern states and Region Eight, U. S. Forest Service. Alabama has all its State, private and federal forest lands, 20,673,000 acres, under fire protection

Alabama counties having over 1,000 acres burned in January were Jefferson, 1,264; Barbour, 1,648; Geneva, 3,857; Escambia, 4,230; Mobile, 10,455; and Baldwin, 4,584.

The Division of Forestry warned that brush burning can be dangerous during a high wind and asked that all precaution be taken during this activity. Persons planning such controlled burning are asked to observe the following rules:

1. Have the brush fire under control at all times with adequate help
2. Don't burn brush during a high wind.
3. If you must burn trash, fire into the wind, not with it.
4. Advise your neighbor of your brush burning activities.

Some ponds will yield sufficient water to irrigate as many as three acres for each surface acre of the pond.

THORSBY BAPTIST CHURCH

The Rev. F. H. Day conducted a most helpful Sunday School meeting last Sunday afternoon at the Jemison Baptist Church. The theme was "Building Good Sunday Schools in the Chilton-Unity Association." The information disseminated, if appropriated and applied, will result in the Sunday Schools rendering a most effective and efficient service. If we will be not only hearers, but doers, we will find that our Sunday Schools will become fruitful in the Lord. Mr. John F. Mims, Superintendent of our Sunday School, was pleased to know that we had the largest number in attendance at the meeting.

Tuesday, March 6th, Rev. Day began teaching a representative group from the neighboring communities of our church. The title of the book which will be used is "The Church Using its Sunday School" and it is most imperative that every officer and teacher take this course.

The Training Union Associational Rally was conducted in our church Monday night, March 5th. It was a distinctive pleasure for us to have a representative group from the various churches in the county. It was quite obvious that the First Church of Clanton is doing a good job working with their youth as well as the church at Jemison, and other churches. In my estimation, the most important phase of youth work in this Association has to do with the Sunbeam Band, the Junior and Intermediate RA's, the Junior and Intermediate GA's and the YWA. It is this type of work, done with the youth of our county, that is destined to illuminate, inspire, inform and lead youth to make a definite commitment of their lives to the work that the Lord is calling them to do. No youth work in the Chilton-Unity Association should ever overshadow this phase of our work.

The Brotherhood of our church took the opportunity to sing in the choir Sunday night, and may I say that they did a splendid job. God needs men, men of vision, men of devotion, consecration, stamina and courage to carry on His work, and there are just such men in the membership of our church family. One young man put it right when he said at the close of the service Sunday night that one just feels much better when they have an opportunity to participate in the Lord's work.

The ladies of our church are observing the Week of Prayer for Home Missions. Mrs. W. H. Griffin has obtained the names of enough people to conduct a prayer service around the clock. She is one of the most loved ladies in our church. The power of God will move in answer to the sincere prayers of the WMU this week. Prayers sent up from our local church and also the churches throughout the Southern Baptist Convention where similar services are being conducted.

The Rev. Fred Halbrooks who, with his family, sailed for Brazil the first of January has arrived in Belem, Brazil. This is not his destination, however, he is not too far from Campinas, the town in which he will begin language study. In a letter to our pastor he stated that it had been his privilege to worship with people that walked for four hours or more to reach the place where the services were being conducted. Due to the fact that Rev. Halbrooks was not permitted to take his car with him to South America, he has discovered upon arrival that there are two things he needs very much. One is a motorcycle, and the other is a power unit to generate current for the home. A number of people have expressed a desire to share in these projects.

The church family, assembled for worship on the last Lord's day, was made to rejoice when a fine boy from the Junior Department made a public confession of his faith in Christ and united with the church as a candidate for baptism. The pastor interrogated this boy concerning the time that he wanted to be baptized, whether on Easter Sunday or next Sunday night March 11th. His reply was that he wanted to be baptized next Sunday night. Tom Bentley was converted at Shocco Springs last summer and the Lord has been tugging at his heart since to make a public profession of his faith in Christ. We rejoice with him and with his family that on next Sunday night, unless providentially hindered, he will be buried with Christ in baptism.

The Lord has been smiling upon our church family in that he has just recently added to our church Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Scott by transfer of letter and Miss Juanita Cameron also by letter.

There are quite a number of people in our church family and community who are ill. We are making them the object of our prayers daily, asking God for additional strength for their lives if it can be His will and additional strength for those who minister to their needs. Some of those for whom we are praying are Mrs. Jennie Davenport Mrs. R. N. Minor, Mr. Russell McCain, Mr. John Childress, Mrs Carlton Collins, Mrs. Mattie Bean Mr. R. R. Franklin and the mother of our pastor. Some of the abovementioned are convalescing slowly The report over the week end from Mrs. E. A. Burks of Columbus. Miss., stated that her condition was improved. I want to thank everyone for the prayers that have been offered in the behalf of all who are here mentioned.

To my brethren and co-laborers in the ministry: I am sure you have in your possession a copy of the Calendar of Activities for the Chilton-Unity Association extending from January 6, 1956, to December 7, 1956. It is imperative that we check this calendar from week to week and keep every member of our church informed as to the various meetings to be conducted in the interests of every phase of our work. The attendance at the monthly and quarterly meetings of our Association largely depends upon the interest and persuasiveness of the pastor. Let us join hand in heart with our Promotional Secretary to make this one of the best and most fruitful years in the work of His kingdom in our Association

U Of A Makes Resolution Permanently Expelling "Lucy"

University, Ala.—The University of Alabama does not customarily announce disciplinary action taken against a student but any statement would generally come from the student at his or her discretion.

The Board of Trustees of the University of Alabama at a meeting Wednesday evening felt impelled because of the nature of the charges made against its members and the officials of the University to take action expelling Autherine Lucy.

An official of the Board of Trustees will make a complete statement later this afternoon on the Tuscaloosa Campus.

The Resolution adopted by the Board is as follows:

WHEREAS Autherine J. Lucy has filed in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Alabama, Western Division, a motion for the issuance of an Order to Show Cause and for contempt judgment against the President, the Dean of Admissions, the Secretary of the Board of Trustees, and the members of the Board of Trustees of the University of Alabama, because of the action of the Board of Trustees in excluding the said Autherine J. Lucy from attending classes at the University until further notice ;and

WHEREAS In her said motion, and in press, radio and television statements by her or her attorneys, the said Autherine J. Lucy charges that the said officials, trustees and others conspired to defy the injunction order of the said Federal Court and further charges that they have in fact done certain overt acts in defiance of said action and that the said officials and trustees have intentionally permitted persons to mill about on the campus of the University of Alabama in such a manner as to assimilate an air of riot, disorder and rebellion against the said Autherine J. Lucy, in order that the same may be used as a subterfuge for refusing to permit the said Autherine J. Lucy to pursue courses of study at the University; and

WHEREAS The said Autherine J. Lucy has publicly charged in the said United States District Court for the Northern District of Alabama and in press, radio and television statements by her or her attorneys that her exclusion from attending classes at the University is a cunning strategem adopted by the Board of Trustees of the University of Alabama for denying her right to attend and pursue courses of study at the University; and

WHEREAS The charges so made against the said officials and the members of the Board of Trustees of the University of Alabama are wholly false, defamatory, impertinent and scandalous, and in open Court, Autherine J. Lucy's attorneys admitted that they could not prove such charges, and no evidence to support said false defamatory, impertinent and scandalous charges was offered; to the contrary, her testimony on the witness stand proved the falsity of all those charges; and

WHEREAS It is the sense of this Board that no educational institution could maintain necessary discipline if any student, regardless of race or color, guilty of the conduct of Autherine J. Lucy be permitted to remain a member of the student body after making such false, defamatory, impertinent and scandalous charges of misconduct on the part of the University officials and trustees:

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED By the Board of Trustees of the University of Alabama in meeting assembled that, in view of such false, defamatory, impertinent and scandalous charges made by the said Autherine J. Lucy against University authorities and trustees, she is hereby permanently expelled from the University of Alabama.

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Physical education is not just exercise as many people seem to think. All physical education activities are not necessarily strenuous. Certain sports, such as basketball, football, and even baseball, cannot be engaged in by all children. But there are certain recreational activities covered in a broad physical education program that provide suitable exercise as well as need for competitive skill. These are designed for children who may have a physical handicap calling for restricted or modified activity.

Physical education teaches the child not only recreational ability but also social competence. It provides opportunity for a child to develop normal social adjustment through mingling and associating with children of different emotional makeup.

A child deprived of these opportunities is apt to develop into a socially maladjusted adult, for it is the give and take on the playground or in the gymnasium that inspires a youngster with the art of getting along with his companions.

While every child cannot make the first team, the competitive spirit of being on any team at all will do more to mold his social consciousness than will lectures by parents or teachers. The child has an opportunity to express himself physically and to gain pleasure through skillful performance. He learns that good teamwork is accomplished by individual effort thus estabilshing his pattern for getting along in later life.

Participation in physical education activities should be encouraged by every parent. The child, however ,should be given a thorough physical examination by a competent physician to establish any weakness. If the child is undernourished, has a defective heart, or is a cripple, naturally he cannot engage in any sport calling for great effort. Through proper management, however, the type of activity can be selected which will tend to improve his health. It is participation in supervised sports, calisthenics, games and other activities that builds strength, endurance and agility.

Physical education offers many advantages. In learning to coordinate his muscles, to get along with his companions, to keynote his individuality, the child is establishing character traits that will carry him through the economic and business competition of living.

Cutting Cover Crops For Silage, Banned

Auburn, Ala.—Winter cover crops planted under ACP practice 18 may not be cut as silage.

This ruling was given a few days ago in a letter from the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee to county ASC offices. Quoting the ruling, API Extension Agronomist said provisions of the practice ban the harvesting of crops on which cost-sharing payments have been received specifically for "hay, grain, or seed." Even though the wording of the regulation does not include silage as a prohibited use, it was meant to exclude any type of harvesting except grazing.

Therefore, it was pointed out, farmers who cut cover crops for silage will be asked to refund any ACP payments they may have received on them.

Most fruits develop on one or two-year old wood.

We had a wonderful attendance here at New Salem this week. We just thank God for the way he is blessing our church. Rev. Lowery is doing some wonderful work here at New Salem. Not only has Rev. Golden Fruit Biscuit Surprise

"All dressed up and going to a party" are those all-time favorites, thin fruit biscuits filled with raisins. When they bow in as "Golden Fruit Biscuit Surprise," they'll be the hit of the day. This easy-to-make new refrigerator cake is a rich-tasting treat that's both decorative and delicious. Alternate layers of whipped cream and fruit biscuits are flavored with orange rind, vanilla and nutmeg and topped with Brazil nut slivers. Make it a day ahead to serve chilled when guests arrive. Here's how:

Golden Fruit Biscuit Surprise

- 1½ cups heavy cream, whipped
- 2⅓ teaspoons grated orange rind
- ¼ teaspoon vanilla extract
- 2 packages (6 biscuit sheets) Sunshine Golden Fruit Biscuits
- ⅛ teaspoon grated nutmeg
- 4 shelled Brazil nuts, shaved or chopped (optional)

Combine whipped cream, 2 tablespoons of orange rind, and vanilla extract. Remove the 3 whole sheets of raisin-filled biscuits from each package, being sure not to break along perforations. Place one of the 4-biscuit sheets on a small baking rack or shallow oblong pan. Spread with whipped cream mixture. Top with second 4-biscuit sheet and more cream mixture. Repeat, alternating layers until all of the fruit biscuit sheets and about ⅔ of the whipped cream are used, making an oblong stack 6 biscuit sheets high with cream mixture between and on top. Spread sides of completed stack with remaining whipped cream. Sprinkle top with remaining ⅓ teaspoon of rind, and nutmeg. Garnish, if desired, with shaved Brazil nuts. Chill 24 hours in refrigerator. Slice and serve. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

Helpful Hints For Housewives

A paste of prepared chalk (which can be bought at a drugstore) and vinegar makes an excellent cleaner for stained aluminum ware.

A bulge at the end of a can of food is a sign that the food inside is spoiled and poisonous. However, contents of a dented can are probably all right if the ends of the can are flat.

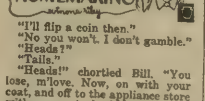
Never refreeze food that has once been thawed.

One quart of milk a day, or its equivalent in other dairy products, will provide all the essential [illegible] acids required by the average man.

Ironing shortens the life of sheets.

For a tasty and different party food try peanut butter balls served with fruit salad. Just shape dry peanut butter into balls and roll in powdered sugar.

Grapefruit can be sectioned quite easily and without losing much of their juice if they are first peeled white membrane along with the white membrane along with the skin, then the partitions that divide the sections can be peeled back with the fingers.



"I'll flip a coin then."

"No you won't. I don't gamble."

"Heads?"

"Tails."

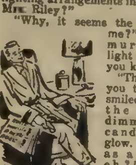
"Heads!" chortled Bill. "You lose, m'love. Now, on with your coat, and off to the appliance store with you. And this time, get enough light bulbs to last for a while."

"Yes master" I bellowed, slamming the door.

As it turned out though, I'm glad I went.

Our dealer, Mr. Ehrenstrom got me my light bulbs, then asked, "What do you think of the new lighting arrangements in the store, Mrs. Riley?"

"Why, it seems the same to me?" I murmured. "A light is a light, you know."



"That's what you think" he smiled, — and the lights dimmed to a candle-like glow. "Mellow as a 'cello, eh?"—the lights brightened about half way.

"What in the world . . ." I began as the lights went out, then slowly on again.

"Simple, Mrs. Riley, I've installed Luxtrol to high-light, (or low-light as the case may be) the benefits of the new product I'm handling.

"You see, this Luxtrol is a variable light control that lets you graduate or diminish the brightness by twisting a dial. Goes great in the TV room. Swell for candle-light type dinners too. And since its not a resistance kind control, it makes for economical operation. Also cheap to install" he winked. "Think of the charm . . ."

"Stop!" I wailed—but by then it was too late.

Well, I can hardly wait to get home and tell Mr. Coin Flipper about the Luxtrol unit I just bought. That'll teach him to gamble!

Gov. OK's Coosa Bridge Contract

Montgomery, Ala.—Development of Public Library Service continues to progress in the state On March 11, Attalla will ope nits first Public Library, the State Public Library Service Division has announced. Only two weeks ago a modern-type Dale County Public Library was dedicated at Ozark, and recently authorities in Covington and Crenshaw Counties shared the cost of buying a custom-built bookmobile—or public library on wheels. Previously, these two counties had been using a borrowed mobile unit from the State.

Further public library developments are being planned in other counties.

Six Million Tons

Recently, the U. S. Department of Commerce disclosed some figures which showed that world trade ports in the Southeast did a booming business in 1955.

It was reported that total trade in the 50 ports comprising the sixth customs district all shared in the rise—except New Orleans, according to figures for the first 10 months of the year. Mobile, on the contrary, produced figures showing it was booming ahead

A check with the records at the Alabama State Docks discloses that in 1954 the Mobile Port handled 5,765,932 tons, but last year it increased its business to 6,308,34 tons.

As previously reported, a 40-foot channel is now being built at Mobile, which will make the Alabama facility the best Port between New Orleans and the Hampton Roads The truth is, that Mobile is yearly developing as larger and larger competition to the New Orleans facility.

Big Bridge Program

Within a space of four days last week, Gov. James E. Folsom signed contracts valued at more than $3,000,000 to build major bridges across three of Alabama's largest rivers—the Tombigbee, the Coosa and the Tennessee. All three bridges have been long sought. Two of them will provide much needed new East-West routes across the State, thereby giving industrial development promoters some new cards on which to sell the State to industrialists seeking southern locations for new plants. All will be toll bridges, paying for themselves.

First, the Governor signed authorization for bridges at Coffeeville and Stevenson, across the Tombigbee and Tennessee, as already reported. Then he signed a $626-243 contract for a bridge in the Verbena-Rockford area across the Coosa. "This will be the only bridge across the Coosa, north of Wetumpka," a Highway Dept. engineer said, "until you get to Childersburg." He pointed out that the Verbena bridge would also provide a fast new East-West highway from Meridian, Miss., to Atlanta, Ga. Most such travellers have been making that trip via Montgomery.

Bluegills And Bream---

New Dallas County Lake Recently Been Stocked

Montgomery, Ala.—Conservation Director W. H. Drinkard said here today that 100,000 bluegills and [illegible] bream have recently been stocked in the new 100-acre Dallas County Public Lake 13 miles southeast of Selma and 10,000 largemouth bass will be added in April or May.

The Dallas County Lake, 16th [illegible] lake in the Alabama Department of Conservation's public fishing improvement program, will be opened to public fishing sometime in the summer of 1957, Drinkard said.

This lake, the second largest constructed by the Department will be fertilized approximately 12 times each year with a total of 60 tons of 6-8-4 fertilizer and six tons of nitrate of soda annually.

"It is the policy of the Conservation Department to build lakes in counties having insufficient public fishing waters for the population those counties which are willing to donate land that is suitable for lake construction," Drinkard said.

Dallas County Lake was constructed on land donated by Dallas County. It was financed with State Game and Fish funds and Federal Dingell-Johnson fisheries program funds, at a total cost of approximately $50,000.

"We are planning to build as many public lakes as possible in counties that need them and have suitable sites," Drinkard said. "This will be made possible by the new $1 pole and line and $2 rod and reel fishing licenses and a resulting increase in federal funds which will come about with increased fishing license sales," he said.

Federal Dingell-Johnson fund come from excise taxes on fisnih tackle, boats, motors, etc., which are collected by the Federal Government and allocated to the 48 states 60 per cent according to the number of fishing licenses sold and 40 per cent according to the land area of a state.

A USDA report estimates this country's total agricultural exports for the first half of the current fiscal year at more than $1.6 billion—two percent more than the total for the first half of the 1954-55 year.

-4-H Club Week Recognized; Many New Projects-

Mrs. Johnnie Lane, Home Agent, Nancy and Frank Daniel, Mr. J. E. Daniel, and Assistant County Agent, Dan Mims, are pictured above with one of the calves Nancy and Frank are feeding as a 4-H Club project. Nancy and Frank are doing an excellent job of feeding and training their calves in the 1956 4-H Feeder Beef Program. The County Show of these feeder beef calves will be held April 25th. Parents of Nancy and Frank are Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Daniel, Maplesville, Ala., who are also outstanding 4-H adult leaders. Nancy and Frank are among the twenty-eight 4-H Club members participating in the 4-H Feeder Beef Program in the County.

4-H Club Activities In Chilton Are Varied, Numerous, Effective

In summarizing 4-H achievements in connection with the celebration of National 4-H Club Week, Alabama reports the following: Size 23,065 council officers participated in 883 official meetings. During the year 15,000 new officers were trained, including presidents, vice presidents, secretaries, song leaders, and reporters.

One of the most popular county 4-H events is the rally. Sixty-nine rallies were held in 1955, with 58,883 members and others attending.

County camps brought 5,353 boys and girls together in large groups for sports, games, and special training programs in recreation and rural arts, safety, and other areas of 4-H activity.

In this county, 4-H group activities included: boys' summer camp, 34 attending; county 4-H rally, 1700 attending; summer recreational meetings on the Coosa river, 450 attending; county Dairy Show, 34 4-H animals exhibited, premium money received was valued at approximately $500.00; District Dairy Show in Bessemer, 13 4-H animals exhibited, premium money received $215.00; district farm cooperative essay contest, county winners: boy, Jimmy Kincaid, Thorsby, girl, Peggy Blackmon, Jemison; 4-H council meetings, older youth training and recreational meetings and many others.

Adult leaders are an important part of the 4-H program. Over 90 Chilton county volunteer adult leaders gave their time and energy to 4-H work in 1955. They attended regular 4-H meetings, led summer community meetings, and provided transportation for 4-H'ers to county council functions.

Better kept records were stressed by Club leaders in 1955. And lively, informative records helped three state 4-H'ers win national project honors. They were Amelia Frost, Shelby County, clothing; Jerry Calloway, Geneva, Tractor program, and Jerry Lasseter, Etowah, electric program. Each will get a $300 college scholarship.

4-H'ERS WILL PLAN RALLY AND COUNTY CAMP

Saturday morning, March 10th is an important date for Chilton County 4-H Club officers. A 4-H County Council meeting will be held at 9:00 a.m. at the Clanton City Hall. Plans will be made for the 4-H Club Rally and a County Camp.

After the Council meeting a fitting and grooming demonstration of 4-H feeder beef calves will be held. This demonstration will be conducted at the County Agent's office. Parents are urged to attend this demonstration.

Heifer Chain Set Up For More Efficient Program

Competition each year is becoming more keen due to more participation and interest in improving production, not only in grade "A" and "B" dairy herds, but also of the family cow. The Chilton County Board of Revenue and Control, and the Chilton County Jersey Cattle Club make a very attractive contribution to encourage more entries. This, in turn, tends to create competition and a desire for 4-H Club members, as well as adults, to improve the quality of their animals. Two local businessmen have volunteered to set up Jersey heifer chains to encourage more efficient dairy programs and provide awards for outstanding project work among the 1700 Chilton County 4-H Club members. The Jones Feed & Seed Co. and the Shelton Truck and Tractor Co., were responsible for two of the chains now is operation. The chains operate in this manner. A registered heifer is purchased and awarded to some worthy 4-H Club member. The 4-H Club member agrees to raise the heifer to the best of his ability. The first heifer calf raised is then given to another outstanding 4-H Club member and he in return gives his first heifer calg to some other 4-H member and etc. This provides a wonderful opportunity for a 4-H Club member with a desire to own an outstanding purebred animal, where otherwise he would not be able to purchase one.

Dan Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Smith, Thorsby, Ala., Rt. 1, is being assisted by John Sellers, Assistant County Agent, with blanketing his dairy heifer. Dan's care and constant handling of his calf resulted in his winning a blue ribbon for his heifer and a trip to the District Dairy Show in Bessemer last fall. Dan's interest is not only in dairy and beef animals, but also in strawberry and corn production. With each project he undertakes he strives to do the very best job possible. His 1-2 acre strawberry project is one of the most prosperous looking patches in the County.

Dan's parents are due much credit for his 4-H success. Their cooperation and encouragement have made Dan realize the value of ownership, as well as the desire to "make the best better" as his 4-H motto states.

County 4-H'ers Projects Are Outstanding n Every Respect; Help Strengthen County

Alabama's 4-H Club project program keeps pace with the times.

According to Assistant County Agent, John D. Sellers, who has charge of boys' 4-H Clubs in Chilton County, the list of approved 4-H projects is larger now than ever before. All projects, he said, complexities of farming and farm are in keeping with the growing living.

The statement was made in connection with the Alabama celebration of National 4-H Club Week, March 3-11.

In 1909, only a small percentage of rural people enjoyed the benefits of electricity. Today thousands have electrified their farms. Corn is shelled with electric corn-shellers, hay is lifted with electric motors, and water is pumped, milk churned, and rural homes heated with electricity.

"Electricity as a 4-H Club project has been added in response to the electrification of Alabama farms and homes." "For 15 years Alabama has participated in the national 4-H electric awards program.

During that time the state has had eight national winners. Last year Jerry Lasseter of Etowah County was the national 4-H electric project winner.

"In keeping 4-H projects up-to-date in Alabama, leaders approved the state's participation in the national 4-H tractor program when it began some 10 years ago. "Alabama has trained a total of 25,000 4-H Club boys in the proper care and maintenance of farm tractors. And these 4-H'ers have led the way in showing their parents and neighbors the importance of keeping a well cared for tractor on the farm."

In 1955 the tractor project gave Alabama another national winner. He is Jerry Calloway of Geneva County.

Other newsr 4-H projects named by John Sellers are entomology, safety, health, soil building and land use, leadership, rural arts and recreation, and frozen foods.

TORNADO
SAFETY RULES

TO KNOW WHAT TO DO WHEN A WARNING IS RECEIVED, OR A TORNADO IS OBSERVED, MAY MEAN THE DIFFERENCE BETWEEN LIFE AND DEATH ! !

I There is no universal protection against tornadoes except caves or underground excavations. When time permits, go to a tornado cellar, cave, or underground excavation which should have an air outlet to help equalize the air pressure. It should be kept fit for use, free from water, gas, or debris; and preferably equipped with pick and shovel.

II If you are in open country :

1. Move at right angles to the tornado's path. Tornadoes usually move ahead at about 25 to 40 miles per hour.
2. If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression such as a ditch or ravine.

III If in a city or town :

1. Seek inside shelter, preferably in a strongly reinforced building. STAY AWAY FROM WINDOWS!
2. In homes: The southwest corner of the basement usually offers greatest safety, particularly in frame houses. People in houses without basements should find other shelter, preferably in a storm cellar, although a depression, such as a ditch or ravine, can offer some protection. If time permits, electricity and fuel lines should be shut off. Doors and windows on the north and east sides of the house may be opened to help reduce damage to the building.
3. Standing against the inside wall on a lower floor of an office building offers some protection.

IV If in schools :

1. In city areas: If school building is of strongly reinforced construction, stay inside, away from windows, remain near an inside wall on the lower floors when possible. AVOID AUDITORIUMS AND GYMNASIUMS with large, poorly-supported roofs!
2. In rural schools that do not have strongly reinforced construction, remove children and teachers to a ravine or ditch if storm shelter is not available.

V If in factories and industrial plants :

On receiving a tornado warning, a lookout should be posted to keep safety officials advised of the tornado's approach. Advance preparation should be made for shutting off electrical circuits and fuel lines if the tornado approaches the plant. Workers should be moved to sections of the plant offering the greatest protection.

VI Keep calm! It will not help to get excited. People have been killed by running out into streets and by turning back into the path of a tornado. Even though a warning is issued, chances of a tornado striking one's home or location are very slight. Tornadoes cover such a small zone, as a rule, that relatively only a few places in a warned area are directly affected. You should know about tornadoes though, "just in case'

VII Keep tuned to your radio or television station for latest tornado advisory information. Do not call the Weather Bureau, except to report a tornado, as your individual request may tie up telephone lines urgently needed to receive special reports or to relay advisories to radio and television stations for dissemination to thousands in the critical area.

Emergency Aid Awaits Farmers Caught In Price-Cost Squeeze

Effective February 16, 1956, Acting Secretary of Agriculture Morse authorized the making of special emergency farm operating loans in all counties of Alabama, it was announced today by R. B. McLeaish, National Administrator of the Farmers Home Administration in a telegram to State Director James T Lunsford.

It was further announced that Alabama was designated an emergency area which enables eligible farmers to receive special emergency loans through the Farmers Home Administration. Loans may be made to established farmers who are engaged in farming or livestock production to obtain the necessary credit to continue their normal operations. Loan funds may be used to purchase feed, fuel, seed, fertilizer, farm and home supplies or to replace farm equipment.

In view of the need for emergency credit in Alabama and the present farm situation, the Department of Agriculture has made available the special emergency loans which bear interest at the rate of 3 per cent.

Mr. Lunsford stated that this is the first time Alabama has been designated for special emergency loans due to the price cost squeeze and the general unfavorable relationship between production costs and prices received for agricultural commodities, which has adversely affected farmers and stockmen of Alabama and resulted in their inability to obtain credit from other established sources.

Applications for loans may be made through the county office of the Farmers Home Administration in Chilton County which is located in the Higgins Building in Clanton.

Treat Picture Windows For Best Dramatic Effect

Gill Recommends Flouridation Of Water Supplies

Montgomery.—"By far the best practicable method yet found to reduce decay in the flouridation of public water supplies," Dr. D. G. Gill, Alabama's State Health Officer said today.

Flouridation is the addition of a very small amount of the substance fluoride to water supplies at the waterworks plant. When children, especially, can drink fluoridated water, they are found to have far fewer cavities in later years than children who lived in communities without fluroidation.

Dr. Gill called attention to a recent 10-year study in two New York communities. One community added fluoride to their water supply, but the other did not. At the end of 10 years, the teeth of children in both communities were examined. Health officials found that dental decay had been reduced by 65 and 75 per cent in the town with fluoridated water.

Thus, dental decay can be reduced by more than 50 per cent with fluoridation, the cost is small, and it is as safe as is humanly possible to determine, Dr. Gill said.

Use Fish For A Delicious New Meat Dish

Auburn, Ala.—There're lots of reasons why fish is an especially good menu item for this time of year.

First, fish is an easily digested protein of the highest quality. It's also delicious fixed a number of ways. And, particularly when the fish is caught in a nearby pond or stream, this "main dish" food is a real budget booster.

Homemakers will want to vary their cooking methods so they can serve fish often.

It is suggested baked stuffed fish for a real taste thriller. Even the smallest fish can be baked. These are the steps she gave for stuffing and baking fish:

Clean and wash the fish and the body cavity with a stuffing which may be made of toasted bread cubes mixed with melted butter and chopped parsley. Fasten the opening with skewers or tooth picks or tie together with twine then place the fish in a baking pan with just enough water to cover the bottom of the pan. Top each fish with a strip of bacon, and bake in a 350-degree oven.

Large fish require about 15 minutes per pound for baking. Allow about half an hour for fish that weigh a pound or less.

COFFEE: A Conversation Piece

Of all the groceries in daily American use, few have as legendary and romantic a background as coffee. Some of its colorful facts and traditions make conversation pieces almost as stimulating as the beverage itself.

One Arabian legend relates that coffee came into use when it "got the goats" of a herdsman named Kaldi. He reported to the abbot of a monastery that his flock went into a frolicsome dance after eating berries off a certain tree. When the cleric boiled the berries in water, he derived an exhilarating brew which helped his monks to stay awake during midnight prayers.

This monastic coffee ritual was the predecessor of the daily coffee break enjoyed by millions of American workers and housewives. In a survey among plant managers, 82% credited coffee breaks with a reduction in worker fatigue and 62% said they increased productivity.

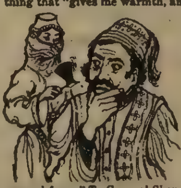
Coffee has also been a factor in adventure and espionage. The famed Polish spy, Franz Kolschitzky, who saved Vienna from beseiging Turks, opened the first Viennese coffee house. As reward for his heroic exploits, including swimming the Danube several times to circumvent enemy lines, he was given sacks of green coffee abandoned by the fleeing Turks.

Today, you can find coffee houses in nearly every metropolis of Europe, many with their own history of famous patrons and epochal events. In England, Samuel Johnson established the Turk's Head coffee house which became a gathering place for artists and writers of his era. It is rumored that in the archives of the old Cafe Central in Herrengasse there is an unpaid bill for a cup of black coffee—charged to Trotsky.

In the U.S., Boston's Green Dragon coffee house was called "headquarters of the Revolution" by Daniel Webster, and the Merchants' House in New York was the scene of Washington's preinaugural reception. A forerunner of the Revolution itself,—the Boston Tea Party,—when colonists dressed as Indians dumped British tea into the harbor to protest taxes, accelerated coffee's popularity in this country. Today, Americans drink more than 300 million cups of coffee a day.

In addition to its role in adventure, history and literature, coffee — or the lack of it — has been the point of issue in the courtroom. In Turkey, at one time, a husband's failure to provide coffee for his wife was legitimate grounds for divorce. In affairs of the heart, Madame du Barry was among ladies who were wooed with gifts of coffee, and Bach's Coffee Cantata sings of a girl who insists on a marriage contract stating that she may have coffee whenever she wishes. Nowadays, discriminating hostesses recognize its indispensability at socials.

To Napoleon, coffee was something that "gives me warmth, an unusual force." To General Sherman, in his remarks on troop rations, it was "something to be carried along, even at the expense of bread." To the English clergyman and humorist Sydney Smith, it was "the intellectual beverage."



Name your favorite phase of history and research will show where coffee has played a part. And, considering its popularity in America today — our largest imported commodity — the beverage will undoubtedly continue to be part of the backdrop for memorable world events.

Forest Fires Heavily Tax South's Economy

Montgomery, Ala.—The South is losing more to forest wildfires than to residential, commercial, mercantile and industrial fires, E. E. Hale Alabama Conference Chairman said today as he urged leading Alabamians to attend the Southern Forest Fire Prevention Conference in New Orleans April 13 and 15.

Insurance companies paid out $200 million in 16 Southern states for fires in communities over 2,500 during 1954, while the estimated loss to the economy of the region from 146,000 forest fires was $250 million. This is calculated on the basis that for every dollar's worth of timber burned in Southern woods, another seven dollars is lost to the economy.

The South-wide New Orleans meeting, where 1,000 leading Southerners will study the wildfire problem and methods and plans for reducing the loss, is the first of its kind ever held, and is endorsed by the Conference of Southern Governors. Their endorsement came after it was pointed out that 9[illegible] out of every 100 fires that are deliberately set are in the South, and 89 out of every 100 acres of timberland that burns in the United States is in the South.

Range Pullets Need Protection In March

Auburn, Ala.—Pullets on range this month need some kind of protection on raw days. And API Extension plan BI-2 shows how to build a good range shelter at very low cost.

According to Extension Farm Buildings Specialist the shelter will take care of up to 100 birds. They said the 8x12-foot structure is 4½ feet high and mounted on pole skids for easy moving.

Pieces of 2x4 and 1x5 lumber green or seasoned, are needed for the framing. The plan shows a metal roof, but several other kinds may be substituted.

Telling other features of the shelter, the specialists said the plan also calls for wire mesh floors, perch poles, and 10 feet of nest space. Nest space is needed for early layers; otherwise, broken eggs may lead pullets to begin breaking and eating eggs.

Research done at the Iowa Experiment Station led to the conclusion that cows watered automatically drink 18 per cent more water and give 3.5 per cent more milk than animals watered twice a day.

Better Late Than Not At All

Small grains should have been top-dressed with nitrogen by March 1 for best results. However, yield increases can still be gained by top-dressing and farmers who have not done this important job are urged to take care of it at once.

The Ford V-8 again showed its taillight to all competitors in the "Olympics" of stock car racing at Daytona Beach, Florida.

In blazing across the finish line Ford demonstrated once more the sizzling performance that keeps it the largest-selling V-8 in the world. No other car in the field could match Ford for getaway "git" . . . for straightaway acceleration . . . for all-around roadability. To see exactly how the other cars trailed behind Ford, see the chart at the top of this page.

One of the secrets of Ford's performance is the tremendous torque (wheel turning power) developed by Ford engines. For example, Ford's new 225-h.p. Thunderbird engine develops more torque than any other engine in the low-price field. This means quicker response, smoother running in the kind of driving you do! Just nudge Ford's accelerator and whoosh! You pass in instants when instants count!

Ford now offers this mighty 225-h.p. engine with any Ford Fairlane or Station Wagon model with Fordomatic. What's more, these engines are coming off the assembly lines right now! So why wait? Come in today for a Test Drive. Find out for yourself about Ford performance. Find out why Ford is the V-8 with the biggest following!

Chilton Beta Ass'n. Reports

We are doing wonderful work in our County Beta Club this year. We have as our officers: President, Terry Jones; Vice-President, Molly Webster; Secretary, Judy Nelson; Treasurer, Juanita Patterson; Reporter, Betty Barens.

We are working very hard on our talent entry for the Convention March 9-10. Last year we won 3rd place and are hoping to win first place this year.

We also are running Terry Jones for State President. He has made us a good County Preisdent and we feel he will be just as good a state leader. So Beta's let's elect Terry Jones as our next State President.

Folks and Things ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

Talked with Mrs. A. R. Knight out at the "Nearly New Store" in West End last Saturday afternoon. She has a nice stock of second-hand clothing that can be bought cheap and they are doing a good business. The ladies feel that they are doing a two-fold job. They're trying to make enough money to build a church and at the same time they are giving those who are unable to pay top prices for merchandise a chance to buy cheap. For instance you can pick up a pair of slightly used shoes for fifty cents or a childs garment for as little as a quarter. Mrs. Knight asked us to let you folk know who don't want to store winter clothes that they have facilities to store them and anything you don't want to carry over and feel would help someone else they will be glad to take it off your hands. She sends out a call to everyone to bring all of their old clothes to the "Nearly New Store" where someone who needs them can make good use of them.

Some men have no consideration for their wives. The other day while we were sitting in the car waiting for the wife to change a tire, we saw a neighbor standing with arms folded while his wife pushed a garden plow. How thoughtless can you get?

A newspaper is like a good wife. It will do anything for it's community except stop criticizing any trying to improve it.

Why hadn't you heard! We're going to have automobile races in Clanton. Get ready for the big announcement.

Congratulations to Terry Jones on being elected President of Alabama Beats. He was elected last Friday night at the annual meeting at Birmingham where more than 1800 Beta Club members met. Congratualtions also to the members of the cast of the talent contest which won third place in state competition.

Miss Martha Bell brings new honors to Chilton County. Our Peach Queen was chosen one of two cheer leaders at Auburn this past week. She won over a large field of contestants which just goes to show that those Auburnites have pretty good taste for beauty and talent too. Martha is a second quarter freshman in secretarial training. She is a member of Chi Omega Sorority, the "Angel" flight and is very active in the Baptist Church. She is a member of the Auburn Engineer Staff—editorial assistant—published by the Engineer Council.

Hollis Jackson has announced for Mayor of Clanton. We know of many citizens who have been after Hollis to make the race for Mayor and we are sure he would be a credit to our little city. However, he will need a competent City Council to work with him to accomplish the things for our city that are needed. Much thought should be given to this and although it is hard work and much of the time a thankless job it is a place that one can do much for his home community.

Don't forget the talent show tonight at the Clanton County High School. It is sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Association. The show will start promptly at 7:30 o'clock with proceeds going to the PTA. See you there. The show will feature quartets, harmonica and accordion numbers plus the third place winners in State Beta Club contest at Birmingham last week. It will be a night of entertainment to remember.

Adventists To Hear Special Sermon Sunday

Have you ever wondered how and why sin entered the world?

Mr. T. W. Bledsoe will speak on the subject, "Is God Responsible for the Devil," at the Seventh-Day Adventist Church Sunday, March 18. This will be Sunday evening and you are cordially invited to be present.

Ivan W. Smith Is Promoted

Word was received today of the recent promotion of 2nd Lt. Ivan W. Smith to First Lieutenant.

Lieut. Smith, son of Mrs. Irene Riggins of the Mt. Pleasant Community, is now en route to an overseas billet.

Arts Festival To Be Held Here Soon

A Chilton County Festival of Arts is being planned again this year for the pleasure and benefit of the general public. The festival will be held at the Clanton City Hall and will be open for two days, April 14th and 15th.

There will be exhibitions of the native arts in Chilton County which will include many unusual and interesting articles. Objects of woodwork, pottery, sewing, painting, drawing, photography, tin-work, metal tooling, weaving and handicrafts of many other hobbies and professions will prove the versatility of the people who live in Chilton County.

Mrs. Joe Campbell of Clanton is serving as chairman of the festival which is being sponsored again by the local chapter of the American Association of University Women. Due to the success and the large public participation in last year's festival, the AAUW believes that this year's festival will be even bigger and better.

Watch your local newspapers for further details. Everyone is urged to participate and attend the coming show.

Dunlap Makes Statement To The People

As your elected official, since withdrawing from the race for member of the Board of Revenue and Control from District Four, I wish to express my sincere thanks to you, the people, for your co-operation during my eight years of service.

It is with deepest regret that through circumstances, over which I have no control, that I must withdraw from the race for another term as a member of the Board.

I have enjoyed my work and believe that I have acted for the best interests of the county at all times. We have made much progress during my terms for which I am thankful and I will continue to work at all times in the interest of my home county and the elected officials who carry on to bigger and better things for the benefit of the people.

If, in the future, due to my experience, I can be of any service to anyone I shall be grateful for the opportunity to serve.

Respectfully,
J. M. (Jim) DUNLAP.

Easter Seals Will Promote Speech Therapy

There are at least 5,000 children in Alabama who have speech problems severe enough to constitute a major handicap.

A stuttering child, one whose speech and hearing is impaired by brain injury, or one who suffers the fate of a cleft palate, cannot progress in school or community life along with his normal playfellows.

Helping these children is one of the primary aims of the Alabama Society for Crippled Children and Adults. Undertaking a pioneer role in the development of speech therapy programs, the Society helps maintain speech clinics in several key locations in Alabama.

Children from all sections of the State are given intensive therapy treatment at clinics held at Florence State Teachers College, the University of Alabama Speech and Hearing Clinic, Tuscaloosa, and the Alabama College Speech Clinic, Montevallo. Also in operation to correct all forms of speech and hearing defects is the Birmingham Junior League Speech and Hearing Center where 75 children are enrolled, including 15 from outside Jefferson County.

Easter Seal dollars are hedping support these vitally needed facilities. The drive is the annual fund raising appeal of the Society and is in progress throughout the nation now.

Alabama citizens are urged to buy use Easter Seals to help restore countless unfortunate children into normal pursuits to which every individual is entitled.

Hollis Jackson Will Announce Candidacy Soon

After considerable thought and conversation with a number of people of Clanton, I wish to state that at the proper time I will qualify a candidate for the office of Mayor of our wonderful little City.

Of course, it would be a great honor to serve as Mayor of Clanton, but I am sincere in that my only thought is a sound, progressive and growing city.

Clanton is well located in the state. We have wonderful soil in surrounding areas for our farmers to produce good crops, we have several nice little industries to supplement our income, we have good churches, we have good schools, we also have people that are as fine as in any City in the Nation, by these people working together we can say with pride that Clanton is "A Wondefful place to visit but a better place to live."

First Baptist Plans Extensive Easter Program

A full program has been planned for the Easter Season by the First Baptist Church. The Pre-Easter revival will open Palm Sunday and continue through Easter Sunday. Every organiaztion of the church is cooperating in the Pre-Easter revival meeting. A program known as "Pack the Pews" is being planned to create interest and attendance. Each organization of the church has been assigned an evening on which to pack the pews and it will be the responsibility of the organizations to fill the church on the night designated to them. In this way a crowded church is expected for every service of the meeting. The song leader will be Rev. Roy Bethune, Minister of Music of the Grace Baptist Church, Nashville, Tennessee. Bro. Bethune has been here on several occasions and is most acceptable to the church. Members of the church are happy that it has been possible to secure the services of Rev. Bethune for the Pre-Easter services. The pastor, Dr. J. Gilbert Hutchinson, will be the evangelist.

Notice!

I will be out of my office Friday and Saturday, March 23 and 24. Will be back in office the following Monday.

COOPERATION FILLS A NEED

A veterans' club for Chilton County is fast becoming a reality. In fact the three veterans' organizations are already meeting in the building and soon it will be officially opened.

It has taken a great deal of time and effort on the part of the local posts of the American Legion, Disabled American Veterans, and Veterans of Foreign Wars to bring their club into being.

The spacious new building is located on the Enterprise Road at its junction with the Kincheon Road. Construction is still in profress and the definite date of opening has not been set, as yet.

The three organizations involved have done a wonderful job of cooperating on this mounmental task. It has taken much effort, thought and time and there have been many headaches as there always is in building. Only through combined efforts could such a task be undertaken and completed.

There being so many veterans in Chilton County, this will be a very useful facility and will add much to the recreational possibilities available here.

ON NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING—

After all the revolutionary changes which have taken place in the advertising world in the last ten years, the newspaper—it is now proven—remains the best medium of advertising.

The newspapers are the only advertising medium which can guarantee their circulation figures. Newspapers have submitted to various auditing bureau methods, which can easily be checked by any prospective advertiser, and their circulation is well known.

Moreover, each newspaper printed is bought by someone, and something that is bought is wanted, and therefore, read. This is true of the newspaper, but is not true of many other major advertising mediums.

For example, in the case of radio and television, the usual advertising pitch is to draw a circle around the transmitter and claim a certain proportion of the listening audience, according to the number of sets in that area. But there is no definite proof that a certain number of sets are turned on and there is less proof about which station is being received on those sets.

As yet, the radio stations and television stations do not submit to independent auditing bureaus, as newspapers submit to. For that reason, the audience of any station, radio or television, is always something of a question mark.

On the contrary, the audience of a newspaper is always many times greater than the number of paid subscribers. The average newspaper is read by more than one person and—in most cases—a newspaper is read by many people.

Moreover, a newspaper is a permanent record, and —as kept in libraries, in schools and in business files— constitutes a permanent source of advertising. It is not stretching the facts to say that most newspapers are read by more than a dozen persons, especially those located in places such as barbershops.

Because these facts are true, and because the light of fact is beginning to be shed on various types of advertising, as they compete with each other, newspaper advertising continues to grow.

In spite of all the competition from new media, newspaper advertising continues to grow and the public continues to express its confidence in newspapers to an amazing degree.

The newspaper, today then, represents an even better buy, for the few cents one pays for it, than it ever has before since the time of the invention of the printing press. The newspaper is still champion.

“Discovery” Process

Oral Examination Of Witnesses Before Trial Aids In Procedure

By Walter B. Jones
Senior Judge—15th Circuit
Alabama Circuit Court

(This is the fourth in a series of five timely articles on our State Judicial System by Judge Walter B. Jones. The articles will appear weekly in your Chilton County News).

TO ELICIT THE TRUTH

The Alabama judge recently talked to a luncheon club on the growing volume of business his court has to transact without any increase in personnel. His cure for the consequent delay is more judges. But that is a dubious remedy. It may be true that additional judges are needed here or there. But, my and large, the problem faced by our courts is rooted not so much in an insufficiency or judges as in an archaic procedure. Until our system of pleading and practice is attuned to the realities of modern life, our courts will be re-enacting the role of the old lady who kept on trying to push the Atlantic Ocean out of her cottage with a mop and pail.

In recognition of this fact, the 1955 Legislature set up a Judicial Council and a Commission for Judicial Reform to study and shape To give this undertaking a shove a proposal for improving procedure in the right direction, the Legislature also enacted a statute providing for the oral examination of witnesses and parties before trial for discovery and for use as evidence. The process known as discovery has been described by Federal Judge Alexander Holtzoff as “one of the outstanding and most notable advances” embodied in the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

Discovery is a device for requiring disclosure by an adverse party of material resting in his knowledge. This is a far cry from the common law principle of “to have and to hold.” It has always been permissible to extract such information in equity, but it was forbidden in actions at law until fairly recently when a certain decree of discovery came to be allowed. That was true even in Alabama, until the Supreme Court declared that ally all discovery is taboo in this state. That left Alabama lawyer out in the freezing cold, while their colleagues elsewhere were enjoying a most sensible and fruitful technique for arriving at truth and understanding as the gateway to justice

Litigation with all cards on the table is taking the place of the traditional legal battle, with adversaries using the tactics of war That change has been forced on it not merely by an altered concept of the law's function, but by sheer necessity. As our life became more complex, and as population became denser, some new and better way had to be found for dealing with an expanding mass of disputes. This is why lawyers are less intent on fighting to the bitter end, and courts are encouraging the settlement of controversies.

One of the surest inducements to settlement is discovery, which enables all parties to obtain the clearest possible picture before trial of the supstance of grivances. As provided for by the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, discovery may be had by depositions, interrogatories, inspection of papers, the seeking of admissions, medical examinations—all forms of obtaining disclosure short of probing for privileged information. What is thus brought out by going to the other side for pertinent facts becomes matter of record, binding in event of trial. What is equally important is that this searching of an opponent's case and conscience is a right and not a favor. Its use can be embarrassing to the other fellow but it can not be dodged.

If discovery is a quiverful of arrows, the target is the same, namely, it delineates common ground for an adjustment or for a verdict based on fact and not on confusion or surprise. J. Russell McElroy, senior judge of the Jefferson County Circuit Court, who had considerable experience with the use of discovery during the period 1949-1953, estimates that nine out of ten cases were settled or closed before trial by reason of the use of this remedy. That sort of thing is likely to happen when plaintiff and defendant have both gone through a thorough oral examination and so come to unclouded awareness of the actual values of the dispute.

In the fall, 1953, issue of the Alabama Law Review, a writer speaks of an old statute as “a legislative attempt to aid in the transformation of a law suit from a chess game in which litigants became mere pawns . . . manipulated by attorneys according to rigid and archaic rules of procedure to its rightful place as a servant of society in eliciting the truth and administering justice.”.” That is a description of the discovery statute just passed by the Alabama Legislature. But the interesting thing is that lawyers are welcoming it. They have at long last come to see that they, too, have been the victims of “rigid and archaic rules of procedure.”

IT'S OUR OPINION

You have only to read a “letter to the editor” column in a newspaper or magazine to learn the extent of narrow-mindedness of too many pepole.

Since this segregation has come to the forefront in the national and local publications it seems that the people of the United States, both “Yankees” and “Rebels” are going to extremes with a trend of thought so narrow-minded that it practically misses the entire issue.

One argument will contend that segregation is brought about and supported through “ignorance.” It is not ignorance, nor fear, nor prejudice; it is at radiation, a way of life and above all, something that, though it will change in the years to come, at present is so deeply rooted into the very earth of the south that it cannot be transplanted merely by saying “it should be uprooted and done away with.” Have you ever tried to uproot a large and very old tree? If you haven't, you don't know that you are in for a job . . . quite a job; one that cannot be done at a snap of the fingers.

There have been great people in the Negro race. Men and women of our own state of Alabama, who have helped build our America into what it is today. But the entire colored race cannot lift themselves up by trying to “ride in” on what some of their forebearers and ancestors have done. America owe a lot to its ancestors. In fact we wouldn't be where we are today if it weren't for the hard-working and faithful pioneers of yesterday.

But, if it weren't for others who followed in their footsteps, doing even greater tasks, our America would quickly dissolve into nothingness. That's what we mean mean when we say the colored race cannot “ride in” on what their ancestors did for them. There are many of the colored race in our present day world who are outstanding in many respects, but there is an overwhelming majority of them who are not great, nor do they intend to be great. Perhaps their ambitions are weakened because they do not feel they have the equality to make themselves what they want to be. Did our ancestors have equality? Was this place we call America, the land of the free built because it was handed to them on a platter? We all know the answer, they had to work for what they got, and work hard.

We believe in equality because the Bible says it so it must be true. But the Bible means that every man is equal and free to “earn his rights and privileges, not to sit back and say the world owes me a living.

First things come first. To bring feel they deserve they must work themselves up to the standard they for it. By “work” we don't mean fight. We are not their enemies, as we see it so many times referred There are those whites who are fanatical on the subject of segregation and we will say now, that in this case it is not “ignorance” but “stubborness.” There is a difference We do not condone this feeling of fanatical stubbornness, but it is the only way some people have of showing that they do not approve of certain measures. That is not “ignorance.” Stubborness many times, hides facts and tends to hamper our clear thinking, but this is not “ignorance.”

There isn't a thing we wouldn't do for a white man that we wouldn't do for a colored man, providing that he deserved it, in our opinion. We would expect the same treatment from him, or anyone else.

You can't spank a grown man's hand and say naughty, naughty as if he were a child, especially if he feels what he is doing or has done is right. There is a saner and much more intelligent manner in which to get something done; in our opinion, those who have started the issue have started a few degrees off course.

We, in the south, are adults also and the majority are intelligent enough to know what is right and wrong. Basic right and wrong cannot be changed; the law is manmade and not fear so flawless as the laws of the universe and our civilization.

Let's remember what a wise man once said, “never judge a man until you have walked a week in his shoes.” Then, and only then, are you entitled to criticize, praise or blame that man for something he may or may not have done.

Chilton County Pension Report

By Wes Gletty

It is reported that Alabama now has 23,000 people who are 65 years or older, and that more than 40 per cent of these old people in Alabama have no personal income of their own.

“The Twentieth Century Fund,” has reported that about 75 per cent of America's senior citizens 65 or over have no income of their own, or get less than $1,000 a year.

The National average monthly Welfare Payments to the aged, (that is the ones that get a Welfare paymen at all) is $52.38. Alabama's average is $33.16, slightly over a dollar a day.

It is reported that Alabama's Attorney General, John Patterson, attended the annual convention of the National Association of Attorneys in Britton Woods, N. H., a private organization. The attendance, of which was in no way related to State Business. But it is reported that the taxpayers of the state had the bill to pay. An itemized Expense Account reads: 12 breakfasts. $23.50, 12 dinners $39.00, 12 suppers, $72.00, 13 nights lodging, $267.00, postage and telephone service, $28.50. Miscellaneous items $10.00—this is a total of $440.00 for 13 days or about $38.85 per day, which is 69 cents more than the aged are supposed to need for one month.

The National Welfare Advocate of Los Angeles, California reports that Chief Justice Earl Warren just two weeks after his 63rd birthday applied for his old age pension from the State of California. Although he receives a salary of $25,000 per year as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, the ex-governor's pension amounts to $953.82 per month, or $11445.00 per year.

For this pension, the publication says Warren paid a total of $3,750.00 in payroll deductions. This means his pension is paid almost entirely by the taxpayers.

This shows how politicians feather their own nests with high salaries and enormous pensions benefits and uses the taxpayers money for private business and pleasure, and who kicks? But ask for a decent pension for these same taxpayers in their old age and see how far you get. You are liable to be called a “crack pot” or a “red.” Here is an appropirate little verse that would seem to fit here.

Are you a goose to be plucked, a
A single unit in the human herd,

Or a turtle drawing his head in his shell,

Fearing “convention,” as you might fear hell,

Or have you the guts, to speak out loud?

Ignoring the jeers of the assanine
crowd?

Telling them what you really think
Even though you stir up a stink,
Caring not for a social ban
Then my friends, you're a real man.

By “TUCK”,

Speaking of young'uns; little sister-in-law Janet Williams came up with a good one the other day. Seems there was a flock of birds around the place and she thought they'd be nice eatin'. She told her brother “go out and shoot some of those birds and we'll have a bird cake.” We'll bet there are certain dietitians who never heard of “bird cake.” One thing certain; we'll bet it isn't better'n chocolate.

After one small person tried in vain to get our pipe away from us another of the klan said “aw, he just wants to pipe some.” (We never did find out what it was he wanted to pipe.)

Good friend Joe Smith up here at the Service Station has a surefire, trick guaranteed to help folks remember his phone number. When anyone rings his number he picks up the phone and instead of a “hello” or a “Joe Smith's Service Station” he has “83 . . . uh 8, say Joe what was that darned number again. (It works on intelligent folks.)

Heard a nice compliment on George (Houston Fulmer the other day. Someone said that it didn't matter what the job or what the organization was, ole' Houston was always ready and willing to do more than his share of the work. It surely is nice to have ambitious friends and associates. (Our only regret is that it makes us look so gosh awful lazy.)

See where friend Richard Lawrence has again traded cars. We don't know how the feller keeps up with his car. If we traded as much as that we wouldn't be able to find our car in a crowd. We wouldn't, however, have much trouble finding a crowd in our car. Nice looking auto Richard. And say, while we're thinking about it, we have a pretty good ole bicycle out back of the house and we were just wonderin' . . .

Our old schoolmate buddy Harold Parr was in to see us Monday and we were certainly glad to see the “world traveler.”. Harold has just returned from a tour of duty in Korea with the U. S. Army and says that there's no place that quite takes the place of good ole Clanton and Chilton County. He's mighty glad to get home. He says he plans now to go to school for a while and is also on the calendar for a marriage sometimes this summer.

“Rage At Dawn”

COMING TO THE Clanton Drive-In Theatre on Thursday and Friday, March 29th and 30th will be “Rage At Dawn” starring Randolph Scott in his most unforgetable role.

Things are looking up, huh Harold. We wish you well in your new undertakings and say, just between us, you be sure and show'er who's going to wear the pants. Just because she's got a four year start on you by finishing college doesn't put her in the drivers seat. (Well, we can dream good ones can't we boy.)

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Singleterry. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Francis Graham. Both families make their home in Jemison, Ala.

The pastor, Rev. S. W. Wilson, performed the ceremony.

The bride entered with her father by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a waltz length evening dress of light blue net and carried a white bible with a corsage of white carnations.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Singleterry chose a blue Shantung jumper trimmed in navy, a flower hat and matching accessories completed her ensemble. The corsage, of pink carnations was accented with green velvet leaves.

Mrs. Graham, mother of the groom, wore a grey suit with matching accessories. Her corsage was roses.

The couple will make their home in Jemison temporarily. Among the guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Singleterry, Clanton, Mr. and Mrs. Boisie Walker, Mr. and Mrs. Willie Price, Mrs. Deryl, Mrs. Alberta Powers, and Miss Arnie Bell Graham all of Jemison.

Last Sunday afternoon it was a pleasure to welcome our new pastor, the Rev. Donald R. Poole who is also the new pastor of Shades Valley Church in Birmingham and will be one of our supply pastors. The Rev. Poole preached a very fine sermon and special music was enjoyed which consisted of a vocal solo sung by Mrs. Thos. L. Bosworth. Flowers were furnished by the Thorsby American Legion and were very beautiful, and all in all it was an enjoyable service.

The service Sunday night was well attended and all enjoyed the fine sermon preached by Chaplain Charles S. Trimmier of Mobile. We congratulate our American Legion boys for sponsoring a worthwhile service of this nature, and we are glad to have had a part in it with them, that is, in being able to enjoy it with them and in lending our church house for this service.

A Letter to the Voters Of Chilton County

B. E. Reeves

As most of you know I am a candidate for the office of County Treasurer, and I feel that, for the benefit of the voters who do not know me, I should give my qualifications for the office I seek.

I am a widower, 49 years old, and have been a resident of Chilton County for the past twenty-two years, having reared three children who have been educated in thhe schools of the County. Two daughters are married and are living in the County, and one son is serving in the U. S. Air Force.

I am a graduate of high school and a business college and have 31 years experience in the world of business, as a bookkeeper and accountant; which is necessary to making a good record in the office of County Treasurer. I have served for the past few years as your County Treasurer, and to quote one of the State Auditors, there is not a County Treasurer in the State of Alabama, who has a better record as such, than I have.

I have cooperated with your other County officials, and shall continue to do so as long as I am in office, in all matters which are for the best interest of the County, which can be done honorably.

I am not obligated to any political ring, or minority group; but will work for the interest of all the people of the County to the best of my ability.

I have served the County honestly, efficiently and faithfully in the past. I pledge to continue that type of service in the future, if I am again honored with the office.

Due to the extended illness and recent death of my wife, I have been unable to visit with you out in the County during the past two years as much as I would have liked, but I assure you that I have had the interest of all the people at heart, in serving you for several years.

I shall try to see as many voters as possible in the next few weeks, but my duties limit the time I can spend on a campaign, and if I fail to see you personally, I want you to accept this letter as my personal request for your vote and influence in my behalf.

Thank you for your encouragement and all favors that have been extended to me and let me urge you to be sure to make plans to vote your convictions in the May 1st primary election.

Sincerely yours,

B. E. REEVES

Candidate for office of County Treasurer.

(Pd. pol. adv. by B. E. Reeves, Clanton, Alabama)

Thorsby Baptist Church News

The Week of Prayer for Home Missions conducted in our church was attended by quite a number of our ladies. Eternity alone will reveal the accomplishment of concentrated praying. The fellowship was enjoyed by all who participated. Our ladies are envisioned, and I am sure they are determined to accomplish more than ever before in the field of missions.

Rev. F. H. Day did a splendid job in our church last week teaching the book "A Church Using its Sunday School." For two evenings he showed pictures portraying missionary work among the Indians. This was especially enjoyed by everyone who attended the course. We appreciated the presence of those who attended from our neighbor church.

Our church welcomes Rev. J. W. Jones and family back to Thorsby and, of course, we are looking forward to having them in the membership of our church soon.

It was the privilege of our church family to welcome into our membership Sunday night Mrs. R. R. Yeats who transferred her membership from the White Springs Baptist Church in Gadsden to our church. In addition to welcoming her we were fortunate to have come into the membership of our church a fine boy, Jimmy Cameron, who transferred his membership from Shiloh church. The congregation was refreshed Sunday evening by the presence of a number of people who came to share fellowship with our church family and also the Bentley family in observing the baptismal service of Tom Bentle.

The pastor was called to Gordo, Alabama, to assist in the funeral of Mr. Tilley who died of a heart attack in Eufaula, Alabama, last Thursday.

The pastor is assisting Rev. Hand in a series of services at night this week being conducted in the Poplar Springs Baptist Church.

The Brotherhood of our church was fortunate to have Rev. Brookshire as their featured speaker on Monday night.

Rev. Griffin, in the absence of the pastor, had charge of the Bible study and prayer service Wednesday night. Rev. Griffin is a very fine example to all retired ministers or ministers who anticipate retirement in the future. He is one of the most faithful and dependable members of our church family, loyal to every service in the church.

The pastor visited his mother in Columbus, Miss., on Saturday afternoon and was so happy to find her much improved. Expressions of gratitude to every person who has remembered her in your prayers.

Conditioners Take Moisture Needed For Egg Storage

Auburn, Ala.—Room air conditioners, so popular for dwellings don't do the job needed for maintenance of high egg quality unless some provision is made to restore moisture they take out of the air.

This statement was made by API Extension Poultryman Hoyt Warren. He explained that best conditions for egg storage include a 55 to 65-degree temperature and a humidity ranging from 70 to 80 percent and added that the humidity factor is only slightly less important than temperature.

Warren said it's simple [illegible] this constant reduction [illegible] humidity in the room so that th can evaporate into the air, by us [illegible] wet sawdust on the floor or [illegible] on the wal[illegible] the walls. YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physicians as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

HEMORRHOIDS

Hemorrhoids, or piles, are enlarged [illegible] in [illegible] They [illegible] two forms, ex[illegible] internal, depending on whether they develop on the inside [illegible] of the muscular ring [illegible] nus, or the outer [illegible] bowel frequently bec[illegible] variety, hemorrhoids [illegible] neglected until the pain becomes intolerable or bleeding excessive.

Many causes account for hemorrhoids, but any condition which interferes with the proper flow of the blood in the vessels surrounding the rectal area may be responsible. An extremely sedentary or inactive life may cause them; constipation is often a factor as is the excessive use of laxatives and cathartics. People who are on their feet for long periods of time may develop the condition, and very often the condition is associated with pregnancy.

Persons suffering with hemorrhoids are the target for quacks and venders of ointments guaranteed to cure. There are various ointments that may relieve the trouble temporarily, but they do not cure the condition. Suppositories are of even less value than salves or ointments because they melt and lose contact with the protrusion

Generally, internal hemorrhoids should be removed surgically. When this is well done, the results are usually permanent and satisfactory. Surgery alone must be used in treating external hemorrhoids.

Since constipation is a contributing factor in hemorrhoids, susceptible persons should watch their dietary habits to help the bowel eliminate its contents without blocking or clogging.

Bleeding from the rectum should never be disregarded on the assumption that the condition is only piles. While there are many more people with hemorrhoids than with cancer of the rectum, bleeding is an important symptom for the latter condition that cannot be ignored.

Report from Washington

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Last Sunday evening I had an opportunity to present my views on Alabama's current racial problems to an estimated television audience of 75,000 in the Washington area. I appeared on Station WMAL-TV as the guest of Joe McCaffrey, well-known Washington news commentator.

Although my time was limited, I explained briefly the tremendous progress that had been made by the negro race under the South's traditional system of segregation, pointing out that this had been done with the help of Southern white people and with a minomum of strife.

Present racial tension in the South, I said, results directly from the Supreme Court's decision on segregation and the constant prodding of the NAACP and other determined integrationists.

Left alone, I told Washington television viewers, the responsible leaders of the South will continue their efforts to work out in pear and harmony a satisfactory solution. But prodded by the NAACP, an organiaztion now bitterly resented by the majority of the people of Alabama and the South, tension will probably increase rather than diminish.

Although the television station reported to me the day following my appearance that they had received some unfavorable comment from individual members of the NAACP the mail I have received in my office has been most favorable. Fo example, a lady who stated she was a native of Minnesota wrote, "Everything you said made sense . . . I agree wholeheartedly."

It presented the facts concerning the racial problems in the South am convinced the people of other sections of this country will be more sympathetic and less critical. Unfortunately, I am afraid they not getting the true picture at th present time.

House Votes Funds—

Members of the House of Representatives approved last week the third and fourth major appropriation bills for fiscal year 1957. One of these measures includes funds for theh Labor Department and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare; and the other appropriates funds for the various independent offices of the government.

For the Labor Department's functions in the next fiscal year, which begins July 1, 1956, the House granted a sum of $280 million. Th is nearly $51 million less than th President requested in his budge and $40 million below the amoun appropriated for the current fisca year.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare's share is approximately $1.9 billion, which is $23 million under the budget request and $77 million less than the 1956 appropriation. Unless increased by the Senate, the Hill-Burton program will be the recipient of $111 million for the construction of hospitals and medical facilities.

The combined amount f $2.3 billion allowed both these departments and their related agencies is $116 million less than they received for the current fiscal year.

Independent Offices—

Funds appropriated by the House for the independent offices total $6 billion and will be divided among 18 governmental agencies. The largest share, $4.7 billion, goes to the Veterans Administration. During consideration of this measure, the House voted to continue in effect the present requirement that federal civil service employees must retire at age 70. A proposal which would have prevented any compulsory retirement solely because of age was rejected.

Compared with 1955, the House is ahead of schedule on its appropriations legislation. Four major money bills have already been passed and sent to the Senate, while last year at this time no appropriation measures had received Houses approval.

Alfalfa, sericea, and peanuts remove more potash and lime from soil than most other crops, says [illegible] from the API Experiment Station.

Stan Windhorn

Just for the sake of kicking things around for a while, let us look into the care, feeding and habits of bankers.

Whenever the discussion turns to these financiers the public appears to share the attitude of Poet Ogden Nash who immortalized the profession in the verse entitled, "Bankers Are Just Like People Only Richer."

Now that is an interesting observation, however it is as untrue as the claim that a banker's blood stream contains naught but flowing ice water. We personally dispute both allegations.

Even Borrows—

From personal acquaintance we have known a banker to occasionally lag behind in his car payment and frequently we have seen them borrow a bob or two to tide them over the lunch hour.

And that icewater-in-the--blood stream contention is wrong, too. One time when we went off to a Red Cross mobile blood bank we stretched out on a cot next to one occupied by a bank president. They were pumping his blood just like everyone else. The nurse said something about the stuff running 80 proof, but she didn't say a word about icewater.

If it is a practical necessity to find some reason to criticize a banker, about the worst you can say for the guy is that his generosity sometimes comes well nigh unto lunacy.

Time and again we have known some lout to need a package of gelt to tide him over a period of distress and usually this lout has been approximately as stable and secure as a cat on a busy highway

First this lout takes his problem to his friends and kinfolk and they just laugh with a hollow and rasping laugh. This is to be expected. Finally, out of sheer desperation, he visits his banker and, lo and behold, the required cash is forthcoming.

One thing we like about bankers is the practical way they lend a hand in civic affairs. Being shy of the do-gooder spirit, they go about the business of civic activity in a sound and sensible manner.

Progressive Liberals—

And rather than answer the common charge of being far too conservative, the bankers tend toward a progressive liberality. They realize that the conservative mind which calls for a status quo or harkening back to those mythic "good old days" has no place in the field of banking.

Farm Families To Spend Less In '56

Many farm families this year won't be able to maintain their living level of the past few years on what farm products bring in.

However, API Extenison Home Management Specialist Stella Mitchell believes many families will make cuts in areas where they won't immediately be felt. She said this week that gifts and contributions will be among the reduced spending categories. Replacement of automobiles and household appliances is sure to be deferred in many cases, and families that do not forsee continued high income may hesitate to spend money for the installation of such conveniences as piped running water.

At So. Union College —

Five Chilton High Schools To Participate In "Honor Awards"

Five high schools in Chilton County will be among the more than sixty high schools invited to participate in the annual "Honor Scholarship" awards from the Southern Union College, Wadley, Ala.

Douglas Wesson, director of admissions at SUC, announced that the students who receive the scholarships would be selected by the faculties of the respective schools The choice will be based on scholarship, leadership, character and service given to the high school For a student who will live on campus at Wadley, the Scholarship will be worth $100 for each of the two years at Southern Union—the second year being conditional upon acceptable work. For a commuting student, the scholarship will be $50 a year also renewable.

Southern Union's costs are $55 a month for a boarding student and $20 a month for a commuting student. A great many of the boarding students work for half to [illegible] of their college expense through the Work-Aid program. Almost all of the non-teaching jobs on campus are held by students. In fact, some of the industrious students—who can maintain high scholarships as well—graduate with the college oweing them money!

This year's "Honor Scholarship" program will include selected schools in Calhoun, Chambers, Chilton, Clay, Cleburne, Coosa, Covington, Cullman, Elmore, Jackson, Lee Randolph, Russell, St. Clair, Talladega and Tallapoosa counties in Aalbama; Herod county in Georgia Sevier county in Tennessee and Harlan county in Kentucky. Selection will be made by April 15.

On Fertilizing Your Garden

Vegetable crops do better with several light applications of fertilizer than with one heavy application. A good plan for fertilizing gardens is to put out one quart of complete fertilizer per 100 feet of row every two weeks for six applications. Extra nitrogen will be needed on long-season crops like okra, pepper, eggplant, and tomatoes.

Folks and Things

ABOUT TOWN

—By Ben

The next time a program of any kind is held at the high school auditorium the guests should be furnished hearing aids at the door. We fathers and mothers should be ashamed of the fact that no proper facilities exist in Clanton for our community gatherings and the presentation of our local talent.

Five good men and true have stepped up to say they would be candidates for the office of City Councilmen. M. E. Diefenderfer, Louie Smith, M. J. Bates, Ed Mullins and Mack Godwin. In that group will be offered our city more than twenty-five years of service on the Council, M. E. Diefenderfer having served some 16 years. They are a good group and dare say they would be good for our growing city.

"Did you know that two men fought a duel over me?" asked the young lady. "They used pistols to see who would get me." "What happened," asked her friend. "One got me in the leg and the other one got me in the arm."

Den One, Kiwanis Cub Pack, visited the Chilton County News office with two of the Den Mothers Tuesday afternoon. The Den Mothers are visiting different businesses and places of interest in the city with the Cub Mothers. Last week they were escorted through the water works by Claud Wood. The boys are taking much interest in the trips and the Den Mothers are doing a wonderful work for the boys at a great sacrifice to themselves and their homes. They are due much credit for their fine work with the boys.

A grudge is too heavy for anyone to carry.

A Hometown Jubilee will be sponsored by the T-J Lions Club tonight (Thursday) at the Thorsby Junior High School. Tomorrow night (Friday) the Jubilee will be held at the Jemison High School. All home talent will be used and you will have more fun than a barrel of monkeys. A full page ad in this edition will give all details.

Ollie Blalock cut hair on television last Sunday night. The subject was little Rickey Little and it was the first time that Rickey had ever had his hair cut. The program came on the news over channel 12. Incidentally Ollie cut the child's dady's hair the first time it was ever cut 35 years ago. Boy, is Ollie getting old. The parents of Rickey are the Clyde Littles.

Speaking of television Rev. M. K Vickers will appear on channel 12 this afternoon at 3 o'clock. He will be interviewed on "The Good Life" program that originates over that station. Tune in and hear him.

Easter Seal Drive Is Gaining Momentum In Chilton County

During this month the Crippled Children's Drive is being staged in Chilton County and much has already been accomplished toward the goal for this year which amounts to $2200. This quota sounds like a good bit until you consider that last year under the Crippled Children program approximately 200 children and adults benefitted in Chilton County alone at a cost of $21,000. There is quite a difference in what we put into it and the help we receive.

The Crippled Children's organization, unlike the March of Dimes, which concentrated on research, is basically a rehabilitation organization and helps with crutches, braces and a thousand and one things that are necessary in getting a child or grown-up back on the recovery road.

Reports are that among the local organization taking part in this year's drive, the newly organized Civitan Club will make their effort on the 30th of this month. That is a tentative date and their territory will include all business houses in the city of Clanton.

Further reports on other organizations will be found in next week's Chilton County News. Meanwhile, think seriously about this drive. We are reminded to remind you that it could be you or your family who is in need. Give generously, in whatever way you can.

Clara Jo Pecudfoot, 4, of Miami Florida, is the 1956 Easter Seal child. Chosen to represent the thousands of crippled children receiving professional help at Easter Seal Centers throughout the nation blonde, hazel-eyed Clara Jo is the inspiration of the design of the 1956 Easter Seal and campaign poster.

Approximately 10 per cent of Alabama's school age children are exceptional in that they are handicapped by some physical or mental condition.

Public school education to give them as normal an outlook as possible is showing signs of rapid development.

Spearheading a movement to provide routine facilties for the exceptional child, the Alabama Society for Crippled Children and Adults last year sponsored successful legislation to expand classroom opportunities to numerous retarded children whose education otherwise would be neglected.

It is estimated by department of education officials that presently there as 1200 severely handicapped children now enrolled in 100 special classes in school systems in Alabama. This is just one more job in which Easter Seals play a big part. The Alabama Society for Crippled Children and Adults, made up of hundreds of volunteers in every Alabama county, relies on the Easter Seal Drive for funds to help meet the needs of all handicapped persons, not the least of which are these school children who would be deprived of their rightful place in society for lack of an education.

Only through public awareness and public demand will adequate facilities be forthcoming to offer the handicapped child the same opportunities provided the normal in public institutions. The Society is dedicating it's efforts to keeping this message before the public.

Duffey Announces Plans To Make Race For Mayor

After thinking over the matter for past twelve months and on talking to scores of my friends, heeding their advice and too I want to serve the city in this capacity, I will qualify as candidate for office of Mayor of Clanton at a later date.

It will certainly be a distinct honor to serve as mayor of Clanton, the peach and strawberry center of the state, but my only hope and thought is for a growing and progressive city, more industry coming to town and I will give full time service to this end.

My life work has been dealing with the public. A number of years as teacher in public schools of this state, one year in the state of Oklahoma.

Served as rural mail carrier out of Mt. Creek P. O. until I retired. My life work has been dealing with the public and I love it. I think I am qualified for the honorable and coveted place of Mayor and the office will be open for your advice and constructive criticism.

Clanton is located in a rich farming district.

We have good soil that will grow an abundance of anything for the sustenance of man or beast.

We also have good schools, churches, and as fine people as you find anywhere. Really Clanton is made up of good, honest, God fearing, loving country people, and working for the betterment of man and the Glory of God, we can sincerely say Clanton is a good place to live.

Respectfully submitted
RAYMOND L. DUFFEY.

Entered in the Post Office at Clanton, Alabama, as second-class matter under the Act of Congress of March, 1897.

The blossom's on the flower;
The bird is on the wing.
As we sit down to write this
We can't think of one darned thing.

Get out the sulphur and molasses, Spring has sprung.

They may be slow moving but nothing can take you back faster than a mule-drawn wagon.

The passing throng moves so fast these days you don't have long to observe it.

That "Early to bed. . ." addage was surely coined before the days of television.

RUBBISH!!—

He who makes himself unsightly is endowed with the height of ignorance. No, that's not an old Proverb, that's a new one. How many of you would demand your rights were someone to step in and try to take what you considered your own, or tried to force your hand at something you felt your own business? All of us naturally would.

Do you feel you a part of your City? To help you clear your mind on that subject let's look at it this way; if the City put you out in any way whatsoever, you would raise all manners of moral cain about your "rights as a citizen and a taxpayer" and "freedom of choice" and all those things we all take for granted until they come up to stare us in the face.

Then what about your duty to the city if the shoe is on the other foot. The city, you know, is you. Yes, you and your neighbor and his neighbor and his neighbor. With out you there would be no city. Therefore, is it not so that it is your duty to keep yourself "sightly"?

Figuratively speaking the city is you so to keep the city looking respectable is to keep yourself looking respectable.

How many of you are not proud to live in Clanton? For that matter, how many of you are not proud to live in the State of Alabama, or the South.

In several different locations in our City of Clanton (had we reports on the other towns in the County, they too, would have similar troubles) there are rubbish piles beginning to accumulate where rubbish is not permitted, is unsightly and is certainly going against your rights as a citizen.

On the Kincheon Road and at the Cotton Mill there are trash dumpings along the roadway, on sixth street here in town, down about the V there is a bad situation, it is reported, out on the Hinkle Road and on many other public lands where it does not belong.

Don't you feel that it is your duty as a citizen of Clanton to report any unlawful dumping of trash and garbage? Are you not proud enough of your city that you want it kept clean and beautiful? What do you suppose tourists and visitors think of our town on passing these rubbish heaps? Naturally they blame the City officials. But, is it fair? We havent' seen mayor Jones, or city manager Wall, or chief Tucker out dumping trash on spots that aren't designated as such.

What do you feel is the solution to our problem? It is not "ratting" on your neighbor to tell the proper authorities of their misdeeds. On the contrary, you are doing a grea injustice, to them and yourself. However, if you feel that you couldn't do that, then you should be civic minded enough and have the backbone to tell the friend yourself, that you think he is wrong in doing such and then, if he doesn't take that "subtle" hint, you should report him. If he falls out with you, he is too narrow-minded to be your friend. Remind him of being an American.

We are asked to tell you that there is a fine on these deeds of dumping trash where trash is not permitted. The State requires from one dollar to $100 with a possible jail sentence. The City can enforce similar ordinances and laws if necessary.

This is not a threat to your "rights". Nor is it unreasonable, do you think, to earnestly ask every citizen to co-operate by keeping trash off of right-of-ways and public property. Those of you who are proud of your community and whom the community is proud of.

It will be to your advantage and the City officials will be eternally grateful for your thoughtfulness towards them and yourselves. They can do their jobs much better and more effectively if they feel that you will appreciate their efforts, as a citizen.

Make Clanton's slogan good and true. It is a ". . Better Place To Live," but it can be so, only if the citizens of Clanton make it so.

Judicial Report ---

Most Laymen Make Mystery of The Law and Thus Can't See It

By Walter B. Jones
Senior Judge—15th Circuit
Alabama Circuit Court

(This is the fifth and final in a series of five timely articles on our State Judicial System by Judge Walter B. Jones.

In his brilliant little book, "The Law and You," obtainable at any newsstand for 35 cents, Max Radin the great legal scholar who taught at the University of California, deplores the average person's attitude toward the law. No educated American cares to be thought of as grassly ignorant of history, economics, science, politics, literature, and strives for at least a speaking knowledge of these subjects. But he is hands off where the law is concerned. Why?

Most laymen, Radin points out, look upon the law as "something mysterious, irrational and unnecessary," and consequently regard it with a mixture of "fear, resentment and suspicion." That is most unfortunate because society could not function without law and because the private interest of each of us is so vitally affected by the law. It is an unhealthy state of affairs for the law to be held at arm's length, or thought of as a source of contamination, or looked upon as utterly beyond the kin of intelligent citizens.

Lawyers are held to be partly responsible for this popular shrinking of contact with the law. "Lawyers too often stress its mystery," Prof. Radin declares. "They like to think of the law as something with which non-lawyers should not be permitted to meddle, and they increase its mysterious character by developing a technical terminology" which they assume "the public is not capable of learning."

That is too sweeping a statement Nevertheless, if lawyers have contributed to a regrettable public attitude toward the law, they have certainly repented. Throughout the country, wherever judicial reform has been sought, bench and bar have served as spearheads of the movement to take the mystery out of the law, to make it less technical, to strip it of archaic provisions, to mold it into a workable instrument of justice for our own day. What is true of the nation is true of Alabama. Our lawyers are now engaged in a drive to rid practice and pleading in the state courts of the dead hand of the common law.

This drive was made possible by recent legislative action, setting up a Judicial Council, composed of the Legislature, and a Commission for Judicial Reform, made up of some of the most distinguished lawyers and judges in the state. These groups are working jointly on a codification of civil procedure for the purpose of simplifying it, reducing the delay and expense which are bediviling our courts, streamlining the administration of justice with techniques aimed at making the law the accepted helper and friend of the average man.

But this enterprise will not see daylight unless the people of Alabama give it their warm and understanding support. The Judicial Council and the Commission for Judicial Reform are doing all they can to make Alabamians realize that the innovations which are being sought are not the concern merely of lawyers but go to the business and bosom of everybody. Such a campaign will not make legal scholars of Tom, Dick and Harry. But it should convince Tom, Dick and Harry that their self-interest as well as their larger desire for justice are involved in an effort to make the law manageable for the uses of our own generation.

things we See and Hear

By "TUCK"

If you feel your opinion isn't worth any more than the next fella's, then it must be pretty important. . . he thinks his is tops.

It gripes us to the core to hear a party complain and fuss over the extremes limitations and woes of their profession. If they didn't like the work, the likely wouldn't be doing it.

Our very good friend Dave Wall, informed us the other day that he is now, and just recently, a full-fledged citizen of Clanton, Alabama and to hear him talk, he is mighty proud of it. All we can say is, that if Clanton has done as much for Dave as it has profited by his coming here, then he'd better stay on... it's agreeing with him.

Which reminds us of the excellent service we received on the posting of stop signs and the like for dangerous corners and intersections in the City of Clanton and surrounding territory. The City is wide awake on these matters of importance and it should be noted by the citizens that the city officials and workers are doing all in their power to live up to our slogan and to make this "a better place in which to live."

We've heard of men taking three days to do a two-day job, (very often) but it's very seldom you hear the remark made to do a two day job in ONE day. Well you ask Gene Gore and he'll tell you that it's much better to get the two-day job done in one day because help is to dern high to fool around with. We'll have to agree to that Mr. Gene, but you'll have to admit also that we must be in a minority. . . both of us drive ole beat up jalopies. We're gettin' left behind man.

It is gettin' so a man can be too ambitious these days. They figure if you do the entire job in one day that you're taking the bread outa some other guys mouth because he doesn't get to work the second day. We wonder if they ever thought of increasing the work so the other guy would have something else to do and everyone could work according to his own limitations and not some artificial ones put on him.

The only thing you can say about a woman and be sure of is. . . nothing definite.

We'll bet a lot of you folks have a pet peeve that goes like this: some person comes up to you in the doctor's office and asks you what's wrong with you. Seems to us anyone in their right state of mind wouldn't have the audacity to ask such a personal question right off the bat. We can understand your concern over your neighbor or friend's health, but you'd best take into consideration first that there are any number of malady's when it's not best to discolse just what the trouble is, particularly in the not-so-private sanctum of a doctor's office. We think it's best to ask how they're feeling and let it go at that. If they want to relate the extent of their miseries they will do so in due time and probably out of earshot of the other 15 cases in the room. Anyway, you could become a little red around the gills yourself, if you're prone to be easily embarrassed. One might pick a person who wishes to announce their ills publicly and you'll wish you were dead for asking them in the first place. This should happen to those jokers who delight in asking "what did you come to the doctor for." Next time tell 'em.

Many times we don't fear death or sickness, the thing we fear is uncertainty, anything else we can handle in due time.

The "boss" got himself a cabin down on the river for the summer and he says he doesn't know whether to call it "Rock Bottom" or "All Vet." We'll bet about the middle of June, when the mosquitoes are in full bloom, he'll call it "Scratch Out."

Or maybe "Itchalong Inn".

TOO MUCH VIOLENCE ON TV—

Through the channels of television, "a polluted stream of crime, violence, brutality and sadism is steadily being pumped into the naton's homes," declares Don Wharton in the April Reader's Digest.

In an article condensed from Parent's Magazine, Wharton reports that the Purdue Opinion Panel found, in a single week, 7065 acts or threats of violence on the TV stations of New York alone. In the same city, television shows for children averaged 38 scenes of violence an hour.

This will compare with the programs received over all stations we believe.

The author goes on to state that while watching his own television screen he observed a "putrid parade" of assorted tortures, blood lettings, killings, shootings and other crimes, and this during the chidren's hours.

The article says there is a "mountain of evidence" that these programs are a cause of juvenile delinquency. He further urges that viewers protest to sponsors, station managers, the Senate Commerce Committee and the Federal Communications Commission.

THE FIVE-CENT CONE—

You and I are always hearing folks say, "wonder what happened to the nickel cup of coffee" or "the penny postal card" or something similar. Grown-up talk. You want to know what the kids are wondering? And now that it's mentioned, and since day before yesterday was the first day of Spring, many grown folks are going to be wondering. . . "what has happened to the good ole, delicious five-cent ice cream cone."

That's what we said, ice cream cone. It isn't that you can't buy a nickel's worth of that mouth watering goodness any more, it's just that a nickel's worth now and a nickel's worth like we usta' get are two utterly and rediculuosly different animals.

All us folks who like a good ole chocolate cone every now and then want to know is, how the heck do you get a good ole fashioned nickle's worth, you know, three or four scoops. Somebody could make a pile sellin' good ole fashioned nickle's worths, even for a dime.

Ala. Fat Stock Show Starts In April

Auburn, Ala.—Some of the finest beef in the country will go to market in the next few weeks when Alabama farm boys and girls sell their best cattle at annual junior fat stock shows an dsales. Four district events are scheduled starting the first week in April and ending in early May.

Making the announcement in Auburn this week, Robert C. Farquhar of the API Extension Service reported that the district shows will be in Gadsden on April 6 and 7; Montgomery, April 24; Birmingham April 27 and 27, and Dothan, May 3. Extension assistant livestockman Farquhar said some 45 county shows and sales will be held in addition to the district ones. Around 1500 youngsters are expected to participate in the spring events. Sale returns will in many cases be swelled by cash awards they get for their entries.

Usually sponsored by local cattlemen's associations and chambers of commerce in cooperation with the Extension Service, these stock shows are intended to encourage youngsters to have beef cattle projects and teach fundamentals of good management through attention to top quality in beef animals.

Bush beans, corn, squash, and peas bear over a relatively short period of time—usually two to four weeks. To keep a good supply for several months, make repeated plantings of these vegetables.

LIFE'S LITTLE SHADOWS

VERNON P. PAYNE

What secrets hold the facades c houses at night?

Behind these cold and concealin walls of building material lies the very heart of humanity. If you could but see through you woul realize the true life and tempe ment of your fellow man.

Hidden behind this partition is man whom you see every day bu you really don't know him. He now in the different world of hi home. The outer shell he wears the business world has been shelve until tomorrow.

Tonight he is facing differen problems, speaking a differen lan guage, thinking different though The realm of business lies withou the walls.

Every house hides its differen aspects of private lives. Worry happiness, sadness and all othe forms of human emotion are the inside. The folks you know a different now, but if you opene the door the change would be in mediate and you would only se them as you do every day.

These dark walls hide a multitud of things that you can only gue at. The one that looks brighte may, in reality, hide the darke troubles. The cheapest built wa may hide the best man in town and likewise, the most expensive hous may hide man's enemy.

You can only guess what a hous holds because the life inside is home.

Paying Cotton Crop Needs Good Seedbed

A top cotton crop requires a good seedbed as foundation.

API Extension Cotton Specialist Jasper Jernigan explains, proper land preparation is necessary for an even stand on uniformly spaced cotton, which, in turn, is vital to efficient mechanized cultivation and harvest. Turn, pulverize and smooth the land, then firm the top layer of soil with a cultipacker, or land roller, to get a good seedbed.

CLANTON CORDIALLY WELCOMES Farmers' Marketing & Exchange Association

The Farmers Marketing and Exchange Association takes great pleasure in coming to Clanton and Chilton County, Alabama. While we have maintained a retail farm supply store, in Clanton, for a number of years, as a service to farmers of Chilton County. We now plan to make Clanton a central distribution point serving the entire State of Alabama.

Farmers Marketing and Exchange Association is the state-wide wholesale supply cooperative. We have 74 retail outlets serving each of the 67 counties of Alabama. Through these outlets some 75,000 farm people are served. To increase our service to the farm people of Alabama we purchased Clanton Fertilizer Co. on July 1, 1955. Since that time we have reached a decision to make Clanton the center of our service operations and build warehousing facilities here to take care of all our needs. This is a long range program and when complete will involve a total investment of over one-half million dollars. This will add to the payroll of the area. The first unit of our warehousing system will be constructed in the early summer of this year. It is our desire to grow through service with Clanton and Chilton County.

The cooperation and splendid attitude of the people of Clanton and Chilton County is hereby gratefully acknowledged. We are deeply appreciative.

BY

ARMISTEAD SELDEN

Congressman, Sixth District

Presented to both Houses of Congress on Monday of last week was a joint declaration of constitutional principles. This document was signed by 19 members of the Senate and 82 members of the House of Representatives. Senator Walter George, Dean of the United States Senate, read the statement to that body and Virginia's Rep. Howard Smith presented it to the House. The entire Congressional delegation from Alabama signed the historic document.

The declaration declared "the decision of the Supreme Court in the school cases as a clear abuse of judicial power." After pointing out that the unwarranted exercise of power by the Supreme Court is creating chaos and confusion in the states principally affected, the signers pledged themselves "to use all lawful means to bring about a reversal of this decision which is contrary to the Constitution and to prevent the use of force in its implementation." At the same time an appeal was madein the declaration "not to be provoked by the agitators invading our states and to scrupulously refrain from disorders and lawless acts."

Although those who signed the manifesto constituted less than one fifth of the membership of the Congress, many of these men hold positions of extreme importance and power in both the House and Senate. Eight chairmen of the House's nineteen standing committees were among those who signed in the House of Representatives. Senate signers included the chairmen of nine of the Senate's fifteen standing committees.

The psychological effect of this document will, in my opinion, be both far-reaching and important.

Excise Taxes Extended—

Present excise taxes on cigarettes, liquor, special motor fuels, automobiles, and gasoline will continue for another year if the Senate approves a bill that was passed by the House last week. This measure, passed by a vote of 366 to 5 in the House, also extends until April 1 1957, the current corporate income tax. Both of these taxes were originally levied during the Korean War and have been extended several times since.

Should these tax reductions go into effect next month as scheduled under the present law, the government would lose approximately $3 billion in annual revenue, and there would be no hope of balancing the national budget during the next fiscal year.

The House-approved bill continues corporate income tax rates at 30 per cent on the first $25,000 of earnings and 52 per cent on the remainder. Under existing law they are scheduled to drop to 25 and 47 per cent respectively on April 1.

Tax Changes Sought—

The House Ways and Means Committee, whic his responsible for writing tax legislation, reported the excise and corporate income tax extension bill without a dissenting vote. At the same time, it was revealed that a Ways and Means subcommittee had drafted about 70 proposals for excise tax revisions. The purpose of these revisions is to eliminate certain inequities and to simplify administrative details without changing existing rates.

Of course, the subcommittee's proposals must first be approved by the full Ways and Means Committee before a bill containing the recommendations can be presented to the House for consideration.

Report On New Church Progress At Samaria

The question is often asked me. "When are you going to start building your new church." I feel that I owe an answer to this question to my friends, and friends of Samaria.

We will begin our Revival on the [illegible] of July and Brother L. D. Brookshire will be our Evangelist. This revival will close on Friday [illegible] We will have the regular services on the following Sunday [illegible] the services on the 8th of July [illegible] be the last service in the old [illegible] On Monday morning July [illegible] we will begin to dismantle the old church. As quickly as the [illegible] can be removed the new construction will begin.

In the meantime we are straining every muscle to raise as much money as we can so we will have to borrow as little as we can. We are trying to p[illegible] our [illegible] Easter Sunday. If you ever expect to help Samaria in th[illegible] and can find it possible [illegible] send it to us for this Easter Sunday offering. The part of the Church that we can get to come to the services have already given in two other drives and expect to do their best when the next one comes up. Our people expect to keep on giving until the Church is beautifully finished and every dollar paid. I have never seen a small church that is so developed in the grace of giving as Samaria. I have never seen a Church that has been blessed with as many unsolicited outside gifts. We can't help but believe God is helping us to have what we so much need. For all this we are most grateful.

R. W. STUCKEY, Pastor.

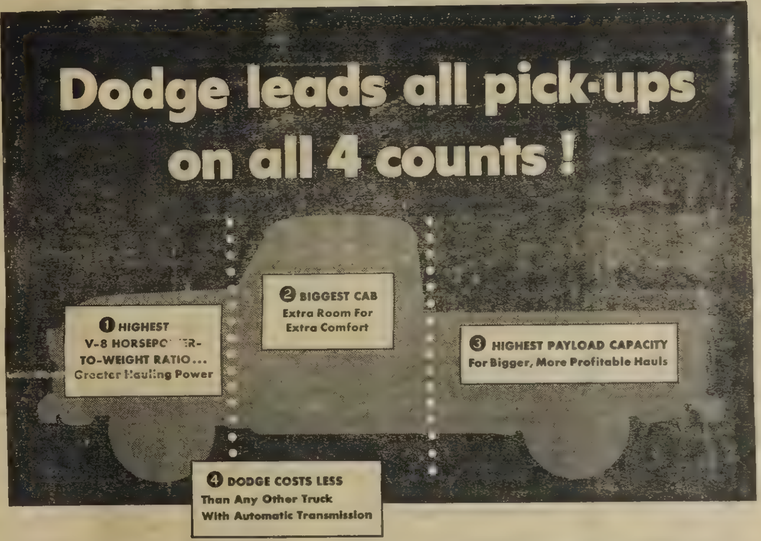
Dodge leads all pick-ups on all 4 counts!



❶ HIGHEST V-8 HORSEPOWER-TO-WEIGHT RATIO... Greater Hauling Power
❷ BIGGEST CAB Extra Room For Extra Comfort
❸ HIGHEST PAYLOAD CAPACITY For Bigger, More Profitable Hauls
❹ DODGE COSTS LESS Than Any Other Truck With Automatic Transmission

Don't buy a truck blindfolded...

Check Dodge before you buy, and get more truck per dollar!

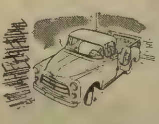
Choose any yardstick of comparison you can name—you'll find no other truck measures up to today's bigger, more powerful DODGE.

Prove it yourself. Give the new truck you may be thinking of buying a good, thorough going over. Dig into its payload rating, horsepower-to-weight ratio, cab size, performance, and price. Get the facts, right from the engineers' specification book. Then take time to . . .

Check Dodge. Match every one of these points against what you get in a DODGE truck, and see how much more Dodge gives you for each dollar you invest.

You owe it to yourself to get the best buy for your money, so be sure to get your Dodge dealer's deal before you decide—before you make the unfortunate mistake of paying more for your next truck and getting less.

Easier on driver—especially with automatic transmission. You get the largest cab for greater comfort, largest wrap-around windshield for greater safety.



Easier to turn. Dodge has industry's shortest turning radius—requires much less effort to park, make U-turns, maneuver through heavy downtown traffic.

Easier to load. Low body-floor means just an easy lift from ground to truck, saves you work every time you load, every time you unload.

Easier on gas. Dodge higher horsepower-to-weight ratio means less pulling effort required of engine, assures greater efficiency, maximum gas economy.

Water Outlets Being Used In Soil Conservation Here

A. P. Davenport of Macedonia Community, has completed the construction of 8,400 feet of terraces which empty into a sodded outlet of Pensacola Bahia grass. He has constructed a W-type outlet which will be used for emptying terrace water and hay production. Mr. Davenport has prepared 13 acres to be sowed to Bahia grass. He has also prepared 6 acres to be sodded to Costal Bermuda.

Proper outlets were staked out for Horace Mims and 350 feet of terraces were laid out and constructed. Part of the terraces were parallel.

A meadow 320 feet long and 50 feet wide was staked out for Lorenza Williams, which will be sowed to Pensacola Bahia and oats.

Luther Foshee has pulled an old peach orchard and has planted this steep land to Costal Bermuda grass. Otto Jones has planted one acre of Costal Bermuda that will be used for hay, grazing and future planting stock to expand his acreage.

H. W. Lee of Enterprise Community has prepared and limed eight acres of land to be sowed to Pensacola Bahia.

Toy Mullins of Enterprise, has a good stand of oats on a V-type meadow he recently sowed. The outlet is 750 feet long and 28 feet wide, and was designed to take care of road water and terrace water. Pensacola Bahia grass was sowed with the oat.

Earl Minor staked out a three acre Kudzu water way and hog pasture. This waterway will control the excess terrace water from the road, peach orchard and cultivated fields.

Farm Machinery

Here at Marbury High School in the Vocational Agriculture department, we repair farm machinery and farm tools every day. The boys in the Ag. department bring the machine and repair it here in the school rather than carrying it to some repair shop and have to pay two or three dollars, where here it doesn't cost us anything to weld and to use the other tools in machinery that is needed. The boys work on little jobs that they bring from home. When you need some help, just ask Mr. Manning, our Agriculture Teacher, and he is always glad to help us. He lets us use any of the tools and wrenches that we want to, so long as they are replaced before leaving class. There has been some tractors worked on back in the shop and just about all kinds of other farm machinery.

Coleman Announces For Supreme Court; Aims At Preserving Constitutional Rights

EUTAW, Ala.—State Sen. James S. Coleman, Jr., of Eutaw, officially launched his campaign today for Associate Justice Alabama Supreme Court, Place No. 2, with a call for the preservation of "rights reserved by the Constitution to our State and the people."

Sen. James S. Coleman, Jr.

In a statement regarding his candidacy, Senator Coleman said:

"Greatly encouraged by many friends throughout Alabama, I have entered the May 1 Democratic primary as a candidate for Associate Justice, Place No. 2, on the Alabama Supreme Court.

"In seeking this high office I am asking the voters to enable me to help see that the rights reserved by the Constitution to our State and to the people will be preserved.

"And, incidentally, I want to fulfill a life-long ambition that began when I was a small boy in the companionship of my grandfather, the late Thomas Wilkes Coleman, who served on this high court from 1890 to 1898.

"Our courts are vitally important at all times in preserving peace and order. Especially is this true today when we must depend upon our courts to preserve not only peace and order but our very way of life.

"A judge on the Supreme Court has a grave responsibility to the people in performing the duties of his office. If elected, I will do my best to serve the people of Alabama faithfully.

"The voters of Alabama may judge my fitness for this office by my record of several years in the State Senate and by my experience and practice for 22 years as a country lawyer.

"I respectfully ask their approval."

Senator Coleman has engaged in the general practice of law in Eutaw since being admitted to the Alabama Bar in 1934. He is the son of James S. Coleman, for 3 years editor of the Greene County Democrat, Eutaw. He is a graduate of the U. S. Naval Academy 1927, and subsequently attended the law school of the University of Alabama. He saw active duty in the Naval Reserve during World Car II from 1942 to 1945.

Senator Coleman was elected to second term in 1954. At the end of his first term, the Capitol Press Corps voted him "The Outstanding Freshman Senator" and also selected him "The Outstanding Senator of the 1955 Session."

YOUR Health

"Your Health" is presented by your physician as a health service of The Medical Association of the State of Alabama.

ATOMIC MEDICINE

The term "atomic mecidine" is not really an accurate one, but because of its widespread public use it has taken on a popular meaning. Actually, any drug or treatment which a patient receives makes use of atoms, since all matter is composed of atoms. The unique characteristic of so-called atomic medicine is the presence of radiation in addition to the actual matter itself.

Atomic medicine may be considered as that branch or phase of medicine which makes use of substances which produce radiations and which are called radioactive substances. Thus, long befor the first atom bomb was exploded radioactivity has played a role in medicine.

Radium, for example, has been the treatment of disease for many successfully used by physicians in years, chiefly in the treatment of cancer. Radium is composed of atoms which are continuously giving off a radiation powerful enough to be used to treat cancer.

X-ray has also been used for many years in the therapy of numerous diseases including those of the skin as well as some forms of cancer. However, the chief importance of x-ray is as a diagnostic tool.

Research in the field of atomic energy and its application in medicine has developed effective therapeutic measures in many [illegible]

New knowledge about the life of the red blood cell has been fought through experimental studies of radioactivity in the blood. It is now possible to locate tumors in the brain after the injection of certain dyes combined with radioactive substances.

Thus the use of atomic energy has pointed the way to many new approaches in the detection and manegemtn of disease. Scientists are constantly exploring its influence on other conditions, and there is no doubt that their work will yield new and astonishing results. Atomic energy as used in atomic medicine has made a vast contribution to the benefit of mankind and promises even a more hopeful future.

SCIENCE IN YOUR LIFE

Reaching A Ripe Old Age

When a 96-year-old New Englander was recently asked the secret of his long life and good health, he replied after a pause: "The reason I've lived so long is because I've never died."

His explanation is far more reasonable than many of the countless longevity "secrets" proposed in the past.

In the Middle Ages, for instance, the waters of a "Fountain of Youth" — repeatedly sought but never found — were believed to renew aging limbs magically.

Today, because of modern medical advances, man has come closer to his age-old dream of prolonging life indefinitely than ever before in his entire history. The average man could expect to live a mere 22 years in the time of Caesar, 33 years in the Middle Ages and 41 years in 1840. Today he has almost reached the Biblical span of threescore years and ten.

And he can look forward to an even longer and healthier life, for scientists each year are discovering more about the cause of old age and the ways to forestall it. So far they have traced some of the blame to faulty diet, gradual decrease in sex hormone output, mineral-vitamin deficiency and inadequate intake of high-quality protein

To counter such problems, science has now developed a new compound — Necbon — which combines in a single preparation the ingredients necessary to prevent or relieve these undesirable features of the aging process. Prepared in a liquid dosage form as well as in capsules, the preparation is pleasant-tasting and easy to take

Whatever help science gives him, however, the oldster who wishes to stave off old age must rely mainly on his own ability to keep alert and interested. This is a conviction held by most medical authorities, and specifically by 96-year-old Dr. John B. Cummings. "Go when you feel like it," is his advice to the older person, "Go when you don't feel like it, but keep going!"

We had good services Sunday and Sunday night. Our pastor, Brother Bean, preached Sunday morning. Since he began a revival at Milton Church in Autauga County Sunday night. Brother Calvin Ray brought the message.

We still have some who are sick. Mrs. J. W. Wood is still in the hospital and is very much missed at church. Sorry Mrs. A. L. Crocket and Mrs. Ethel Bolton are sick and going to the hospital this week. Don't forget them when you pray.

Wednesday night all organization of the church will meet after prayer service. Come on folks, we need you in prayer service and encourage our young people in their work. Our young people today will be the future of tomorrow. We are proud of them and we feel the Lord is happy that they do have a great interest in his work.

Last Thursday night the Willing Workers Sunday School Class met with Mrs. Clydie Easterling for their business meeting. Mrs. Easterling brought the devotional. Mrs Ester Bean gave an interesting talk. Afterwards each one took part in guessing how we might be of help to some one and better servant of our Lord. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Easterling and each one expressed an enjoyable visit with her and Granny Payton. The next meeting which will be in April will be at the home of Mrs. Carri Caton.

Our spring revival will begin the fourth Sunday in March. Rev. Foster Glidwell will be our guest speaker. An invitation is extended to all to come be with us. We ask every Christian to pray for this revival that souls will be saved and all who attend spiritually blessed.

The Headley and Minor families wish to thank every one for their many kind deeds and words of comfort during the illness and death of their loved ones, Mr. E. H. Headley and Mrs. Newt Minor. The kindness will never be forgotten and may the Lord richly bless every one.

We were happy to have Mrs. Ida Henson and Mrs. Leon Snider and children at service Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Headley visited his mother and aunt Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Thomas visited Mr. and Mrs. Rube Burkhalter. Tony Connell visited Mr. and Mrs Rass Foshee Sunday afternoon.

Thorsby Congregational Church—

A series of special services will be each night during Holy Week at the Thorsby Congregational Church, beginning Monday night, March 26, and continuing through Friday, March 30. We shall endeavor to learn more about the meaning of Christ's experiences during that first Holy Week, and the message they have for us today. A fifteen minute devotional service will open the evening activities and brief messages by the pastor will follow. Monday evening a series of slides will be shown, covering Christ's experiences during that week. Rev. I. Alva Hart will be in charge. Thursday evening we will fellowship with Him in observance of the Lord's Supper.

Services will begin promptly at 7.00 p.m. A most cordial invitation is extended to all of every faith to attend and worship with us.

REV. N. A. LONG, Pastor.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our appreciation for every expression of kindness and sympathy during the illness and death of our father husband John M. Robinson and for the lovely flowers that meant so much.—The Robinson Family.

Thorsby Baptist Church News

The pastor reports very fine success in the revival which was conducted at Poplar Springs church last week. The church family and friends did not let the rain hinder their attending the services each evening. In spite of the weather, each service was started on time, songs, prayers, witnessing for Christ each evening. We rejoice that the Lord added 19 new members to the church. Rev. Hamm is a very fine pastor. He loves his people and they love him. It was his pleasure and joy to see the last member of his family make a public profession of faith and unite with the church "The promise is to you and to your children." At the close of the service Friday nighht, quite a number were invited into the home of Mr and Mrs. C. E. Bowden where refreshments were served and every one present enjoyed the very fine fellowship in their home.

The Executive Committee of the Brotherhood in our church met Monday night and surveyed the field of opportunities for service in our church and community. Mr Singley, president, outlined a tentative calendar of activity for the Brotherhood covering a number of months in the future. The men of our church are looking forward to having a good meeting next Monday night at the church.

The following persons are doing a very good job stimulating interest in the musical program of our church: Group captains for the choir, Mrs. H. W. Marcus, Mrs Sam Bentley and James Albert Nelson. Special music Sunday morning was rendered by Mrs Blanche Bosworth and Sunday evening by Misses Donna Gentry and Linda Seale Cleckler. There is much talent in our church family that is being used to the glory of God.
